3. Fees and expenses of claim investigators.

4. Payment of awards to claimants for court costs and attorneys' services.

5. Medical and hospital service and expenses for employees as the result of occupational injuries, or resulting from claims of others.

6. Compensation payments under workmen's compensation laws.

7. Compensation paid while incapacitated as the result of occupational injuries. (See Note A.)

8. Cost of safety, accident prevention and similar educational activities.

NOTE A: Payments to or in behalf of employees for accident or death benefits, hospital expenses, medical supplies or for salaries while incapacitated for service or on leave of absence beyond periods normally allowed, when not the result of occupational injuries, shall be charged to account 926, Employee Pensions and Benefits. (See also Note B of account 926.)

NOTE B: The cost of injuries and damages or reserve accruals capitalized shall be charged to construction directly or by transfer to construction work orders from this account.

NOTE C: Exclude herefrom the time and expenses of employees (except those engaged in injuries and damages activities) spent in attendance at safety and accident prevention educational meetings, if occurring during the regular work period.

NOTE D: The cost of labor and related supplies and expenses of administrative and general employees who are only incidentally engaged in injuries and damages activities may be included in accounts 920 and 921 as appropriate.

926 Employee pensions and benefits.

A. This account shall include pensions paid to or on behalf of retired employees, or accruals to provide for pensions, or payments for the purchase of annuities for this purpose, when the utility has definitely, by contract, committed itself to a pension plan under which the pension funds are irrevocably devoted to pension purposes, and payments for employee accident, sickness, hospital, and death benefits, or insurance therefor. Include, also, expenses incurred in medical, education or recreational activities for the benefit of employees.

B. The utility shall maintain a complete record of accruals or payments for pensions and be prepared to furnish full information to the Commission of the plan under which it has created or proposes to create a pension fund and a copy of the declaration of trust or resolution under which the pension plan is established.

C. There shall be credited to this account the portion of pensions and benefits expenses which is applicable to nonutility operations or which is charged to construction unless such amounts are distributed directly to the account involved and are not included herein in the first instance.

ITEMS

2. Accruals for or payments to pension funds or to insurance companies for pension purposes.

3. Group and life insurance premiums (credit dividends received).

4. Payments for medical and hospital services and expenses of employees when not the result of occupational injuries.

5. Payments for accident, sickness, hospital, and death benefits or insurance.

6. Payments to employees incapacitated for service or on leave of absence beyond periods normally allowed, when not the result of occupational injuries, or in excess of statutory awards.

7. Expenses in connection with educational and recreational activities for the benefit of employees.

NOTE A: The cost of labor and related supplies and expenses of administrative and general employees who are only incidentally engaged in employee pension and benefit activities may be included in accounts 920 and 921, as appropriate.

NOTE B: Salaries paid to employees during periods of nonoccupational sickness may be charged to the appropriate labor account rather than to employee benefits.

931 Rents.

This account shall include rents properly includible in utility operating expenses for the property of others used, occupied or operated in connection with the customer accounts, sales, and general administrative functions of the utility. (See operating expense instruction 2.)

933 Transportation expenses.

A. This account shall include the cost of labor, materials used and expenses incurred in the operation and maintenance of general transportation equipment of the utility.

B. This account may be used as a clearing account in which event the charges hereto shall be cleared by apportionment to the appropriate operating expense, electric plant, or other accounts on a basis which will distribute the expenses equitably. Credits to this account shall be made in such detail as to permit ready analysis.

ITEMS

1. Supervision.
2. Building service.
3. Care of grounds, including snow removal, cutting grass, etc.
4. Utility services.

Title 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter III—Agricultural Research Service, Department of Agriculture

PART 319—FOREIGN QUARANTINE NOTICES

Subpart—Indian Corn or Maize, Broomcorn, and Related Plants

ADMINISTRATIVE INSTRUCTIONS PRESCRIBING CONDITIONS FOR ENTRY OF BROOMSTRAW WITHOUT TREATMENT

Pursuant to the proviso in paragraph (c) of notice of quarantine No. 41 relating to Indian corn or maize, broomcorn, and related plants (7 CFR 319.41(c)), under sections 5 and 9 of the Plant Quarantine Act of 1912 (7 U.S.C. 159, 162), administrative instructions to be designated as 7 CFR 319.41b are hereby issued as follows:

§ 319.41b Administrative instructions prescribing conditions for entry of broomstraw without treatment.

Broomstraw, sometimes referred to as "combed stalkless", when consisting of individual straws entirely free from stems, stalks, stubs of stalks, and leaves, may be imported from all countries without seasonal limitation through ports of entry designated in the permit, provided it is bundled and baled to prevent breakage and scattering and to facilitate inspection, in the following manner:

(a) The broomstraw shall be assembled into bundles with the base of the individual straws at the same end, no alternating of layers being permitted.

(b) Each bundle shall be securely tied to prevent breakage.

(c) Individual bundles shall be compacted, grouped into bales, and so arranged that the butt of each bundle is exposed on the outside of the bale.

(d) Each bale shall be securely bound to prevent shifting or loosening of the bundles in transit.

(e) Broomstraw found upon inspection at the port of entry to contain stems, stalks, stubs of stalks, or leaves shall be sterilized under the supervision of an inspector. Broomstraw contaminated in the aforesaid manner, from countries other than those on the North or South American Continents or the West Indies, shall be considered as broomcorn and shall be subject to compliance with § 319.41-3(b).

(Sec. 9, 37 Stat. 318; 7 U.S.C. 162. Interprets or applies sec. 5, 37 Stat. 316; 7 U.S.C. 159)

These administrative instructions shall become effective December 14, 1960.

These instructions authorize the importation of broomstraw which in processing is entirely separated from stems, stalks, stubs of stalks, and leaves. Importations that are properly processed and free of contamination with parts of broomcorn are not likely to be carriers of the European corn borer, or other injurious insects and plant diseases. Consequently they may be permitted entry through ports designated in the permits where plant quarantine service is available, without treatment and without seasonal limitation. The instructions are therefore a lessening of restrictions.

United States importers of broomcorn and foreign shippers of that commodity have been working together to develop a satisfactory procedure for the shipment of broomstraw, the essential part of broomcorn used in the manufacture of brooms. The separation of the straws from the stems, stalks, stubs of stalks, and leaves would reduce shipping and handling costs. At the same time it would eliminate the danger of plant pest introduction inherent in the importation of broomcorn.

The importation of properly processed broomstraw will greatly reduce the hazards of pest entry, and if imported on a year around basis will eliminate a peak period in cargo inspection and fumigation.

In order to be of maximum benefit to importers of broomstraw during the current shipping season that is about to begin, these administrative instructions should be made effective as soon as possible. Therefore, pursuant to section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. 1003), it is found upon good cause that notice and other public procedure with respect to the instructions are impracticable and unnecessary, and the instructions may be made effective less than 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Done at Washington, D.C., this 9th day of December 1960.

[SEAL] E. P. REAGAN,
Director, Plant Quarantine Division.

Chapter VII—Commodity Stabilization Service (Farm Marketing Quotas and Acreage Allotments), Department of Agriculture

PART 722—COTTON

Subpart—Regulations Pertaining to Acreage Allotments for the 1961 Crop of Upland Cotton

COUNTY RESERVES

Basis and purpose. The purpose of this amendment is to establish county reserves. The amendment contained herein is issued pursuant to the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended (52 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 USC 1281 et seq.). Notice of the proposed issuance of acreage allotment regulations for the 1961 crop of upland cotton was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on August 13, 1960 (25 F.R. 7761) in accordance with section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 238; 5 U.S.C. 1003) prior to issuance of such regulations.

In order that the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State and county committees may perform their assigned functions in an orderly manner, it is essential that this amendment be made effective as soon as possible. Accordingly, it is hereby determined and found that compliance with the notice and public procedure requirements and the 30-day effective date requirement of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act is impracticable and contrary to the public interest and this amendment shall be effective upon filing of this document with the Director, Office of the Federal Register.

Section 722.416(h)(2) of the regulations pertaining to acreage allotments for the 1961 crop of upland cotton (25 F.R. 9987, 10332, 12393) is amended to read as follows:

PART 722—COTTON

Subpart—Regulations Pertaining to Acreage Allotments for the 1961 Crop of Extra Long Staple Cotton

COUNTY RESERVES

Basis and purpose. The purpose of this amendment is to establish county reserves. The amendment contained herein is issued pursuant to the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended (52 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 1281 et seq.). Notice of the proposed issuance of acreage allotment regulations for the 1961 crop of extra long staple cotton was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on August 13, 1960 (25 F.R. 7760) in accordance with section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 238; 5 U.S.C. 1003) prior to issuance of such regulations.

In order that the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State and county committees may perform their assigned functions in an orderly manner, it is essential that this amendment be made effective as soon as possible. Accordingly, it is hereby determined and found that compliance with the notice and public procedure requirements and the 30-day effective date requirement of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act is impracticable and contrary to the public interest and this amendment shall be effective upon filing of this document with the Director, Office of the Federal Register.

Section 722.466(g)(2) of the regulations pertaining to acreage allotments for the 1961 crop of extra long staple cotton (25 F.R. 9996, 12403) is amended to read as follows:

Chapter IX—Agricultural Marketing Service (Marketing Agreements and Orders), Department of Agriculture

[Navel Orange Reg. 195, Amdt. 1]

PART 914—NAVEL ORANGES GROWN IN ARIZONA AND DESIGNATED PART OF CALIFORNIA

Limitation of Handling

Findings. 1. Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 14, as amended (7 CFR Part 914), regulating the handling of navel oranges grown in Arizona and designated part of California, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601–674), and upon the basis of the recommendation and information submitted by the Navel Orange Administrative Committee, established under the said amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of handling of such navel oranges as hereinafter provided will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act by tending to establish and maintain such orderly marketing conditions for such oranges as will provide, in the interests of producers and consumers, an orderly flow of the supply thereof to market throughout the normal marketing season to avoid unreasonable fluctuations in supplies and prices, and is not for the purpose of maintaining prices to farmers above the level which it is declared to be the policy of Congress to establish under the act.

2. It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this amendment until 30 days after publication hereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (5 U.S.C. 1001–1011) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this amendment is based became available and the time when this amendment must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient, and this amendment relieves restrictions on the handling of navel oranges grown in Arizona and designated part of California.

Order, as amended. The provisions in paragraph (b)(1)(i) of § 914.495 (Navel Orange Regulation 195, 25 F.R. 12405) are hereby amended to read as follows:

(i) District 1: 1,100,000 cartons.

(Secs. 1–19, 48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 601–674)

Dated: December 9, 1960.

FLOYD F. HEDLUND,
Deputy Director, Fruit and Vegetable Division, Agricultural Marketing Service.

[Milk Order No. 43]

PART 943—MILK IN THE NORTH TEXAS MARKETING AREA

Order Amending Order

§ 943.0 Findings and determinations.

The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and of the previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order regulating the handling of milk in the North Texas marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order as hereby amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act;

(2) The parity prices of milk, as determined pursuant to section 2 of the Act, are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the order as hereby amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest;

(3) The said order as hereby amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as, and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial or commercial activity specified in, a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

(b) Additional findings. (1) It is necessary in the public interest to make this order amending the order partially effective on January 1, 1961, and fully effective on July 1, 1961.

(2) The provisions of the said order are known to handlers. The recommended decision of the Deputy Administrator of the Agricultural Marketing Service was issued October 3, 1960 and the decision of the Assistant Secretary containing all amendment provisions of this order, was issued November 16, 1960. The changes effected by this order will not require extensive preparation or substantial alteration in method of operation for handlers. However, the changes in base transfer rules may seriously disrupt the operation of certain producers who have either made arrangement to transfer their established bases or to acquire additional bases for the 1961 base-operating period. In view of the foregoing, it is hereby found and determined that good cause exist for making this order partially effective January 1, 1961, and fully effective July 1, 1961 and that it would be contrary to the public interest to delay the effective date of this order for 30 days after it publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER (sec. 4(c), Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. 1001–1011).

(c) Determinations. It is hereby determined that:

(1) The refusal or failure of handlers (excluding cooperative associations specified in sec. 8c(9) of the Act) of more than 50 percent of the milk, which is marketed within the marketing area, to sign a proposed marketing agreement, tends to prevent the effectuation of the declared policy of the Act;

(2) The issuance of this order, amending the order, is the only practical means pursuant to the declared policy of the Act of advancing the interests of producers as defined in the order as herein amended; and

(3) The issuance of the order amending the order is approved or favored by at least two-thirds of the producers who during the determined representative period were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered, that on and after the effective date hereof, the handling of milk in the North Texas marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as hereby amended, and the aforesaid order is hereby amended as follows:

1. Amend the proviso in § 943.45 to read as follows: "Provided, That if any of the water contained in the milk from which a product is made has been removed, or if any of the solids, other than butterfat, contained in milk have been added to the product in any form, before it is utilized or disposed of by the handler, the pounds of skim milk disposed of in such product shall be considered to be an amount equivalent to all of the milk solids, other than butterfat, contained in such product, plus all the water originally associated with an amount of nonfat dry milk equal in weight to such solids."

2. Amend § 943.70 by deleting the word, "producer", in the first sentence thereof and by substituting the word, "producer", in place of the word, "such", in paragraph (a) thereof.

3. Amend § 943.80(a) to read as follows:

(a) Divide the total pounds of producer milk received from such producers at a pool plant(s) during the immediately preceding base-forming period of August through January by the number of days from the first day for which such producer made deliveries during such period to the last day of such period, less the number of days for which no deliveries are made, or by 153, whichever is greater. However, in the application of this provision prior to August 1961, the months of September through December 1960, shall be used in lieu of the August through January period and the figure, 112, shall be used in lieu of the figure, 153.

4. Amend § 943.81(b) by adding thereto an additional proviso as follows: "And provided further, That if a base(s) is transferred to a producer already holding a base which was either earned by such producer, or transferred to him, a new base shall be computed by adding together the total deliveries during the base-forming period of all persons in whose name such bases were earned and dividing the total by the number of days from the earliest date of delivery during the base-forming period by any of such persons to the last day of the base-forming period, or by 153 whichever is greater."

Issued at Washington, D.C., this 9th day of December 1960, to be effective as follows:

The amendments to §§ 943.45, 943.70 and 943.80(a) shall be effective on and after January 1, 1961, and the amendment to § 943.81(b) shall be effective on and after July 1, 1961.

CLARENCE L. MILLER,
Assistant Secretary.

AUTHORITY: §§ 989.0 to 989.97 issued under secs. 1–19, 48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 601–674.

§ 989.0 Findings and determinations.

(a) Previous findings and determinations. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary, and in addition, to the findings and determinations which were made in connection with issuance of the order and of each previously issued amendment thereto. Except the finding as to the base period for parity computation, and except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein, all of the said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed. (For prior findings and determinations see 14 F.R. 5136; 20 F.R. 6435; 21 F.R. 8182.)

(b) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (secs. 1–19, 48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 601–674), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held at Fresno, California, April 20 to 23, 1960, inclusive, on proposed amendments to Marketing Agreement No. 109, as amended, and Order No. 89, as amended (7 CFR Part 989), regulating the handling of raisins produced from raisin variety grapes grown in California. On the basis of the evidence adduced at the hearing, and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order, as amended and as hereby further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The said order, as amended and as hereby further amended, regulates the handling of raisins produced from grapes grown in California in the same manner as, and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial or commercial activity specified in, the marketing agreement and order upon which hearings have been held;

(3) There are no differences in the production and marketing of raisins in the production area covered by the order, as amended and as hereby further amended, which require different terms applicable to different parts of such area;

(4) The said order, as amended and as hereby further amended, is limited in its application to the smallest regional production area that is practicable, consistently with carrying out the declared policy of the act; and

(5) All handling of raisins produced from grapes grown in California is in the current of interstate or foreign commerce, or directly burdens, obstructs, or affects such commerce.

(c) Additional findings. It is hereby further found that good cause exists for making the provisions of this amendatory order effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER rather than postponing the effective date until 30 days after such publication (5 U.S.C. 1001–1011). This amendatory order removes the requirement for written reconditioning agreements and relieves handlers from certain obligations, such as the requirement for storing reserve tonnage and surplus tonnage separately. Such relief should be afforded handlers as soon as possible. Moreover, such order provides for improvements in program operations and procedures; hence, for deriving the maximum benefits from such improvements during the current crop year, the amendatory order should become effective promptly. For example, such order provides a better method of offering and allocating surplus tonnage raisins to handlers for export than the method authorized by present § 989.66(e)(4); and such method should be available to the committee and handlers for the disposition of the remaining surplus tonnage raisins of the current crop year. With respect to a number of other changes in the present provisions of the regulatory program effected by the amendatory order, which may result in changed or additional obligations or restrictions on handlers, the completion of certain antecedent administrative and other actions will be required after the amendatory order becomes effective; and handlers will be given notice of all recommendations of the Raisin Administrative Committee (established under this regulatory program) with respect thereto. The specified effective date hereof will provide an early opportunity for taking the required actions, and permit the benefits derivable from the amendatory order to be available during as great a part of the remainder of the current crop year as possible, thereby tending to effectuate the declared policy of the act. The provisions of the amendatory order are well known to raisin handlers. The public hearing in connection therewith was held April 20 to 23, 1960, inclusive, in Fresno, California, the recommended decision was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on September 8, 1960 (25 F.R. 8656, 8887), and the final decision on November 3, 1960 (25 F.R. 10540). The text of the amendatory order has been made available to all known interested persons. Accordingly, handlers need no further advance notice to prepare for compliance with the provision of this amendatory order.

(d) Determinations. It is hereby determined that:

(1) The "Marketing Agreement, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Raisins Produced from Grapes Grown in California", upon which the aforesaid public hearing was held, has been signed by handlers (excluding cooperative associations of producers who are not engaged in processing, distributing, or shipping raisins covered by the said order, as amended and as hereby further amended) who, during the period July 1, 1959 through June 30, 1960, handled not less than 50 percent of the volume of such raisins covered by the said order, as amended and as hereby further amended; and

(2) The issuance of this amendatory order, further amending the aforesaid order, as amended, is favored or approved by at least two-thirds of the producers who participated in a referendum on the question of its approval and who, during the period July 1, 1959 through June 30, 1960 (which has been determined to be a representative period), have been engaged, within the State of California, in the production for market of the commodity specified in such amendatory order, such producers having also produced for market at least two-thirds of the volume of such commodity represented in the referendum.

It is, therefore, ordered, That, on and after the effective date hereof, all handling of raisins produced from grapes grown in California shall be in conformity to, and in compliance with, the terms and conditions of the said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, as follows:

DEFINITIONS

§ 989.1 Secretary.

"Secretary" means the Secretary of Agriculture of the United States or any officer or employee of the United States Department of Agriculture to whom authority has heretofore been delegated or to whom authority may hereafter be delegated, to act in his stead.

§ 989.2 Act.

"Act" means Public Act No. 10, 73d Congress (May 12, 1933), as amended and as re-enacted and amended by the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.; 68 Stat. 906, 1047).

§ 989.3 Person.

"Person" means an individual, partnership, corporation, association, or any other business unit.

§ 989.4 Area.

"Area" means the State of California.

§ 989.5 Raisins.

"Raisins" means grapes of any variety grown in the area, from which a part of the natural moisture has been removed by sun-drying or artificial dehydration after such grapes have been removed from the vines.

§ 989.6 Bleached raisins.

"Bleached raisins" means (a) any raisins which have been produced by soda dipping, with or without oil, whether sun-dried or artificially dehydrated, or (b) any raisins which have been produced by soda dipping, sulfuring, and sun-drying.

§ 989.7 Golden Seedless raisins.

"Golden Seedless raisins" means raisins, the production of which includes soda dipping, sulfuring, and artificial dehydration.

§ 989.8 Natural condition raisins.

"Natural condition raisins" means raisins the production of which includes sun-drying or artificial dehydration, with or without bleaching, but which have not been further processed to a point where they meet any of the conditions for "packed raisins", as defined in § 989.9.

§ 989.9 Packed raisins.

"Packed raisins" means raisins which have been stemmed, graded, sorted, cleaned, or seeded, and placed in any container customarily used in the marketing of raisins or in any container suitable or usable for such marketing. Raisins in the process of being packed or raisins which are partially packed shall be subject to the same requirements as packed raisins.

§ 989.10 Varietal type.

"Varietal type" means raisins generally recognized as possessing characteristics differing from other raisins in a degree sufficient to make necessary or desirable separate identification and classification. Varietal types are the following: Natural (sun-dried) Thompson Seedless, natural (sun-dried) Muscat, natural (sun-dried) or artificially dehydrated Sultana, natural (sun-dried) or artificially dehydrated Zante Currant, Layer Muscat, Golden Seedless, Sulfur Bleached, Soda Dipped, Valencia, Alicante Bouschet, Cardinal, Carignane, Italia, Malaga, Monukka, and Zinfandel raisins: Provided, That the committee may from time to time, subject to approval of the Secretary, change this list of varietal types.

§ 989.11 Producer.

"Producer" means any person engaged in a proprietary capacity in the production of grapes which are sun-dried or dehydrated by artificial means until they become raisins.

§ 989.12 Dehydrator.

"Dehydrator" means any person who produces raisins by dehydrating grapes by artificial means.

§ 989.13 Processor.

"Processor" means any person who acquires raisins and uses them within the area, with or without other ingredients, in the production of a product other than raisins, for market or distribution.

§ 989.14 Packer.

"Packer" means any person who, within the area, stems, sorts, cleans, or seeds raisins, grades stemmed raisins, or packages raisins for market as raisins: Provided, That any producer shall be deemed to be a packer, with respect to the raisins produced by him, only if he stems, cleans with water, seeds or packages them for market as raisins: And provided further, That any dehydrator shall be deemed to be a packer, with respect to raisins dehydrated by him, only if he stems, cleans with water subsequent to such dehydration, seeds or packages them for market as raisins.

§ 989.15 Handler.

"Handler" means: (a) Any processor or packer; (b) any person who ships natural condition raisins out of the area; or (c) any person who blends raisins: Provided, That blending shall not cause a person not otherwise a handler to be a handler on account of such blending if he is either: (1) A producer who, in his capacity as a producer, blends raisins entirely of his own production in the course of his usual and customary practices of preparing raisins for delivery to processors, packers, or dehydrators; (2) a person who blends raisins after they have been placed in trade channels by a packer with other such raisins in trade channels; or (3) a dehydrator who, in his capacity as a dehydrator, blends raisins entirely of his own manufacture.

§ 989.16 Blend.

"Blend" means to mix or commingle raisins.

§ 989.17 Acquire.

"Acquire" means to have or obtain physical possession of raisins by a handler at his packing or processing plant or at any other established receiving station operated by him: Provided, That a handler shall not be deemed to acquire any raisins (including raisins produced or dehydrated by him) while: (a) He stores them for another person or as handler-produced tonnage in compliance with the provisions of §§ 989.58 and 989.70; (b) he reconditions them, or; (c) he has them in his possession for the purpose of inspection; and Provided further, That the term shall apply only to the handler who first acquires the raisins.

"Board" means the Raisin Advisory Board established pursuant to § 989.26, or as changed pursuant to § 989.26a or § 989.26b.

§ 989.19 Committee.

"Committee" means the Raisin Administrative Committee established pursuant to § 989.39, or as changed pursuant to § 989.39a or § 989.39b.

§ 989.20 Ton.

"Ton" means a short ton of 2,000 pounds.

§ 989.21 Crop year.

"Crop year" means the 12-month period beginning with September 1 of any year and ending with August 31 of the following year.

§ 989.22 District.

"District" means any one of the geographical areas referred to in § 989.26 and specified in § 989.96 (Exhibit A), or as changed pursuant to § 989.26b.

§ 989.23 File.

"File" means transmit or deliver to the Secretary or committee, as the case may be, and such act shall be deemed to have been accomplished at the time: (a) Of actual receipt by the Secretary or committee in the event of personal delivery; (b) of receipt at the office of the telegraph company, in case submission is by telegram; or (c) shown by the postmark, in case submission is by mail.

(a) "Standard raisins" means raisins which meet the then effective minimum grade and condition standards for natural condition raisins.

(b) "Off-grade raisins" means raisins which do not meet the then effective minimum grade and condition standards for natural condition raisins.

§ 989.25 Part and subpart.

"Part" means the order regulating the handling of raisins produced from grapes grown in California, and all rules, regulations, and supplementary orders issued thereunder. This order regulating the handling of raisins produced from grapes grown in California shall be a "subpart" of such part.

RAISIN ADVISORY BOARD

§ 989.26 Establishment and membership.

The Raisin Advisory Board is hereby established, consisting of 46 members, of whom 36 shall represent producers, eight shall represent handlers, and two shall represent dehydrators: Provided, That, effective May 1, 1961, the board shall consist of 45 members of whom 35 shall represent producers, eight shall represent handlers, and two shall represent dehydrators. The dehydrator members shall represent all dehydrators within the area and shall be selected from dehydrators as provided in § 989.29(b)(4). The handler members of the board shall include the following: (a) One member selected from and representing handlers doing business as cooperative marketing associations, or cooperative marketing organizations engaged in the business of packing raisins, each of which acquired not less than 10 percent of the total raisin acquisitions during the 12-month period preceding the then current crop year; (b) two members selected from and representing the three handlers, other than cooperatives, who acquired the largest percentages of the total raisin acquisitions during the 12-month period preceding the then current crop year; (c) one member selected from and representing the two handlers, other than cooperatives, who acquired the next largest percentages of the total raisin acquisitions during the 12-month period preceding the then current crop year; (d) two members selected from and representing the five handlers, other than cooperatives, who acquired the next largest percentages of the total raisin acquisitions during the 12-month period preceding the then current crop year; and (e) two members selected from and representing all other handlers, including cooperatives each of which acquired less than 10 percent of the total raisin acquisitions during the 12-month period preceding the then current crop year, and including all processors. The producer members shall be selected in the number and for the districts as designated in § 989.96 (Exhibit A), or as such number or districts may be changed pursuant to § 989.26b. For each member of the board there shall be an alternate member who shall have the same qualifications as the member for whom he is an alternate.

§ 989.26a Changes in handler representation.

The Secretary, on recommendation of the committee, may change the total number of handler members on the board, the handler size groups set forth in § 989.26 from which handler members shall be selected, the number of handlers comprising any such size group, or the number of handler members to represent any such size group. In making any such change, consideration shall be given to such factors as changes in the numbers of handlers, relative raisin acquisition positions of handlers, and their similarity of interests in the handling of raisins.

§ 989.26b Changes in producer representation.

The Secretary, on recommendation of the committee, may change the total number of producer members on the board, may change the number of districts designated in § 989.96 (Exhibit A), may redefine such districts into which the production area is divided, or may change the number of producer members which shall be selected to represent particular districts. In making any such change consideration shall be given to such factors as geographical shifts in the numbers of producers and in raisin production within the area.

§ 989.27 Eligibility.

The conditions of producer eligibility for serving as member or alternate member on the board shall be those which were effective immediately preceding the effective date of this amended subpart, but on and after May 1, 1961, the conditions of such eligibility shall be those effective under this amended subpart. No person shall be selected or continue to serve as a member or alternate member of the board, who is not actively engaged in the business of the group which he represents, either in his own behalf, or as an officer, agent, or employee of a business unit engaged in such business: Provided, That any handler eligible to represent a particular size group at the time of his selection who later falls in a different size group shall continue to represent for the entire term the size group for which he was selected.

§ 989.28 Term of office.

(a) Producer members. The terms of one-third or approximately one-third of the producer members and producer alternate members of the board shall end on April 30 of each year, but each such member and alternate member shall continue to serve until his respective successor is selected and has qualified. The producer members and alternate producer members of the board shall serve for terms of three years, beginning on May 1, and ending on April 30 of the third following year: Provided, That the ending dates of the initial terms of office of the three producer members and their alternate members to be selected in 1961 to represent producers in District No. 21 under this amended subpart shall be April 30, 1962, for one producer member and his alternate, April 30, 1963, for another producer member and his alternate, and April 30, 1964, for the other producer member and his alternate, but each such member and alternate member shall continue to serve until his respective successor is selected and has qualified.

(b) Handler and dehydrator members. The handler members and dehydrator members, and their respective alternates, shall each serve for terms of one year, beginning on May 1, and ending on April 30 of the following year, but each such member and alternate member shall continue to serve until his respective successor is selected and has qualified.

§ 989.29 Initial members and nomination of successor members.

(a) Initial members. Members and alternate members of the board serving immediately prior to the effective date of this amended subpart shall, if thereafter they are also eligible, continue to serve on the board as the initial members and alternate members of the board for their specified terms of office and until their respective successors have been selected and have qualified: Provided, That the terms of office of the three producer members and three alternate producer members representing producers in District No. 21 and of the one producer member and one producer alternate member representing producers in District No. 22, who are serving on the effective date of this amended subpart, shall terminate on April 30, 1961.

(b) Nomination for successor members. Nominations for successor members and alternate members of the board shall be made as set forth in subparagraphs (1) to (6) of this paragraph.

(1) The board shall give reasonable publicity of a meeting or meetings of producers, handlers, and dehydrators, respectively, for the purpose of making nominations for member and alternate member positions to be filled on the board: Provided, That, with respect to producer members and producer alternate members, a meeting or meetings shall be held in each district for which nominations are to be made to fill producer member and producer alternate member positions on the board.

(2) Only producers, as defined in § 989.11, engaged as such with respect to the most recent grape crop in the particular district for which nominations are to be made, may nominate, or vote for, any producer member or producer alternate member for such district. Any such producer so engaged in any of the districts may be nominated to represent any district as producer member or producer alternate member of the board, except that a producer may be a nominee for only one district: Provided, That every three years at least one of the nominees for a producer member position on the board and one of the nominees for the alternate position thereto shall be producers of grapes used in the production of Golden Seedless raisins. One or more eligible producers for each producer member position to be filled on the board may be proposed for nomination and one or more eligible producers for each alternate member position to be filled may be proposed for nomination. Each producer shall cast only one vote with respect to each position for which nomination is to be made. The person receiving a majority of votes with respect to each producer member or producer alternate member position shall be the person to be certified to the Secretary as the nominee for each such position. In the event no person receives a majority, there shall be a run-off vote between the two persons receiving the largest number of votes.

(3) Only handlers who packed or processed raisins during the then current crop year may nominate, or vote for, handler members or handler alternate members. One or more eligible handlers for each handler member position to be filled may be proposed for nomination, and one or more eligible handlers for each alternate member position to be filled on the board may be proposed for nomination. Nominations by each of the handler groups specified in § 989.26 or pursuant to § 989.26a, shall be made by and from handlers, or employees, representatives, or agents of handlers falling within such groups. Each handler shall cast only one vote with respect to each position for which nomination is to be made: Provided, That only handlers coming within the particular group, as specified in § 989.26 or pursuant to § 989.26a, as applicable, for which nomination is to be made, shall vote. The person receiving the most votes with respect to each handler member or handler alternate member position shall be the person to be certified to the Secretary as the nominee for each such position.

(4) Only dehydrators who produced raisins by dehydrating grapes during the then current crop year may nominate, or vote for, dehydrator members or dehydrator alternate members. One or more eligible dehydrators for each dehydrator member position to be filled on the board may be proposed for nomination, and one or more eligible dehydrators for each alternate member position may be proposed for nomination. Each dehydrator shall cast only one vote with respect to each position for which nomination is to be made. The person receiving the most votes with respect to each dehydrator member or dehydrator alternate member position shall be the person to be certified to the Secretary as the nominee for each such position.

(5) Each vote cast shall be on behalf of the person voting, his agents, subsidiaries, affiliates, and representatives. Voting at each meeting shall be in person. The result of each ballot at each such meeting shall be announced at that meeting. Voting at each meeting of producers shall be by secret ballot, and at each meeting of handlers, and dehydrators, voting may be by secret ballot.

(6) Each such nomination shall be certified by the board to the Secretary on or before April 5 immediately preceding the commencement of the term of office of the member or alternate member position for which the nomination is certified.

§ 989.30 Selection.

The Secretary shall select producer, handler, and dehydrator members and alternate members in the numbers specified in § 989.26, or pursuant to § 989.26a or § 989.26b, as applicable, and with the qualifications specified in § 989.27. Such selections may be made from the nominations certified pursuant to § 989.29 or from other eligible producers, handlers, and dehydrators.

§ 989.31 Failure to nominate.

In the event nomination for a member or alternate member position on the board is not certified pursuant to and within the time specified in § 989.29, the Secretary may select an eligible person to fill such position without regard to nomination.

§ 989.32 Acceptance.

Each person selected by the Secretary as a member or as an alternate member of the board shall, prior to serving on the board, qualify by filing with the Secretary a written acceptance within 10 calendar days after being notified of his selection.

§ 989.33 Alternate members.

The alternate for a member of the board shall act in the place and stead of such member (a) during his absence, and (b) in the event of his removal, resignation, disqualification, or death, until a successor for such member's unexpired term has been selected and and has qualified.

§ 989.34 Vacancies.

To fill any vacancy occasioned by the failure of any person selected as a member or as an alternate member of the board to qualify, or in the event of the removal, resignation, disqualification, or death of any member or alternate member, a successor for such person's unexpired term shall be nominated and selected in the manner set forth in §§ 989.29 and 989.30, insofar as such provisions are applicable. If nomination to fill any vacancy is not filed within 40 calendar days after such vacancy occurs, the Secretary may select an eligible person to fill such vacancy without regard to nomination.

§ 989.35 Meetings.

The board shall meet at the call of its chairman or its vice chairman when acting as chairman, or at the call of any officer of the board upon the request of at least one-third of its producer or handler members. Reasonable advance notice of each meeting shall be given by mail or other appropriate means to each member and alternate member and such notice shall be given as widespread publicity as is practicable. The notice of each meeting shall specify the time, place, and general purpose thereof.

The duties of the board shall consist of the conducting of meetings for the purpose of making nominations for membership on the board and the certifying of nominations made for such purpose to the Secretary, the making of nominations to the Secretary for member and alternate member positions on the committee, the making of recommendations to the committee with respect to marketing policy, the free, reserve, and surplus percentages, and such other operational matters as it deems proper or as the committee may request.

§ 989.37 Procedure.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in § 989.42, all decisions of the board shall be by majority vote of the members present. The presence of not less than 19 producer members and not less than five members other than producer members shall be required to constitute a quorum: Provided, That the Secretary, on recommendation of the committee, may change such quorum requirements if warranted by a change made pursuant to § 989.26a in the total number of handler members on the board or by a change made pursuant to § 989.26b in the total number of producer members on the board.

(b) The board shall give to the Secretary the same notice of meetings of the board as it gives to its members.

RAISIN ADMINISTRATIVE COMMITTEE

§ 989.39 Establishment and membership.

A Raisin Administrative Committee is hereby established to administer the terms and provisions of this part. Such committee shall consist of 14 members, of whom eight shall represent producers (one of whom shall be a producer of grapes used in the production of Golden Seedless raisins), five shall represent handlers, and one shall represent dehydrators. Of the five handler members, one shall be selected from and represent each of the following divisions: (a) The handlers doing business as cooperative marketing associations, or cooperative marketing organizations engaged in the business of packing raisins, each of which acquired not less than 10 percent of the total raisin acquisitions during the 12-month period preceding the then current crop year; (b) the three handlers, other than cooperatives, who acquired the largest percentages of total raisin acquisitions during the 12-month period preceding the then current crop year; (c) the two handlers, other than cooperatives, who acquired the next largest percentages of total raisin acquisitions during the 12-month period preceding the then current crop year; (d) the five handlers, other than cooperatives, who acquired the next largest percentages of the total raisin acquisitions during the 12-month period preceding the then current crop year; and (e) all other handlers, including cooperatives each of which acquired less than 10 percent of the total raisin acquisitions during the 12-month period preceding the then current crop year, and including all processors. For each member of the committee there shall be an alternate member who shall have the same qualifications as the member for whom he is an alternate.

§ 989.39a Changes in handler representation.

The Secretary, on recommendation of the committee, may change the total number of handler members on the committee, the handler size groups set forth in § 989.39 from which handler members shall be selected, the number of handlers comprising any such size group, or the number of handler members to represent any such size group. In making any such change, consideration shall be given to such factors as changes in the numbers of handlers, relative raisin acquisition positions of handlers, and their similarity of interests in the handling of raisins.

§ 989.39b Changes in producer representation.

The Secretary, on recommendation of the committee, may change the total number of producer members on the committee. In making such a change, consideration shall be given to such factors as changes in the producer or handler membership of the board, representation of the several producing districts, and maintenance of producer positions as a majority of the committee.

§ 989.40 Eligibility.

The conditions of producer eligibility for serving as member or alternate member of the committee shall be those which were effective immediately preceding the effective date of this amended subpart, but on and after June 1, 1961, the conditions of such eligibility shall be those effective under this amended subpart. No person shall be selected or continue to serve as a member or alternate member of the committee, who is not actively engaged in the business of the group which he represents, either in his own behalf, or as an officer, agent, or employee of a business unit engaged in such business: Provided, That any handler eligible to represent a particular size group at the time of his selection who later falls in a different size group shall continue to represent for the entire term the size group for which he was selected.

§ 989.41 Term of office.

Members and alternate members of the committee shall each serve for terms of one year, beginning on June 1, and ending on May 31 of the following year but each such member and alternate member shall continue to serve until his respective successor is selected and has qualified.

§ 989.42 Nomination.

(a) Producer members. The producer members of the board, and producer alternate members when acting as members, shall nominate from among the producer members and producer alternate members of the board the required number of persons for producer member positions on the committee and an alternate for each such person: Provided, That one of the persons nominated for a producer member position on the committee and his alternate shall be producers of grapes used in the production of Golden Seedless raisins.

(b) Handler members. The handler members of the board and handler alternate members when acting as members, shall nominate from among the handler members and alternate members of the board, the required number of persons for handler member positions on the committee, and an alternate for each such person. Nomination for each of the handler groups specified in § 989.39, or pursuant to § 989.39a, as applicable, shall be made by and from handlers, employees, representatives or agents of handlers falling within each such group.

(c) Dehydrator members. The dehydrator members of the board, and dehydrator alternate members when acting as members, shall nominate from among the dehydrator members and dehydrator alternate members of the board one person for the dehydrator member position on the committee and an alternate for such person.

(d) Initial members. Members and alternate members of the committee serving immediately prior to the effective date of this amended subpart shall, if thereafter they are also eligible, continue to serve on the committee as the initial members and alternate members of the committee for their specified terms of office and until their respective successors have been selected and have qualified.

(e) Successor members. Nominations for successor members and alternate members of the committee shall be certified by the board to the Secretary annually within 30 days following the selection by the Secretary of board members.

§ 989.43 Selection.

The Secretary shall select producer, handler, and dehydrator members and alternate members of the committee in the numbers specified in § 989.39 or pursuant to § 989.39a or § 989.39b, as applicable, and with the qualifications specified in § 989.40. Such selections may be made from the nominations certified pursuant to § 989.42 or from other eligible producers, handlers, and dehydrators.

§ 989.44 Failure to nominate.

In the event nomination for a member or alternate member position on the committee is not certified pursuant to and within the time specified in § 989.42, the Secretary may select an eligible person to fill such position without regard to nomination.

§ 989.45 Acceptance.

Each person selected by the Secretary as a member or as an alternate member of the committee shall, prior to serving on the committee, qualify by filing with the Secretary a written acceptance within 10 calendar days after being notified of such selection.

§ 989.46 Alternate members.

An alternate for a member of the committee shall act in the place and stead of such member (a) during his absence, and (b) in the event of his removal, resignation, disqualification, or death until a successor for such member's unexpired term has been selected and has qualified.

§ 989.47 Vacancies.

To fill any vacancy occasioned by the failure of any person selected as a member or as an alternate member of the committee to qualify, or in the event of the removal, resignation, disqualification, or death of any member or alternate member, a successor for such person's unexpired term shall be nominated and selected in the manner set forth in §§ 989.42 and 989.43, insofar as such provisions are applicable. If nomination to fill any such vacancy is not filed within 40 calendar days after such vacancy occurs, the Secretary may select an eligible person to fill such vacancy without regard to nomination.

§ 989.48 Compensation and expenses.

The members of the committee and the board, and the alternate members when acting as members, shall serve without compensation but shall be allowed their necessary expenses as approved by the committee. Whenever specifically authorized in advance by the committee, or when requested to attend due to the anticipated absence of a member, an alternate member of the committee shall be reimbursed for reasonable expenses incurred by him in attending not to exceed three committee meetings per crop year when the committee member for whom he serves as alternate also attends such meetings.

The committee shall have the following powers:

(a) To administer the terms and provisions of this part;

(b) To make rules and regulations to effectuate the terms and provisions of this part;

(c) To receive, investigate, and report to the Secretary, complaints of violations of this part; and

(d) To recommend to the Secretary amendments to this part.

§ 989.50 Duties.

The committee shall have, among others, the following duties:

(a) To act as intermediary between the Secretary and any producer, packer, dehydrator, or processor;

(b) To keep minutes, books, and other records, which shall clearly reflect all of its acts and transactions, and such minutes, books, and other records shall be subject to examination by the Secretary at any time;

(c) To investigate and assemble data on the production, handling, and market conditions with respect to raisins;

(d) To submit to the Secretary such available information with respect to raisins and grapes as he may request, and such other information as the committee may deem desirable and pertinent;

(e) To select, from among its members, a chairman and other officers, and to adopt such rules and regulations for the conduct of its business as it may deem advisable;

(f) To appoint or employ such other persons as it may deem necessary, and to determine the salaries and define the duties of each such person;

(g) To cause the books of the committee to be audited by certified public accountants at least once each crop year, and at such other times as the committee may deem necessary or as the Secretary may request, and the report of each such audit shall show, among other things, the receipts and expenditures of funds, and at least two copies of each such audit shall be submitted to the Secretary;

(h) To prepare quarterly statements of its financial operations and make such statements, together with the minutes of its meetings, available at the office of the committee for inspection by producers, handlers and dehydrators;

(i) To give reasonable advance notice of the times, places, and purposes of its meetings by mail or other appropriate means to each member and alternate member and such notice shall be given as widespread publicity as is practicable.

(j) To investigate compliance with and to use means available to the committee to prevent violation of the provisions of this part; and

(k) To establish, with the approval of the Secretary, such rules and procedures relative to administration of this subpart as may be consistent with the provisions contained in this subpart and as may be necessary to accomplish the purposes of the act and the efficient administration of this subpart.

Upon the removal, resignation, disqualification, or expiration of the term of office of any member or alternate member, such member or alternate member shall account for all receipts and disbursements and deliver to his successor, to the committee, or to a designee of the Secretary all property (including, but not limited to, all books and records) in his possession or under his control as member or alternate member, and he shall execute such assignments and other instruments as may be necessary or appropriate to vest in such successor, committee, or designee full title to such property and funds, and all claims vested in such member or alternate member. Upon the death of any member or alternate member of the committee, full title to such property, funds, and claims vested in such member or alternate member shall be vested in his successor or, until such successor has been selected and has qualified, in the committee.

(a) All decisions of the committee reached at an assembled meeting shall be by majority vote of the members present. All votes in an assembled meeting shall be cast in person and a quorum must be present. The presence of nine members shall be required to constitute a quorum: Provided, That the Secretary, on recommendation of the committee, may change such quorum requirement if warranted by a change made pursuant to § 989.39a in the total number of handler members on the committee or by a change made pursuant to § 989.39b in the total number of producer members on the committee. The committee may vote by mail or telegraph when there is no assembled meeting, but any proposition to be so voted upon first shall be explained accurately, fully, and identically in a notice by mail or telegraph to all members, or alternates acting in the place and stead of the members. Said notice shall contain a statement of a reasonable time not to exceed 10 days in which a member or alternate must vote by mail or telegraph in order that the vote may be counted. A unanimous vote of all selected and eligible members or alternates acting in the place and stead of members shall be required to reach a decision on a mail or telegraphic vote. Failure of any such member or alternate to vote within the prescribed time shall be held to be a dissenting vote. No action to recommend a marketing policy or volume regulation can be taken on the basis of a mail or telegraphic vote.

(b) The committee shall give to the Secretary the same notice of its meetings as it gives to its members and also advance notice of all subcommittee meetings.

(c) The committee shall defer action with respect to any marketing policy or percentage recommendation of the board until at least the day following the day on which any such recommendation is adopted by the board.

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

§ 989.53 Research and development.

The committee, with the approval of the Secretary, may establish or provide for the establishment of marketing research and development projects designed to assist, improve, or promote the marketing, distribution, and consumption of raisins. Such projects may include, but need not be limited to, those designed to: (a) Improve through research the accuracy of raisin production estimates; (b) improve through research the preparation for market, sanitation, quality, condition, storability, processing, or packaging of raisins; (c) ascertain through research the factors affecting acceptance of raisins by manufacturers or consumers; and (d) promote the marketing, distribution, or consumption of raisins in domestic and foreign markets by collecting data thereon, consulting with members of the trade, and making the information available to producers, handlers, and exporters. The expense of any such project relating solely to free tonnage raisins shall be paid from funds collected pursuant to § 989.79. The expense of any such project relating solely to surplus tonnage raisins shall be paid from the sales proceeds from such raisins. If any such project encompasses both free tonnage and surplus tonnage raisins, such as one which is designed to promote the consumption in export outlets of raisins generally on a long-term basis, the expense of the project may be allocated between the assessment fund and the pool fund.

MARKETING POLICY

§ 989.54 Marketing policy.

Prior to or simultaneously with making its recommendation to the Secretary for fixing the initial free, reserve, and surplus percentages for any crop year (which shall be not later than October 5 of such crop year unless this date is extended by the committee not more than five days as provided in § 989.63 (a)), the committee shall hold a meeting to formulate and adopt a marketing policy for the marketing of raisins for the crop year and shall submit promptly to the Secretary a report setting forth its marketing policy for the regulation of the handling of raisins in such crop year. The report shall include the data and information used by the committee in formulating the marketing policy, and the recommendation of the board. In developing the marketing policy, the committee shall give consideration to the following factors with respect to any varietal type on which volume regulation is intended for the crop year:

(a) The estimated tonnage held by producers, handlers, and for the account of the committee at the beginning of the crop year;

(b) The expected general quality and any intended modifications of the minimum grade standards;

(c) The estimated tonnage of standard and off-grade raisins which will be produced;

(d) The estimated trade demand for such raisins in free tonnage outlets;

(e) An estimated desirable carryout at the end of the crop year for free tonnage and, if applicable, for surplus tonnage;

(f) The estimated market requirements for such raisins outside free tonnage outlets, considering the estimated world raisin supply and demand situation;

(g) Current prices being received and the probable general level of prices to be received for such raisins by producers and handlers;

(h) The trend and level of consumer income;

(i) Any prohibition of trade practices, pursuant to § 989.62, intended for the crop year; and

(j) Any other pertinent factors bearing on the marketing of such raisins including the estimated supply of and demand for other varietal types and regulations applicable thereto.

§ 989.55 Modification.

In the event the committee subsequently deems it advisable to modify such marketing policy, because of changed demand or supply conditions, it should hold a meeting for that purpose, and file a report thereof with the Secretary within five days (exclusive of Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays) after the holding of such meeting, which report shall show each modification, the bases therefor, as well as the recommendation of the board.

§ 989.56 Verbatim record.

The committee shall file with its report to the Secretary a verbatim record of that portion of its meeting or meetings relating to its marketing policy.

§ 989.57 Publicity and notice.

The committee shall promptly give reasonable publicity to producers, de-hydrators, and handlers of each meeting to consider a marketing policy or any modifications thereof, and each such meeting shall be open to them. Similar notice shall be given to producers, dehydrators, and handlers of each marketing policy report, or modification thereof, filed with the Secretary. Copies of all such reports shall be maintained in the office of the committee where they shall be made available for examination by any producer, dehydrator, or handler.

GRADE AND CONDITION STANDARDS

§ 989.58 Natural condition raisins.

(a) Regulation. No handler shall acquire or receive natural condition raisins which fail to meet the minimum grade and condition standards as set forth in § 989.97 (Exhibit B) or as later changed and then in effect: Provided, That a handler may receive raisins for inspection, may receive off-grade raisins for reconditioning, and may receive or acquire off-grade raisins for use in distillation, animal feed, or outlets other than for human consumption: And provided further, That nothing contained in this paragraph shall apply to the acquisition or receipt of natural condition raisins of a particular varietal type for which minimum grade and condition standards are not applicable or then in effect pursuant to this part.

(b) Changes in minimum grade and condition standards for natural condition raisins. The committee may recommend to the Secretary changes in the minimum grade and condition standards for natural condition raisins of any varietal type, as set forth in § 989.97 (Exhibit B) or as later changed and then in effect, and may recommend to the Secretary that minimum grade and condition standards for any varietal type be added to or deleted from § 989.97 (Exhibit B). The committee shall submit with its recommendation all data and information upon which it acted in making its recommendation, and such other information as the Secretary may request. The Secretary shall issue any such change relative to the minimum grade and condition standards for natural condition raisins if he finds upon the basis of data submitted to him by the committee, or from other pertinent information available to him, that to do so would tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(c) Publicity and notice. The committee shall give prompt and reasonable publicity to producers, dehydrators, and handlers of each recommendation submitted by it to the Secretary and of each regulation issued by the Secretary. Notice of such regulation shall be given to all handlers by registered or certified mail.

(d) Inspection and certification. (1) Each handler shall cause an inspection and certification to be made of all natural condition raisins acquired or received by him, except with respect to: (i) An inter-plant or inter-handler transfer of off-grade raisins as described in § 989.58(e) (2) unless such inspection and certification are required by rules and procedures made effective pursuant to this amended subpart; (ii) an inter-plant or inter-handler transfer of free tonnage raisins as described in § 989.59 (e); (iii) raisins received from a dehydrator which have previously been inspected pursuant to subparagraph (2) of this paragraph; (iv) any raisins for which minimum grade and condition standards are not then in effect; and (v) any raisins, if permitted in accordance with such rules and procedures as the committee may establish with the approval of the Secretary, acquired or received for disposition to distillation, animal feed, or uses other than for human consumption. The handler shall be reimbursed by the committee for inspection costs incurred by him and applicable to pool tonnage held for the account of the committee. Except as otherwise provided in this section, prior to blending raisins, acquiring raisins, storing raisins, reconditioning raisins, or acquiring raisins which have been reconditioned, each handler shall obtain an inspection certification showing whether or not the raisins meet the applicable grade and condition standards: Provided, That these requirements shall not preclude fumigation by the handler prior to completion of inspection and certification in accordance with such rules and procedures as the committee shall establish with the approval of the Secretary. The handler shall submit or cause to be submitted to the committee a copy of such certification, together with such other documents or records as the committee may require. Such certification shall be issued by inspectors of the Processed Products Standardization and Inspection Branch of the United States Department of Agriculture, unless the committee determines, and the Secretary concurs in such determination, that inspection by another agency would improve the administration of this amended subpart. The committee may require that raisins held on memorandum receipt be reinspected and certified as a condition for their acquisition by a handler.

(2) The committee may, in accordance with rules and procedures established with the approval of the Secretary, authorize handlers to receive or acquire natural condition raisins which have been produced by any dehydrator by dehydrating grapes by artificial means and have been inspected and certified on his premises. In the event there shall have been compliance with committee requirements, any handler who receives or acquires such inspected and certificated raisins shall be deemed to have satisfied the requirements contained in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph with respect to inspection and certification of natural condition raisins received or acquired by him.

(e) Off-grade raisins. (1) Any natural condition raisins tendered to a handler which fail to meet the applicable minimum grade and condition standards may: (i) Be received or acquired by the handler for disposition, without further inspection, for distillation, animal feed, or uses other than for human consumption; (ii) be returned unstemmed to the person tendering the raisins; or (iii) be received by the handler for reconditioning. Off-grade raisins received by a handler under any one of the three described categories may be changed to any other of the categories under such rules and procedures as the committee, with the approval of the Secretary, shall establish. No handler shall ship or otherwise dispose of off-grade raisins which he does not return to the tenderer, transfer to another handler as provided in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, or recondition so that they at least meet the minimum standards prescribed in or pursuant to this amended subpart, except for distillation, animal feed, or uses other than for human consumption.

(2) Off-grade raisins may be transferred from the plant of the handler where received to another plant of his or to that of another handler within the State of California under such rules and procedures as the committee, with the approval of the Secretary, shall establish to safeguard the objectives of this part.

(3) Each handler shall, while holding any off-grade raisins, store them separate and apart from other raisins and the off-grade raisins shall be stored in accordance with disposition and reconditioning categories. The committee with the approval of the Secretary may prescribe rules and procedures for the storage of the raisins.

(4) If the handler is to acquire the raisins after they are reconditioned, his obligation with respect to such raisins shall be based on the weight of the raisins (if stemmed, adjusted to natural condition weight) after they have been reconditioned. If, after such reconditioning, such raisins meet the minimum standards but are no longer natural condition raisins, any handler who acquires such raisins shall meet his surplus and reserve tonnage obligations from natural condition standard raisins acquired by him. Any off-grade raisins (including stemmer waste and raisin offal) accumulated as a final residual by a handler in reconditioning raisins shall, during or after reconditioning has been completed, be disposed of by the handler, without further inspection, for distillation, animal feed, or uses other than for human consumption.

(5) The committee shall establish, with the approval of the Secretary, such additional rules and procedures as may be necessary to insure adequate control of off-grade raisins, including, but not limited to, the reconditioning of off-grade raisins, the disposition and use of unsuccessfully reconditioned raisins, and the disposition and use of residual matter from reconditioning operations.

(f) Blending. No handler shall blend raisins except: (1) Incidental to reconditioning raisins as permitted under rules and procedures established by the committee, with the approval of the Secretary; (2) blending standard raisins with standard raisins; or (3) blending raisins which meet the minimum grade standards for packed raisins with other raisins which meet such standards.

§ 989.59 Regulation of the handling of raisins subsequent to their acquisition by handlers.

(a) Regulation. Unless otherwise provided in this part, no handler shall:

(1) Ship or otherwise make final disposition of natural condition raisins unless they at least meet the effective applicable minimum grade and condition standards for natural condition raisins; or (2) ship or otherwise make final disposition of packed raisins unless they at least meet the following minimum grade standards or such standards as changed or prescribed pursuant to the provisions of paragraph (b) of this section: (i) With respect to natural (sun-dried) Thompson Seedless, natural (sun-dried) Muscat, natural (sun-dried) or artificially dehydrated Sultana, Golden Seedless, Sulfur Bleached, Soda Dipped and Valencia raisins, "U.S. Grade C" as defined in effective United States Standards for Grades of Processed Raisins; (ii) with respect to Golden Seedless and Sulfur Bleached raisins, the color requirements for "bleached color" (or "choice color") as defined in the said standards; (iii) with respect to Layer Muscat raisins, "U.S. Grade B" as defined in the said standards; and (iv) with respect to Zante Currant raisins, "U.S. Grade B" as defined in the effective United States Standards for Grades of Dried Currants: Provided, That nothing contained in this paragraph shall prohibit the shipment or final disposition of any raisins of a particular varietal type for which minimum standards are not applicable or then in effect pursuant to this part.

(b) Changes in minimum grade standards for packed raisins. The committee may recommend to the Secretary changes in the minimum grade standards for packed raisins of any varietal type as prescribed in paragraph (a) of this section or as later changed and then in effect, and may recommend to the Secretary that minimum grade standards for any varietal type be prescribed or terminated, and shall submit with its recommendation all data and information upon which it acted in making its recommendation, and such other information as the Secretary may request. The Secretary shall issue any such change if he finds upon the basis of the recommendation and supporting data submitted to him by the committee, or from other pertinent information available to him, that to do so would tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(c) Publicity and notice. The committee shall give prompt and reasonable publicity to producers, dehydrators, and handlers of each recommendation submitted by it to the Secretary and of each regulation issued by the Secretary. Notice of each such regulation shall be given to all handlers by registered or certified mail.

(d) Inspection and certification. Unless otherwise provided in this section, each handler shall, at his own expense, before shipping or otherwise making final disposition of raisins, cause and inspection to be made of such raisins to determine whether they meet the then applicable minimum grade and condition standards for natural condition raisins or the then applicable minimum grade standards for packed raisins. Such handler shall obtain a certificate that such raisins meet the aforementioned applicable minimum standards and shall submit or cause to be submitted to the committee a copy of such certificate together with such other documents or records as the committee may require. The certificate shall be issued by the Processed Products Standardization and Inspection Branch of the United States Department of Agriculture, unless the committee determines, and the Secretary concurs in such determination, that inspection by another agency will improve the administration of this amended subpart. Any certificate issued pursuant to this paragraph shall be valid only for such period of time as the committee may specify, with the approval of the Secretary, in appropriate rules and regulations.

(e) Inter-plant and inter-handler transfers. Any handler may transfer from his plant to his own or another handler's plant within the State of California any free tonnage raisins without having had such raisins inspected as provided in paragraph (d) of this section. The transferring handler shall transmit promptly to the committee a report of such transfer, except that transfers between plants owned or operated by the same handler need not be reported. Before shipping or otherwise making final disposition of such raisins, the receiving handler shall comply with the requirements of this section.

(f) Off-grade raisins accumulated by handlers. Any off-grade raisins (including stemmer waste and raisin offal) which may be received by a processor or accumulated by a handler by removing them from his standard raisins, and any raisins acquired as standard raisins by a handler which do not meet the applicable grade and condition standards for shipment or final disposition as raisins, shall be disposed of or marketed, without further inspection, for distillation, animal feed, or uses other than for human consumption: Provided, That this shall not preclude a packer from recovering raisins from such accumulations or acquisitions. The committee shall establish, with the approval of the Secretary, such rules and procedures as may be necessary to insure such uses. The provisions of this paragraph are not intended to excuse any failure to comply with all applicable food and sanitary rules and regulations of city, county, state, federal or other agencies having jurisdiction.

(g) Exemption of gift and specialty packs. The committee may establish, with the approval of the Secretary, rules and procedures providing for the exemption of gift and specialty packs of raisins from the grade, inspection, and certification requirements of this section.

Notwithstanding any other provisions of this amended subpart, the committee may establish, with the approval of the Secretary, such rules and procedures as may be necessary to permit the acquisition and disposition of any off-grade or surplus pool raisins, free from any or all regulations, for uses in distillation, animal feed, or any use other than for human consumption.

§ 989.61 Above-parity situations.

(a) Continuance of grading and inspection requirements. The provisions of this part relating to minimum grade and condition standards and inspection requirements, within the meaning of section 2(3) of the act, and any other provisions pertaining to the administration and enforcement thereof, shall continue in effect irrespective of whether the estimated season average price to producers for raisins is in excess of the parity level specified in section 2(1) of the act.

(b) Modification of minimum standards. Should there occur (1) technological changes or advances in production, processing or packing operations; or (2) changes in consumer or user preferences; or (3) conditions requiring more precise correlation of incoming and outgoing standards; or (4) changes in economic factors affecting the orderly marketing of the available supply of raisins making necessary in the public interest modifications in applicable standards of quality and maturity; then and in any such event the committee may recommend to the Secretary for any varietal type modification of the minimum grade and condition standards prescribed in or pursuant to this amended subpart for natural condition raisins and of minimum grade standards so prescribed for packed raisins. The committee shall submit with its recommendation all data and information upon which it acted in making the recommendation, and such other information as the Secretary may request. The Secretary shall issue such modification if he finds upon the basis of the recommendation and supporting data submitted to him by the committee, or from other pertinent information available to him, that to do so would tend to effectuate the purposes of sections 2(3) of the act.

TRADE PRACTICES

§ 989.62 Authorization for prohibition of trade practices.

Whenever the Secretary finds, upon recommendation of the committee or other information, that continuance of certain practices in trade channels would tend to interfere with the achieving of the objectives of this part, he may prohibit handlers from using such practices, for any crop year or portion thereof, in selling raisins in containers exceeding four pounds net weight. The prohibited practices may include:

(a) Any provision within or added to a sales contract, or action or agreement outside such contract, whereby the handler is obligated to reflect declines in market prices of raisins by charging the buyer a subsequent market price in lieu of the sales price specified in the contract.

(b) Any agreement in an undertaking to hold raisins in reserve for possible future delivery to a buyer, or action or agreement outside such undertaking, whereby the handler is obligated to not reflect increases in market prices by charging the buyer a price specified in the agreement.

Prior to any such practices being prohibited in any crop year, the committee shall recommend, for the approval of the Secretary, such rules and procedures and such record keeping requirements as are necessary to administer these prohibitions and obtain compliance therewith.

VOLUME REGULATION

§ 989.63 Recommendation for designation of percentages.

(a) If the committee concludes that the supply and demand conditions for raisins make it advisable to designate the percentages of standard raisins acquired by handlers in any crop year which shall be free tonnage, reserve tonnage, and surplus tonnage, respectively, it shall recommend such percentages to the Secretary. The committee may recommend such percentages separately, for each varietal type. The committee also shall submit, together with any recommendation with respect to percentages, the information on the basis of which such recommendation was made, and the recommendation of the board, and also shall specify for each varietal type of raisins the outlets which were considered in determining the free and surplus tonnages and the free and surplus percentages. In the event the committee subsequently deems it desirable to modify, suspend, or terminate any designation by the Secretary of such percentages, it shall submit to the Secretary its recommendation in that regard along with the information on the basis of which such modification, suspension or termination is recommended, and the recommendation of the board. The committee shall file with its recommendation to the Secretary, a verbatim record of that portion of its meeting or meetings, relating to the free, reserve and surplus percentages. The recommendations of the committee for the fixing of the initial free, reserve, and surplus percentages for any crop year shall be made not later than October 5 of such year, but this date may be extended by the committee not more than five days if warranted by a late crop.

(b) The committee may, for any crop year, recommend to the Secretary a formula for computing the free, reserve, and surplus percentages for any varietal type of raisins and such formula may continue to apply in the absence of a recommendation from the committee or other basis of modification.

(c) The committee shall give prompt and reasonable publicity to producers, dehydrators and handlers of each meeting to consider the recommendation of the percentages to be fixed pursuant to § 989.64 or of any recommendation to modify, suspend or terminate such percentages and each such meeting shall be open to them. The committee shall also give similar notice to producers, dehydrators and handlers, of all such recommendations submitted to the Secretary.

§ 989.64 Regulation by the Secretary.

(a) Whenever the Secretary finds from the recommendation and supporting information supplied by the committee, or from any other available information, that to designate, on the basis of a formula as may be recommended by the committee or otherwise, the percentages of standard raisins acquired by handlers during any crop year which shall be free tonnage, reserve tonnage, and surplus tonnage, respectively, would tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act, he shall so designate the percentages of standard raisins acquired by handlers during such crop year which shall be free tonnage, reserve tonnage, and surplus tonnage, respectively. In the event the Secretary subsequently finds from the recommendations and supporting information supplied by the committee, or from any other available information, that modification, suspension, or termination of any such designation will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act, he shall so modify, suspend, or terminate such designation. No such modification shall decrease the free percentage initially designated by the Secretary.

(b) The Secretary may designate separately for each varietal type of standard raisins acquired by handlers in any crop year, the percentages which shall be considered as free tonnage, reserve tonnage, and surplus tonnage, respectively.

(c) The Secretary shall notify the committee promptly of each such percentage so fixed. The committee shall give prompt and reasonable publicity thereof to producers and shall notify handlers and dehydrators of such percentages by registered or certified mail.

§ 989.65 Free tonnage.

The standard raisins acquired by a handler which are free tonnage may be disposed of by him in any marketing channel, subject to the applicable provisions of this amended subpart. A handler's free tonnage of a varietal type shall be either the designated free tonnage percentage of the standard raisins of that varietal type acquired by him, or all of the standard raisins of a varietal type acquired by him if no free tonnage percentage is designated by the Secretary for that varietal type.

§ 989.66 Reserve and surplus tonnage generally.

(a) The standard raisins acquired by a handler which are designated as reserve tonnage and those which are designated as surplus tonnage shall be held by him for the account of the committee and subject to the applicable restrictions of this part.

(b) (1) Each handler shall hold in storage all reserve and surplus tonnage acquired by him until he has been relieved of such responsibility by the committee, either by delivery to the committee, or otherwise. Such handler shall store such reserve and surplus tonnage raisins in natural condition without addition of moisture and in such a manner as will maintain the raisins in the same condition as when he acquired them, except for normal and natural deterioration and shrinkage, and except for loss through fire, acts of God, force majeure, or other conditions beyond the handler's control: Provided, That, in the case of Layer Muscat raisins, the committee may permit handlers to satisfy the applicable reserve and surplus tonnage obligations with residual Muscat raisins obtained by them in layering operations subject to such safeguards as it may prescribe.

(2) Reserve tonnage and surplus tonnage acquired or held by a handler may be stored together but shall be stored separate and apart from other raisins to such extent and identified in such manner as the committee shall specify in its rules and procedures with the approval of the Secretary.

(3) Each handler may, under the direction and supervision of the committee, substitute for any quantity of reserve tonnage or surplus tonnage raisins a like quantity of free tonnage raisins of like quality and varietal type and of the same or more recent year's production. Each such handler shall give the committee reasonable advance notice of his intention to substitute, the exact location of the raisins for which substitution is to be made, and arrange with the committee a mutually satisfactory time for the substitution.

(4) The committee may, after giving reasonable notice, require a handler to deliver to it, or to any one designated by it, at such handler's warehouse or at such other place as the raisins may be stored, part or all of the reserve tonnage or surplus tonnage raisins held by him. The committee may require that such delivery consist of natural condition raisins, or it may arrange for such delivery to consist of packed raisins.

(c) Each handler shall, at all times, hold in his possession or under his control reserve and surplus tonnage referable to his acquisitions of standard raisins, less any quantity of such reserve or surplus tonnage delivered by him pursuant to instructions of the committee and any quantity of such tonnage sold to him by the committee: Provided, That the committee shall defer, upon the written request of any handler and for good and sufficient cause, the meeting by such handler of such requirement for a specified period ending not later than November 15 of the particular crop year. As a condition to the granting of any such deferment, the committee shall require the handler to obtain and file with it a written undertaking that by the end of the deferment period he will have fully satisfied his obligation with respect to the holding or control by him of the reserve or surplus tonnages applicable to his acquisitions of raisins. Such undertaking shall be secured by a bond or bonds to be filed with and acceptable to the committee, with surety or sureties satisfactory to the committee, running in favor of the committee and the Secretary, and for an amount computed on the basis of the then current market value of the raisins in the quantity for which the deferment is granted. The cost of such bond shall be borne by the handler. Any sums collected through default of a handler on his bond shall, after reimbursement of the committee for any expenses incurred by it in effecting collection, be deposited with the funds obtained by it from the disposition of the reserve or surplus pools as applicable and disbursed to producers as set forth in paragraph (g) of this section. In addition to the foregoing, the committee may establish other reasonable and necessary terms and conditions upon which such deferments may be granted.

(d) Reserve tonnage and surplus tonnage raisins delivered by any handler to the committee, or to any person designated by it, whether in the form of natural condition raisins or packed raisins shall meet the applicable minimum grade and condition standards, except for normal and natural deterioration. The committee shall have the authority to require, in its discretion and at its expense, such reinspection and certification of reserve and surplus pool tonnage raisins as it may deem necessary.

(e) (1) In the event the committee offers to handlers reserve tonnage raisins for purchase as provided in § 989.67, or surplus tonnage raisins for contract packing or for sale in export as provided in § 989.68, each such handler shall be given the opportunity to purchase his share of each offer. Each share of an offer or reoffer under such an offer shall be determined in accordance with the appropriate provisions of subparagraphs (2), (3) or (4) of this paragraph, unless the committee determines and prescribes that any such share shall be in accordance with any modified procedure established pursuant to subparagraph (5) of this paragraph.

(2) Each handler's share of an offer of reserve tonnage raisins for purchase shall be determined as the same proportion that the reserve tonnage held by him is of the reserve tonnage held by all handlers: Provided, That any reserve tonnage for which a deferment has been granted to a handler pursuant to the provisions of paragraph (c) of this section shall be included in his holdings in determining his share. In the event that any handler fails to purchase any or all of his share of any such offer, the remaining portion of the offer shall be reoffered by the committee to all handlers who purchased all of their respective shares of such offer, in proportion to their respective volumes purchased in the current and all prior offers and reoffers. Any handler whose holdings of reserve tonnage raisins have been exhausted may participate in any reoffer in proportion to the volume purchased by him in the current and all prior offers and reoffers. If the committee determines an offer to be the last which will be made prior to July 1 of each crop year, each handler entitled to participate in any reoffer made in connection therewith, shall be eligible to purchase an equal share of the tonnage reoffered, and as many reoffers of unpurchased tonnage as the committee deems advisable may be made.

(3) Each packer's share of an offer of surplus tonnage raisins for contract packing shall be determined as the same proportion that the surplus tonnage raisins acquired by him is of the surplus tonnage raisins acquired by all packers. In the event that any packer fails to contract for packing any or all of his share of any offer, the remaining portion thereof shall be reoffered by the committee to all packers who contracted for packing all of their respective shares, in proportion to their respective acquisitions: Provided, That, if such amount which packers fail to contract for packing does not exceed 250 tons, or if it is necessary to deviate from the foregoing in order to meet terms and conditions of shipment, the committee may, in its discretion, allocate such surplus tonnage raisins among packers as it deems appropriate, but the shares of packers in subsequent offers or reoffers shall be adjusted accordingly.

(4) (i) Except as provided in subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph for new handlers, each handler's share of surplus tonnage raisins offered for sale in export prior to November 1 of any crop year shall be determined as the same proportion of the quantity offered that the free tonnage raisins acquired by him during the preceding crop year is of the free tonnage raisins acquired by all handlers during the preceding crop year who remain handlers. Subsequent to October 31, each handler's share shall be determined as the same proportion of the quantity offered that the free tonnage raisins acquired by the handler during the then current crop year is of the total free tonnage raisins acquired by all handlers during the then current crop year. With respect to any offer other than the initial offer, each handler's share of the total quantity offered as of that date (the then current offer plus all prior offers of that crop year) shall first be determined by the appropriate formula. His share of the current offer shall then be determined by subtracting from his share of the total quantity offered, the total of his share of prior offers from the beginning of the crop year.

(ii) If any handler did not acquire raisins during the preceding crop year, the basis for his share of any quantity of surplus tonnage raisins offered prior to November 1 shall be his acquisitions of free tonnage raisins during the then current crop year. The current free tonnage acquisitions of all such new handlers shall, for the purposes of determining the shares of all handlers prior to November 1, be added to the total acquisitions of free tonnage raisins during the preceding crop year of all handlers in business at the time the offer is made.

(iii) If prior to November 1 of any crop year, a handler's share of any offer exceeds the quantity of surplus tonnage raisins held by him for the account of the committee (the shortage being for reasons other than deferment of his set aside obligations pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section), and upon the committee concluding that the handler's acquisitions of surplus as of October 31 will exceed the total of his shares or upon said handler furnishing the committee such written undertaking secured by a bond as the committee may require, the committee may permit the handler to borrow, for a period ending not later than October 31, raisins from any reserve tonnage held by him for the account of the committee. Any handler who has not repaid all prior loans from the reserve pool by October 31, may not participate in any subsequent offers of surplus tonnage until the loan is repaid.

(iv) At any time during a crop year when there is an accumulation of unsold surplus tonnage raisins previously offered by the committee for sale to handlers for resale in export, the committee may make a special offer to sell such unsold tonnage, or any portion thereof, to handlers for such resale. Each handler's share of any such offer shall be determined as the same proportion of the quantity offered that the free tonnage raisins acquired by him during the then current crop year is of the total free tonnage raisins acquired by all handlers during such year. The committee may provide with respect to such a special offer that any surplus tonnage unpurchased at the end of the share reservation period will be reoffered to handlers without regard to shares and that approvals for handlers' applications for purchase may be made in the same order in which the applications are received by the committee. The committee may allocate and deliver to any handler, holding insufficient special offer tonnage, sufficient such tonnage to fulfill his purchase in such a special offer and his purchase in any reoffer. The cost of transporting any such surplus tonnage raisins from one handler to another shall be paid by the committee from surplus pool funds.

(v) Whenever essentially all of the surplus tonnage raisins acquired as surplus, or the reserve tonnage which becomes surplus on August 1, have been offered on a share basis, and any unpurchased or unoffered tonnage of surplus is offered to handlers, approval of applications may be made in the same order in which the applications are filed with the committee.

(vi) Whenever a handler's share or allocation pursuant to this subparagraph is less than or exceeds his holdings of surplus by a minor quantity, the committee may adjust the handler's share or allocation so as to avoid the cost of the physical transfer. The maximum quantity by which a handler's share or allocation may be so adjusted shall be prescribed in rules and procedures with respect to the allocation of surplus tonnage raisins to handlers which the committee shall establish with the approval of the Secretary.

(5) In the event the committee determines that the applicable procedures, as specified in subparagraphs (2), (3), or (4) of this paragraph, will not provide an allocation for handlers which is suitable for a particular situation, the committee, with the prior approval of the Secretary, may establish such modifications of such applicable procedures, consistent with the provisions of subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, as will facilitate the disposition of reserve and surplus tonnages through handlers.

(f) Handlers shall be compensated for receiving, storing, handling, and inspection of reserve and surplus tonnage raisins held by them for the account of the committee, in accordance with a schedule of payments established by the committee and approved by the Secretary. A box rental shall be paid by the committee to producers or handlers for boxes used in storing reserve or surplus tonnage raisins beyond the crop year of acquisition in accordance with a rental schedule established by the committee and approved by the Secretary. Any handler may request the committee at any time, by registered or certified mail, to remove all surplus tonnage raisins held for the account of the committee and remaining in his possession from any previous crop year, and at any time after August 1, of any crop year may request removal of all surplus tonnage raisins remaining in his possession from the current crop year, and may request that the committee provide the necessary containers for such removal. In this event, the committee shall make the removal within 30 days after the receipt of the request, supplying the necessary containers if so requested. If any handler makes such a request, the committee shall immediately give notice thereof to the Secretary.

(g) The committee shall have the authority, in its discretion, to obtain loans, nonrecourse or otherwise, on any part or all of the reserve tonnage or surplus tonnage, or both, and to pledge or hypothecate the raisins on which such loans are obtained as security therefor: Provided, That, in every such case, there shall be included in the loan agreement a provision to the effect that, in case the lender obtains possession or control of such raisins, he will dispose of them in such a manner as will not tend to defeat the objectives of this amended subpart. The net proceeds of any such loan shall be distributed by the committee to the respective producers, or their successors in interest, on the basis of the volume of their respective contributions to the pooled raisins of each varietal type on which the loan is obtained. The net proceeds from the disposition of reserve and surplus tonnages of raisins of each varietal type shall be distributed by the committee to the respective producers, or their successors in interest thereto, on the basis of the volume of their respective contributions to the reserve and surplus tonnages of such varietal type. Distribution of the proceeds in connection with the reserve and surplus tonnages contributed by a nonprofit cooperative marketing association which has authority to market the raisins of its members and to allocate the proceeds therefrom to such members shall be made to such association. Advance or progress payments may be made by the committee, in conformity with the provisions of this paragraph, as sufficient funds become available.

(h) The committee may establish, from time to time, with the approval of the Secretary, additional procedures, not inconsistent with the provisions of this amended subpart, which are deemed necessary to effectuate the provisions of this section, and §§ 989.67, 989.68, 989.69 and 989.70.

§ 989.67 Special provisions relating to reserve tonnage.

(a) The committee may sell reserve tonnage of any varietal type to handlers so as to provide them with the quantity which is needed to meet the free tonnage commercial trade requirements for that varietal type in the event that such requirements cannot be filled by the total free tonnage of that varietal type: Provided, That no such sale of natural (sun-dried) Thompson Seedless raisins shall be made prior to December 1 of the particular crop year. Any such quantities made available for such sale to handlers shall be offered to them pro rata as required by the provisions of § 989.66(e).

(b) Reserve tonnage of any varietal type shall not be sold at a price below that which the committee concludes reflects the average price received by producers for free tonnage of the same varietal type purchased by handlers during the current crop year up to the time of any offer for sale of reserve tonnage by the committee, to which shall be added the costs incurred by the committee on account of the receiving, inspecting, storing, insuring, and holding of said raisins: Provided, That where the outlook for the next crop year or other factors have caused a downward trend in the prices received by producers for free tonnage raisins or in the prices received by handlers for free tonnage packed raisins, reserve tonnage may be sold to handlers at the currently prevailing or the approximate computed field price for free tonnage raisins, as determined by the committee. No offer to sell reserve tonnage raisins to handlers shall be made by the committee until five days (exclusive of Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays) have elapsed from the time it files with the Secretary complete information as to varietal type, quantity, and price involved in such offer, and the Secretary may disapprove the offer or any term thereof: Provided, That at any time prior to the expiration of the five-day period, the offer may be made to handlers upon the committee receiving from the Secretary notice that he does not disapprove the making of the offer.

(c) Reserve tonnage held unsold by the committee on August 1, shall on August 1, and any reserve tonnage acquired between August 1 and the end of the crop year shall, at the time of acquisition, become surplus tonnage for all purposes and subject to the provisions of this amended part relating to surplus tonnage. If the committee finds within a crop year that the current holdings of surplus tonnage are insufficient to meet the current demand therefor and that it would be inappropriate to change the volume percentages, it may temporarily borrow, with the prior approval of the Secretary, sufficient reserve tonnage for disposition in the surplus outlets with provision for subsequent replacement from the surplus tonnage.

(d) If the committee finds that because of national emergency, crop failure or other major change in economic conditions, a shortage of raisins has developed or is likely to develop, it may waive for any crop year, with the prior approval of the Secretary, the time limitations of paragraph (c) of this section.

§ 989.68 Disposal of surplus raisins.

(a) The committee shall dispose of all surplus tonnage raisins in such a manner as to achieve, as nearly as may be practicable, complete disposal of such raisins by or before November 1 of the subsequent crop year. Any surplus tonnage raisins held unsold by the committee on November 1 of the subsequent crop year shall be physically disposed of promptly in any available outlet not competitive with normal market channels for free tonnage raisins or sales of surplus tonnage raisins in export: Provided, That whenever the Secretary approves a finding by the committee, or finds on the basis of information otherwise available to him, that, because of national emergency, crop failure, or other major change in economic conditions, retention of surplus tonnage raisins carried over is warranted, the foregoing requirement as to disposal shall not apply, and the committee may then sell any of such surplus tonnage raisins as though they were reserve tonnage raisins.

(b) Surplus tonnage raisins shall be disposed of by the committee: (1) By sale to handlers for sale in specified surplus outlets or for resale to exporters for sale in such outlets; (2) by direct sale to any agency of the United States Government for non-competitive use; (3) by direct sale to foreign government agencies or foreign importers in any country not listed pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section or where the procurement of raisins is so regulated as to preclude purchases from domestic handlers; (4) by gift; and (5) by any other means consistent with the provisions of this section, and in outlets non-competitive with those for free tonnage raisins.

(c) The committee shall sell surplus raisins to handlers for export sale to listed countries. The Secretary shall establish, on the basis of the recommendation of the committee or from other available information, a list specifying the countries to which sale in export of surplus tonnage raisins may be made by or through handlers. The recommended list shall be submitted by the committee to the Secretary at the time it submits its recommendation as to volume percentages, and in recommending such list the committee shall give consideration to the pertinent factors enumerated in § 989.54. The list shall not be changed except upon approval by the Secretary of a recommendation by the committee subsequent to its review of such pertinent factors. No country may be removed from the list unless a finding is made by the committee that such removal and subsequent direct sale by the committee will not lead to disruption of sales of surplus tonnage raisins by handlers in other countries on the list and a further finding that, although handlers have been able to offer surplus tonnage raisins at competitive prices to the country to be removed, there remains an unfulfilled demand in such country which has not been supplied by handlers and which could be supplied by the committee at the same prices by means of direct sale. No country may be added to the list unless a finding is made by the committee that such addition represents a practical means of making sales of surplus raisins to such country.

(d) Surplus tonnage raisins shall be sold to handlers at prices and in a manner intended to maximize producer returns and achieve complete disposition of such raisins by or before November 1 of the subsequent crop year. No offer to sell surplus tonnage raisins to handlers shall be made by the committee until five days (exclusive of Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays) have elapsed from the time it files with the Secretary complete information as to varietal type, quantity, and price involved in such offer, and the Secretary may disapprove the offer or any term thereof: Provided, That at any time prior to the expiration of the five-day period the offer may be made to handlers upon the committee receiving from the Secretary notice that he does not disapprove the making of the offer. Subject to the same conditions as are set forth in the preceding sentence with respect to the making of such offers, the committee may withdraw an offer to sell surplus tonnage raisins to handlers for export, or may extend the offer period but not when such extension would deprive one or more handlers of any opportunity to purchase raisins.

(e) The committee may sell surplus tonnage raisins as provided in paragraph (b)(3) of this section only when such country is not included in the list of specified countries established pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section and may sell surplus tonnage raisins to foreign government agencies or foreign importers in any country removed from such list. No agreement to sell surplus tonnage raisins shall be entered into by the committee until five days (exclusive of Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays) have elapsed from the time it files with the Secretary complete information as to varietal type, quantity, price, and foreign country involved in any such proposed sale, and the Secretary may disapprove such sale or any term thereof: Provided, That at any time prior to the expiration of the five-day period, the sale may be made upon the committee receiving from the Secretary notice that he does not disapprove the making of the sale.

(f) Whenever the committee determines, prior to the beginning of a crop year, that the orderly disposition of surplus tonnage of that crop year would be promoted by the committee replacing any portion of or all handler shipments of raisins (other than surplus tonnage from the preceding crop year) made for export outside the free tonnage outlets prior to the committee's first offer to sell such surplus tonnage but after September 1, with surplus tonnage from the first such offer or surplus tonnage in addition to such offer, it may do so and may specify such requirements and conditions as are necessary to carry out the replacement consistent with the objectives of this amended subpart. The committee may establish a price for such replacement tonnage which is higher, the same as, or lower than that for surplus tonnage in the first offer of the crop year and shall announce such replacement tonnage price prior to or at the beginning of the crop year. Any such replacement offer by the committee shall be governed by those provisions of paragraph (d) of this section which prescribe prior action by the Secretary on committee offers to sell tonnage to handlers.

(g) The committee may refuse to sell surplus tonnage raisins for export: (1) To any handler who is in default on any previous purchase of surplus tonnage raisins from the committee; (2) to any handler currently not in compliance with the provisions of a sales agreement covering surplus tonnage raisins, executed by such handler with the committee; or (3) to any handler who signifies an intention to sell surplus tonnage to or through any person who has previously failed to complete a sale of surplus tonnage raisins to a foreign buyer and such raisins remain to be exported and remain unsold to any foreign buyer in eligible export markets.

(h) The committee shall prescribe, with the approval of the Secretary, such rules and procedures as are necessary for carrying out the provisions of this section.

§ 989.69 Substitution for Layer Muscats.

A handler may substitute an equal quantity of natural (sun-dried) Muscat or Valencia raisins for any portion or all of the reserve and surplus tonnage referable to his acquisitions of Layer Muscat raisins: Provided, That he shall have made arrangements satisfactory to each producer of the Layer Muscat raisins for such substitution. The handler shall report promptly to the committee any such substitution.

§ 989.70 Storage of raisins held on memorandum receipt and of packer-owned tonnage.

All raisins stored by a handler for another person on memorandum or warehouse receipt, or raisins produced and stored by a handler, shall be stored separate and apart from other raisins and shall be clearly marked or tagged as raisins stored on memorandum or warehouse receipt or as raisins produced by the handler but not acquired by him in his capacity as a handler.

In the event that the Secretary should find, during a crop year when reserve or surplus tonnage percentages have been designated and are in effect pursuant to this part, that the estimated season average price for raisins for that crop year will be in excess of the price level contemplated by the provisions of section 2(1) of the act, he shall issue an order providing for the orderly disposition of the unsold reserve and surplus tonnage, then on hand, in such outlets, at such times, and in accordance with such terms and conditions, as he may determine to be appropriate in the circumstances. In determining the liquidation procedures and terms, the Secretary shall give consideration to the data and recommendations, if any, which may be submitted by the committee.

§ 989.72 Exemption of educational institutions.

The committee may exempt, wholly or in part, from the volume regulation provisions of this part, that volume of raisins received or acquired by public or private educational agencies or institutions incidental to or in connection with teaching, experimental, or research activities.

REPORTS AND RECORDS

(a) Inventory reports. Each handler shall, upon request of the committee, file promptly with the committee a certified report, showing such information as the committee shall specify with respect to any raisins which were held by him on a date designated by the committee, which information as specified may include, but not be limited to: (1) The quantity of any raisins so held, segregated as to varietal type, natural condition, packed, standard quality or off-grade quality; and (2) the locations of the raisins.

(b) Acquisition reports. Each handler shall submit to the committee in accordance with such rules and procedures as are prescribed by the committee, with the approval of the Secretary, certified reports, for such periods as the committee may require, with respect to his acquisitions of each varietal type of raisins during the particular period covered by such report, which report shall include, but not be limited to: (1) The total quantity of standard raisins acquired; (2) the quantity of reserve tonnage and the quantity of surplus tonnage referable to his acquisitions of standard raisins; (3) the locations of such reserve and surplus tonnages; (4) the total quantity of off-grade raisins acquired pursuant to § 989.58(e)(1)(i); and (5) cumulative totals of such acquisitions from the beginning of the then current crop year to and including the end of the period for which the report is made. Upon written application made to the committee, a handler may be relieved of submitting such reports after completing his packing operations for the season. Upon request of the committee, each handler shall furnish to the committee, in such manner and at such times as it may require, the name and address of each person from whom he acquired raisins and the quantity of each varietal type of raisins acquired from each such person.

(c) Other reports. Upon the request of the committee, with the approval of the Secretary, each handler shall furnish to the committee such other information as may be necessary to enable it to exercise its powers and perform its duties under this amended part.

All reports and records furnished or submitted by a handler to the committee shall be received by, and at all times kept under the custody or control of, one or more employees of the committee, who shall disclose to no person, except the Secretary upon request therefor, data or information obtained or extracted therefrom which would constitute a trade secret or the disclosure of which might affect the trade position, financial condition, or business operations of the particular handler from whom received: Provided, That the committee may require such an employee to disclose to it, or to any person designated by it or by the Secretary, information and data of a general nature, compilations of data affecting handlers as a group, and any data affecting one or more handlers, so long as the identity of the individual handlers involved is not disclosed.

§ 989.76 Records.

Each handler shall maintain such records of all raisins received, and of all raisins acquired, by him as prescribed by the committee. Such records shall include, but not be limited to, the quantity of raisins of each varietal type acquired from each person and the name and address of each such person, total acquisitions, total sales, and total other disposition of each varietal type which he handles, and each handler shall maintain such records for at least two years after the termination of the crop year in which the transactions occurred.

§ 989.77 Verification of reports and records.

For the purpose of checking and verifying reports filed by handlers and records prescribed in or pursuant to this amended subpart, the committee, through its duly authorized representatives, shall have access to any handler's premises during regular business hours and shall be permitted at any such times to inspect such premises and any raisins held by such handler, and any and all records of the handler with respect to the holding or disposition of raisins by him. Each handler shall furnish all labor and equipment necessary to make such inspections. Each handler shall store raisins in a manner which will facilitate inspection, and shall maintain storage records which will permit accurate identification of raisins held by him or theretofore disposed of. Insofar as is practicable and consistent with the carrying out of the provisions of this amended subpart, all data and information obtained or received through checking and verification of reports and records shall be treated as confidential information.

EXPENSES AND ASSESSMENTS

§ 989.79 Expenses.

The committee is authorized to incur such expenses (other than those specified in § 989.82) as the Secretary finds are reasonable and likely to be incurred by it during each crop year, for the maintenance and functioning of the committee and the board. The funds to cover such expenses shall be obtained by levying assessments as provided in § 989.80. The committee shall file with the Secretary for each crop year a proposed budget of these expenses and a proposal as to the assessment rate to be fixed pursuant to § 989.80, together with a report thereon. Such filing shall be not later than October 5 of the crop year, but this date may be extended by the committee not more than five days if warranted by a late crop. Also, it shall file at the same time a proposed budget of the expenses likely to be incurred during the crop year in connection with reserve or surplus raisins held for the account of the committee, exclusive of the receiving, storing, and handling expenses which are covered by a schedule of payments to handlers effective pursuant to § 989.66(f) or any rules and procedures established by the committee, and exclusive of any expenses it may incur in connection with the disposition of such raisins and which are unknown at the time. The said report shall also cover this proposed budget.

Each handler shall, with respect to all free tonnage acquired by him, and all reserve tonnage sold to him pursuant to § 989.67, pay to the committee, upon demand, his pro rata share of the expenses (exclusive of expenses for receiving, handling, holding, or disposing of any quantity of reserve and surplus tonnage) which the Secretary finds will be incurred, as aforesaid, by the committee during each crop year. Such handler's pro rata share of such expenses shall be equal to the ratio between the total free tonnage acquired by such handler, plus all reserve tonnage sold to him for use as free tonnage during the applicable crop year and the total free tonnage acquired by all handlers, plus all reserve tonnage sold to all handlers for use as free tonnage during the same crop year. During any crop year or any portion of a crop year for which volume percentages are not effective for a varietal type, all standard raisins of that varietal type acquired by handlers during such period shall be free tonnage for purposes of levying assessments pursuant to this section. The Secretary shall fix the rate of assessment to be paid by such handler on the basis of a specified rate per ton. At any time during or after a crop year, the Secretary may increase the rate of assessment to apply to all free tonnage acquired, plus all reserve tonnage sold to handlers as free tonnage, during such crop year to obtain sufficient funds to cover any later finding by the Secretary relative to the expenses of the committee. Each handler shall pay such additional assessment to the committee upon demand. In order to provide funds to carry out the functions of the committee and the board, the committee may accept advance payments from any handler to be credited toward such assessments as may be levied pursuant to this section against the respective handler during the crop year. The payment of assessments for the maintenance and functioning of the committee may be required under this part throughout the period it is in effect, irrespective of whether particular provisions thereof are suspended or become inoperative.

§ 989.81 Accounting.

(a) If, at the end of the crop year, the assessments collected for such crop year exceed the expenses incurred with respect to such crop year, each handler's share of such excess shall be credited to him against, and may be used for, the operations of the following crop year, unless such handler demands payment thereof, in which case his share shall be paid to him.

(b) The committee may, with the approval of the Secretary, maintain in its own name or in the name of its members, a suit against any handler for the collection of such handler's pro rata share of the expenses.

§ 989.82 Expenses of reserve and surplus raisin operations.

The committee is authorized to incur such expenses as are reasonable and are necessary in discharging its obligations, pursuant to this part with respect to the receiving, handling, holding, or disposing of any quantity of reserve or surplus raisins held for the account of the committee. The committee is authorized to pay any taxes assessed against raisins held by or for the account of the committee on the first Monday in March, in the reserve or surplus pools established pursuant to this subpart: Provided, That any equity holder may pay his own taxes upon giving notice to the committee on or before May 1 of each year of his intention to do so. All pool expenses shall be deducted from the proceeds obtained by the committee from the sale or other disposal of such reserve or surplus raisins held for the account of the committee.

All funds received by the committee pursuant to the provisions of this part, shall be used solely for the purposes authorized, and shall be accounted for in the manner provided, in this part. The Secretary may, at any time, require the committee and its members and alternate members to account for all receipts and disbursements.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

§ 989.84 Disposition limitation.

No handler shall dispose of any free, reserve, surplus tonnage raisins, or offgrade raisins except in accordance with the provisions of this subpart or pursuant to regulations and instructions issued by the committee.

§ 989.85 Personal liability.

No member or alternate member of the committee or any employee or agent thereof shall be held personally responsible, either individually or jointly with others, in any way whatsoever, to any handler or any person, for errors in judgment, mistakes, or other acts either of commission or omission, as such member, alternate member, employee, or agent, except for acts of dishonesty.

If any provision of this amended subpart is declared invalid, or the applicability thereof to any person, circumstance, or thing is held invalid, the validity of the remainder of this amended subpart or the applicability thereof to any other person, circumstance, or thing shall not be affected thereby.

§ 989.87 Derogation.

Nothing contained in this amended subpart is, or shall be construed to be, in derogation or in modification of the rights of the Secretary or of the United States to exercise any powers granted by the act or otherwise, or, in accordance with such powers, to act in the premises whenever such action is deemed advisable.

§ 989.88 Duration of immunities.

The benefits, privileges, and immunities conferred upon any person by virtue of this amended subpart shall cease upon the termination of this amended subpart, except with respect to acts done under and during the existence of this subpart.

§ 989.89 Agents.

The Secretary may, by a designation in writing, name any person, including any officer or employee of the United States Government, or name any bureau or division in the United States Department of Agriculture, to act as his agent or representative in connection with any of the provisions of this amended subpart.

§ 989.90 Effective time.

The provisions of this amended subpart, as well as any amendments to this amended subpart shall become effective at such time as the Secretary may declare, and shall continue in force until terminated, or during suspension, in one of the ways specified in § 989.91.

§ 989.91 Suspension or termination.

(a) The Secretary may, at any time, terminate the provisions of this amended subpart by giving at least one day's notice by means of a press release or in any other manner which he may determine.

(b) The Secretary shall terminate or suspend the operation of any or all of the provisions of this amended subpart, whenever he finds that such provisions do not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(c) The Secretary shall terminate the provisions of this amended subpart at the end of any crop year whenever he finds that such termination is favored by a majority of the producers who, during a representative period determined by the Secretary, have been engaged in the production for market of grapes used in the production of raisins in the State of California: Provided, That such majority have, during such representative period, produced for market more than 50 percent of the volume of such grapes produced for market within said State; but such termination shall be effective only if announced before August 31 of the then current crop year.

(d) The provisions of this amended subpart shall, in any event, terminate whenever the provisions of the act authorizing them cease to be in effect.

§ 989.92 Proceedings after termination.

(a) Upon the termination of the provisions of this amended subpart, the members of the committee then functioning shall continue as joint trustees for the purpose of liquidating the affairs of the committee, of all funds and property then in the possession or under the control of the committee, including claims for any funds unpaid or property not delivered at the time of such termination. Action by said trusteeship shall require the concurrence of a majority of the said trustees.

(b) Said trustees shall continue in such capacity until discharged by the Secretary; shall, from time to time, account for all receipts and disbursements and deliver all property on hand, together with all books and records of the committee and the joint trustees, to such person as the Secretary may direct; and shall, upon the request of the Secretary, execute such assignments or other instruments necessary or appropriate to vest in such person full title and right to all of the funds, property, and claims vested in the committee or the joint trustees pursuant to this subpart.

(c) Any person to whom funds, property or claims have been transferred or delivered by the committee or its members, pursuant to this section, shall be subject to the same obligations imposed upon the members of the said committee and upon said joint trustees.

§ 989.93 Effect of termination or amendment.

Unless otherwise expressly provided by the Secretary, the termination of this amended subpart or any regulation issued pursuant to this amended subpart, or the issuance of any amendment to either thereof, shall not (a) affect or waive any right, duty, obligation, or liability which shall have arisen or which may thereafter arise in connection with any provision of this amended subpart or any regulation issued under this amended subpart, (b) release or extinguish any violation of this amended subpart, or of any regulation issued under this amended subpart, or (c) affect or impair any rights or remedies of the Secretary or of any other person, with respect to any such violation.

Amendments to this amended subpart may be proposed from time to time, by any person or by the committee.

§ 989.95 Right of Secretary.

The members of the board and committee (including alternates and successors), and any agent or employee appointed or employed by the committee, shall be subject to removal or suspension by the Secretary, in his discretion, at any time. Every decision, determination, or other act of the committee shall be subject to the continuing right of the Secretary to disapprove of the same at any time. Upon such disapproval, the disapproved action of the said committee shall be deemed null and void.

Raisins meeting the varietal standards set forth hereinafter shall be considered as standard raisins and those failing to meet such standards shall be considered as off-grade raisins. Where the raisins in any lot consist of two or more varietal types commingled within their containers, the lot shall be considered as standard raisins if each varietal type in the lot meets the applicable minimum standards for that varietal type: Provided, That, in the event Layer Muscat raisins are commingled within their containers, with Natural (Sun-dried) Muscat raisins, the entire lot shall be considered as Natural (sun-dried) Muscat raisins, and as standard raisins if the lot as a whole meets the minimum standards for Natural (sun-dried) Muscat raisins: Provided further, That, should the requirements with respect to the maximum moisture content differ as between any two or more varietal types which are commingled, the lower (lowest) maximum moisture content requirement shall apply for each varietal type. In each category, only those raisins which have been properly dried and cured in original natural condition, are free from active infestation, and are in such condition that they are capable of being received, stored, and packed without undue deterioration or spoilage, shall be considered as storable raisins.

A. Thompson Seedless raisins.

Natural condition Thompson Seedless raisins shall have been prepared from sound, wholesome, matured grapes properly dried and cured and shall meet the following additional requirements:

1. Shall be fairly free from damage by sugaring, mechanical injury, sunburn or other similar injury.

2. Shall be fairly free from immature (skinny) raisins and shall have a normal characteristic color, flavor, and odor of properly prepared raisins.

3. The moisture content shall not exceed 16 percent (except Golden Seedless, Sulfur Bleached, and Soda Dipped shall not exceed 14 percent), as determined by Dried Fruit Moisture Tester Method and the raisins shall be of such quality and condition as can be expected to withstand storage as provided in the marketing agreement and order and that when processed in accordance with good commercial practice will meet "U.S. Grade C" or better grade as defined in the effective United States Standards for Grades of Processed Raisins.

4. Golden Seedless and Sulfur Bleached raisins shall possess a characteristic bleached color (or choice color). "Choice color" (or "bleached color") means that the raisins may be variable in color and may range from yellowish green to dark amber or dark greenish amber; that not more than 15 percent, by weight, of all the raisins may be definitely dark berries.

5. Soda Dipped raisins shall possess a good typical color characteristic of such raisins.

B. Muscat raisins.

Natural condition Muscat raisins shall have been prepared from sound, wholesome, matured grapes properly dried and cured and shall meet the following additional requirements:

1. Shall be fairly free from damage by sugaring, mechanical injury, sunburn or other similar injury.

2. Shall be fairly free from immature (skinny) raisins and shall have a normal characteristic color, flavor and odor of properly prepared raisins.

3. The moisture content shall not exceed 16 percent (except Layer Muscats shall not exceed 16 percent) as determined by Dried Fruit Moisture Tester Method and the raisins (except Layer Muscats) shall be of such quality and condition as can be expected to withstand storage as provided in the marketing agreement and order and that when processed in accordance with good commercial practice will meet "U.S. Grade C" or better grade as defined in the effective United States Standards for Grades of Processed Raisins; and that with respect to Layer Muscat raisins in addition to the above requirements the raisins shall be:

a. Fairly free from shattered (or loose end) berries.

b. Uniformly cured.

c. 30 percent or more "3 Crown size" or larger.

d. Of such quality and condition as can be expected to withstand storage as provided in the marketing agreement and order, and that when processed in accordance with good commercial practice will meet "U.S. Grade B" or better grade as defined in the effective United States Standards for Grades of Processed Raisins.

4. Muscat (Valencia), soda dipped raisins shall possess a good typical color with not more than 10 percent, by weight, that may be dark reddish-brown raisins.

C. Sultana raisins.

Natural condition Sultana raisins shall have been prepared from sound, wholesome, matured grapes properly dried and cured and shall meet the following additional requirements:

1. Shall be fairly free from damage by sugaring, mechanical injury, sunburn or other similar injury.

2. Shall be fairly free from immature (skinny) raisins and shall have a normal characteristic color, flavor, and odor of properly prepared raisins.

The moisture content shall not exceed 16 percent as determined by Dried Fruit Moisture Tester Method and the raisins shall be of such quality and condition as can be expected to withstand storage as provided in the marketing agreement and order and that when processed in accordance with good commercial practice will meet "U.S. Grade C" or better grade as defined in the effective United States Standards for Grades of Processed Raisins.

D. Zante Currants.

Natural condition Zante Currants shall have been prepared from sound, wholesome, matured grapes properly dried and cured and shall meet the following additional requirements:

1. Shall be fairly free from damage by sugaring, mechanical injury, sunburn or other similar injury.

2. Shall be fairly free from immature (skinny) raisins and shall have a normal characteristic color, flavor and odor of properly prepared raisins for the varietal type.

3. The moisture content shall not exceed 16 percent as determined by Dried Fruit Moisture Tester Method and the raisins shall be of such quality and condition as can be expected to withstand storage as provided in the marketing agreement and order and that when processed in accordance with good commercial practice will meet "U.S. Grade B" or better grade as defined in the effective United States Standards for Grades of Dried Currants.

PART 1032—CARROTS GROWN IN SOUTH TEXAS

Limitation of Shipments

Pursuant to Marketing Agreement No. 142 and Order No. 132 (7 CFR Part 1032; 25 F.R. 9523), regulating the handling of carrots grown in designated counties in South Texas, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601–674), and upon the basis of recommendations and information submitted by the South Texas Carrot Committee, established pursuant to said Marketing Agreement and Order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the following amendment to the limitation of shipments regulation will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

It is hereby found that it is impracticable, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice and engage in public rule making procedure, and that good cause exists for not postponing the effective date of this amendment for 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER (5 U.S.C. 1001–1011) in that (1) the time intervening between the date when information upon which this amendment is based became available, and the time when this amendment must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, is insufficient, (2) more orderly marketing in the public interest than would otherwise prevail will be promoted by regulating shipments of carrots in the manner set forth below on and after the effective date of this amendment, (3) compliance with this amendment will not require any special preparation on the part of handlers which cannot be completed by the effective date, (4) reasonable time is permitted under the circumstances for such preparation, (5) information regarding the committee's recommendations has been made available to producers and handlers in the production area, and (6) this amendment relieves restrictions on the handling of carrots grown in the production area.

Order, as amended. In § 1032.301 (25 F.R. 11207), delete the introductory paragraph and paragraphs (a), (d), (f), (g) and (i), and substitute in lieu thereof a new introductory paragraph and new paragraphs (a), (d), (f), (g), and (i) as set forth below.

§ 1032.301 Limitation of shipments.

During the period from December 10, 1960 to January 30, 1961, no person shall handle any lot of carrots grown in the production area unless such carrots meet the grade requirements of paragraph (a), one of the sizing requirements of paragraph (b), and the container and pack requirements of paragraph (c) and (d), or unless such carrots are handled in accordance with paragraphs (e), (f), and (g) of this section.

(a) Minimum grade requirements. U.S. No. 1, or better grade.

(d) Pack requirements for master containers. (1) Master containers of 1-pound or 2-pound packages shall contain the following number of packages only:

(i) 24 1-pound packages;
(ii) 48 1-pound packages; or
(iii) 24 2-pound packages.

(2) Master containers of 48 1-pound packages or 24 2-pound packages shall not exceed an average gross weight of 57-pounds in sacks or bags or 61-pounds in crates.

(3) Master containers of 24 1-pound packages shall not exceed an average gross weight of 28½ pounds in sacks or bags or 30½ pounds in crates.

(4) Master containers of 20-ounce packages shall not exceed 15 percent, and master containers of 3-pound and 5-pound packages shall not exceed 10 percent, respectively, of the net weight of contents plus tare allowance for weight of master container. The net weight of contents shall be determined by multiplying the average number of packages in the master containers by 20-ounces, 3-pounds or 5-pounds, respectively, as the case may be. Tare allowances for master containers shall be 4 pounds for crates Nos. 4015 and 3820, or their equivalent in other containers, and 2 pounds for a "half val" crate, or the equivalent in other containers.

* * * * *

(f) Special purpose shipments. The requirements set forth in paragraphs (a), (b), (c), and (d), of this section and the inspection and assessment requirements of this part shall not be applicable to carrots handled for the following purposes:

(1) canning or freezing;
(2) relief or charity;
(3) experimental purposes; and
(4) livestock feed within the production area.

(g) Safeguards. (1) Each handler of carrots which do not meet the requirements of paragraphs (a), (b), (c), and (d), and which are handled pursuant to paragraph (f) for relief or charity, experimental purposes, and canning or freezing, except for canning or freezing within Starr, Hidalgo, Cameron, or Willacy Counties, shall prior to handling, apply for and obtain a Certificate of Privilege from the committee which shall require the handler to furnish such reports and documents as the committee may require, showing that the carrots so handled were utilized for the purpose specified in the Certificate of Privilege.

(2) Each handler of carrots which do not meet the requirements of paragraphs (a), (b), (c), and (d) may handle such carrots for livestock feed without obtaining a certificate of privilege therefor if such handling (i) is confined to Starr, Hidalgo, Cameron, and Willacy Counties (the Lower Valley area), or (ii) is confined to a 25-mile radius of loading. All other handling of carrots for livestock feed shall be confined to disposal of the carrots to a livestock feeder registered as such with the committee and, prior to handling, a handler shall apply for and obtain a certificate of privilege from the committee which shall require the handler to furnish such reports and documents as the committee may require showing that the carrots so handled were utilized only for livestock feed purposes.

* * * * *

(i) Definitions. The term "U.S. No. 1" shall have the same meaning as set forth in the U.S. Standards for Topped Carrots (51.2360–51.2381 of this title) including the tolerances set forth therein. The term "loading point" means a commercial facility maintained and operated by a Registered Handler as defined in § 1032.8 of this part. All other terms used in this section shall have the same meaning as when used in this part (Marketing Order No. 132).

(Secs. 1–19, 48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 601–674)

Dated December 9, 1960, to become effective December 10, 1960.

Title 14—AERONAUTICS AND SPACE

Chapter III—Federal Aviation Agency

SUBCHAPTER C—AIRCRAFT REGULATIONS

[Reg. Docket No. 547; Amdt. 283]

PART 507—AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

Aero Design Model 500 Aircraft

A proposal to amend Part 507 of the regulations of the Administrator to include an airworthiness directive requiring inspection for cracks in engine mount angles of Aero Design Model 500 aircraft and incorporation of a reinforcement if cracks are founds was published in 25 F.R. 10433.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of the amendment. No objections were received.

In consideration of the foregoing, and pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (25 F.R. 6489), § 507.10(a) of Part 507 (14 CFR Part 507), is hereby amended by adding the following new airworthiness directive:

AERO DESIGN. Applies to all Model 500 aircraft.

Compliance required within the next 100 hours' time in service after the effective date of this directive and at each 100 hours' time in service thereafter.

In order to preclude propagation of fatigue cracks in engine mount angles P/N 5620023–9 and –10, the following inspection must be accomplished.

Visually inspect the inside of angles P/N 5620023–9 and –10 in the area of the lower row of Huck bolts attaching the angles and the lower mount fitting P/N 3620025–1 and –2. If cracks are found, prior to further flight incorporate the reinforcement as indicated in Aero Design Service Bulletin No. 68, dated September 14, 1960, or equivalent.

Angles incorporating Federal Aviation Agency approved reinforcement need not be reinspected in accordance with the provisions of this AD.

This amendment shall become effective January 13, 1961.

PART 507—AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

Lockheed 188 Aircraft

Numerous failures of the retaining clamp and cracks in the flange area of the swirl straightener assembly on Lockheed 188 aircraft have resulted from dynamic loads imposed on the aft section of the engine due to the deflection of exhaust gases. In at least two cases, overheating from the exhaust gases caused extensive damage to the nacelle. In view of the potential fire hazard, it is necessary to require corrective modifications to the swirl straightener assembly.

In the interest of safety notice and public procedure hereon are impracticable and good cause exists for making this amendment effective upon date of publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

In consideration of the foregoing, and pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (25 F.R. 6489), § 507.10(a) of Part 507 (14 CFR Part 507), is hereby amended by adding the following new airworthiness directive:

LOCKHEED. Applies to all 188 aircraft. Compliance required as indicated.

Failure of the clamp or flange of the swirl straightener assembly resulted in at least two cases of overheating the nacelle area causing extensive damage to the nacelle. In addition, there have been a number of failures of the retaining clamp and cracks in the flange area of this assembly caused by dynamic loads imposed by the sugar scoop deflection of exhaust gases.

The following modifications shall be accomplished to correct the above conditions at the first engine change after December 14, 1960.

(a) Remove the present sugar scoop and the lower bellmouth. Install a new lower bellmouth of extended length to mate properly with the engine after removal of the sugar scoop. When this rework has been accomplished, it will be necessary to relocate the fire sensing elements on the structural shroud.

(b) Tack-weld the vanes to the clips located on the perimeter of the straightener assembly.

(c) Add rubbing strips on the tailpipe shroud door and drill holes in the nacelle cooling duct assembly to cool the bellmouth.

This amendment shall become effective December 14, 1960.

(Sec. 313(a), 601, 603; 72 Stat. 752, 775, 776; 49 U.S.C. 1354(a), 1421, 1423.)

Issued in Washington, D.C., on December 8, 1960.

SUBCHAPTER E—AIR NAVIGATION REGULATIONS

[Airspace Docket No. 60-FW-67]

PART 601—DESIGNATION OF THE CONTINENTAL CONTROL AREA, CONTROL AREAS, CONTROL ZONES, REPORTING POINTS, POSITIVE CONTROL ROUTE SEGMENTS, AND POSITIVE CONTROL AREAS

Designation of Control Area Extension

On October 1, 1960, a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (25 F.R. 9415) stating that the Federal Aviation Agency proposed to designate a control area extension at Kinston, N.C.

No adverse comments were received regarding the proposed amendment.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of the rule herein adopted, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

The substance of the proposed amendment having been published, therefore, pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (24 F.R. 4530) and for the reasons stated in the notice, Part 601 (14 CFR Part 601) is amended by adding the following section:

§ 601.1023 Control area extension (Kinston, N.C.).

The area NE of Kinston bounded by parallel lines 9 miles NW and 5 miles SE of the 047° True radial of the Kinston VOR extending from the VOR to 18 miles NE, excluding the portion that coincides with the Cherry Point, N.C., Restricted Area (R-125), during the time of designation of the restricted area.

This amendment shall become effective 0001 e.s.t. February 9, 1961.

(Sec. 307(a), 72 Stat. 749; 49 U.S.C. 1348)

Issued in Washington, D.C., on December 7, 1960.

PART 601—DESIGNATION OF THE CONTINENTAL CONTROL AREA, CONTROL AREAS, CONTROL ZONES, REPORTING POINTS, POSITIVE CONTROL ROUTE SEGMENTS, AND POSITIVE CONTROL AREAS

PART 608—RESTRICTED AREAS

Modification of Restricted Area and Control Zone

On November 11, 1959, a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (24 F.R. 9212) stating that the Federal Aviation Agency was considering an amendment to § 608.38 of the regulations of the Administrator which would revoke the Fort Dix, N.J., Restricted Area (R-25) (New York and Washington Charts).

As stated in the notice, the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) is reviewing the utilization of all existing restricted areas. This review is based upon all data available to the Agency, including any received in response to Special Airspace Regulation No. 1 (24 F.R. 5898). According to the data available, it appeared that Restricted Area (R-25) did not have sufficient justification to warrant continued designation, and the revocation thereof would be in the public interest.

In response to the notice, the Department of the Army submitted the following information:

1. Restricted Area (R-25) is located approximately 18 miles southwest of Trenton, New Jersey and covers an area of approximately 32,066 acres.

2. The total investment cost to the Government of Fort Dix and the firing sites and targets located in the restricted area represents $97,023,000.

3. This restricted area is utilized by Fort Dix and is an essential part of the basic training program for the Department of the Army in training inexperienced recruits in the actual firing of small arms, machine guns, mortars, recolless weapons and howitzers.

4. Approximately 83,000 troops are trained annually in this area.

5. Normal firing activities within R-25 utilize the airspace from the surface to 3000 feet MSL, with the exception of the 4.2 inch mortar firing which has a maximum ordinate altitude of 3800 feet MSL.

6. Consideration of the human and mechanical error, with particular regard to premature aerial bursts, requires a reasonable safety zone, justifying the designation of surface to 8000 feet MSL for R-25.

As a result of data submitted by the Department of the Army, the FAA will continue the designation of R-25 as a restricted area. However, the size will be reduced from the existing 47 square miles to approximately 32 square miles. With regard to the existing designated altitude, surface to 26,000 feet MSL, the FAA is of the opinion that an altitude designation of surface to 4,000 feet MSL will contain the activities conducted in R-25. The Department of the Army concurred in the reduction of the size of R-25, but did not agree to the altitude designation of surface to 4,000 feet MSL. The Army contended that even though the maximum normal ordinate altitudes will not exceed 804 to 3,000 feet above ground, it must be borne in mind that this firing is performed by inexperienced recruits. They further stated that, notwithstanding the strict supervision exercised by instructor personnel and the stringent safety precautions imposed, experience has shown frequent incidences of "wild" shots which oftentimes cause rounds to exceed the maximum normal ordinate altitude and approach the maximum possible ordinate altitudes of 6,900 feet above ground. Therefore, the Army is of the opinion that it cannot give 100 percent assurance that some rounds will not exceed the normal ordinate of 3,000 feet above ground but will approach or equal the maximum altitude of 6,900 feet and that R-25 should be designated from surface to 8,000 feet MSL, as a safety factor.

In view of the information supplied by the Army, the FAA has determined, in the interest of safety, to reduce the designated altitude to surface to 8,000 feet MSL for a period of 1 year succeeding the effective date of this amendment. At the expiration of this period, the altitude will automatically be reduced to 4,000 feet MSL. The FAA feels that the interim period will provide a reasonable time for the Department of the Army to take the necessary corrective action to contain all necessary training activities within the 4,000 feet MSL designation.

The FAA is, therefore, modifying R-25 to reduce the area by approximately 15 square miles and to change the designated altitude from surface to 26,000 feet MSL to surface to 8,000 feet MSL for a period of 1 year succeeding the effective date of this amendment, at which time the altitude will be further reduced to 4,000 feet MSL. This modification will require a redescription of the Fort Dix, New Jersey, control zone (§ 601.2269) to exclude the portion of the control zone which lies within the geographical limits of R-25. Such action is also taken herein.

No other comments were received regarding the proposed amendment.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of the rules herein adopted, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

In consideration of the foregoing, and pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (25 F.R. 8005, 24 F.R. 4530), the following actions are taken:

1. In § 608.38 New Jersey (23 F.R. 8584), the Fort Dix, N.J., Restricted Area (R-25) (New York and Washington Charts) is amended to read:

Description by geographical coordinates. Beginning at Lat. 40°02'45" N., Long. 74°27'00" W.; southsoutheast to Lat. 39°58'45" N., Long. 74°25'40" W.; west to Lat. 39°58'45" N., Long. 74°33'30" W.; north to Lat. 40°02'45" N., Long. 74°33'30" W.; east to point of beginning.

Designated altitude. Surface to 8,000 feet MSL, for a period of 1 year, February 9, 1961 to February 8, 1962; as of February 9, 1962, surface to 4,000 feet MSL.

Time of designation. Continuous.

Controlling agency. Headquarters, First Army, Governors Island 4, N.Y.

2. In the text of § 601.2269 (14 CFR 601.2269) "excluding the portions which lie within the geographic limits of the Fort Dix Restricted Area (R-25) at all times and all altitudes." is deleted and "excluding the portion which coincides with the Fort Dix Restricted Area (R-25) during the restricted area's time of designation." is substituted therefor.

This amendment shall become effective 0001 e.s.t. February 9, 1961.

PART 602—ESTABLISHMENT OF CODED JET ROUTES AND NAVIGATIONAL AIDS IN THE CONTINENTAL CONTROL AREA

Modification of Coded Jet Route

On September 29, 1960, a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (25 F.R. 9296) stating that the Federal Aviation Agency proposed to extend VOR/VORTAC jet route No. 89 from the Northbrook (Chicago) Ill., VORTAC to the Duluth, Minn., VOR via the Milwaukee, Wis., VORTAC.

The Department of the Air Force (USAF) stated they had no objection to the modification provided radar advisory service is established in conjunction with the route extension and that the use of the "Quick Time" high altitude refueling area would not be prejudiced. This extension of the jet route will have radar advisory service. Since this service will be provided, no difficulty in the use of the refueling area by the USAF is anticipated.

No adverse comments were received regarding the proposed amendment.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of the rule herein adopted, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

The substance of the proposed amendment having been published, therefore, pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (24 F.R. 4530) and for the reasons stated in the notice, the following action is taken: In § 602.589 (14 CFR 602.589), the following changes are made:

(a) In the caption "(Miami, Fla., to Chicago, Ill.)." is deleted an "(Miami, Fla., to Duluth, Minn.)." is substituted therefor.

(b) In the text "to the Northbrook, Ill., VOR" is deleted and "Northbrook, Ill., VORTAC; Milwaukee, Wis., VORTAC; to the Duluth, Minn., VOR" is substituted therefor.

This amendment shall become effective 0001 e.s.t. February 9, 1961.

SUBCHAPTER D—EXPORTATION AND IMPORTATION OF ANIMALS AND ANIMAL PRODUCTS

PART 94—RINDERPEST, FOOT-AND-MOUTH DISEASE, FOWL PEST (FOWL PLAGUE), AND NEWCASTLE DISEASE (AVIAN PNEUMOENCEPHALITIS): PROHIBITED AND RESTRICTED IMPORTATIONS

Designation of Sweden as a Country Where Foot-and-Mouth Disease Exists

Pursuant to the provisions of section 306 of the Act of June 17, 1930, as amended (19 U.S.C. 1306), and section 2 of the Act of February 2, 1903, as amended (21 U.S.C. 111), it has been determined, and the Secretary of the Treasury has been notified, that foot-and-mouth disease now exists in Sweden, and Part 94, as amended, Title 9, Code of Federal Regulations, is hereby further amended by deleting the words "and Sweden" from subparagraph (4) of paragraph (a) of § 94.1.

The effect of this amendment is to prohibit the importation into the United States from Sweden of certain animals and meats and to restrict such importations of certain other animals, animal products, hay, straw, and similar material, as specified in 9 CFR Parts 94 and 95.

The protection of the livestock of the United States demands that this amendment be made effective as soon as possible. Accordingly, pursuant to section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. 1003), it is found upon good cause that notice and other public procedure concerning this amendment are impracticable and contrary to the public interest, and good cause is found for making the amendment effective less than 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

This amendment shall become effective upon issuance.

Title 21—FOOD AND DRUGS

Chapter I—Food and Drug Administration, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare

SUBCHAPTER B—FOOD AND FOOD PRODUCTS

PART 121—FOOD ADDITIVES

Subpart D—Food Additives Permitted in Food for Human Consumption

HYDROXYLATED LECITHIN

The Commissioner of Food and Drugs, having evaluated the data submitted in a petition filed by Central Soya Company, Inc., 1825 North Laramie Avenue, Chicago, Illinois, and other relevant material, has concluded that the following regulation should issue in conformity with section 409 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, with respect to the food additive hydroxylated lecithin. Therefore, pursuant to the provisions of the act (sec. 409(c)(1), 72 Stat. 1786; 21 U.S.C. 348(c)(1)), and under the authority delegated to him by the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare (25 F.R. 8625), Subpart D (21 CFR Part 121) of the food additive regulations is amended by adding thereto the following new section:

§ 121.1027 Hydroxylated lecithin.

The food additive hydroxylated lecithin may be safely used as an emulsifier in foods in accordance with the following conditions:

(a) The additive is obtained by treatment of lecithin with hydrogen peroxide, benzoyl peroxide, and lactic acid under controlled conditions whereby the separated fatty acid fraction of the resultant product has an acetyl value of 33 to 38.

(b) It is used or intended for use, in accordance with good manufacturing practice, as an emulsifier in foods, except for those standardized foods that do not provide for such use.

(c) To assure safe use of the additive, the label of the food additive container shall bear, in addition to the other information required by the act:

(1) The name of the additive, "hydroxylated lecithin."

(2) Adequate directions for its use.

Any person who will be adversely affected by the foregoing order may at any time prior to the thirtieth day from the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER file with the Hearing Clerk, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Room 5440, 330 Independence Avenue SW., Washington 25, D.C., written objections thereto. Objections shall show wherein the person filing will be adversely affected by the order and specify with particularity the provisions of the order deemed objectionable and the grounds for the objections. If a hearing is requested, the objections must state the issues for the hearing. A hearing will be granted if the objections are supported by grounds legally sufficient to justify the relief sought. Objections may be accompanied by a memorandum or brief in support thereof. All documents shall be filed in quintuplicate.

Effective date. This order shall be effective on the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(Sec. 409(c)(1), 72 Stat. 1786; 21 U.S.C. 348(c)(1))

Dated: December 7, 1960.

Proposed Rule Making

DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY

Internal Revenue Service

[26 CFR (1954) Part 1]

INCOME TAX; TAXABLE YEARS BEGINNING AFTER DECEMBER 31, 1953

Prepaid Subscription Income

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act, approved June 11, 1946, that the regulations set forth in tentative form below are proposed to be prescribed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury or his delegate. Prior to the final adoption of such regulations, consideration will be given to any comments or suggestions pertaining thereto which are submitted in writing, in duplicate, to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: T:P, Washington 25, D.C., within the period of 30 days from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Any person submitting written comments or suggestions who desires an opportunity to comment orally at a public hearing on these proposed regulations should submit his request, in writing, to the Commissioner within the 30-day period. In such a case, a public hearing will be held and notice of the time, place, and date will be published in a subsequent issue of the FEDERAL REGISTER. The proposed regulations are to be issued under the authority contained in section 7805 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (68A Stat. 917; 26 U.S.C. 7805).

[SEAL] DANA LATHAM,
Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

The following regulations relating to prepaid subscription income, effective for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1957, are hereby prescribed under section 455 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, as added by section 28 of the Technical Amendments Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 1625):

Sec.
1.455 Statutory provisions; prepaid subscription income.
1.455-1 Treatment of prepaid subscription income.
1.455-2 Scope of election under section 455.
1.455-3 Method of allocation.
1.455-4 Cessation of liability.
1.455-5 Definitions and other rules.
1.455-6 Time and manner of making election.

§ 1.455 Statutory provisions; prepaid subscription income.

Sec. 455. Prepaid subscription income—(a) Year in which included. Prepaid subscription income to which this section applies shall be included in gross income for the taxable years during which the liability described in subsection (d)(2) exists.

(b) Where taxpayer's liability ceases. In the case of any prepaid subscription income to which this section applies—

(1) If the liability described in subsection (d)(2) ends, then so much of such income as was not includible in gross income under subsection (a) for preceding taxable years shall be included in gross income for the taxable year in which the liability ends.

(2) If the taxpayer dies or ceases to exist, then so much of such income as was not includible in gross income under subsection (a) for preceding taxable years shall be included in gross income for the taxable year in which such death, or such cessation of existence, occurs.

(c) Prepaid subscription income to which this section applies—(1) Election of benefits. This section shall apply to prepaid subscription income if and only if the taxpayer makes an election under this section with respect to the trade or business in connection with which such income is received. The election shall be made in such manner as the Secretary or his delegate may by regulations prescribe. No election may be made with respect to a trade or business if in computing taxable income the cash receipts and disbursements method of accounting is used with respect to such trade or business.

(2) Scope of election. An election made under this section shall apply to all prepaid subscription income received in connection with the trade or business with respect to which the taxpayer has made the election; except that the taxpayer may, to the extent permitted under regulations prescribed by the Secretary or his delegate, include in gross income for the taxable year of receipt the entire amount of any prepaid subscription income if the liability from which it arose is to end within 12 months after the date of receipt. An election made under this section shall not apply to any prepaid subscription income received before the first taxable year for which the election is made.

(3) When election may be made—(A) With consent. A taxpayer may, with the consent of the Secretary or his delegate, make an election under this section at any time.

(B) Without consent. A taxpayer may, without the consent of the Secretary or his delegate, make an election under this section for his first taxable year (i) which begins after December 31, 1957, and (ii) in which he receives prepaid subscription income in the trade or business. Such election shall be made not later than the time prescribed by law for filing the return for the taxable year (including extensions thereof) with respect to which such election is made.

(4) Period to which election applies. An election under this section shall be effective for the taxable year with respect to which it is first made and for all subsequent taxable years, unless the taxpayer secures the consent of the Secretary or his delegate to the revocation of such election. For purposes of this title, the computation of taxable income under an election made under this section shall be treated as a method of accounting.

(d) Definitions. For purposes of this section—

(1) Prepaid subscription income. The term "prepaid subscription income" means any amount (includible in gross income) which is received in connection with, and is directly attributable to, a liability which extends beyond the close of the taxable year in which such amount is received, and which is income from a subscription to a newspaper, magazine, or other periodical.

(2) Liability. The term "liability" means a liability to furnish or deliver a newspaper, magazine, or other periodical.

(3) Receipt of prepaid subscription income. Prepaid subscription income shall be treated as received during the taxable year for which it is includible in gross income under section 451 (without regard to this section).

(e) Deferral of income under established accounting procedures. Notwithstanding the provisions of this section, any taxpayer who has, for taxable years prior to the first taxable year to which this section applies, reported his income under an established and consistent method or practice of accounting for prepaid subscription income (to which this section would apply if an election were made) may continue to report his income for taxable years to which this title applies in accordance with such method or practice.

§ 1.455-1 Treatment of prepaid subscription income.

Effective with respect to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1957, section 455 permits certain taxpayers to elect with respect to a trade or business in connection with which prepaid subscription income is received, to include such income in gross income for the taxable years during which a liability exists to furnish or deliver a newspaper, magazine, or other periodical. If a taxpayer does not elect to treat prepaid subscription income under the provisions of section 455, such income is includible in gross income for the taxable year in which received by the taxpayer, unless under the method or practice of accounting used in computing taxable income such amount is to be properly accounted for as of a different period.

§ 1.455-2 Scope of election under section 455.

(a) If a taxpayer makes an election under section 455 and § 1.455-6 with respect to a trade or business, all prepaid subscription income from such trade or business shall be included in gross income for the taxable years during which the liability exists to furnish or deliver a newspaper, magazine, or other periodical. Such election shall be applicable to all prepaid subscription income received in connection with the trade or business for which the election is made; except that the taxpayer may further elect to include in gross income for the taxable year of receipt (as described in section 455(d)(3) and paragraph (c) of § 1.455-5) the entire amount of any prepaid subscription income if the liability from which it arose is to end within 12 months after the date of receipt, hereinafter sometimes referred to as "within 12 months" election.

(b) If the taxpayer is engaged in more than one trade or business in which a liability is incurred to furnish or deliver a newspaper, magazine, or other periodical, a separate election may be made under section 455 with respect to each such trade or business. In addition, a taxpayer may make a separate "within 12 months" election for each separate trade or business for which it has made an election under section 455.

(c) An election made under section 455 shall be binding for the first taxable year for which the election is made and for all subsequent taxable years, unless the taxpayer secures the consent of the Commissioner to the revocation of such election. Thus, in any case where the taxpayer has elected a method prescribed by section 455 for the inclusion of prepaid subscription income in gross income, such method of reporting income may not be changed without the prior approval of the Commissioner. In order to secure the Commissioner's consent to the revocation of such election, an application must be filed with the Commissioner in accordance with section 446(e) and the regulations thereunder. For purposes of subtitle A of the Code, the computation of taxable income under an election made under section 455 shall be treated as a method of accounting. For adjustments required by changes in method of accounting, see section 481 and the regulations thereunder.

(d) An election made under section 455 shall not apply to any prepaid subscription income received before the first taxable year to which the election applies. For example, Corporation M, which computes its taxable income under an accrual method of accounting and files its income tax returns on the calendar year basis, publishes a monthly magazine and customarily sells subscriptions on a 3-year basis. In 1958 it received $135,000 of 3-year prepaid subscription income for subscriptions beginning during 1958, and in 1959 it received $142,000 of prepaid subscription income for subscriptions beginning after December 31, 1958. In February 1959 it elected, with the consent of the Commissioner, to report its prepaid subscription income under the provisions of section 455 for the year 1959 and subsequent taxable years. The $135,000 received in 1958 from prepaid subscriptions must be included in gross income in full in that year, and no part of such 1958 income shall be allocated to the years 1959, 1960, and 1961 during which M was under a liability to deliver its magazine. The $142,000 received in 1959 from prepaid subscriptions shall be allocated to the years 1959, 1960, 1961, and 1962.

(e) No election may be made under section 455 with respect to a trade or business if, in computing taxable income, the cash receipts and disbursements method of accounting is used with respect to such trade or business. However, if the taxpayer is on a "combination" method of accounting under section 446(c)(4) and the regulations thereunder, it may elect the benefits of section 455 if it uses an accrual method of accounting for subscription income.

§ 1.455–3 Method of allocation.

(a) Prepaid subscription income to which section 455 applies shall be included in gross income for the taxable years during which the liability to which the income relates is discharged or is deemed to be discharged on the basis of the taxpayer's experience.

(b) For purposes of determining the period or periods over which the liability of the taxpayer extends, and for purposes of allocating prepaid subscription income to such periods, the taxpayer may aggregate similar transactions during the taxable year in any reasonable manner, provided the method of aggregation and allocation is consistently followed.

§ 1.455–4 Cessation of liability.

(a) If a taxpayer has elected to apply the provisions of section 455 to a trade or business in connection with which prepaid subscription income is received, and if its liability to furnish or deliver a newspaper, magazine, or other periodical ends for any reason, then so much of the prepaid subscription income attributable to such liability as was not includible in its gross income under section 455 for preceding taxable years shall be included in its gross income for the taxable year in which such liability ends. A taxpayer's liability may end, for example, because of the cancellation of a subscription.

(b) If a taxpayer who has elected to apply the provisions of section 455 to a trade or business dies or ceases to exist, then so much of the prepaid subscription income attributable to such trade or business which was not includible in its gross income under section 455 for preceding taxable years shall be included in its gross income for the taxable year in which such death or cessation of existence occurs.

§ 1.455–5 Definitions and other rules.

(a) Prepaid subscription income. (1) The term "prepaid subscription income" means any amount includible in gross income which is received in connection with, and is directly attributable to, a liability of the taxpayer which extends beyond the close of the taxable year in which such amount is received and which is income from a newspaper, magazine, or other periodical. For example where Corporation X, a publisher of newspapers, magazines, and other periodicals makes sales on a subscription basis and the purchaser pays the subscription price in advance, prepaid subscription income would include the amounts actually received by X in connection with its liability to furnish or deliver the newspaper, magazine, or other periodical.

(2) Prepaid subscription income of the taxpayer does not include amounts retained by agents or independent contractors as commissions or payments for services rendered. For example, where Corporation X hires A, an agent, to solicit subscriptions, allowing A to retain 5 percent of the subscription price and A remits only 95 percent of the total subscription price, prepaid subscription income includes only the 95 percent of the total subscription price.

(3) For purposes of section 455, prepaid subscription income does not include amounts received by a taxpayer in connection with sales of subscriptions on a prepaid basis where such taxpayer does not have the liability to furnish or deliver a newspaper, magazine, or other periodical. The provisions of this subparagraph may be illustrated by the following example. Corporation D has a contract with each of several large publishers which grants it the right to sell subscriptions to their periodicals. Corporation D collects the subscription price from the subscribers, retains a portion thereof as its commission and remits the balance to the publishers. The amount retained by Corporation D represents commissions on the sale of subscriptions, and is not prepaid subscription income for purposes of section 455 since the commissions represent compensation for services rendered and are not directly attributable to a liability of Corporation D to furnish or deliver a newspaper, magazine, or other periodical.

(b) Liability. The term "liability" means a liability of the taxpayer to furnish or deliver a newspaper, magazine, or other periodical.

(c) Receipt of prepaid subscription income. For purposes of section 455, prepaid subscription income shall be treated as received during the taxable year for which it is includible in gross income under section 451, relating to general rule for taxable year of inclusion, without regard to section 455.

(d) Treatment of prepaid subscription income under an established accounting method. Notwithstanding the provisions of section 455 and § 1.455–1, any taxpayer who, for taxable years beginning before January 1, 1958, has reported prepaid subscription income for income tax purposes under an established and consistent method or practice of deferring such income may continue to report such income in accordance with such method or practice for all subsequent taxable years to which section 455 applies without making an election under section 455.

§ 1.455–6 Time and manner of making election.

(a) Election without consent. (1) A taxpayer may, without consent, elect to treat prepaid subscription income of a trade or business under section 455 for the first taxable year—

(i) Which begins after December 31, 1957, and

(ii) In which there is received prepaid subscription income from the trade or business for which the election is made.

Such an election shall be made not later than the time prescribed by law for filing the income tax return for such year (including extensions thereof), and shall be made by means of a statement attached to such return.

(2) The statement shall indicate that the taxpayer is electing to apply the provisions of section 455 to his trade or business, and shall contain the following information:

(i) The name and a description of the taxpayer's trade or business to which the election is to apply;

(ii) The method of accounting used in such trade or business;

(iii) The total amount of prepaid subscription income from such trade or business for the taxable year;

(iv) The period or periods over which the liability of the taxpayer to furnish or deliver a newspaper, magazine, or other periodical extends;

(v) The amount of prepaid subscription income applicable to each such period; and

(vi) A description of the method used in allocating the prepaid subscription income to each such period.

In any case in which prepaid subscription income is received from more than one trade or business, the statement shall set forth the required information with respect to each trade or business subject to the election.

(3) See paragraph (c) of this section for additional information required to be submitted with the statement if the taxpayer also elects to include in gross income for the taxable year of receipt the entire amount of prepaid subscription income attributable to a liability which is to end within 12 months after the date of receipt.

(b) Election with consent. A taxpayer may, with the consent of the Commissioner, elect at any time to apply the provisions of section 455 to any trade or business in which it receives prepaid subscription income. The request for such consent shall be in writing, signed by the taxpayer or its authorized representative, and shall be addressed to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: T:R:C, Washington 25, D.C. The request must be filed on or before the later of the following dates: (1) 90 days after the beginning of the first taxable year to which the election is to apply or (2) 90 days after the date of publication of the regulations under section 455 in the FEDERAL REGISTER as a Treasury decision, and must contain the information described in paragraph (a) (2) of this section. See paragraph (c) of this section for additional information required to be submitted with the request if the taxpayer also elects to include in gross income for the taxable year of receipt the entire amount of prepaid subscription income attributable to a liability which is to end within 12 months after the date of receipt.

(c) "Within 12 months" election. (1) A taxpayer who elects to apply the provisions of section 455 to any trade or business may also elect to include in gross income for the taxable year of receipt (as described in section 455(d)(3) and paragraph (c) of § 1.455–5) the entire amount of any prepaid subscription income from such trade or business if the liability from which it arose is to end within 12 months after the date of receipt. Any such election is binding for the first taxable year for which it is effective and for all subsequent taxable years, unless the taxpayer secures permission from the Commissioner to treat such income differently. Application to revoke or change a "within 12 months" election shall be made in accordance with the provisions of section 446(e) and the regulations thereunder.

(2) The "within 12 months" election shall be made by including in the statement required by paragraph (a) of this section or the request described in paragraph (b) of this section, whichever is applicable, a declaration that the taxpayer elects to include such income in gross income in the taxable year of receipt, and the amount of such income. If the taxpayer is engaged in more than one trade or business for which the election under section 455 is made, it must include, in such statement or request, a declaration for each trade or business for which it makes the "within 12 months" election. See also paragraph (e) of § 1.455–2.

(3) If the taxpayer does not make the "within 12 months" election for its trade or business at the time prescribed for making the election to include prepaid subscription income in gross income for the taxable years during which its liability to furnish or deliver a newspaper, magazine, or other periodical exists for such trade or business, but later wishes to make such election, it must apply for permission from the Commissioner. Such application shall be made in accordance with the provisions of section 446(e) and the regulations thereunder.

EMPLOYMENT TAXES; APPLICABLE ON AND AFTER JANUARY 1, 1955

Notice of Proposed Rule Making

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act, approved June 11, 1946, that the regulations set forth in tentative form below are proposed to be prescribed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury or his delegate. Prior to the final adoption of such regulations, consideration will be given to any comments or suggestions pertaining thereto which are submitted in writing, in duplicate, to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: T:P, Washington 25, D.C., within the period of 30 days from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Any person submitting written comments or suggestions who desires an opportunity to comment orally at a public hearing on these proposed regulations should submit his request, in writing, to the Commissioner within the 30-day period. In such a case, a public hearing will be held and notice of the time, place, and date will be published in a subsequent issue of the FEDERAL REGISTER. The proposed regulations are to be issued under the authority contained in section 7805 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (68A Stat. 917; 26 U.S.C. 7805).

[SEAL] DANA LATHAM,
Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

In order to conform the Employment Tax Regulations (26 CFR Part 31) to sections 201 and 202 of the Act of May 19, 1959 (Public Law 86–28, 73 Stat. 28, 30), such regulations are amended as follows:

PARAGRAPH 1. Section 31.3201 is amended to read as follows:

§ 31.3201 Statutory provisions; rate of tax.

SEC. 3201. Rate of tax. In addition to other taxes, there is hereby imposed on the income of every employee a tax equal to—

(1) 6¾ percent of so much of the compensation paid to such employee for services rendered by him after the month in which this provision was amended in 1959, and before January 1, 1962, and

(2) 7¼ percent of so much of the compensation paid to such employee for services rendered by him after December 31, 1961, as is not in excess of $400 for any calendar month: Provided, That the rate of tax imposed by this section shall be increased, with respect to compensation paid for services after December 31, 1964, by a number of percentage points (including fractional points) equal at any given time to the number of percentage points (including fractional points) by which the rate of the tax imposed with respect to wages by section 3101 at such time exceeds the rate provided by paragraph (2) of such section 3101 as amended by the Social Security Amendments of 1956.

[Sec. 3201 as amended by sec. 206(a), Act of Aug. 31, 1954 (Pub. Law 746, 83d Cong., 68 Stat. 1040); sec. 201(a), Act of May 19, 1959 (Pub. Law 86–28, 73 Stat. 28)]

PAR. 2. Section 31.3201–1 is amended to read as follows:

§ 31.3201–1 Measure of employee tax.

The employee tax with respect to compensation paid after 1954 for services rendered after 1954 is measured by the amount of such compensation paid to an individual for services rendered as an employee to one or more employers, excluding, however, the amount of—

(a) Compensation in excess of $400 which is paid to the employee after May 31, 1959, for services rendered during any one calendar month after May 31, 1959;

(b) Compensation in excess of $350 which is paid to the employee after 1954 and before June 1, 1959, for services rendered during any one calendar month after May 31, 1959; and

(c) Compensation in excess of $350 which is paid to the employee after 1954 for services rendered during any one calendar month after 1954 and before June 1, 1959.

The employee tax with respect to compensation paid after May 31, 1959, for services rendered after such date, is measured without regard to any amount of compensation paid before June 1, 1959, for such services. The employee tax with respect to compensation paid before June 1, 1959, for services rendered after May 31, 1959, is measured without regard to any amount of compensation paid after May 31, 1959, for such services. For provisions relating to compensation, see § 31.3231(e)–1. For provisions relating to the circumstances under which certain compensation is to be disregarded for the purpose of determining the employee tax, see paragraph (a) (4) and (5) of § 31.3231(e)–1.

PAR. 3. Section 31.3201–2 is amended to read as follows:

§ 31.3201–2 Rates and computation of employee tax.

(a) Rates. The rates of employee tax applicable with respect to compensation are as follows:

	Percent
Compensation paid at any time after 1964 for services rendered after 1954 and before June 1, 1965; and compensation paid after 1964 and before June 1, 1968, for services rendered after May 31, 1959	6¼
Compensation paid after May 31, 1959, for services rendered after May 31, 1959, and before 1962	6¾
Compensation paid after May 31, 1959, for services rendered during the calendar years 1962, 1963, and 1964	7¼

The rate of employee tax with respect to compensation paid after May 31, 1959, for services rendered after 1964 is the sum of 7¼ percent and an additional percentage. Such additional percentage is determined by subtracting 2¾ percent from the rate of tax imposed by section 3101 with respect to wages received at the time such services are rendered.

Example. If the rate of tax imposed by section 3101 with respect to wages received in 1965 is 3½ percent, then the rate of tax imposed by section 3201 with respect to compensation paid after May 31, 1959, for services rendered in 1965 is 8 percent. (That is, 2¾ percent subtracted from 3½ percent leaves a remainder of ¾ percent. Such remainder of ¾ percent added to 7¼ percent equals 8 percent.)

(b) Computation. The employee tax is computed by multiplying the amount of the employee's compensation with respect to which the employee tax is imposed by the rate applicable to such compensation, as determined under paragraph (a) of this section.

PAR. 4. Section 31.3202 is amended by revising section 3202(a) and the historical note to read as follows:

§ 31.3202 Statutory provisions; deduction of tax from compensation.

SEC. 3202. Deduction of tax from compensation—(a) Requirement. The tax imposed by section 3201 shall be collected by the employer of the taxpayer by deducting the amount of the tax from the compensation of the employee as and when paid. If an employee is paid compensation after the month in which this provision was amended in 1959, by more than one employer for services rendered during any calendar month after the month in which this provision was amended in 1959 and the aggregate of such compensation is in excess of $400, the tax to be deducted by each employer other than a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer from the compensation paid by him to the employee with respect to such month shall be that proportion of the tax with respect to such compensation paid by all such employers which the compensation paid by him after the month in which this provision was amended in 1959, to the employee for services rendered during such month bears to the total compensation paid by all such employers after the month in which this provision was amended in 1959, to such employee for services rendered during such month; and in the event that the compensation so paid by such employers to the employee for services rendered during such month is less than $400, each subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer shall deduct such proportion of any additional tax as the compensation paid by such employer after the month in which this provision was amended in 1959, to such employee for services rendered during such month bears to the total compensation paid by all such employers after the month in which this provision was amended in 1959, to such employee for services rendered during such month.

[Sec. 3202 as amended by sec. 206(a), Act of Aug. 31, 1959 (Pub. Law 746, 83d Cong., 68 Stat. 1040); sec. 201(b), Act of May 19, 1959 (Pub. Law 86-28, 73 Stat. 29)]

PAR. 5. Section 31.3202–1 is amended by revising paragraph (b), and by adding a new paragraph (f), to read as follows:

§ 31.3202–1 Collection of, and liability for, employee tax.

(b) Collection; payments by two or more employers in excess of monthly compensation limitation—(1) Aggregate monthly compensation in excess of $400 paid after May, 31, 1959, for services rendered after that date. If an employee is paid compensation after May 31, 1959, by two or more employers for services rendered during any one calendar month after such date, and if the aggregate compensation paid to such employee after such date by all employers for services rendered during that month is in excess of $400, the employee tax to be deducted by each employer from the compensation as and when paid by him after May 31, 1959, to the employee shall be determined as follows:

(i) If such compensation is paid by two or more employers, none of whom is a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer (see paragraph (a)(6) of § 31.3231(a)–1), each employer shall deduct the employee tax with respect to that proportion of $400 of compensation which the compensation paid after May 31, 1959, by such employer to the employee for the month bears to the total compensation paid after such date to such employee by all employers for that month. See example (1) in subdivision (vii) of this subparagraph.

(ii) If such compensation is paid by two or more employers, each of which is a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer, each subordinate unit shall deduct the employee tax with respect to that proportion of $400 of compensation which the compensation paid after May 31, 1959, by such subordinate unit to the employee for the month bears to the total compensation paid after such date to such employee by all such subordinate units for that month.

(iii) If such compensation is paid by two or more employers, only one of whom is an employer other than a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and if the compensation paid after May 31, 1959, to the employee by the employer other than a subordinate unit equals or exceeds $400 for the month, then no employee tax shall be deducted by any such subordinate unit from the compensation paid by it after such date to such employee for that month, and the employer other than a subordinate unit shall deduct the employee tax with respect to $400 of compensation paid by him after such date to such employee for that month. See example (2) in subdivision (vii) of this subparagraph.

(iv) If such compensation is paid by two or more employers other than a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer and by one or more subordinate units of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and if the total compensation paid after May 31, 1959, to the employee by the employers other than a subordinate unit equals or exceeds $400 for the month, then no employee tax shall be deducted by any such subordinate unit from the compensation paid by it after such date to such employee for that month, and each employer other than subordinate unit shall deduct the employee tax with respect to that proportion of $400 of compensation which the compensation paid after such date by such employer to the employee for the month bears to the total compensation paid after such date to such employee by all such employers other than a subordinate unit for that month. See example (3) in subdivision (vii) of this subparagraph.

(v) If such compensation is paid by two or more employers, only one of whom is a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and if the total compensation paid after May 31, 1959, to the employee by all employers other than the subordinate unit is less than $400 for the month, then each employer other than the subordinate unit shall deduct the employee tax with respect to the full amount of compensation paid by him after such date to such employee for that month, and the subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer shall deduct the employee tax with respect to the remainder of $400 of compensation less the total compensation paid after such date to such employee for that month by all other employers. See example (4) in subdivision (vii) of this subparagraph.

(vi) If such compensation is paid by one or more employers other than a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer and by two or more subordinate units of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and if the total compensation paid after May 31, 1959, to the employee by all employers other than the subordinate units is less than $400 for the month, then each employer other than the subordinate units shall deduct the employee tax with respect to the full amount of compensation paid by him after such date to such employee for that month, and each subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer shall deduct the employee tax with respect to that proportion of the remainder of $400 of compensation less the total compensation paid after such date to such employee for the month by all employers other than the subordinate units which the compensation paid after such date by such subordinate unit to the employee for that month bears to the total compensation paid after such date to such employee by all such subordinate units for that month. See example (5) in subdivision (vii) of this subparagraph.

(vii) The application of certain of the principles stated in this subparagraph may be illustrated by the following examples:

Example (1). A, an employee, renders services during June 1959 for employers X, Y, and Z, none of whom is a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer. For such services A is paid in June 1959 or thereafter compensation of $100 by X, $100 by Y, and $300 by Z, or an aggregate of $500 for the month. In such case X pays one-fifth of A's aggregate compensation for the month, Y pays one-fifth, and Z pays three-fifths. X and Y, therefore, are each required to deduct the employee tax with respect to one-fifth of $400, or $80, and Z is required to deduct the employee tax with respect to three-fifths of $400, or $240.

Example (2). A, an employee, renders services during June 1959 for employer X, an employer other than a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and for employers Y and Z, each of which is a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer. For such services A is paid in the month or thereafter compensation of $400 by X, $50 by Y, and $35 by Z. Since the compensation paid A for the month by X equals $400, neither Y nor Z is required to deduct any employee tax from the compensation paid by him to A for the month; and X is required to deduct the employee tax with respect to the full $400 paid by him to A for the month.

Example (3). A, an employee, renders services during June 1959 for employers W and X, each of whom is an employer other than a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and for employers Y and Z, each of which is a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer. For such services A is paid in the month or thereafter compensation of $200 by W and $300 by X, or an aggregate of $500 for the month, and compensation of $50 by Y and $50 by Z. Since the aggregate compensation paid A for the month by W and X is in excess of $400, neither Y nor Z is required to deduct any employee tax from the compensation paid by him to A for the month. Of the aggregate compensation of $500 paid A for the month by W and X, W pays two-fifths and X pays three-fifths. W, therefore, is required to deduct the employee tax with respect to two-fifths of $400, or $160, and X is required to deduct the employee tax with respect to three-fifths of $400, or $240.

Example (4). A, an employee, renders services during June 1959 for employer X, an employer other than a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and for employer Y, a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer. For such services A is paid in the month or thereafter compensation of $250 by X and $200 by Y. In such case X is required to deduct the employee tax with respect to the full $250 paid by him to A for the month; and Y is required to deduct the employee tax only with respect to $150 ($400 minus $250 paid by X).

Example (5). A, an employee, renders services during June 1959 for employers W and X, each of whom is an employer other than a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and for employers Y and Z, each of which is a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer. For such services A is paid in the month or thereafter compensation of $190 by W, $120 by X, $50 by Y, and $100 by Z. In such case W and X are each required to deduct the employee tax with respect to the full amount paid to A for the month, that is, W with respect to $190 and X with respect to $120; and Y and Z are required to deduct the employee tax with respect to their proportionate share of $90 ($400 minus $310 paid by W and X). Of the aggregate compensation of $150 paid by Y and Z, $50, or one-third, was paid by Y, and $100, or two-thirds, was paid by Z. In such case Y is required to deduct the employee tax with respect to one-third of $90, or $30, and Z is required to deduct the employee tax with respect to two-thirds of $90, or $60.

(2) Aggregate monthly compensation in excess of $350 paid before June 1, 1959, for services rendered after May 31, 1959. If an employee is paid compensation within the period January 1, 1955, to May 31, 1959, both dates inclusive, by two or more employers for services rendered during any one calendar month after May 31, 1959, and if the aggregate compensation paid within such period to such employee by all employers for services rendered during such month is in excess of $350, the employee tax to be deducted by each employers from the compensation as and when paid by him to the employee within such period shall be determined in accordance with the principles stated in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph. Such principles should be applied, however, with reference to the compensation and services described in this subparagraph.

(3) Aggregate monthly compensation in excess of $350 paid after 1954 for services rendered before June 1, 1959. If an employee is paid compensation at any time after 1954 by two or more employers for services rendered during any one calendar month within the period January 1, 1955, to May 31, 1959, both dates inclusive, and if the aggregate compensation paid after 1954 to such employee by all employers for services rendered during such month is in excess of $350, the employee tax to be deducted by each employer from the compensation as and when paid by him after 1954 to the employee shall be determined in accordance with the principles stated in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph. Such principles should be applied, however, with reference to the compensation and services described in this subparagraph.

(f) Cross reference. See paragraph (a) (4) and (5) of § 31.3231(e)–1 for provisions relating to the circumstances under which certain compensation is to be disregarded for the purpose of determining the employee tax.

PAR. 6. Section 31.3211 is amended to read as follows:

§ 31.3211 Statutory provisions; rate of tax.

SEC. 3211. Rate of tax. In addition to other taxes, there is hereby imposed on the income of each employee representative a tax equal to—

(1) 13½ percent of so much of the compensation paid to such employee representative for services rendered by him after the month in which this provision was amended in 1959, and before January 1, 1962, and

(2) 14½ percent of so much of the compensation paid to such employee representative for services rendered by him after December 31, 1961,

as is not in excess of $400 for any calendar month: Provided, That the rate of tax imposed by this section shall be increased, with respect to compensation paid for services rendered after December 31, 1964, by a number of percentage points (including fractional points) equal at any given time to twice the number of percentage points (including fractional points) by which the rate of the tax imposed with respect to wages by section 3101 at such time exceeds the rate provided by paragraph (2) of such section 3101 as amended by the Social Security Amendments of 1956.

[Sec. 3211 as amended by sec. 206(a), Act of Aug. 31, 1954 (Pub. Law 746, 83d Cong., 68 Stat. 1040); sec. 201(c), Act of May 19, 1959 (Pub. Law 86-28, 73 Stat. 29)]

PAR. 7. Section 31.3211–1 is amended to read as follows:

§ 31.3211–1 Measure of employee representative tax.

(a) General rule. Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section the employee representative tax with respect to compensation paid after 1954 for services rendered after 1954 is measured by the amount of such compensation paid to an individual for services rendered as an employee representative, excluding, however, the amount of—

(1) Compensation in excess of $400 which is paid to the employee representative after May 31, 1959, for services rendered during any one calendar month after May 31, 1959;

(2) Compensation in excess of $350 which is paid to the employee representative after 1954 and before June 1, 1959, for services rendered during any one calendar month after May 31, 1959; and

(3) Compensation in excess of $350 which is paid to the employee representative after 1954 for services rendered during any one calendar month after 1954 and before June 1, 1959.

The employee representative tax with respect to compensation paid after May 31, 1959, for services rendered after such date, is measured without regard to any amount of compensation paid before June 1, 1959, for such services. The employee representative tax with respect to compensation paid before June 1, 1959, for services rendered after May 31, 1959, is measured without regard to any amount of compensation paid after May 31, 1959, for such services. For provisions relating to compensation, see § 31.3231(e)–1.

(b) Aggregate monthly compensation as employee representative and employee in excess of monthly compensation limitation—(1) Compensation in excess of $400 paid after May 31, 1959, for services rendered after that date. (i) If during any one calendar month after May 31, 1959, an individual renders services both as an employee representative and as an employee and the total compensation paid after such date to the individual for services rendered during such month both as an employee representative and as an employee exceeds $400, the measure of the employee representative tax for such month shall be $400 minus the compensation paid after May 31, 1959, to such individual for services rendered by him during such month as an employee.

(ii) The application of subdivision (i) of this subparagraph may be illustrated by the following example:

Example. A renders services as an employee representative during June 1959 for which he is paid $100 in June 1959 or thereafter. During such month A also renders services as an employee for one or more employers and receives during such month or thereafter compensation of $350. Inasmuch as the total amount of compensation paid after May 31, 1959, to A for services rendered during June 1959 as an employee representative and as an employee exceeds $400 ($100 plus $250, or $450), the measure of the employee representative tax is $400 minus $350 (A's compensation for services rendered as an employee), or $50.

(2) Compensation in excess of $350 paid before June 1, 1959, for services rendered after May 31, 1959. If during any one calendar month after May 31, 1959, an individual renders services as an employee representative and as an employee and the total compensation paid after 1954 and before June 1, 1959, to the individual for services rendered during such month as an employee representative and as an employee exceeds $350, the measure of the employee representative tax for such month shall be $350 minus the compensation paid after 1954 and before June 1, 1959, to such individual for services rendered by him during such month as an employee.

(3) Compensation in excess of $350 paid after 1954 for services rendered after 1954 and before June 1, 1959. If during any one calendar month after 1954 and before June 1, 1959, an individual renders services as an employee representative and as an employee and the total compensation paid at any time after 1954 to the individual for services rendered during such month as an employee representative and as an employee exceeds $350, the measure of the employee representative tax for such month shall be $350 minus the compensation paid at any time after 1954 to such individual for services rendered by him during the month as an employee.

PAR. 8. Section 31.3211–2 is amended to read as follows:

§ 31.3211–2 Rates and computation of employee representative tax.

(a) Rates. The rates of employee representative tax applicable with respect to compensation are as follows:

	Percent
Compensation paid at any time after 1954 for services rendered after 1954 and before June 1, 1959; and compensation paid after 1954 and before June 1, 1959, for services rendered after May 31, 1959	12½
Compensation paid after May 31, 1959, for services rendered after May 31, 1959, and before 1962	13½
Compensation paid after May 31, 1959, for services rendered during the calendar years 1962, 1963, and 1964	14½

The rate of employee representative tax with respect to compensation paid after May 31, 1959, for services rendered after 1964 is the sum of 14½ percent and an additional percentage. Such additional percentage is determined by subtracting 2¾ percent from the rate of tax imposed by section 3101 with respect to wages received at the time such services are rendered, and by doubling the remainder.

Example. If the rate of tax imposed by section 3101 with respect to wages received in 1965 is 3½ percent, then the rate of tax imposed by section 3211 with respect to compensation paid after May 31, 1959, for services rendered in 1965 is 16 percent. (That is, 2¾ percent subtracted from 3½ percent leaves a remainder of ¾ percent. Such remainder doubled is 1½ percent. The sum of 1½ percent and 14½ percent is 16 percent.)

(b) Computation. The employee representative tax is computed by multiplying the amount of the employee representative's compensation with respect to which the employee representative tax is imposed by the rate applicable to such compensation, as determined under paragraph (a) of this section.

PAR. 9. Section 31.3221 is amended to read as follows:

§ 31.3221 Statutory provisions; rate of tax.

SEC. 3221. Rate of tax. (a) In addition to other taxes, there is hereby imposed on every employer an excise tax, with respect to having individuals in his employ, equal to—

(1) 6¾ percent of so much of the compensation paid by such employer for services rendered to him after the month in which this provision was amended in 1959, and before January 1, 1962, and

(2) 7¼ percent of so much of the compensation paid by such employer for services rendered to him after December 31, 1961, as is, with respect to any employee for any calendar month, not in excess of $400; except that if an employee is paid compensation after the month in which this provision was amended in 1959, by more than one employer for services rendered during any calendar month after the month in which this provision was amended in 1959, the tax imposed by this section shall apply to not more than $400 of the aggregate compensation paid to such employee by all such employers after the month in which this provision was amended in 1959, for services rendered during such month, and each employer other than a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer shall be liable for that proportion of the tax with respect to such compensation paid by all such employers which the compensation paid by him after the month in which this provision was amended in 1959, to the employee for services rendered during such month bears to the total compensation paid by all such employers after the month in which this provision was amended in 1959, to such employee for services rendered during such month; and in the event that the compensation so paid by such employers to the employee for services rendered during such month is less than $400, each subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer shall be liable for such proportion of any additional tax as the compensation paid by such employer after the month in which this provision was amended in 1959, to such employee for services rendered during such month bears to the total compensation paid by all such employers after the month in which this provision was amended in 1959, to such employee for services rendered during such month.

(b) The rate of tax imposed by subsection (a) shall be increased, with respect to compensation paid for services rendered after December 31, 1964, by a number of percentage points (including fractional points) equal at any given time to the number of percentage points (including fractional points) by which the rate of the tax imposed with respect to wages by section 3111 at such time exceeds the rate provided by paragraph (2) of such section 3111 as amended by the Social Security Amendments of 1956.

[Sec. 3221 as amended by sec. 206(a), Act of Aug. 31, 1954 (Pub. Law 746, 83d Cong., 68 Stat. 1040); sec. 201(d), Act of May 19, 1959 (Pub. Law 86–28, 73 Stat. 29)]

PAR. 10. Section 31.3221–1 is amended by revising paragraphs (a) and (b), and by adding a new paragraph (d), as follows:

§ 31.3221–1 Measure of employer tax.

(a) General rule. Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section, the employer tax with respect to compensation paid after 1954 for services rendered after 1954 is measured by the amount of such compensation paid by an employer to his employees, excluding, however, the amount of—

(1) Compensation in excess of $400 which is paid to any employee after May 31, 1959, for services rendered during any one calendar month after May 31, 1959;

(2) Compensation in excess of $350 which is paid to any employee after 1954 and before June 1, 1959, for services rendered during any one calendar month after May 31, 1959; and

(3) Compensation in excess of $350 which is paid to any employee after 1954 for services rendered during any one calendar month after 1954 and before June 1, 1959.

The employer tax with respect to compensation paid after May 31, 1959, for services rendered after such date, is measured without regard to any amount of compensation paid before June 1, 1959, for such services. The employer tax with respect to compensation paid before June 1, 1959, for services rendered after May 31, 1959, is measured without regard to any amount of compensation paid after May 31, 1959, for such services. For provisions relating to compensation, see § 31.3231(e)–1. For provisions relating to the circumstances under which certain compensation is to be disregarded for the purpose of determining the employer tax, see paragraph (a) (4) and (5) of § 31.3231(e)–1.

(b) Payments by two or more employers in excess of monthly compensation limitation—(1) Aggregate monthly compensation in excess of $400 paid after May 31, 1959, for services rendered after that date. If an employee is paid compensation after May 31, 1959, by two or more employers for services rendered during any one calendar month after such date, and if the aggregate compensation paid to such employee after such date by all employers for services rendered during such month is in excess of $400, the measure of the employer tax of each employer with respect to the compensation paid by him after such date to the employee for the month shall be determined as follows:

(i) If such compensation is paid by two or more employers, none of whom is a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer (see paragraph (a)(6) of § 31.3231(a)–1), the measure of the employer tax of each employer shall be that proportion of $400 which the compensation paid after May 31, 1959, by such employer to the employee for the month bears to the total compensation paid after such date to such employee by all employers for that month.

(ii) If such compensation is paid by two or more employers, each of which is a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer, the measure of the employer tax of each subordinate unit shall be that proportion of $400 which the compensation paid after May 31, 1959, by such subordinate unit to the employee for the month bears to the total compensation paid after such date to such employee by all such subordinate units for that month.

(iii) If such compensation is paid by two or more employers, only one of whom is an employer other than a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and if the compensation paid after May 31, 1959, to the employee by the employer other than a subordinate unit equals or exceeds $400 for the month, then no subordinate unit shall be liable for any employer tax with respect to the compensation paid by it after such date to such employee for that month, and the measure of the employer tax of the employer other than a subordinate unit with respect to the compensation paid by him after 1954 to such employee for that month shall be $400.

(iv) If such compensation is paid by two or more employers other than a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer and by one or more subordinate units of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and if the total compensation paid after May 31, 1959, to the employee by the employers other than a subordinate unit equals or exceeds $400 for the month, then no subordinate unit shall be liable for any employer tax with respect to the compensation paid by it after such date to such employee for that month, and the measure of the employer tax of each employer other than a subordinate unit shall be that proportion of $400 which the compensation paid after such date by such employer to the employee for the month bears to the total compensation paid after such date to such employees other than a subordinate unit for that month.

(v) If such compensation is paid by two or more employers, only one of whom is a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and if the total compensation paid after May 31, 1959, to the employee by all employers other than the subordinate unit is less than $400 for the month, then the measure of the employer tax of each employer other than the subordinate unit shall be the full amount of compensation paid by him after such date to such employee for that month, and the measure of the employer tax of each subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer shall be that proportion of the remainder of $400 less the total compensation paid after such date to such employee for the month by all employers other than the subordinate units which the compensation paid after such date by such subordinate unit to the employee for that month bears to the total compensation paid after such date to such employee by all such subordinate units for that month.

(vi) If such compensation is paid by one or more employers other than a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and by two or more subordinate units of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and if the total compensation paid after May 31, 1959, to the employee by all employers other than the subordinate units is less than $400 for the month, then the measure of the employer tax of each employer other than the subordinate units shall be the full amount of compensation paid by him after such date to such employee for that month, and the measure of the employer tax of each subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer shall be that proportion of the remainder of $400 less the total compensation paid after such date to such employee for the month by all employers other than the subordinate units which the compensation paid after such date by such subordinate unit to the employee for that month bears to the total compensation paid after such date to such employee by all such subordinate units for that month.

(vii) For illustrations of the application of certain of the principles in this subparagraph, see the examples, illustrating the analogous principles with respect to the deduction of employee tax, set forth in paragraph (b)(1)(vii) of § 31.3202–1.

(2) Aggregate monthly compensation in excess of $350 paid before June 1, 1959, for services rendered after May 31, 1959. If an employee is paid compensation within the period January 1, 1955, to May 31, 1959, both dates inclusive, by two or more employers for services rendered during any one calendar month after May 31, 1959, and if the aggregate compensation paid within such period to such employee by all employers for services rendered during such month is in excess of $350, the measure of the employer tax of each employer with respect to the compensation paid by him to the employee within such period shall be determined in accordance with the principles stated in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph. Such principles should be applied, however, with reference to the compensation and services described in this subparagraph.

(3) Aggregate monthly compensation in excess of $350 paid after 1954 for services rendered before June 1, 1959. If an employee is paid compensation at any time after 1954 by two or more employers for services rendered during any one calendar month within the period January 1, 1955, to May 31, 1959, both dates inclusive, and if the aggregate compensation paid after 1954 to such employee by all employers for services rendered during such month is in excess of $350, the measure of the employer tax of each employer with respect to the compensation paid by him to the employee after 1954 shall be determined in accordance with the principles stated in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph. Such principles should be applied, however, with reference to the compensation and services described in this subparagraph.

(d) Cross reference. See paragraph (a) (4) and (5) of § 31.3231(e)–1 for provisions relating to the circumstances under which certain compensation is to be disregarded for the purpose of determining the employer tax.

PAR. 11. Section 31.3221–2 is amended to read as follows:

§ 31.3221–2 Rates and computation of employer tax.

(a) Rates. The rates of employer tax applicable with respect to compensation are as follows:

	Percent
Compensation paid at any time after 1954 for services rendered after 1954 and before June 1, 1959; and compensation paid after 1954 and before June 1, 1959, for services rendered after May 31, 1959	6¼
Compensation paid after May 31, 1959, for services rendered after May 31, 1959, and before 1962	6¾
Compensation paid after May 31, 1959, for services rendered during the calendar years 1962, 1963, and 1964	7¼

The rate of employer tax with respect to compensation paid after May 31, 1959, for services rendered after 1964 is the sum of 7¼ percent and an additional percentage. Such additional percentage is determined by subtracting 2¾ percent from the rate of tax imposed by section 3111 with respect to wages paid at the time such services are rendered.

Example. If the rate of tax imposed by section 3111 with respect to wages paid in 1965 is 3½ percent, then the rate of tax imposed by section 3221 with respect to compensation paid after May 31, 1959, for services rendered in 1965 is 8 percent. (That is, 2¾ percent subtracted from 3½ percent leaves a remainder of ¾ percent. Such remainder of ¾ percent added to 7¼ percent equals 8 percent.)

(b) Computation. The employer tax is computed by multiplying the amount of the compensation with respect to which the employer tax is imposed by the rate applicable to such compensation, as determined under paragraph (a) of this section.

FEDERAL CREDIT UNIONS

Notice of Proposed Rule Making

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act, approved June 11, 1946 (60 Stat. 238, 5 U.S.C. 1003) that the regulations set forth in tentative form below are proposed to be prescribed by the Director of the Bureau of Federal Credit Unions with approval of the Commissioner of Social Security and the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare.

The proposed regulations will add to the existing regulations a new section covering interest refunds, and five new parts covering the conversion of credit unions from Federal to State charter and from State to Federal charter, mergers of credit unions, voluntary partial liquidation of Federal credit unions to enable a division of assets and liabilities, and under certain conditions, the scaledown of credit union shares. They are necessary both to implement, interpret and apply 1959 amendments to the Federal Credit Union Act, and to implement and apply long-standing Bureau of Federal Credit Union's policy, interpretation and practice in the other areas proposed for regulation.

Prior to the official adoption of the proposed regulations, consideration will be given to any data, views, or arguments pertaining thereto which are submitted in writing in duplicate to the Director of the Bureau of Federal Credit Unions, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Washington 25, D.C., within a period of 30 days from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The proposed regulations are to be issued under authority contained in section 14 and section 21(a) of the Federal Credit Union Act, as amended. (73 Stat. 628, 12 U.S.C. 1761b and 1766.)

Dated: December 2, 1960.

[SEAL] J. DEANE GANNON,
Director, Bureau of Federal Credit Unions.

Approved: December 5, 1960.

JOSEPH H. MEYERS,
Acting Commissioner of Social Security.

Approved: December 7, 1960.

EDWARD FOSS WILSON,
Acting Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare.

1. Part 301, Chapter III of Title 45 of The Code of Federal Regulations, is amended by adding § 301.24, as follows:

§ 301.24 Refund of interest.

The board of directors of a Federal credit union may authorize an interest refund to all members who paid interest to the credit union during the year and who are members of record at the close of business on December 31 of that year. The amount of interest refund to the members shall be in proportion to the amount of interest paid by them as determined by the application of a uniform percentage. When an interest refund is authorized with respect to a year, it shall be recorded in the books of the credit union as a reduction of interest income for that year. The interest refund may be credited to the members' share accounts or paid directly to the members.

(Sec. 14, 73 Stat. 632; Sec. 21, 73 Stat. 635)

2. Chapter III of Title 45 of The Code of Federal Regulations is amended by adding Parts 306, 307, 308, 309, and 311, as follows:

PART 306—CONVERSION FROM FEDERAL TO STATE

Sec.
306.1 Requirements for conversion.
306.2 Meeting of members and notice to Bureau.
306.3 Notice of meeting of members.
306.4 Notice of meeting to Bureau.
306.5 Report of results of meeting to Bureau.
306.6 Approval by majority of all members required.
306.7 Compliance with State laws.
306.8 Completion of conversion.
306.9 Assistance by Bureau.

AUTHORITY: §§ 306.1 to 306.9 issued under sec. 21, 73 Stat. 635, sec. 26, 73 Stat. 638.

§ 306.1 Requirements for conversion.

Any Federal credit union may convert into a State credit union by (a) complying with the requirements of the Act and the regulations in this part requisite to enabling it to convert to a State credit union; (b) taking such action as may be necessary under applicable State law for the conversion of Federal credit unions to State credit unions to obtain a State credit union charter; and (c) filing with the Bureau a copy of the State credit union charter issued to it within ten days after receipt thereof.

§ 306.2 Meeting of members and notice to Bureau.

Upon approval of the proposition to convert to a State credit union by a majority of the board of directors, it shall set a date for a meeting of the members, at which the individual members shall have the option to vote on the proposition either in person at the meeting or by written ballot to be filed on or before the date of the meeting. The board of directors promptly shall notify the Regional Representative in writing of its approval of the proposition to convert to a State credit union, and of the date set for the meeting of the members.

§ 306.3 Notice of meeting of members.

(a) Written notice of the meeting shall be delivered in person to each member or mailed to each member at the address for such member appearing on the records of the credit union, not more than thirty days nor less than seven days prior to the date set for the meeting.

(b) In addition to setting forth the proposition for conversion and the date, time, and place of the meeting, the written notice of the meeting shall (1) inform the members of the opportunity to vote by written ballot, and when, where and how (on or before the date of the meeting) such written ballots may be filed; (2) contain a form of written ballot for the use of those members who will vote thereby instead of in person at the meeting; and (3) set forth, for the advance consideration of the members, a brief and accurate statement of the reasons for and against the proposed conversion, including the effect, if any, it will have upon shareholdings and obligations of members, and the policies and practices of the credit union.

§ 306.4 Notice of meeting to Bureau.

A copy of the written notice of the meeting, verified by the affidavit of the secretary of the credit union, shall be delivered to the Regional Representative, at the same time, in advance of the meeting, that it is delivered to the members.

§ 306.5 Report of results of meeting to Bureau.

A statement of the results of the vote, verified by the affidavits of the president or vice president and the secretary, shall be filed with the Regional Representative within ten days after the vote is taken.

§ 306.6 Approval by majority of all members required.

In order for the proposition for conversion to be approved and acted upon further by the credit union it must receive the affirmative vote of a majority of all the members.

§ 306.7 Compliance with State laws.

If the proposition for conversion is approved by the affirmative vote of a majority of all the members, the board of directors promptly, and in no event later than 90 days after such approval, shall take such action on behalf of the credit union as may be necessary under the applicable State law for the conversion of Federal credit unions to State credit unions to convert the credit union to a State chartered credit union. In addition, the board of directors promptly shall inform the Regional Representative of the action so taken and, from time to time, of the progress of such action.

§ 306.8 Completion of conversion.

(a) Within ten days after the credit union receives a State credit union charter it shall file a copy thereof with the Regional Office. The Regional Representative promptly shall notify the credit union in writing of the receipt of the State charter. The credit union shall cease to be a Federal credit union as of the close of the business of the date such copy is received by the Regional Office unless the credit union has been notified in writing or is notified in writing to the contrary pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section. Upon ceasing to be a Federal credit union, such credit union shall no longer be subject to any of the provisions of the Act. The successor State credit union shall be vested with all of the assets and shall continue responsible for all of the obligations of the Federal credit union to the same extent as though the conversion had not taken place.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (a) of this section, if the requirements of the Act and the regulations in this part have not been satisfied, the attempted conversion shall be ineffective and the credit union shall continue to be a Federal credit union, subject to the provisions of the Act, to the same extent as though the conversion had not been attempted. The Regional Representative promptly shall notify the credit union in writing either before or after the copy of the State charter is filed with the Regional Office, of any findings by the Bureau, including the reasons therefor, which adversely affect the validity of the attempted conversion.

§ 306.9 Assistance by Bureau.

(a) Upon the request of any credit union which desires to convert, or which is converting, pursuant to the provisions in this part, the Bureau will furnish information, assistance and advice which, in the discretion of the Director, is pertinent to the proposed conversion and consistent with the powers and duties of the Bureau under the Act.

(b) The Bureau will cooperate, to the extent deemed consistent with its powers and duties under the Act, with State agencies and State officials having responsibility under applicable State law for the issuance of charters to and the supervision of State credit unions, in questions and matters relating to the conversion of any Federal credit union to State charter pursuant to the Act and the provisions in this part.

PART 307—CONVERSION FROM STATE TO FEDERAL

Sec.
307.1 Requirements for conversion.
307.2 Preliminary application to convert.
307.3 Information required with preliminary application.
307.4 Approval of preliminary application to convert.
307.5 Compliance with State laws.
307.6 Application for Federal charter.
307.7 Completion of conversion.

§ 307.1 Requirements for conversion.

Any State credit union may convert into a Federal credit union by (a) complying with all the requirements of the State requisite to enabling it to convert to a Federal credit union, if any, or to cease being a State credit union; (b) filing with the Bureau proof of such compliance, satisfactory to the Director; (c) filing with the Bureau an organization certificate as required by the Act; and (d) filing with the Bureau proof satisfactory to the Director that all other requirements of the Act and the regulations in this part have been complied with.

§ 307.2 Preliminary application to convert.

(a) Any State credit union that desires to convert into a Federal credit union may, after approval by its board of directors and prior to taking the steps prescribed in § 307.1 file with the Bureau a preliminary application for conversion. Such preliminary application shall be on a form, copies of which may be obtained from any Regional Office of the Bureau.

(b) A preliminary application for conversion shall be filed with the Bureau through the Regional Office. It shall authorize an examination of its books and records by the Bureau and contain an undertaking to pay the examination fee therefor in accordance with § 301.7 of this chapter.

§ 307.3 Information required with preliminary application.

(a) A preliminary application shall be accompanied by a current financial and statistical report, Form FCU 109, as revised, or a form substantially equivalent thereto, certified correct by the treasurer and verified by the affidavit of the president or vice-president of the credit union and a statement verified by the affidavits of the president or vice-president and treasurer of the credit union which shall contain (1) a statement of its policies and procedures with respect to loans to members, including interest rates and charges incident to making loans, maturities of loans, unsecured loan limit, types of security accepted, and requirements for amortization; (2) a list of all outstanding unsecured loans with unpaid balances in excess of $750; (3) a list of all outstanding loans with maturities in excess of 5 years; (4) a schedule of all loans which are delinquent two months or more; (5) a statement of the kinds of accounts (share, savings, deposit, or other) which members are required or permitted to maintain; (6) a description of its real property holdings; (7) a description of investments other than loans to members, loans to other credit unions, United States bonds, and shares in savings and loan associations insured by Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation; (8) the names and locations of depositaries of its funds; (9) a description of any services rendered to or on behalf of members or the public other than accepting and maintaining accounts of members and making loans to members; (10) a statement of the field of membership.

(b) It shall be accompanied, also, by a preliminary plan of conversion which shall show what the credit union proposes to do about any of its policies, procedures, practices, assets and liabilities which do not comply with the requirements of the Act if its conversion to a Federal credit union should be approved.

§ 307.4 Approval of preliminary application to convert.

(a) The Director will consider the preliminary application for conversion, the financial and statistical report, the preliminary plan of conversion, and such other information or reports of examination or investigation as may have been submitted or required, and will accord such application conditional approval upon his determination that the credit union does or is able to comply with all the requirements of the Act. The Director will disapprove the preliminary application if he determines that the credit union is unable to comply with all the requirements of the Act.

(b) Upon disapproval of a preliminary application for conversion into a Federal credit union, the credit union, if it nevertheless believes that it is able to comply with all the requirements of the Act, may submit promptly additional information, including a new preliminary plan for conversion, for the reconsideration of the Director.

§ 307.5 Compliance with State laws.

Upon the conditional approval, either initially or upon reconsideration, of a preliminary application for conversion into a Federal credit union, the credit union shall proceed promptly to comply with all the requirements of the State requisite to enabling it to convert to a Federal credit union, if any, or to cease being a credit union of such State. After obtaining the vote of its members required by the laws of such State for the accomplishment of such purpose, the credit union shall proceed promptly to comply with all the conditions prescribed in the conditional approval of the preliminary application.

(a) Upon compliance with all the requirements of the State requisite to enabling it to convert to a Federal credit union, if any, or to cease being a credit union of such State, and upon compliance with all the conditions prescribed in the conditional approval of the preliminary application, the credit union may file with the Regional Representative an organization certificate, together with proposed bylaws, as required by the Act, which shall constitute its formal application for conversion into a Federal credit union.

(b) Such organization certificate and proposed bylaws shall be accompanied by evidence satisfactory to the Director showing compliance by the credit union with all the requirements of the State requisite to enabling it to convert to a Federal credit union, if any, or to cease being a credit union of such State and compliance by the credit union with all the conditions prescribed in the conditional approval of the preliminary application.

§ 307.7 Completion of conversion.

(a) Upon approval of the organization certificate by the Director the credit union shall become a Federal credit union as of the date it ceases to be a State credit union. It shall be vested with all of the assets and shall continue responsible for all of the obligations of the State credit union to the same extent as though the conversion had not taken place.

(b) All directors and credit committee members holding office at the time the credit union becomes a Federal credit union shall hold office until the first annual meeting of the members of the Federal credit union and until the election and qualification of their respective successors, or until the qualification of their respective successors elected at a special meeting of the members as may be required pursuant to the provisions of paragraph (d) of this section.

(c) If a special meeting of the members is not required pursuant to the provisions of paragraph (d) of this section, the board of directors shall hold a legal meeting promptly upon the credit union becoming a Federal credit union. At such meeting the board of directors shall elect such executive officers, appoint such committees, and transact such other business as is necessary to carry into effect the conversion as approved by the Director and to operate the Federal credit union in accordance with the requirements of the Act.

(d) If required in the conditional approval of the preliminary application or upon approval of the organization certificate and bylaws, a board of directors, or a credit committee, or both, shall be elected at a special meeting of the members to be held promptly upon the credit union becoming a Federal credit union, all to hold office until the first annual meeting of the Federal credit union and until the election and qualification of their respective successors. At such meeting such other action shall be taken as is necessary to carry into effect the conversion as approved by the Director and to operate the Federal credit union in accordance with the requirements of the Act. Immediately after such meeting the board of directors shall meet, elect such executive officers, appoint such committees, and transact such other business as is necessary to carry into effect the conversion as approved by the Director and to operate the Federal credit union in accordance with the requirements of the Act.

PART 308—MERGERS OF FEDERAL CREDIT UNIONS

Sec.
308.1 When permissible.
308.2 Preparation of merger plan.
308.3 Approval of plan by Director.
308.4 Approval by members.
308.5 Completion of merger.

AUTHORITY: §§ 308.1 to 308.5 issued under sec. 21, 73 Stat. 635.

§ 308.1 When permissible.

Two or more Federal credit unions, the combined membership of which would have a common bond of occupation or association or would be limited to groups within a well-defined neighborhood, community, or rural district, may merge into a single Federal credit union; or, two or more Federal and State credit unions, the combined membership of which would have a common bond of occupation or association or would be limited to groups within a well-defined neighborhood, community, or rural district, may merge into a single Federal credit union: Provided, That the State credit unions have the power and authority to merge under applicable State laws; or, two or more Federal and State credit unions, the combined membership of which would be eligible for credit union charter under applicable State law, may merge into a single State credit union: Provided, That the State credit unions have the power and authority to merge under the said applicable State law. Any such merger shall take place in accordance with the Regulations in this part, and, with respect to any State credit union involved in such merger, in accordance with the provisions of applicable State law.

§ 308.2 Preparation of merger plan.

Upon the approval of a proposition for a merger by the boards of directors of the credit unions, they shall prepare, or cause to be prepared for their approval, a plan for the proposed merger. The plan for the proposed merger shall include, but not by way of limitation, a current financial and statistical report of each credit union; an appraisal of the share value with respect to each credit union and the basis for the determination of such share value; whether differences in share values between the credit unions will be absorbed or adjusted, and, if there is to be an adjustment of such differences, how it will be accomplished; any provisions that are made with respect to reserves, undivided earnings and dividends; provisions with respect to notification and payment of creditors; provisions for bringing the assets and liabilities of any merging State credit unions into conformity with the requirements of the Act, if necessary, where it is proposed that the merged credit unions are to continue as a Federal credit union; and which of the merging credit unions is to continue and which will lose identity in the proposed merger. Also, if the merged credit unions are to continue as a Federal credit union, the plan should include any proposed amendments to the charter of the continuing Federal credit union.

§ 308.3 Approval of plan by Director.

Upon approval of the plan of the proposed merger by the board of directors of each credit union, it shall be submitted to the Regional Representative. If the Director finds that it is equitable, in the best interests of the members of the credit unions, and in accordance with the Act and the regulations in this part and with any applicable State law, the plan will be approved for submittal to the members of the credit unions. If the Director disapproves the plan of the proposed merger, the credit unions will be notified in writing of the decision and the reasons therefor and shall be given the opportunity to submit an amended plan for the reconsideration of the Director.

§ 308.4 Approval by members.

Upon approval of the plan of the proposed merger by the Director it may be submitted to the members of each Federal credit union at their annual meetings if such are scheduled within 120 days after such approval, or it shall be submitted to the members of each Federal credit union at special meetings to be called within 120 days after such approval; it shall be submitted to the members of any State credit union included in the proposed merger, and acted upon thereby, in accordance with the requirements of applicable State law. Federal credit union members shall have the right to vote on the proposition in person at the meeting, or by written ballot to be filed not later than 30 days following the date of the meeting. Written notice of the Federal credit union meetings, annual or special, at which the proposed merger is to be considered, shall include a summary of the plan of the proposed merger, shall inform the members of the opportunity to vote on the proposition by written ballot, and when and where such written ballots may be filed, and shall contain a form of written ballot for the use of those members who will vote thereby instead of in person at the meeting. The written notice shall be handed to each member in person, or mailed to each member at his address as the same appears on the records of the credit union, as provided in the bylaws. In order for the plan to be approved and acted upon further by the Federal credit unions it must receive the affirmative vote of a majority of all the members of each such Federal credit union. The results of the votes shall be certified to the Regional Representative promptly after the meetings by the president and secretary of each of the credit unions.

§ 308.5 Completion of merger.

Upon approval of the plan of the proposed merger by the members of each of the credit unions, such action as may be necessary to carry out the approved plan shall be taken. If the Director is satisfied that the merger has been accomplished in accordance with the approved plan he will cancel the charters of the Federal credit unions which have lost their identity in the merger, and, if the continuing credit union is a Federal credit union, he will approve any amendments to the charter thereof included in the plan.

PART 309—VOLUNTARY PARTIAL LIQUIDATION FOR DIVISION OF ASSETS AND LIABILITIES

Sec.
309.1 When permissible.
309.2 Approval by board and appointment of committee.
309.3 Preparation of plan.
309.4 Notice of option to transfer.
309.5 Submittal of plan to Bureau.
309.6 Approval of plan by Director.
309.7 Approval of plan by majority of all members.
309.8 Completion of plan.

AUTHORITY: §§ 309.1 to 309.8 issued under sec. 21, 73 Stat. 635.

§ 309.1 When permissible.

When a group properly within the field of membership of a Federal credit union has come to constitute a separately identifiable group having a common bond of occupation or association or a separately identifiable group within a well-defined neighborhood, community, or rural district, with respect to which the director would be satisfied to approve the organization of a new Federal credit union, a Federal credit union may undertake a voluntary partial liquidation for the accomplishment of an equitable and proportionate division of its assets and liabilities (including reserves and undivided earnings) between itself and such a new Federal credit union to which such a sufficient number of the members of the said separately identifiable group have authorized transfer of their membership as to make such partial liquidation and division reasonable and feasible. The organization of the new Federal credit union, the transfer of membership, and the division of assets and liabilities, shall take place in accordance with the regulations in this part.

§ 309.2 Approval by board and appointment of committee.

Upon the approval by the board of directors of a proposition for voluntary partial liquidation of the Federal credit union in order to divide its assets and liabilities between itself and a new Federal credit union to be organized among the members of the separately identifiable group referred to in § 309.1, it shall appoint a committee of at least seven members identified with the said group to cooperate and assist in the preparation and carrying out of a voluntary partial liquidation for division of assets and liabilities, and to subscribe to and submit to the Bureau an organization certificate, in accordance with the Act, for the proposed new Federal credit union. The board of directors promptly shall notify the Regional Representative in writing of these actions.

The board of directors, with the cooperation and assistance of the committee, shall prepare a plan which shall provide that members within the group referred to in § 309.1 shall have the option, to be exercised in writing on or before a date fixed in the plan, of authorizing the transfer of their membership, i.e., their shares and their loans as of the date hereinafter provided for the closing of the books, to the new Federal credit union upon the completion of its organization. The plan shall provide also for the equitable and proportionate division of the remaining assets and liabilities and shall fix a time, subsequent to the date fixed for exercise of the option to transfer membership, but no later than six months thereafter for the closing of the books of the credit union as of which the division shall be made.

§ 309.4 Notice of option to transfer.

The board of directors, with the cooperation and assistance of the committee, shall cause written notice of the option to transfer membership to be handed to each member within the group referred to in § 309.1 in person, or mailed to each such member at his address as the same appears on the records of the credit union. The written notice shall contain a summary of the plan and a form of authorization for use by the members which shall cover, in addition to transfer of membership, confirmation of the members' share balance and loan balance, and an authorization to the committee to seek approval for the organization certificate for the proposed new Federal credit union in accordance with the Act. The authorization shall be valid for no longer than six months from the date fixed for the exercise of the option, and shall not prevent termination of membership during such period, except for any brief period contemplated by the plan during which the transfer and division are being accomplished and recorded on the books of the respective credit unions.

§ 309.5 Submittal of plan to Bureau.

Promptly after the date fixed in the plan for the exercise of the option to authorize transfer of membership, the board of directors shall submit to the Regional Representative the plan for voluntary partial liquidation for division of assets and liabilities, together with a current financial and statistical report and a report covering the members who authorized the transfer of their memberships to the proposed new Federal credit union including a list of their individual share balances and loan balances. At the same time, the committee shall submit to the Regional Representative the organization certificate of the proposed new Federal credit union.

§ 309.6 Approval of plan by Director.

If the Director finds that the plan provides for an equitable and proportionate division of the assets and liabilities, taking into consideration the interests of the members who have authorized transfer of their membership to the proposed new Federal credit union and the interests of the remaining members, the Regional Representative will inform the board of directors that the Director approves the plan for submittal to the members at either an annual or special meeting as provided in § 309.7. The Regional Representative also will notify the board of directors and the subscribers to the organization certificate of the Director's approval of the organization certificate subject to the approval of the plan by the members.

§ 309.7 Approval of plan by majority of all members.

If the Director approves the plan, as provided in § 309.6, it may be submitted to the members at an annual meeting, if one is timely scheduled within the six months from the date fixed for the exercise of the option, or it shall be submitted to the members at a special meeting to be called as provided in the bylaws and within such six month period. In either event, written notice of the meeting, stating the purpose thereof and a summary of the plan, shall be handed to each member in person, or mailed to each member at his address as the same appears on the records of the credit union, as provided in the bylaws. In order for the plan to be approved and acted upon further, it must receive the affirmative vote of a majority of the members present and voting at the meeting.

§ 309.8 Completion of plan.

The president and secretary of the credit union shall certify the results of the vote to the Regional Representative promptly after the meeting. If the plan was approved by the members, the Bureau will issue the approved organization certificate to the new Federal credit union. Promptly upon the issuance of the organization certificate, and within the six months from the date fixed for the exercise of the option, the members of the new Federal credit union, being the subscribers and all those who authorized transfer of membership to it and who have not terminated membership prior thereto, shall meet upon at least seven days but no more than thirty days written notice to be given by the subscribers, for the purpose of nominating and electing a board of directors and a credit committee, all to hold office in accordance with the provisions of the bylaws governing the organization meeting of the new credit union, and the transaction of such other business as may be necessary and proper. Immediately after such meeting, the board of directors shall meet, elect executive officers and appoint a supervisory committee, all to hold office in accordance with the provisions of the bylaws governing the organization of the credit union, and transact such other business as may be necessary and proper. The division of assets and liabilities shall take place promptly after the foregoing organization meetings of the new Federal credit union have been held, and upon such transfer the new Federal credit union shall be vested with all the assets received and shall be responsible for all the liabilities assumed, as though the division of assets and liabilities had not taken place.

PART 311—SCALEDOWN OF SHARES

Sec.

311.1 When scaledown of shares is permissible.
311.2 Approval by board of directors and suspension.
311.3 Determination of amount of scaledown required.
311.4 Submittal to Bureau for approval.
311.5 Approval of scaledown by Director.
311.6 Approval by majority of all members.
311.7 Completion of scaledown.
311.8 Recoveries on assets charged off.
311.9 Future earnings not available for restoration of scaledown.

AUTHORITY: §§ 311.1 to 311.9 issued under sec. 21, 73 Stat. 635.

§ 311.1 When scaledown of shares permissible.

When a Federal credit union is in a condition of insolvency to the extent that the members' shareholdings are impaired, and when it appears that there is a reasonable expectation of future succesful credit union operations upon a restoration of solvency by means of charging off actual and reasonably estimated losses against a uniform pro-rata reduction of the members' shareholdings (hereinafter referred to as a scaledown), the credit union may conduct such a scaledown in accordance with the regulations in this part.

§ 311.2 Approval by board of directors and suspension.

The proposition for such scaledown shall first be approved by a majority of the board of directors and a suspension of the acceptance of payments on and withdrawal of shares and the granting of loans shall be put into immediate force and effect. This suspension, and any prior suspension action taken by the board including any requirement of written notice of intention to withdraw shares, then in force and effect, shall remain in force and effect until terminated by the board of directors following accomplishment of the scaledown, or until such termination is authorized by the Director.

§ 311.3 Determination of amount of scaledown required.

(a) The board of directors shall prepare an analysis of the credit union's financial condition covering the causes of its insolvency and its actual and estimated losses, including an analysis of its outstanding delinquent and doubtful loans to members. Those items which are proposed to be charged off against the scaledown shall be separately identified in detail and listed on a separate schedule.

(b) On the basis of the actual and estimated losses of all kinds, the board of directors shall determine the amount by which it is necessary to scaledown the members' shareholdings in order to restore the solvency of the credit union, and, on the basis of the total of such shareholdings, the percentage by which such shareholdings will be scaled down in achieving such result.

§ 311.4 Submittal to Bureau for approval.

The analysis, schedule and determination required by § 311.3 (a) and (b), together with a current financial and statistical report of the credit union (Form FCU–109) shall be submitted by the board of directors to the Regional Representative.

§ 311.5 Approval of scaledown by Director.

If the Director is satisfied that the proposed scaledown is fair and equitable to the members, that it will restore the solvency of the credit union, and that there is a reasonable expectation of future successful credit union operations, he will approve the proposal for the scaledown and authorize the board of directors to submit it to the members.

§ 311.6 Approval by majority of all members.

Upon authorization by the Director the board of directors promptly shall cause a special meeting of the members to be called in accordance with the provisions of the bylaws for consideration of the proposal. The members shall have the right to vote in person at the meeting, or by written ballot to be filed not later than thirty days following the date of the meeting. In addition to stating the purpose of the meeting, the written notice shall contain a form of written ballot for the use of those members who chose to vote thereby, and shall state when and where such ballots may be filed. Approval of the proposition for the scaledown shall be by the affirmative vote of a majority of all the members.

If the scaledown is approved by the majority of the members it shall be recorded on the books and records of the credit union, including the individual share accounts of the members. In addition, a schedule of the individual share accounts of the members showing the account number, the name, the individual share balance before the scaledown, the amount of scaledown applicable to each member and the individual share balance after the scaledown shall be prepared in duplicate and one copy, certified correct by the treasurer of the credit union, shall be forwarded to the Regional Representative. Thereafter the board of directors shall terminate the suspension on share payments and withdrawals and on the granting of loans, and credit union operations may be resumed.

§ 311.8 Recoveries on assets charged off.

The assets of the credit union which were charged off in the scaledown may be segregated on the books and records of the credit union and held for the benefit of the members whose share account balances were reduced in the scaledown if provided for in the scaledown proposal voted on by the members. Any recoveries on these assets shall be distributed to such individuals (whether or not they are members at the time of recovery or distribution) from time to time in amounts which bear the same ratio to the amounts by which the individual members' share accounts were reduced as the total amount to be distributed bears to the total amount of assets so segregated.

§ 311.9 Future earnings not available for restoration of scaledown.

Future earnings of the credit union shall not be available for distribution to restore in whole or in part amounts by which members' share accounts were reduced by virtue of the scaledown.

FEDERAL AVIATION AGENCY

[14 CFR Part 507]

[Reg. Docket No. 597]

AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

Luscombe

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (14 CFR Part 405), notice is hereby given that the Federal Aviation Agency has under consideration a proposal to amend Part 507 of the Regulations of the Administrator to include an airworthiness directive requiring inspection of the wing root area on Luscombe Model 8 Series aircraft for chafing between the aileron pulley and/or aileron cable and the forward wing tank fuel line. Existence of such a condition has resulted in the leakage of fuel into the cockpit and the creation of a fire or explosion hazard.

Interested persons may participate in the making of the proposed rule by submitting such written data, views or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in duplicate to the Docket Section of the Federal Aviation Agency, Room B–316, 1711 New York Avenue NW., Washington 25, D.C. All communications received on or before January 13, 1961, will be considered by the Administrator before taking action on the proposed rule. The proposals contained in this notice may be changed in light of comments received. All comments submitted will be available, in the Docket Section, for examination by interested persons when the prescribed date for return of comments has expired. This proposal will not be given further distribution as a draft release.

This amendment is proposed under the authority of sections 313(a), 601 and 603 of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 752, 775, 776; 49 U.S.C. 1354(a), 1421, 1423).

In consideration of the foregoing, it is proposed to amend § 507.10(a) of Part 507 (14 CFR Part 507), by adding the following airworthiness directive:

LUSCOMBE. Applies to all Model 8 Series aircraft incorporating wing fuel tanks.

Compliance required as indicated.

Within 50 hours' time in service after the effective date of this directive, remove the fairing at the wing root of each wing and inspect the wing root area for interference between the forward fuel line and the aileron cable and/or aileron pulley. Remove the trim panel over the forward door post and inspect the forward door post area for interference between the forward fuel line and the aileron cable and/or pulley. If any interference is found, bend fuel line sufficiently to provide the necessary clearance. Replace any worn fuel lines being careful to provide clearance when installing the replacement fuel line.

Issued in Washington, D.C., on December 8, 1960.

Director,
Bureau of Flight Standards.

FEDERAL AIRWAYS, CONTROL AREAS AND REPORTING POINTS

Revocation

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (14 CFR 409.13), notice is hereby given that the Federal Aviation Agency is considering an amendment to Parts 600 and 601 of the regulations of the Administrator, the substance of which is stated below.

Blue Federal airway No. 16 extends from the Waverly, Va., radio range to the Tappahannock, Va., radio range. The Federal Aviation Agency is considering revoking this airway. It is the policy of this Agency to revoke L/MF airways wherever adequate VOR airways are available, and it appears that the route from Waverly to Tappahannock is adequately served by VOR Federal airway No. 213. Therefore, it appears that the retention of Blue 16 is unjustified as an assignment of airspace. Accordingly, the Federal Aviation Agency proposes to revoke Blue 16, its associated control areas and reporting points. Adoption of this proposal would not necessarily result in discontinuance of the low frequency navigational aids associated with this airway. Any proposals to discontinue one or more of these aids would be processed in accordance with current Agency procedures.

Interested persons may submit such written data, views or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in triplicate to the Chief, Air Traffic Management Division, Federal Aviation Agency, Federal Building, New York International Airport, Jamaica 30, N.Y. All communications received within forty-five days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER will be considered before action is taken on the proposed amendment. No public hearing is contemplated at this time, but arrangements for informal conferences with Federal Aviation Agency officials may be made by contacting the Regional Air Traffic Management Division Chief, or the Chief, Airspace Utilization Division, Federal Aviation Agency, Washington 25, D.C. Any data, views or arguments presented during such conferences must also be submitted in writing in accordance with this notice in order to become part of the record for consideration. The proposal contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received.

The official Docket will be available for examination by interested persons at the Docket Section, Federal Aviation Agency, Room B–316, 1711 New York Avenue NW., Washington 25, D.C. An informal Docket will also be available for examination at the office of the Regional Air Traffic Management Division Chief.

This amendment is proposed under section 307(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 749; 49 U.S.C. 1348).

Issued in Washington, D.C., on December 8, 1960.

Chief, Airspace Utilization Division.

FEDERAL AIRWAYS, CONTROL AREAS AND REPORTING POINTS

Revocation

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (14 CFR 409.13), notice is hereby given that the Federal Aviation Agency is considering an amendment to Parts 600 and 601 of the regulations of the Administrator, the substance of which is stated below.

Blue Federal airway No. 49 extends from Wildwood, N.J., to Philadelphia, Pa. The Federal Aviation Agency is considering revoking this airway. It is the policy of this Agency to revoke L/MF airways wherever adequate VOR airways are available, and it appears that the route from Wildwood to Philadelphia is adequately served by VOR Federal airway No. 239. In addition, the Federal Aviation Agency peak-day airway traffic survey for the period July 1, 1959, through June 30, 1960, shows no aircraft movements on this airway. Therefore, it appears that the retention of this airway is unjustified as an assignment of airspace. Accordingly, the Federal Aviation Agency proposes to revoke Blue 49 and its associated control areas. Adoption of this proposal would not necessarily result in discontinuance of the low frequency navigational aids associated with this airway. Any proposals to discontinue one or more of these aids would be processed in accordance with current Agency procedures. Concurrently with this action, § 601.4649, relating to designated reporting points on Blue 49 would be revoked.

Interested persons may submit such written data, views or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in triplicate to the Chief, Air Traffic Management Division, Federal Aviation Agency, Federal Building, New York International Airport, Jamaica 30, N.Y. All communications received within forty-five days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER will be considered before action is taken on the proposed amendment. No public hearing is contemplated at this time, but arrangements for informal conferences with Federal Aviation Agency officials may be made by contacting the Regional Air Traffic Management Division Chief, or the Chief, Airspace Utilization Division, Federal Aviation Agency, Washington 25, D.C. Any data, views or arguments presented during such conferences must also be submitted in writing in accordance with this notice in order to become part of the record for consideration. The proposal contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received.

The official Docket will be available for examination by interested persons at the Docket Section, Federal Aviation Agency, Room B–316, 1711 New York Avenue NW., Washington 25, D.C. An informal Docket will also be available for examination at the office of the Regional Air Traffic Management Division Chief.

This amendment is proposed under section 307(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 749; 49 U.S.C. 1348).

Issued in Washington, D.C., on December 8, 1960.

[Airspace Docket No. 60–NY–123]

FEDERAL AIRWAYS, CONTROL AREAS AND REPORTING POINTS

Revocation

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (14 CFR 409.13), notice is hereby given that the Federal Aviation Agency is considering an amendment to Parts 600 and 601 of the regulations of the Administrator, the substance of which is stated below.

Red Federal airway No. 45 extends from the Blackstone, Va., radio range to the intersection of the north course of the Quantico, Va., (MCAS) radio range and the northwest course of the Washington, D.C., radio range (McLean, Va., Intersection). The Federal Aviation Agency is considering revoking this airway. It is the policy of this agency to revoke L/MF airways wherever adequate VOR airways are available, and it appears that the route from Blackstone to McLean is adequately served by VOR Federal airway No. 3. Therefore, it appears that the retention of Red 45 is unjustified as an assignment of airspace. Accordingly, the Federal Aviation Agency proposes to revoke Red 45, its associated control areas and reporting points. Adoption of this proposal would not necessarily result in discontinuance of the low frequency navigational aids associated with this airway. Any proposals to discontinue one or more of these aids would be processed in accordance with current Agency procedures.

Interested persons may submit such written data, views or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in triplicate to the Chief, Air Traffic Management Division, Federal Aviation Agency, Federal Building, New York International Airport, Jamaica 30, N.Y. All communications received within forty-five days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER will be considered before action is taken on the proposed amendment. No public hearing is contemplated at this time, but arrangements for informal conferences with Federal Aviation Agency officials may be made by contacting the Regional Air Traffic Management Division Chief, or the Chief, Airspace Utilization Division, Federal Aviation Agency, Washington 25, D.C. Any data, views or arguments presented during such conferences must also be submitted in writing in accordance with this notice in order to become part of the record for consideration. The proposal contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received.

The official Docket will be available for examination by interested persons at the Docket Section, Federal Aviation Agency, Room B-316, 1711 New York Avenue NW., Washington 25, D.C. An informal Docket will also be available for examination at the office of the Regional Air Traffic Management Division Chief.

This amendment is proposed under section 307(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 749; 49 U.S.C. 1348).

RESTRICTED AREAS

Withdrawal of Proposal To Designate a Restricted Area/Military Climb Corridor

In a notice of proposed rule making published in the FEDERAL REGISTER as Airspace Docket No. 59-KC-43 on December 9, 1959 (24 F.R. 9937), it was proposed to designate a Restricted Area/Military Climb Corridor to extend along the 039° True radial of the TVOR at the K. I. Sawyer AFB, Mich.

In response to this Notice, the Department of the Air Force has advised the Federal Aviation Agency that the proposed alignment of the climb corridor would not meet the requirements for aircraft operations being conducted at the K. I. Sawyer AFB. Therefore, the proposal to designate a Restricted Area/Military Climb Corridor at K. I. Sawyer AFB as proposed in Airspace Docket No. 59-KC-43 is being withdrawn. The designation of a Restricted Area/Military Climb Corridor at K. I. Sawyer AFB will be further coordinated between the Federal Aviation Agency and the Department of the Air Force.

In consideration of the foregoing, the notice of proposed rule making contained in Airspace Docket 59-KC-43 is hereby withdrawn.

(Sec. 307(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 749; 49 U.S.C. 1348)

CALIFORNIA

Small Tract Classification Order

NOVEMBER 28, 1960.

1. Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the California State Supervisor, Bureau of Land Management, under Part II, Document 4, California State Office, dated November 19, 1954 (19 F.R. 7697), I hereby classify the following described public land, totaling approximately 1527.10 acres in Siskiyou County, California as suitable for title transfer under the Small Tract Act of June 1, 1938 (52 Stat. 609, 43 U.S.C. 682a), as amended:

MOUNT DIABLO MERIDIAN

T. 45 N., R. 7 W.,
Sec. 2: Lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, S½N½, N½SE¼, and SW¼;
Sec. 3: Lots 1 thru 18 inclusive;
Sec. 10: Lots 23, 24, 25, 26 thru 44 inclusive, 48, 49 and M.S. 6463;
Sec. 11: Lots 1 thru 6 inclusive, 8 thru 11 inclusive, N½NW¼, SE¼NW¼.

Containing approximately 1527.10 acres, of which 150 acres are covered by 46 applications from persons entitled to preference under 43 CFR 257.5(a).

2. Classification of the above described lands by this order segregates them from all appropriations, including locations under the mining laws, except as to applications under the mineral leasing laws.

3. The lands classified by this order shall not become subject to applications under the Small Tract Act of June 1, 1938 (52 Stat. 609; 43 U.S.C. 682a), as amended, until it is so provided by an order to be issued by an authorized officer, opening the lands to application or bid.

4. All valid applications filed prior to November 28, 1960, will be granted, as soon as possible, the preference right provided for by 43 CFR 257.5(a).

RESIDUAL FEED YEAST FROM CUBA

Determination of No Sales at Less Than Fair Value

DECEMBER 8, 1960.

A complaint was received that residual feed yeast from Cuba was being sold in the United States at less than fair value within the meaning of the Antidumping Act of 1921.

I hereby determine that residual feed yeast from Cuba is not being, nor likely to be, sold at less than fair value within the meaning of section 201(a) of the Antidumping Act, 1921, as amended (19 U.S.C. 160(a)).

Statement of reasons. Residual feed yeast identical to that exported to the United States is sold for home consumption in Cuba. Comparison was, accordingly, made between purchase price and home market price. The comparison disclosed no sales to the United States at less than home market price.

This determination and the statement of reasons therefor are published pursuant to section 201(c) of the Antidumping Act, 1921, as amended (19 U.S.C. 160(c)).

Epperson, Sr., Luray, Virginia, et al., Docket No. 13735, File No. BP-13474 et al.

1. The Commission has before it for consideration a petition to sever filed by United Broadcasting Company, Inc., on October 21, 1960, and a statement in support filed by the Commission's Broadcast Bureau on November 3, 1960.

2. By Order released August 5, 1960 (FCC 60-942), the Commission designated for hearing United's application to increase power from 250 watts to 1 kw and install a new transmitter. Twenty-five other applicants were designated for hearing in a consolidated proceeding. The applicants were placed into three groups for hearing purposes. The only link between Groups 1 and 2 and Group 3 is the interference between petitioner's application, which was placed in Group 2, and that of Independence Broadcasting Company, Inc. (WHAT), Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, in Group 3. Petitioner now requests that Groups 1 and 2 be severed from Group 3.

3. The interference to petitioner from the proposal of WHAT would affect 1,260 persons or 0.1 percent of the population within petitioner's 0.5 mv/m contour; a number of existing stations serve the area of interference. The aggregate total proposed and existing interference to petitioner's proposal would affect 1.74 percent of the population within its proposed 0.5 mv/m contour. The petitioner does not cause interference to the present or proposed operation of WHAT. Additionally, petitioner and WHAT have agreed to accept any interference caused each other by their respective proposals.

Accordingly, it is ordered, This 30th day of November 1960, That the petition to sever filed by United Broadcasting Company, Inc. on October 21, 1960, is granted;

It is further ordered, That the applications of WKRZ, Inc. (BP-12231), Connellsville Broadcasters, Incorporated (BP-13441), Fred Glosser, Isadore Glosser, Sidney Ossip and Herbert Sinberg, d/b as Gosco Broadcasters (BP-13125), WSTV, Inc. (BP-13115), Cumberland Valley Broadcasting Corporation (BP-13472), C. M. Zinn and C. Leslie Golliday, d/b as Martinsburg Broadcasting Company (BP-12375), Harry A. Epperson, Sr. (BP-13474), Charlottesville Broadcasting Corporation (BP-12161), Eastern Broadcasting Corporation (BP-12702), United Broadcasting Company, Inc. (BP-12426) and Windber Community Broadcasting System, Windber, Pennsylvania (BP-13475) are severed from the above-captioned proceeding;

It is further ordered, That the applications so severed shall be retained in hearing to resolve the issues which were specified in an Order released August 5, 1960 (FCC 60-942) and which are pertinent to these applications; and that in the event the application of C. M. Zinn and C. Leslie Golliday d/b as Martinsburg Broadcasting Company or the application of Connellsville Broadcasters, Incorporated, is granted, their respective construction permits shall contain the applicable conditions specified in the aforesaid Order;

It is further ordered, That the parties respondent to the severed applications are made parties to the proceeding on the severed applications;

It is further ordered, That the issues in the severed proceeding may be enlarged by the Examiner in the manner specified in the Order of August 5, 1960 (FCC 60-942).

Released: December 8, 1960.

HEARING: February 20, 1961, at the Metropolitan Building, Room 926, Second Avenue South and Third, Minneapolis, Minn., before Joint Board No. 145.

No. MC 109397 (Sub No. 50), filed November 28, 1960. Applicant: TRI-STATE MOTOR TRANSIT CO., a corporation, P.O. Box 113, Joplin, Mo. Applicant's attorney: Max G. Morgan, 443-54 American National Building, Oklahoma City 2, Okla. Authority sought to operate as a common carrier, by motor vehicle, over irregular routes, transporting: Classes A and B explosives and ammunition not so classified and component parts of ammunition, however classified, from the site of the Naval Ammunition Depot at Crane, Ind., to East Alton, Ill.

NOTE: Applicant has authority for service between the Crane Naval Ammunition Depot and points in Oklahoma. It also holds authority between points in Oklahoma and St. Louis, Mo., and the off-route points of East Alton under its basic authority. It therefore is certificated between the points over a circuitous gateway. Should there be any question regarding authority to operate by irregular routes from Crane to East Alton in view of a certificated regular route, then applicant seeks authority to serve East Alton as an off-route point in connection with its previous authority.

No. MC 115523 (Sub No. 64) (REPUBLICATION), filed April 7, 1960, published in the FEDERAL REGISTER, issues of May 11, 1960, and October 26, 1960. Applicant: CLARK TANK LINES COMPANY, a corporation, 1450 Beck Street, P.O. Box 1895, Salt Lake City 10, Utah. Applicant's attorney: Bertram S. Silver, 126 Post Street, Suite 600, San Francisco 8, Calif. The application in this proceeding originally sought authority to transport dry fertilizers, dry fertilizer ingredients and dry fertilizer compounds used in the manufacture of fertilizer, in the territory as set forth in the previous publication. Prior to the hearing, two amendments to the application were filed, one of which, applicant claims inadvertently omitted dry fertilizer from the application. At the hearing November 9 and 10, 1960, held at Salt Lake City, Utah, Examiner Lawrence A. Van Dyke, Jr., presiding, the application was amended to include the commodity dry fertilizer, and also to reduce the territorial scope of the application. The scope of the application as amended at the hearing is as follows: (a) Dry fertilizer, dry fertilizer ingredients and dry fertilizer compounds used in the manufacture of fertilizer, (1) from points in Washington to points in California, Arizona, Colorado, Nevada, New Mexico, Utah, Washington, Wyoming, and points in Idaho south of the southerly boundary of Idaho County; (2) from points in Montana to points in California, Arizona, Colorado, Nevada, New Mexico, Utah, and points in Idaho south of the southerly boundary of Idaho County; and (3) from points in Idaho, to points in Idaho, California, Arizona, Colorado, Nevada, New Mexico, Utah, Oregon, and Washington, except that no shipment originating in Idaho north of the southerly boundary of Idaho County shall be transported to points in Washington, Oregon, or Montana, and except that no superphosphate, in bulk, shall be transported from points in Idaho to points in Arizona, Colorado, Nevada, Utah, and California. RESTRICTION: No traffic moving in bags or containers shall be transported when moving to incorporated municipalities unless said traffic is moving in combination with a bulk movement in the same vehicle at the same time; in connection with (1), (2), and (3) above. (b) Liquid fertilizer, fertilizer solutions, and liquid ingredients used in the manufacture thereof, not including anhydrous ammonia, in bulk, in tank vehicles, from Hedges, Finley, and Pasco, Wash., and points within 7 miles of each to points in Idaho south of the Southerly boundary of Idaho County. The purpose of this republication is to advise that any person or persons who might have been prejudiced by the allowance of the amendments, may, within 30 days from this publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, file an appropriate pleading.

CITIES SERVICE CO. AND ARKANSAS FUEL OIL CORP.

Notice of Filing of Application for Order and Request for Release of Jurisdiction

DECEMBER 7, 1960.

Notice is hereby given that Cities Service Company ("Cities"), a registered holding company, has filed an application, pursuant to section 5(d) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("Act"), for an order declaring that it has ceased to be a holding company; and Arkansas Fuel Oil Corporation ("Arkansas"), a subsidiary company of Cities, has requested the release of the jurisdiction reserved by the Commission's orders issued October 1, 1952 (Holding Company Act Release No. 11511) and October 7, 1953 (Holding Company Act Release No. 12166).

All interested persons are referred to the application on file at the office of the Commission for a statement of the grounds of the application and the facts submitted in support thereof, which are summarized as follows:

Cities, a Delaware corporation, registered under the Act as a public-utility holding company on January 29, 1941. Since then it has disposed of all of its interests in public-utility companies. It now owns common stocks and other securities of companies engaged in the oil and gas business.

Arkansas, a Delaware corporation, is engaged in the marketing of petroleum products. It is a wholly owned subsidiary of Cities. Prior to October 7, 1953, Arkansas was a registered holding company. By order issued on that date (Holding Company Act Release No. 12166, supra), Arkansas was declared not to be a holding company, subject to the condition that it would be considered a holding company in all respects necessary to the resolution of the problems presented by the continued existence of a minority public interest therein, as to which jurisdiction has been reserved by the order of October 1, 1952 (Holding Company Act Release No. 11511, supra).

On July 14, 1960, the Commission adopted and approved, and on September 2, 1960, the United States District Court for the District of Delaware ordered enforced, a plan providing for the elimination of the minority public interest in Arkansas. On December 2, 1960, Cities and Arkansas consummated the plan in accordance with its provisions and the order of the enforcement Court. The plan and the order of the Court enforcing it provide that from and after the consummation of the plan, all minority public common stockholders of Arkansas shall cease to be stockholders of Arkansas at the close of business on the date the plan is consummated. Cities and Arkansas assert that they have taken all action required of them in connection with the plan and the order of the Court, except in respect of the reservation of jurisdiction over fees and expenses in connection with the plan, as to which jurisdiction was reserved in the order of July 14, 1960.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than December 22, 1960, request in writing that a hearing be held in respect of such matters, stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for the request, and the issues of fact or law which he desires to controvert; or he may request that he be notified should the Commission order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D.C. At any time after said date, the Commission may grant the application and request, as filed or as amended; or the Commission may take such other action as is deemed appropriate.

By the Commission.

INSTITUTIONAL SHARES, LTD.

Notice of Filing of Application

DECEMBER 7, 1960.

Notice is hereby given that Institutional Shares, Ltd. ("Institutional"), a registered open-end investment company, has filed an application, and amendment thereto, pursuant to section 6(c) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("Act") for an order of the Commission exempting from the provisions of section 22(d) of the Act the proposed issuance of shares of Institutional Foundation Fund class of voting stock of Institutional ("Foundation") at net asset value for substantially all of the cash and securities of Burton Pierce Company ("Burton Pierce") on the basis set forth below.

Institutional, a Delaware corporation, offers Foundation shares to the public on a continuous basis at net asset value plus varying sales charges dependent upon the amount purchased. As of October 7, 1960, the net assets of Foundation amounted to $34,596,389.

Burton Pierce, a New Jersey corporation, is an investment company with two stockholders. It is exempt from registration under the Act by reason of the provisions of section 3(c)(1) thereof. Pursuant to an agreement between Institutional and Burton Pierce, substantially all of the cash and securities owned by Burton Pierce, with a value of approximately $1,037,647 as of October 7, 1960, will be transferred to Institutional in exchange for shares of Foundation. The shares acquired by Burton Pierce are to be distributed to its shareholders, who intend to take such shares for investment with no present intention of distribution or redemption. The number of shares of Foundation to be delivered to Burton Pierce will be determined by dividing the net asset value per share of Foundation in effect at the closing time into the value of the Burton Pierce assets (with certain adjustments as set forth below) to be exchanged.

The value of Burton Pierce's assets will be determined in substantially the same manner as used for calculating net asset value for the purpose of issuance of Foundation shares. Since the exchange will be tax free for Burton Pierce and its shareholders, Institutional's cost basis for tax purposes on the assets acquired from Burton Pierce will be the same as for Burton Pierce, rather than the price actually paid by Institutional for the assets.

Of the assets to be acquired from Burton Pierce, Institutional intends to retain in the Foundation portfolio, subject to changes in investment conditions and considerations, securities having a value of $889,172, with unrealized appreciation of $681,224 as of October 7, 1960. Institutional intends to sell immediately upon acquisition securities having a value of $148,475, with unrealized depreciation of $75,044 as of the same date. The net unrealized appreciation on the assets to be acquired from Burton Pierce amounts to $607,818, or approximately 58.5 percent of their value as of October 7, 1960, as compared to net unrealized appreciation on the Foundation portfolio of $1,168,722, or 3.3 percent of their value as of the same date.

An adjustment will be made to the value of the Burton Pierce assets in order to offset the adverse impact to the Foundation shareholders of a possible capital gains tax on artificial gains should Institutional subsequently sell the securities being acquired which have a greater percentage of unrealized appreciation than the present portfolio securities of Foundation. The assets of Burton Pierce will be reduced by 12½ percent of the difference between that amount which would have to be subtracted from the net unrealized appreciation of the portfolio securities of Burton Pierce in order to make the resulting figure divided by the market value of the Burton Pierce assets equal to the net unrealized appreciation on all the securities held in the Foundation portfolio divided by the market value of the total assets, and the net realized capital gains of Foundation allocable to the shares of Foundation to be issued to the shareholders of Burton Pierce; less the saving in brokerage commissions resulting from the exchange measured by the difference between the commissions which would be payable if the securities of Burton Pierce which Institutional will retain for investment were acquired through a broker and the commissions on the securities of Burton Pierce which Institutional will sell. The credit for brokerage commissions is permitted because of the inclusion by Institutional of an allowance for estimated brokerage commissions on portfolio securities in its determination of net asset value per share for purposes of computing the number of shares to be issued to Burton Pierce, and said allowance on these shares represents an amount greater than the net brokerage commissions allowed as a credit in the exchange.

If the transaction had been consummated on October 7, 1960, the assets of Burton Pierce would be reduced by an adjustment as computed above in the amount of $66,888, and the Burton Pierce shareholders would have received approximately 93,422 shares of Foundation. These shares would represent approximately 3.6 percent of the total shares of Foundation outstanding on that date.

The application recites that the terms of the entire transaction were arrived at through arm's-length bargaining between Institutional and Burton Pierce. The application further states that there is no affiliation or relationship of any kind between the officers and directors of Institutional and the officers, directors, and stockholders of Burton Pierce.

Section 22(d) of the Act provides, in pertinent part, that no registered investment company shall sell any redeemable security issued by it to any person except at a current offering price described in the prospectus, with certain exceptions not applicable here. Under the terms of the Agreement, however, the shares of Foundation are to be issued to Burton Pierce at a price other than the public offering price stated in the prospectus, which lists a sales charge of 1 percent for sales of $500,000 or over.

Section 6(c) of the Act authorizes the Commission by order upon application to exempt, conditionally or unconditionally, any transaction from any provision of the Act or of any rule or regulation thereunder, if and to the extent that the Commission finds that such exemption is necessary or appropriate in the public interest and consistent with the protection of investors and the purposes fairly intended by the policy and provisions of the Act.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than December 21, 1960 at 5:30 p.m., submit to the Commission in writing a request for a hearing on the matter accompanied by a statement as to the nature of his interest, the reason for such request and the issues of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such communication should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D.C. At any time after said date, as provided by Rule O–5 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the Act, an order disposing of the application herein may be issued by the Commission upon the basis of the showing contained in said application, unless an order for hearing upon said application shall be issued upon request or upon the Commission's own motion.

By the Commission.

[File No. 812–1244]

VARIABLE ANNUITY LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY OF AMERICA

DECEMBER 7, 1960.

Notice is hereby given that Variable Annuity Life Insurance Company of America ("Valic"), an open-end investment company registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("Act") has filed an application for modification of the existing Commission Order of February 25, 1960, pursuant to section 6(c) of the Act, to relieve it from certain restrictions on its participation in the insurance business and from the requirement that it maintain reserves equal to 125 percent of the regular reserves required for variable annuity contracts in the pay-out period, as more fully set forth below.

The Commission's Order of February 25, 1960 (Investment Company Act Release No. 2974) exempted Valic from the prohibitions against the issuance of senior securities as provided in section 18(f)(1) of the Act to the extent necessary to permit the issuance of variable annuity contracts and contracts of life and disability insurance upon the condition that Valic coinsure or reinsure the liabilities assumed under such life and disability insurance contracts. Said exemptive order was predicated, among other things, upon Valic's undertaking to maintain total reserves with respect to variable annuity contracts upon which variable annuity payments have commenced, of not less than 125 percent of the reserves required for such contracts by the Life Insurance Act of the District of Columbia.

Valic points out that at the time the Commission issued its order it was not possible to differentiate between assets of applicant available in the first instance for the satisfaction of claimants under variable annuity contracts and those available for claimants under policies of conventional insurance. Both classes of claimants looked to all of applicant's assets for the satisfaction of their claims and their claims were deemed to be of equal rank.

Subsequent to the Commission's order, on June 12, 1960, Section 41 of the Life Insurance Act of the District of Columbia was amended to provide for the establishing of separate accounts in connection with the issuance of variable annuity contracts. Among other things, the new law provides that "the assets of any such separate account shall not be chargeable with liabilities arising out of any other business the company may conduct."

As a result of the enactment of the separate accounts law, Valic proposes to establish a separate variable annuity account with respect to its existing variable annuity contracts. Valic intends to allocate to such separate account assets equal to the contract liabilities and regular reserves applicable to its existing contracts. After the necessary steps have been taken, Valic proposes to issue new series of variable annuity contracts which will provide that the net investment rate applicable to such contracts will be determined on the basis of the investment experience of the equity investments allocated to a separate variable annuity account or accounts for such contracts.

In view of the substantially changed circumstances brought about by enactment of the separate accounts bill, Valic requests modification of the Commission's order to the extent necessary to enable it to offer its variable annuity contracts on the basis set forth herein without reference to certain of the aforementioned undertakings and certain of the conditions contained in such order. Valic requests that the order be modified to eliminate, as a condition of offering variable annuity contracts, the reinsuring or coinsuring of life and disability insurance risks. In addition, Valic now proposes to eliminate the present requirement of its charter that life and disability insurance be written only in combination with variable annuity contracts, thus enabling it to write any and all forms of life and disability insurance permitted by the Life Insurance Act. In its application, Valic states that it does not propose to reinsure or coinsure the risks attending such insurance beyond limits determined in its business judgment or required by local insurance regulatory authorities. Valic also proposes to the extent deemed feasible to reacquire the life and disability insurance risks currently reinsured or coinsured. Valic contends that under the provision of the separate accounts law, there appears to be no possibility that the interests of variable annuity contract owners could be subjected to liabilities which might arise out of the life insurance or other business it may conduct and therefore no justification exists for obligating it to continue reinsuring or coinsuring either existing or future life and disability insurance risks.

The application also requests modification of the Commission's order so that Valic will be relieved of its undertaking to maintain reserves with respect to variable annuity contracts in the pay-out period in an amount equal to 125 percent of the regular reserves for such contracts. The Commission's Opinion of February 25, 1960, referred to the 125 percent reserve requirement as one of the substantial protections which exist to minimize the possibility that the risks involved in selling and administering the variable annuity and insurance contracts and the mortality risks inherent in the variable annuity contracts will not devolve upon the variable annuity contract holders. Valic contends that the added margin of protection provided by the 125 percent reserve is not necessary. In this connection, it points out that the separate accounts law provides that any surplus or deficit which may arise in any separate account by virtue of mortality experience shall be adjusted by withdrawals from or additions to such account so that "the assets of such account shall always equal the assets required to satisfy the company's obligations for such variable payments."

Moreover, Valic points out that because of its use of a more conservative annuity table than required, its reserves for annuities in the pay-out period exceed the minimum required by the Life Insurance Act. Valic also points out that it is required by the District of Columbia Insurance Department to maintain a "contingent mortality reserve" which would probably provide for an increase of up to 6 percent of the reserves for annuity payments at the commencement of such annuity payments, and that this additional reserve would provide for an increased life expectancy at age 65 of one and a third years. In this connection, Valic refers to evidence that the life expectancy of the white population of the United States showed a total increase of 1.4 years at age 65 in the period from 1902 to 1956 while the requirement of a special 125 percent reserve of Valic's regular reserve would in effect provide for an increased life expectation of approximately six years. Valic urges that determination as to the adequacy of its reserves for its liabilities on its variable annuity contracts are the primary responsibility of the District of Columbia Insurance Superintendent and accordingly, Valic should not be obligated to maintain contingent mortality reserves in excess of those prescribed from time to time by the Superintendent.

Section 6(c) of the Act authorizes the Commission by order upon application to exempt, conditionally or unconditionally, any transaction from any provision of the Act or of any rule or regulation thereunder, if and to the extent that the Commission finds that such exemption is necessary or appropriate in the public interest and consistent with the protection of investors and the purposes fairly intended by the policy and provisions of the Act.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than December 20, 1960, at 5:30 p.m., submit to the Commission in writing a request for a hearing on the matter accompanied by the statement as to the nature of his interest, the reason for sueh request and the issues of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such communication should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D.C. At any time after said date, as provided by Rule 0–5 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the Act, an order disposing of the application herein may be issued by the Commission upon the basis of the showing contained in said application, unless an order for hearing upon said application shall be issued upon request or upon the Commission's own motion.

GENERAL SERVICES ADMINISTRATION

MAGNESIUM SCRAP HELD IN NATIONAL STOCKPILE

Proposed Disposition

Pursuant to the provisions of section 3(e) of the Strategic and Critical Materials Stock Piling Act, 50 U.S.C. 98b(e), notice is hereby given of a proposed disposition of approximately 2,624 short tons of magnesium scrap now held in the national stockpile.

The Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization has made a revised determination, pursuant to section 2(a) of the Strategic and Critical Materials Stock Piling Act, that there is no longer any need for stockpiling said magnesium scrap. The revised determination was based upon the finding of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization that said magnesium scrap is obsolescent for use in time of war.

General Services Administration proposes to transfer said magnesium scrap to other Government agencies, or to sell the material to the public on a competitive basis. Initial disposal of approximately 551 short tons will be made six months following the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER or as soon thereafter as possible.

Subsequent offerings of the remainder of the magnesium scrap will be scheduled, at minimum intervals of six weeks from previous offerings, in quantities of approximately 550 short tons each until disposal is completed.

This plan and the dates of disposition have been fixed with due regard to the protection of producers, processors, and consumers against avoidable disruption of their usual markets as well as the protection of the United States against avoidable loss on disposal.

Dated: December 7, 1960.

Title 32—NATIONAL DEFENSE

Chapter V—Department of the Army

SUBCHAPTER A—AID OF CIVIL AUTHORITIES AND PUBLIC RELATIONS

PART 505—SAFEGUARDING DEFENSE INFORMATION

Visitors

In § 505.17, add new paragraphs (d)(1)(viii), and (7), and (e)(6), as follows:

§ 505.17 Visitors.

* * * * * *

(d) Foreign Nationals—(1) Authority of the installation commander or Army representative. * * *

(viii) Canadian defense suppliers and representatives of the Canadian Department of Defense Production in connection with procurement solicitations or other matters related thereto. Discussions conducted during visits in this category cannot be expanded to include classified matters.

* * * * * *

(7) Authority of commandants of service schools. Commandants of service schools are authorized to approve visits of foreign nationals to military installations and activities when such visits are field trips scheduled in the program of instruction of a course in which the foreign nationals are students, and when such field trips are in consonance with the purpose and scope of the school course attended. The school commandant will obtain the concurrence of the commander of the installation or activity to be visited before approval. During such visits, foreign students will not be furnished classified information higher than that which they have been authorized to receive in the school course which they have been attending.

(e) United States citizens. * * *

(6) Union officials not employed by contractors but who may require access to classified defense information or to closed or restricted areas in connection with the specific terms of a bargaining or other agreement with a contractor, may be granted access to such information or areas by the commander of an installation under the following procedures:

(i) Appropriate documentation shall be furnished by the union official to the commander of the installation as follows:

(a) Name and address of the person for whom visit is requested.

(c) Date and place of birth.

(d) Organization with which the person is associated.

(e) Position of person in organization.

(f) Date of requested visit or dates of intermittent visits.

(g) Purpose of visit in detail, including classified information to which access is required and the reason therefor.

(h) Person(s) to be visited, if known.

(i) Name and address of any facility or Army installation to which the person has submitted previously, forms, identified in (j) of this subdivision.

(j) Five signed Personnel Security Questionnaires (DD Form 48), five signed Certificate of Non-Affiliation with Certain Organizations (DD Form 48–1) and one executed fingerprint card.

(ii) The contractor who employs the union members may act as sponsor in submission of the foregoing documentation except that forms required in subdivision (i)(j) of this subparagraph may be submitted directly to the installation commander.

(iii) Provisions of paragraph 3–104, AR 380–130 (Armed Forces Industrial Security Regulation) will be accomplished.

(iv) Notice of approval or disapproval of visit will be furnished the requestor by the commander.

(v) These provisions are not to be interpreted as modifying in any way the authority of the commander of a military installation to deny admittance of any individual to a military installation under his control. Actions under such authority are not appealable.

Effective date. These amendments shall become effective upon their publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

[C 3 and C 4, AR 380–25, Sept. 20 and Nov. 28, 1960] (Sec. 3012, 70A Stat. 157; 10 U.S.C. 3012)

SUBCHAPTER F—PERSONNEL

PART 570—ARMY NURSES, DIETITIANS AND PHYSICAL THERAPY AIDES

Army Medical Specialist Corps

Sections 570.21 through 570.24 are revoked and the following substituted therefor:

§ 570.21 Composition.

The Army Medical Specialist Corps is composed of a Dietitian Section, a Physical Therapist Section, and an Occupational Therapist Section. It consists of commissioned officers who are qualified as dietitians, physicial therapists or occupational therapists, and commissioned officers participating in Army Medical Specialist Corps professional education programs for the purpose of becoming qualified in one of these three specialties.

§ 570.22 Duties of Army Medical Specialist Corps officers.

Duties will be those directly related to the specialties of dietetics, physical therapy, and occupational therapy as practiced by the respective civilian professions including the development and adoption of principles and standards to meet the total needs of patients in these specialized fields.

§ 570.23 Utilization of Army Medical Specialist Corps officers.

Officers of this corps will be assigned those professional and administrative duties which contribute to the accomplishment of the mission of the Army Medical Service and will be utilized in their military occupational specialty or in activities related thereto. When Army Medical Specialist Corps officers are assigned to Army medical treatment facilities, the senior dietitian will be chief of the Food Service Division, and the senior physical therapist and senior occupational therapist will be chiefs of their respective sections.

AUTHORITY: §§ 750.1 to 750.16 issued under R.S. 161, secs. 5031, 6011, 70A Stat. 278, 375, as amended; 5 U.S.C. 22, 10 U.S.C. 5031, 6011. Interpret or apply secs. 2671–2680, 62 Stat. 982–984, as amended; 28 U.S.C. 2671–2680.

ADMINISTRATIVE CLAIMS

§ 750.1 Definitions.

The term "employee of the Government", as used in §§ 750.1 to 750.16, includes members of the naval forces of the United States, officers or employees of the Navy, and persons acting on behalf of the Navy in an official capacity, temporarily or permanently in the service of the United States, whether with or without compensation. The words "Navy" and "naval" as used herein, include the Marine Corps except where the context indicates otherwise.

§ 750.2 Statutory authority.

Pursuant to, and subject to the limitations of, Part 2 of the Federal Tort Claims Act as amended (28 U.S.C. 2671–2680), the Secretary of the Navy, or his designee for the purpose, acting on behalf of the United States, is authorized to consider, ascertain, adjust, determine and settle any claim for money damages of $2,500 or less against the United States for injury or loss of property or personal injury or death caused by the negligent or wrongful act or omission of any employee of the Government while acting within the scope of his office or employment, under circumstances where the United States, if a private person, would be liable to the claimant, in accordance with the law of the place where the act or omission occurred.

§ 750.3 Scope of provisions governing administrative settlement of Federal tort claims under Title 28, United States Code.

(a) Subject to the exceptions set forth in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, the provisions governing administrative settlement of Federal tort claims under Title 28, United States Code and §§ 750.1 to 750.7 provide the exclusive authorization and procedure whereby the Secretary of the Navy or his designee may consider, ascertain, adjust, determine and settle claims for money damages of $2,500 or less against the United States for injury or loss of property or personal injury or death determined to have been caused by the negligent or wrongful act or omission of any employee of the Government while acting within the scope of his office or employment, under circumstances where the United States, if a private person, would be liable to the claimant in accordance with the law of the place where the act or omission occurred.

(b) The provisions of the Federal Tort Claims Act and §§ 750.1 to 750.7 do not apply to:

(1) Any claim based upon an act or omission of an employee of the Government, exercising due care, in the execution of a statute or regulation, whether or not such statute or regulation be valid; or based upon the exercise or performance of, or the failure to exercise or perform, a discretionary function or duty on the part of the Navy or an employee of the Government, whether or not the discretion involved may be abused.

(2) Any claim arising out of the loss, miscarriage, or negligent transmission of letters or postal matter.

(3) Any claim arising in respect of the assessment or collection of any tax or customs duty, or the detention of any goods or merchandise by any officer of customs or excise or any other law-enforcement officer.

(4) Any claim for which a remedy is provided by the act of March 9, 1920, as amended (46 U.S.C. 741–752) or the act of March 3, 1925, as amended (46 U.S.C. 781–790) relating to claims or suits in admiralty against the United States.

(5) Any claim arising out of an act or omission of any employee of the Government in administering the provisions of the Trading With the Enemy Act as amended (50 U.S.C. App. 1–39).

(6) Any claim for damages caused by the imposition or establishment of a quarantine by the United States.

(7) Any claim arising from the activities of the Panama Canal Company.

(8) Any claim arising out of assault, battery, false imprisonment, false arrest, malicious prosecution, abuse of process, libel, slander, misrepresentation, deceit, or interference with contract rights.

(9) Any claim for damages caused by the fiscal operations of the Treasury or by the regulation of the monetary system.

(10) Any claim arising out of the combatant activities of the military or naval forces, or the Coast Guard, during time of war.

(11) Any claim arising in a foreign country.

(12) Any claim arising from the activities of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

(c) Although not expressly excepted from the application of the provisions governing administrative settlement of Federal tort claims under Title 28, United States Code, the following types of claims shall not be considered administratively under the provisions of §§ 750.1 to 750.7:

(1) Any claim for the personal injury or death of a member of the naval forces of the United States incurred in line of duty.

(2) Any claim for the personal injury or death of a civilian employee of the Navy to whom the Federal Employees' Compensation Act as amended (5 U.S.C. 751–793) is applicable.

(3) Any claim of military personnel or civilian employees of the Navy for damage to or loss, destruction, capture, or abandonment of personal property occurring incident to their service, which claim is cognizable under 10 U.S.C. 2732 and the applicable Navy Personnel Claims Regulations (Part 751 of this chapter).

§ 750.4 Effect on prior legislation.

(a) With respect to claims cognizable under the provisions governing administrative settlement of Federal tort claims under Title 28, United States Code, section 424 of the Federal Tort Claims Act (the only section of the original law not repealed by Public Law 773, 80th Cong.) repeals all provisions of law authorizing the Navy to consider, ascertain, adjust, or determine claims on account of damage to or loss of property or on account of personal injury or death, with respect to which causation by the negligent or wrongful act or omission of any employee of the Government while acting within the scope of his office or employment is a jurisdictional fact.

(b) Section 424 of the Federal Tort Claims Act further provided that nothing contained therein should be deemed to repeal any provision of law authorizing the Navy to consider, ascertain, adjust, settle, determine, or pay any claim on account of damage to or loss of property, or on account of personal injury or death, in cases in which such damage, loss, injury, or death was not caused by any negligent or wrongful act or omission of an employee of the Government while acting within the scope of his office or employment, or any other claim not cognizable under the administrative claims provisions of Part 2 of the Federal Tort Claims Act, now revised and embodied in Title 28, United States Code.

§ 750.5 Claims in excess of $2,500.

The Navy does not have legal authorization under the Federal Tort Claims Act to pay claims in excess of $2,500 even though they are otherwise cognizable under the provisions governing administrative settlement of Federal tort claims under Title 28, United States Code. The claimant's remedy in such cases is by civil action in the United States district court for the district where the claimant resides or wherein the act or omission complained of occurred, as set forth in the civil action provisions of 28 U.S.C. 1346(b), and §§ 750.8 to 750.16.

§ 750.6 Attorneys' fees.

(a) The Secretary of the Navy or his designee making an award pursuant to the provisions governing administrative settlement of Federal tort claims under Title 28, United States Code and §§ 750.1 to 750.7 may, as a part of the award, determine and allow reasonable attorneys' fees which, if the amount awarded is $500 or more, are not to exceed 10 per centum of the sum approved. Attorneys' fees so determined are to be paid to the attorney representing the claimant out of, but not in addition to, the amount of the award. The limitation of 10 per centum does not apply when the award is less than $500.

(b) The authority to fix attorneys' fees as set forth in paragraph (a) of this section may be exercised only upon the written request of both the claimant and his attorney.

§ 750.7 Statute of limitations.

Every claim against the United States for $2,500 or less, to be cognizable under the provisions governing administrative settlement of Federal tort claims under Title 28, United States Code, and §§ 750.1 to 750.7 must be presented in writing to the Navy within two years after the claim accrued or be forever barred.

SUIT AGAINST THE UNITED STATES

§ 750.8 Statutory authority for action.

(a) Pursuant to, and subject to the limitations of, Part 3 of the Federal Tort Claims Act as amended (28 U.S.C. 1254, 1255, 1346, 1402, 2402, 2411, 2412, 2674), the United States district court for the district where the plaintiff resides or wherein the act of omission complained of occurred, including the United States District Court for the District of the Canal Zone and the District Court of the Virgin Islands, sitting without a jury, has exclusive jurisdiction of civil actions on claims against the United States, for money damages, for injury or loss of property, or personal injury or death caused by the negligent or wrongful act or omission of any employee of the Government while acting within the scope of his office or employment, under circumstances where the United States, if a private person, would be liable to the claimant for such damage, loss, injury, or death in accordance with the law of the place where the act or omission occurred.

(b) The jurisdiction conferred as set forth in paragraph (a) of this section includes jurisdiction of any set-off, counterclaim, or other claim or demand whatever on the part of the United States against any plaintiff commencing an action under 28 U.S.C. 1346(b).

(a) The remedies provided by 28 U.S.C. 1346(b) with respect to civil action against the United States are the exclusive remedies whereby action may be brought upon claims against the United States, for money damages, for injury or loss of property or personal injury or death caused by the negligent or wrongful act or omission of any employee of the Government while acting within the scope of his office or employment, under circumstances where the United States, if a private person, would be liable to the claimant for such damage, loss, injury, or death in accordance with the law of the place where the act or omission occurred.

(b) The types of claims listed in § 750.3(b) (1)–(12) are expressly excepted from the application of 28 U.S.C. 1346(b).

§ 750.10 Extent of Government liability.

(a) Subject to the provisions of Title 28, United States Code, the United States is liable in respect of claims cognizable thereunder, in the same manner, and to the same extent, as a private individual under like circumstances, but is not liable for interest prior to judgment, or for punitive damages. If, however, in any case wherein death was caused, the law of the place where the act or omission complained of occurred, provides, or has been construed to provide, for damages only punitive in nature, the United States is liable for actual or compensatory damages, measured by the pecuniary injuries resulting from such death to the persons, respectively, for whose benefit the action was brought, in lieu thereof.

(b) On all final judgments rendered against the United States in actions instituted under 28 U.S.C. 1346(b), interest is to be computed at the rate of 4 per centum per annum from the date of judgment up to, but not exceeding, 30 days after the date of approval of any appropriation act providing for payment of the judgment.

(c) Costs are to be allowed in all courts to the successful claimant but such costs are not to include attorneys' fees.

§ 750.11 Compromise settlements.

The Attorney General, with the approval of the court, is authorized to arbitrate, compromise, or settle any claim cognizable under the civil action provisions of 28 U.S.C. 1346(b), after the commencement of an action thereon. Any such award, compromise, or settlement made by the Attorney General is required to be paid by the Navy out of appropriations made therefor.

§ 750.12 Effect of judgment.

The judgment in an action brought under Title 28 U.S.C. 1346(b) constitutes a complete bar to any action by the claimant, by reason of the same subject matter, against the employee of the Government whose act or omission gave rise to the claim.

§ 750.13 Attorneys' fees.

The court rendering a judgment for the plaintiff, or the Attorney General making an arbitration, compromise, or settlement, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. 1346(b) or 2677, respectively, may as a part of the judgment or settlement, determine and allow reasonable attorneys' fees, which, if the recovery is $500 or more, are not to exceed 20 per centum of the amount recovered, to be paid to the attorney representing the claimant out of, but not in addition to, the amount of the judgment or settlement recovered.

§ 750.14 Action on claims previously presented administratively.

(a) No action can be instituted upon a claim against the United States which has been presented to the Navy pursuant to the provisions governing administrative settlement of Federal tort claims under Title 28, United States Code, and §§ 750.1 to 750.7 unless the Navy has made final disposition of the claim. The claimant may, however, upon 15 days' written notice, withdraw the claim from consideration by the Navy and commence action thereon. No action on a claim so withdrawn from consideration by the Navy may be instituted for any sum in excess of the claim presented to the Navy, except where the increased amount is based on newly discovered evidence not reasonably discoverable at the time of presenting the claim to the Navy, or upon allegation and proof of intervening facts, relating to the amount of the claim.

(b) The disposition of any claim made by the Attorney General or the Secretary of the Navy or his designee is not competent evidence of liability or amount of damages.

§ 750.15 Statute of limitations.

An action against the United States pursuant to 28 U.S.C. 1346(b), must be begun within two years after the claim accrued, or be forever barred. If a claim not exceeding $2,500 has been presented in writing to the Navy within that period of time, suit thereon shall not be barred until the expiration of a period of six months after either the date of withdrawal of such claim from the Navy or the date of mailing notice by the Navy of final disposition of the claim.

(a) The United States courts of appeals have jurisdiction of appeals from final decisions of the district courts of the United States, the United States District Court for the District of the Canal Zone, and the District Court of the Virgin Islands in actions brought under 28 U.S.C. 1346(b).

(b) The United States Court of Claims has jurisdiction to review by appeal final judgments in the district courts in civil actions based on tort claims brought under 28 U.S.C. 1346(b), if the notice of appeal filed in the district court has affixed thereto the written consent on behalf of all the appellees that the appeal be taken to the Court of Claims. Appeals to the Court of Claims in such cases shall be taken within 3 months after the entry of the final judgment of the district court.

(c) Cases in the courts of appeals may be reviewed by the Supreme Court of the United States by writ of certiorari, by appeal, or by certification of questions of law, as provided in 28 U.S.C. 1254. Cases in the Court of Claims may be reviewed by the Supreme Court by writ of certiorari or by certification of questions of law, as provided in 28 U.S.C. 1255.

Subpart B—Other Administrative Claims

AUTHORITY: §§ 750.17 to 750.28 issued under R.S. 161, secs. 5031, 6011, 70A Stat. 278, 375, as amended; 5 U.S.C. 22, 10 U.S.C. 5031, 6011. Interpret or apply secs. 2733, 7625, 70A Stat. 153, 478, as amended; 10 U.S.C. 2733, 7625.

MILITARY CLAIMS ACT (10 U.S.C. 2733)

As used in §§ 750.17 to 750.26:

(a) The word "claim" refers to any demand for payment submitted by any individual, partnership, association, corporation, or political entity, including countries, states, territories, and political subdivisions thereof, but excluding the Federal Government of the United States and its instrumentalities.

(b) The words "military personnel or civilian employees of the Navy" include all military personnel of the Navy, prisoners of war and interned enemy aliens engaged by the Navy in labor for pay, and volunteer workers and others serving as employees of the Navy whether with or without compensation.

(c) The words "Navy" or "naval" include the Marine Corps unless the context indicates a contrary intention.

(d) The word "military" includes "naval."

§ 750.18 Statutory authority.

10 U.S.C. 2733, commonly known as the Military Claims Act, authorizes the Secretary of the Navy to pay certain types of claims when they are substantiated in such manner as he by regulations may prescribe. The claim must be for damage to or loss or destruction of property, real or personal, or for personal injury or death caused by military personnel or civilian employees of the Navy while acting within the scope of their employment, or otherwise incident to noncombat activities of the Navy, including claims for damage to or loss or destruction, by criminal acts, of registered or insured mail while in the possession of the military authorities, claims for damage to or loss or destruction of personal property bailed to the Government and claims for damages to real property incident to the use and occupancy thereof, whether under a lease, express or implied, or otherwise. The authority to pay a claim may be delegated, subject to appeal to the Secretary of the Navy and under such regulations as he may prescribe, to such other officer or officers as he may designate for such purposes when the amount to be paid is $1,000 or less, but may be delegated only to the Judge Advocate General when the amount exceeds $1,000 and does not exceed $5,000. When such a claim is in excess of $5,000, the Secretary of the Navy may make a partial payment of $5,000 and refer the balance to Congress for its consideration.

§ 750.19 Scope of 10 U.S.C. 2733.

(a) Subject to the exceptions set forth in paragraph (b) of this section, claims not in excess of $2,500 for damage to or loss or destruction of real or personal property or for personal injury or death, caused by military personnel or civilian employees of the Navy while acting within the scope of their employment, or otherwise incident to noncombat activities of the Navy, including claims for damages to or loss or destruction, by criminal acts, of registered or insured mail while in the possession of the military authorities, claims for damage to or loss or destruction of personal property bailed to the Government and claims for damage to real property incident to the use and occupancy thereof, whether under a lease, express or implied, or otherwise, are payable by the Secretary of the Navy or his designees under 10 U.S.C. 2733 and §§ 750.17 to 750.26.

(b) The provisions of 10 U.S.C. 2733 and §§ 750.17 to 750.26 do not apply to:

(1) Any claim for damage, loss, destruction, injury, or death which was proximately caused, in whole or in part, by any negligence or wrongful act on the part of the claimant, his agent or his employee.

(2) Any claim for damage, loss, destruction, injury, or death resulting from action by the enemy, or resulting directly or indirectly from any act by armed forces engaged in combat.

(3) Any claim for reimbursement for medical or hospital services furnished at the expense of the United States or, in the case of burial, for such portion of the expense thereof as may be otherwise paid by the United States.

(4) Any claim for personal injury or death of military personnel or civilian employees of the Navy if such injury or death occurs incident to their service.

(5) Any claim of military personnel or civilian employees of the Navy for damage to or loss, destruction, capture, or abandonment of personal property occurring incident to their service, which claim is cognizable under 10 U.S.C. 2732 and the applicable Navy Personnel Claims Regulations (Part 751 of this chapter).

(6) Any claim the cause of which has been determined to be the negligent or wrongful act or omission of an employee of the Government (as defined in § 750.1) while acting within the scope of his office or employment, and which is in all other respects within the cognizance of the provisions governing administrative settlement of Federal tort claims under Title 28, United States Code, and §§ 750.1 to 750.7.

(7) Any claim arising in a foreign country or possession thereof which is cognizable under the provisions of the Foreign Claims Act (10 U.S.C. 2734) and regulations issued pursuant thereto (including Part 753 of this chapter).

(8) Any claim cognizable under 10 U.S.C. 7622. (This law relates to admiralty claims and to claims for damages caused by naval vessels.)

(9) Any claim for damage to or loss or destruction of property founded in contract, express or implied, with the exception of claims arising from the bailment of personal property to the Government and from the use and occupancy of real property as set forth in §§ 750.22 and 750.23.

(10) Any claim for the rent of real or personal property.

(11) Any claim involving the infringement of patents.

§ 750.20 Claims in excess of $1,000.

(a) Claims in excess of $1,000 but not in excess of $5,000 are payable only by the Secretary of the Navy, and, under authority delegated by the Secretary of the Navy, by the Judge Advocate General.

(b) Claims in excess of $5,000, if otherwise within the scope of the Military Claims Act (10 U.S.C. 2733), may be paid partially in the amount of $5,000 by the Secretary of the Navy who may then report the excess to Congress for its consideration. Such claims, if found to be meritorious, will ordinarily be reported to Congress in a deficiency appropriation bill, obviating the claimant's initiation of private relief legislation.

§ 750.21 Claims "otherwise incident to noncombat activities" of the Department of the Navy.

Claims for damage to or loss or destruction of property, real or personal, or for personal injury or death, although not shown to have been caused by any particular act or omission of military personnel or civilian employees of the Navy while acting within the scope of their employment, are payable under the provisions of the Military Claims Act (10 U.S.C. 2733) if otherwise incident to noncombat activities of the Navy. Claims within this category are those arising out of authorized activities which are peculiarly military activities having little parallel in civilian pursuits, and out of situations in which the Government has historically assumed a broad liability, such as claims for damage or injury arising from, and which are the natural or probable results or incidents of: maneuvers and special exercises; practice firing of heavy guns; practice bombing; naval exhibitions; operation of missiles, aircraft and of antiaircraft equipment; use of barrage balloons; use of instrumentalities having latent mechanical defects not traceable to negligent acts or omissions; explosions of ammunition; movement of combat vehicles or other vehicles designed especially for military use; and the use and occupancy of real estate.

§ 750.22 Bailed personal property.

(a) Claims for damage to or loss or destruction of personal property loaned, rented, or otherwise bailed to the Government under an agreement, expressed or implied, are payable under the provisions of the Military Claims Act (10 U.S.C. 2733) even though legally enforceable against the Government as contract claims, unless by express agreement the bailor has assumed the risk of damage, loss or destruction. Subject to the exceptions set forth in § 750.19(b), the cause of loss is immaterial.

(b) Claims of prisoners of war and of interned enemy aliens for damage to or loss or destruction of personal property in the custody of the Government are payable only when the proximate cause of the damage, loss, or destruction is shown to be the tortious act or omission of military personnel or civilian employees of the Navy. The authority to pay claims of this nature is also subject to the exceptions set forth in § 750.19(b).

(c) Claims in the category covered by this section may, if deemed in the best interests of the Government, be processed as contract claims through the General Accounting Office.

§ 750.23 Use and occupancy of real property.

(a) Subject to the exceptions set forth in § 750.19(b), claims for damage to real property incident to the use and occupancy thereof by the Government, whether under a lease, express or implied, or otherwise, are payable under the provisions of the Military Claims Act (10 U.S.C. 2733) even though legally enforceable against the Government as contract claims.

(b) Claims in the category covered by this section may, if deemed in the best interests of the Government, be processed as contract claims through the General Accounting Office.

§ 750.24 Damage, loss, or destruction of mail.

(a) Claims for damage to or loss or destruction, by criminal acts, of registered or insured mail while in the possession of the military authorities are payable under the Military Claims Act (10 U.S.C. 2733). This provision of the act is in the nature of an exception to the general requirement that the damage, loss, or destruction of personal property, in order to be compensable thereunder, be caused by military personnel or civilian employees of the Navy while acting within the scope of their employment, or be otherwise incident to noncombat activities of the Navy. In effect, this provision makes it possible for the Navy to relieve the Post Office Department of its obligation as an insurer with respect to registered and insured mail relinquished into the possession of the Navy for transportation or delivery to the addressee. For this reason, any award to a claimant for the damage to or loss or destruction of registered or insured mail while in the possession of the military authorities, where the damage, loss, or destruction results from a criminal act, shall be limited in amount to the indemnity to which the claimant would be entitled from the Post Office Department in accordance with the registry or insurance fee paid, and shall be in all other respects subject to the conditions of and limitations upon indemnity set forth in the Postal Manual, United States Post Office Department (cf. 39 CFR Part 54), as applicable to the payment of indemnity by the Post Office Department where the damage, loss, or destruction occurs while the mail matter is in the possession of that department.

(b) Claims for damage to or loss or destruction of mail matter of any class, whether or not such mail is insured or registered, are payable, upon proper substantiation, if shown to have been caused by military personnel or civilian employees of the Navy while acting within the scope of their employment, or if otherwise incident to noncombat activities of the Navy, or if within the provisions of § 750.22 with respect to bailed personal property. However, failure to insure or register mail containing money or articles of substantial value may constitute negligence on the part of the claimant which will preclude recovery. In claims for damage, loss, or destruction of mail matter not resulting from criminal acts, the amount of the award is not limited to the amount of coverage provided by the insurance or registry fee paid to the Post Office Department, but is governed by the general provisions of § 750.29 with respect to measure of damages. If claimed, additional damages may be recovered in mail cases in the amount of postage and any registration or insurance or other special fees prepaid, except that no such postage or fees shall be paid if actual delivery of the mail matter is made to the correct addressee.

(c) In addition to the exceptions set forth in § 750.19(b), the provisions of the Military Claims Act do not apply to:

(1) Any claim for damage, loss, or destruction of mail matter occurring prior to delivery by the Post Office Department to authorized military personnel or civilian employees of the Navy (e.g., designated Navy mail clerks and assistant Navy mail clerks, mail orderlies, and postal officers).

(2) Any claim for damage, loss, or destruction of mail matter occurring due to the fault of or while in the hands of bonded personnel.

(3) Any claim for damage, loss, or destruction of mail matter arising after resumption of possession by the Post Office Department (e.g., for the purpose of forwarding to the addressee at a different address) and prior to redelivery to authorized military personnel or civilian employees of the Navy charged with transportation or distribution to the addressee.

§ 750.25 Claims arising in foreign countries.

(a) There are no geographical limitations upon the scope of application of the Military Claims Act (10 U.S.C. 2733) and §§ 750.17 to 750.26. The Foreign Claims Act (10 U.S.C. 2734) and regulations issued pursuant thereto (including Part 753 of this chapter), however, have preemptive application to claims for damage to or loss or destruction of real or personal property, and for personal injury or death, caused by military forces or individual members thereof, whether military personnel or civilian employees, or otherwise incident to noncombat activities of such forces, in a foreign country, to public property located therein, or to the privately owned property or to the persons of inhabitants of a foreign country. Any claim which arises in a foreign country, therefore, and which is within the scope of the Foreign Claims Act, is precluded from consideration under the Military Claims Act. Any claim which arises in a foreign country and is for any reason not cognizable under the Foreign Claims Act and the regulations issued thereunder, however, may be considered and paid under the Military Claims Act and §§ 750.17 to 750.26 provided it is in all respects within the scope thereof.

(b) In addition to the exceptions set forth in § 750.19(b), the provisions of the Military Claims Act do not apply to any claim arising in a foreign country, of an inhabitant of a foreign country who is a national of a country at war with the United States or of any ally of such an enemy country, unless it be determined that the claimant is friendly to the United States.

(c) Claims arising in foreign countries may, in proper cases, be cognizable under 10 U.S.C. 7625 and §§ 750.27 and 750.28. They are expressly excluded, however, from consideration under the provisions governing the administrative settlement of Federal tort claims under Title 28, United States Code, and from the application of the civil action provisions of 28 U.S.C. 1346(b).

§ 750.26 Statute of limitations.

No claim may be settled under the Military Claims Act (10 U.S.C. 2733) unless it is presented in writing within two years after it accrues. However, if such accident or incident occurs in time of war or armed conflict, or if war or armed conflict intervenes within two years after its occurrence, any claim may, on good cause shown, be presented within two years after the war or armed conflict is terminated. For the purposes of the Military Claims Act, the dates of the beginning and ending of an armed conflict are the dates established by concurrent resolution of Congress or by determination of the President.

§ 750.27 Statutory authority.

Pursuant to and subject to the limitations of 10 U.S.C. 7625, the Secretary of the Navy is authorized to consider, ascertain, adjust, determine, and pay the amounts due in all claims for damages (other than such as are occasioned by vessels of the Navy) to and loss of privately owned property, where the amount of the claim does not exceed $500, for which damage or loss members of the naval service are found to be responsible.

§ 750.28 Scope of 10 U.S.C. 7625.

(a) Subject to the exceptions and limitations set forth in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, 10 U.S.C. 7625 provides authority whereby the Secretary of the Navy may, in certain restricted circumstances, consider, ascertain, adjust, determine, and pay claims not in excess of $500 for damage to and loss of privately owned property, for which damage or loss a member of the naval service is found to be responsible.

(b) The provisions of 10 U.S.C. 7625 and §§ 750.27 to 750.28 do not apply to:

(1) Any claim in excess of $500.

(2) Any claim for personal injury or death.

(3) Any claim for property damage or loss occasioned by vessels of the Navy.

(4) Any claim for property damage or loss for which civilian employees of the naval service are found to be responsible.

(5) Any claim for property damage or loss caused through the negligence of members of the naval service while acting within the scope of their employment (4 Comp. Gen. 876 (1925), 10 Comp. Gen. 229 (1930), 11 Comp. Gen. 502 (1932)).

(6) Any claim or part thereof, the amount of which is legally recoverable by the claimant under an indemnifying law or indemnity contract.

(7) Any subrogated claim.

(c) Favorable consideration under 10 U.S.C. 7625 of claims arising from acts or omissions of members of the naval service, acting outside the scope of their employment, will ordinarily be restricted to claims arising from acts or omissions involving the use of Navy property.

Subpart C—General Provisions: Investigation and Procedure

AUTHORITY: §§ 750.29 to 750.48 issued under R.S. 161, secs. 5031, 6011, 70A Stat. 278, 375, as amended; 5 U.S.C. 22, 10 U.S.C. 5031, 6011. Interpret or apply secs. 2671–2680, 62 Stat. 982–984, as amended, secs. 2733, 7625, 70A Stat. 158, 478, as amended; 28 U.S.C. 2671–2680, 10 U.S.C. 2733, 7625.

§ 750.29 Measure of damages.

(a) In claims for damage to or loss or destruction of property cognizable under the provisions governing the administrative settlement of Federal tort claims under Title 28, United States Code, or the civil action provisions of 28 U.S.C. 1346(b), the measure of damages is determined by the law of the place where the act or omission occurred. In cases cognizable under the Military Claims Act (10 U.S.C. 2733) and 10 U.S.C. 7625, however, the measure of damages shall be as follows:

(1) If the property has been or can be economically repaired, the measure of damages shall be the actual or estimated net cost of the repairs necessary to restore the property to substantially the condition which existed immediately prior to the incident. Damages so determined shall not, however, exceed the value of the property immediately prior to the incident less the value thereof immediately after the incident. To determine the actual or estimated net cost of repairs, the value of any salvaged parts or materials and the amount of any net appreciation in value effected through the repair shall be deducted from the actual or estimated gross cost of repairs, and the amount of any net depreciation in the value of the property shall be added to such gross cost of repairs, provided such adjustments are sufficiently substantial in amount to warrant consideration. All estimates of the cost of repairs shall be based upon the lower or lowest of two or more competitive bids, or upon statements or estimates by one or more competent and disinterested persons, preferably reputable dealers or officials familiar with the type of property damaged, lost, or destroyed.

(2) If the property cannot be economically repaired, the measure of damages shall be the value of the property immediately prior to the incident less the value thereof immediately after the incident. All estimates of value shall be made, if possible, by one or more competent and disinterested persons, preferably reputable dealers or officials familiar with the type of property damaged, lost, or destroyed.

(3) Loss of use of damaged property which is economically reparable may, if claimed, be included as an additional element of damage to the extent of the reasonable expense actually incurred for appropriate substitute property, but only for such period as is reasonably necessary for repairs, and provided that idle substitute property of the claimant was not employed. When substitute property is not obtainable, other competent evidence such as rental value, if not speculative or remote, may be considered. When substitute property is reasonably available but is not obtained and used by the claimant, loss of use is normally not payable.

(b) In claims for personal injury or death cognizable under the provisions governing the administrative settlement of Federal tort claims under Title 28, United States Code, or the civil action provisions of 28 U.S.C. 1346(b), the measure of damages is determined by the law of the place where the act or omission occurred.

(c) In claims for personal injury or death cognizable under the Military Claims Act (10 U.S.C. 2733), the measure of damage may include reasonable medical, hospital, and burial expenses, loss of earnings and services, diminution of earning capacity, pain and suffering, permanent injury and death. In computing damages in cases of personal injury or death, local standards will be taken into consideration as a guide. In case of death, only one claim arises; the amount approved therefor will, to the extent found practicable or feasible, be apportioned among the beneficiaries and in the proportions, prescribed by law or custom of the place in which the accident or incident resulting in death occurs.

(d) In claims cognizable under the Military Claims Act or 10 U.S.C. 7625, payment shall not be made for the following elements of damage: Interest, cost of preparation of claims; attorneys' fees; or inconvenience and similar items.

(e) If a claimant under the Military Claims Act or 10 U.S.C. 7625 has elected to proceed against a third party as a joint tort-feasor, any amount paid by such third party for damage which might otherwise be properly included in the claim against the Government shall be deducted from any award made by the Government to the claimant.

§ 750.30 Who constitutes a proper claimant.

(a) A claim for damage to or loss or destruction of property shall be presented by the owner of the property or his duly authorized agent or legal representative. The word "owner," as used herein, includes a bailee, lessee, mortgagor, and conditional vendee, but does not include a mortgagee, conditional vendor, or other person having title for purposes of security only. If the claim is filed by an agent or legal representative of the owner of the property, it shall show the title or capacity of the person signing and shall be accompanied by evidence of the appointment of such person as agent, executor, administrator, guardian, or other fiduciary.

(b) A claim on account of personal injury shall be presented by the person injured or his duly authorized agent, or, in the case of death, by the legal representative of the person deceased.

(c) Settlement of claims involving subrogation by reason of insurance or operation of law when the combined claims of both insured and insurer do not exceed $2,500 in the case of the Federal Tort Claims Act, or $5,000 in the case of the Military Claims Act, may be made separately with the subrogor or the subrogee for their respective interests when separate claims are submitted, or jointly with both when one claim has been filed in the names of both and signed by both, but only with the subrogee when the subrogor has received full compensation from him in cases of damage, loss, destruction, injury or death. Appropriate documentary evidence should be furnished by the subrogee in support of a subrogated claim.

(d) All transfers and assignments made of any claim upon the United States, or of any part or share thereof or interest therein, whether absolute or conditional, and whatever may be the consideration therefor, and all powers of attorney, orders, or other authorities for receiving payment of any such claim, or of any part or share thereof, are absolutely null and void unless they are made after the allowance of such a claim, the ascertainment of the amount due, and the issuing of a warrant for the payment thereof. (R.S. 3477, as amended, 31 U.S.C. 203.) This statutory provision does not apply to the assignment of a claim by operation of law, as in the case of a receiver or trustee in bankruptcy appointed for an individual, firm, or corporation, or the case of an administrator or executor of the estate of a person deceased, or an insurer subrogated to the rights of the insured.

§ 750.31 The submission of a claim.

(a) A claim shall be submitted by presenting in triplicate a written statement setting forth the amount of the claim and, as far as possible, the detailed facts and circumstances surrounding the incident from which the claim arose. The Claim for Damage or Injury, Standard Form No. 95, shall be used whenever practicable. The claim and all other papers requiring signature by the claimant shall be signed by the claimant personally or by his duly authorized agent. The signature of the claimant or his agent shall be identical throughout. When more claims than one arise from a single incident, each such claim shall be filed separately and individually.

(b) The claim shall be submitted by the claimant to the commanding officer of the naval activity involved, if known; otherwise, it shall be submitted to the commanding officer of any naval activity, preferably the one within which or nearest to which the incident occurred, or to the Judge Advocate General of the Navy, Washington 25, D.C.

§ 750.32 The contents of a claim.

(a) The claimant shall include the following information in his claim:

(1) The full name and complete address of the claimant.

(2) The amount claimed for property damage, loss, or destruction, and the amount claimed on account of personal injury or death.

(3) The date, time, and place of occurrence of the incident giving rise to the claim.

(4) The persons, vehicles, and other property involved.

(5) The identity of the Government department, agency, or activity involved.

(6) A detailed description of the occurrence of the incident and the facts and circumstances attending it.

(7) The nature and extent of the resulting damage, loss, destruction, or injury.

(8) The names and addresses of any witnesses to the occurrence of the incident.

(9) An agreement by the claimant to accept the amount claimed in full satisfaction and final settlement of the claim stated.

(b) The amount of the claim shall be substantiated by competent evidence, as follows:

(1) In support of claims for damage to real or personal property which has been or can be economically repaired, the claimant shall submit, in triplicate, an itemized, signed statement or estimate of the cost of repairs. If the property is not economically reparable, or if it is lost or destroyed, the value thereof, both before and after the incident, shall be stated. If damage to realty is not economically reparable, the value, both before and after the incident, of the land damaged, or of the improvement or fixture if it can be readily and fairly valued apart from the land, shall be stated. In support of claims for damage to crops, the statement shall indicate the number of acres or other unit of measure of the crops damaged, the normal yield per unit, the gross income which would have been realized from such normal yield, and an estimate of the further costs of cultivation, harvesting, and marketing. If the crop is one which need not be planted each year, the diminution in value of the land beyond the damage to the current year's crop shall also be stated. All such statements or estimates shall, if possible, be made by competent, disinterested witnesses, preferably reputable dealers or officials familiar with the type of property damaged or lost. If payment for repairs has been made, itemized receipts evidencing payment shall be included. All itemized statements or receipted bills shall be certified by the creditor to be just and correct. A claimant for damage to or loss or destruction of registered or insured mail shall, in addition, submit the registration or insurance receipt showing the amount of the fees and postage paid, or in the event the receipt is not available, a signed statement by the issuing post office containing the essential information from the official records.

(2) In support of claims for personal injury or death, the claimant shall submit, in triplicate, a written report by the attending physician showing the nature and extent of the injury and the treatment, the period of hospitalization or incapacitation, the degree of permanent disability, if any, and the prognosis. Itemized statements or receipted bills, certified by the creditor to be just and correct, shall be included to cover medical, hospital, or burial expenses actually incurred.

(c) The claimant may, if he desires, file with his claim a brief setting forth the law and arguments in support of his position.

Every service-connected incident which may result in claims against or in favor of the Government shall be promptly and thoroughly investigated by trained personnel. The investigation shall be closely supervised to insure the preparation of an investigative report providing a sufficient basis for the prompt and just disposition of resulting claims against and in favor of the Government, and for all other official action required by the circumstances of the case. The procedures set forth in §§ 750.34 and 750.35 shall be followed with respect to the appointment of investigating officers, the conduct of the investigation, the preparation of the investigative report, and the processing of claims cognizable under the regulations in this part.

§ 750.34 Investigation; when required.

(a) Investigation of service-connected incidents shall be made in any of the following circumstances:

(1) When private property is damaged, lost, or destroyed.

(2) When Government property is damaged, lost, or destroyed under circumstances which indicate the existence of a claim in favor of the Government.

(3) When injury or death results to any civilian other than an employee of the Government acting in the performance of his duty and covered by the Federal Employees' Compensation Act.

(4) When a claim is filed within the provisions of this part, though irrespective of amount.

(5) When specifically directed by competent authority.

(b) Incidents falling within any of the categories listed in paragraph (a) of this section shall be investigated and reported upon without delay, even though no claim has been filed, and even though there may be no existing law or regulation under which any claim arising therefrom might be paid.

(c) Upon receipt by the Judge Advocate General of notice from the Department of Justice, or from any other source, that an action involving the Navy has been instituted against the United States under the civil action provisions of 28 U.S.C. 1346(b), a request shall be made upon the Commandant of the appropriate naval district for an investigative report of the incident giving rise to the action, if a complete report of the incident has not already been received. This request shall be forwarded immediately to the appropriate naval activity for prompt compliance in order that the preparation of the Government's defense may not be delayed. The commencement under the civil action provisions of 28 U.S.C. 1346 (b), of any action against the United States, involving the Navy, which comes to the attention of any officer in connection with his official duties, shall be reported immediately to the Commandant of the cognizant naval district, to the attention of the District Legal Officer, who shall initiate any necessary administrative action and shall give further prompt notification to the Judge Advocate General. The commencement of any legal action against any employee of the Navy as a result of an act or omission committed within the scope of his employment, which comes to the attention of any officer in connection with his official duties, whether or not the United States has been made a party to such legal action, shall be reported in the same manner.

(d) The regulations in this part in no way modify the requirements of Navy Regulations; the Manual for Courts-Martial, United States, 1951 (E.O. 10214, 3 CFR 1949–1953 Comp., p. 408, as amended); and other provisions of the 1955 Naval Supplement to the Manual for Courts-Martial, United States, 1951 and the making of an investigation and report hereunder does not constitute or excuse compliance with any provision of Navy Regulations; the Manual for Courts-Martial, United States, 1951; and other provisions of the 1955 Naval Supplement to the Manual for Courts-Martial, United States, 1951.

(a) Immediate responsibility for the investigation of an incident in accordance with this part lies with the commanding officer or officer in charge of the local naval activity which is most directly concerned, normally the commanding officer or officer in charge of the personnel involved or of the activity in which the incident occurred. Where two or more activities are involved, the senior of the commanding officers or officers in charge concerned shall decide who of them shall have immediate responsibility for the investigation.

(b) When an accident or incident occurs at a place where the naval service does not have an installation or a unit conveniently located for conducting an investigation, the commanding officer or officer in charge having immediate responsibility for making such investigation may request assistance from the commanding officer or officer in charge of any other organization of the Department of Defense. Such assistance may take the form of a complete investigation of the accident or incident, or it may cover only part of the investigation. Likewise, in the event that under similar circumstances the commanding officer or officer in charge of any other organization of the Department of Defense requests such assistance from the commanding officer or officer in charge of any naval installation or unit, the latter will comply with the request. If a complete investigation is requested, the report will be made in accordance with the regulations of the requested service. These investigations will normally be conducted without reimbursement for per diem, mileage or other expenses incurred by the investigating installation or unit.

(c) The driver of any Government motor vehicle involved in an accident of any sort shall be responsible for making an immediate report on the Operator's Report of Motor Vehicle Accident, Standard Form No. 91. This driver's report shall be made even though the driver of the other vehicle or any other person involved states that no claim will be filed, or even though the only vehicles involved are Government-owned. An accident shall be reported by the driver regardless of who was injured, or what property was damaged, or to what extent, or where the accident occurred, or who was responsible. The driver's report shall be referred to the investigating officer, who shall be responsible for examining it for completeness and accuracy, and who shall file it for future reference or for attachment to any subsequent investigative report of the accident.

(a) Every investigation required by this part shall be conducted by an investigating officer. The commanding officer or officer in charge of each naval activity shall designate a qualified individual under his command, preferably one with legal training and experienced in the conduct of investigations, as the investigating officer for the activity. Whenever necessary, in the discretion of the commanding officer or officer in charge, additional or assistant investigating officers may be appointed, each with all and the same powers as the investigating officer, except that all assistant investigating officers shall be under the general supervision of the investigating officer. To insure prompt investigation of every incident while witnesses are available and before damage has been repaired, the duties of an officer in his capacity as an investigating officer shall ordinarily have priority over any other assignments he may have.

It shall be the duty of the investigating officer, in making an investigation pursuant to the regulations in this part:

(1) To consider all information and evidence obtained as a result of any previous investigation or inquiry into any aspect of the incident.

(2) To conduct further investigation of the matter in a fair and impartial manner, covering all phases of the incident and giving consideration to its bearing on possible claims against or in favor of the Government and on other interests of the service, to the end that a comprehensive, accurate, and unbiased factual report of the incident may be made available to higher authority for such action as is required by the circumstances of the case.

(3) To secure and consider signed statements from all competent witnesses on facts pertinent to the incident. Witnesses should be interviewed by the investigating officer at the earliest opportunity and he should obtain from them full statements. Statements from principal witnesses should be reduced to writing and their signatures obtained thereon if at all possible. The interests of the United States may be seriously prejudiced if the investigating officer fails to obtain such statements before witnesses lose their clear recollection or can be confused by questioning by persons with adverse interests.

(4) To inspect the property damage and to interview injured persons or their representatives personally, and if such personal inspection and interview is not conducted, to state the reason therefor.

(5) To ascertain the nature, extent, and amount of damage and to obtain all pertinent repair bills or estimates, medical, hospital, and associated bills as are necessary to the proper adjudication of a claim against or in favor of the Government which may arise from the incident. For proper method of computing the amount of damages, see § 750.29. Claims for loss of earnings and diminution of earning capacity arising under the Federal Tort Claims Act or the Military Claims Act require submission by the claimant of a statement by his employer executed before a notary public, or where the claimant is in business for himself a certified copy of company records, showing claimant's age, occupation, wage or salary, and time lost from work as a result of the incident. Where such statements or records are not available, a sworn statement by the claimant will be obtained. Claims for loss of earnings, diminution of earning capacity, medical and hospital expenses, anticipated medical expense, pain and suffering, physical disfigurement, and temporary or permanent injury arising under the Federal Tort Claims Act or the Military Claims Act require submission by the claimant of a written statement by the attending physician setting forth the nature and extent of the injury and treatment, the duration and extent of the disability involved, the prognosis, and period of hospitalization or incapacity.

(6) In all cases in which a suit against the United States is likely or is pending, and in all other cases in which it appears pertinent to determine liability, to obtain from the proper maintenance office the latest report of material inspection of the Navy aircraft or motor vehicle that was conducted prior to the accident.

(7) To secure from qualified persons of the activity concerned, or of another appropriate activity, statements concerning the extent of damage or injury and the reasonableness of the damages claimed. The investigating officer, if the injured person does not object, should have a physical examination made of the injured person at a military installation, as may be adequate considering available personnel and facilities of the installation, when such examination is considered necessary in connection with a claim incident to such injuries, provided that no expense for services or supplies from other federal agencies or civilian agencies is incurred with such examination. A copy of the report of such examination obtained from the medical installation will be included in the report of investigation or, if made subsequent to the forwarding of the latter report, will be forwarded to the same command as the report of investigation.

(8) To reduce to writing and incorporate into a unified investigative report, prepared in triplicate, all pertinent testimony, exhibits, and any other evidence taken or considered. (See, however, the exception contained in § 750.38(b).)

(9) To furnish the proper claim forms to any person who inquires concerning the procedure for making claim against the Government as a result of a service-connected incident, and to advise such person where the claim should be filed and what substantiating evidence should accompany the claim.

(10) To submit the complete investigative report to his commanding officer or officer in charge as promptly as the circumstances permit; and in the case of an incident involving any personal injury or property damage estimated to be in excess of $1,000, to submit immediately a preliminary report, containing such information as is at that time available, to his commanding officer for forwarding to reach the Judge Advocate General within twenty days of the occurrence of the incident under investigation. In a case where not all of the required information is immediately available, as in an accident resulting in personal injuries requiring extended periods of hospitalization or medical care, the investigative report shall be submitted promptly, containing all available information at the time of submission and shall be completed by means of a supplementary report or reports submitted as soon as the previously omitted information becomes available.

§ 750.38 Contents of the investigative report.

A written report of investigation will be made in each case, using standard forms whenever appropriate forms are available.

(a) Except in cases falling within the provisions of paragraph (b) of this section, the report shall be complete in every significant detail and will include particularly such of the following information as is pertinent:

(1) Date, time, and exact place the accident or incident occurred, specifying the highway, street, road, or intersection, including the streets between which or the number of the block where the accident or incident occurred, or the number of miles and the direction from the nearest town.

(2) A concise but complete statement of the circumstances of the accident or incident. Reference should be made to pertinent physical facts observed and to any material statements, admissions, or declarations against interest by any person involved.

(3) A statement whether a claim has been or, if known, will be filed and, if so, the name and address of the claimant.

(4) A statement whether the claimant is the sole owner of the damaged property and, if not, the name and address of the owner, or part owners, and the basis of the claimant's alleged right to file the claim.

(5) Names, service numbers, grades, organizations and addresses of military personnel and civilian employees involved as participants or witnesses.

(6) Names and addresses of witnesses.

(7) A statement whether military personnel and civilian employees were acting within the scope of their employment and the basis for such determination.

(8) Accurate description of Government property involved, and nature and amount of damage, if any. If Government property was not damaged, that fact should be stated.

(9) Accurate description of all privately owned property involved, nature and amount of damage, if any, and the names and addresses of the owners thereof.

(10) Names, addresses, and ages of all civilians or military personnel injured or killed. Information as to the nature and extent of injuries, degree of permanent disability, prognosis, period of hospitalization, name and address of attending physician and hospital, and amount of medical, hospital, and burial expenses actually incurred, occupation, and wage or salary of civilians injured or killed. Names, addresses, ages, relationship, and extent of dependency of survivors of any such person killed or fatally injured should be stated.

(11) If straying animals are involved, a statement whether the jurisdiction has "open range law" and, if so, reference to such statute.

(12) A statement whether any person involved violated any State or Federal statute, local ordinance, or installation regulations and, if so, in what respect. The statute, ordinance, or regulations should be set out in full.

(13) A statement whether a police investigation was made. A copy of the police report of investigation will be included if available.

(14) A statement whether any arrests were made or charges preferred, and the result of any trial in civil or military courts.

(15) The comments and recommendations of the investigating officer as to the existence of liability and as to the amount of the damage, loss or destruction, or the amount payable on account of personal injury or death.

(16) As many exhibits or enclosures as are pertinent, and as may appear necessary or useful in the circumstances of each case, shall be obtained during the course of the investigation and shall be attached to the investigative report, forming a part thereof. The enclosures shall be numbered consecutively and shall be listed numerically in the investigative report in accordance with standard Navy correspondence procedure.

(b) In lieu of the formal investigation contemplated by § 750.37 and the detailed report described in paragraph (a) of this section, a more limited investigation and report may be made when the following circumstances exist:

(1) A claim has been presented for an amount of $100.00 or less.

(2) The claim is cognizable under the Federal Tort Claims Act (§§ 750.1 to 750.7) or the Military Claims Act (§§ 750.16 to 750.26).

(3) The amount payable on the claim has been agreed upon. This limited report will take the form of a certification and should provide substantially as follows:

CERTIFICATE

---------- 196--

I certify that I have investigated the accident (incident), that the facts fully substantiate the claim, and that I have taken the following action:

I further find that the amount claimed represents the claimant's loss and recommend payment under the provisions of sections 1–7 NGCR [§§ 750.1 to 750.7] (sections 17–26 [§§ 750.17 to 750.26]).

In the space provided for noting the action taken by the investigating officer, he should describe very briefly the limited investigation upon which his recommendation is based, for example, information (estimates, etc.) received by telephone from ----------; interviewed Government driver (other driver, witnesses, etc.); inspected damaged property; violation of local law; etc.

*Must be included in all cases involving motor vehicle accidents.

The investigative report will be reviewed and, if necessary, returned to the investigating officer for the correction of any omissions noted. If there is a legal officer available, the commanding officer or officer in charge should ordinarily use his services in reviewing and, if desirable, endorsing the report. If the report is in order, it shall be forwarded by endorsement, with any pertinent comments and recommendations. In cases in which the certificate report authorized by § 750.38 (b) is used, the commanding officer or officer in charge may indicate his approval of the certificate report by signing this report in the space provided thereon. One copy of the report shall be retained in the file of the local activity and shall be made available to safety officers for use in accident prevention and to superior commands upon request. The original and one copy of the report, together with all three copies of any claim filed, shall be forwarded by means of the aforementioned endorsement, without regard to chain of command, to the Commandant of the naval district in which the incident occurs, attention District Legal Officer. If the incident arises in Guam, the report and claims shall be forwarded to Commander Naval Forces Marianas, attention Staff Legal Officer. In other cases where the incidents occur outside the geographical limits of any naval district, the commanding officer or officer in charge shall promptly forward such reports to the Judge Advocate General.

§ 750.40 Action by the district or staff legal officer.

(a) The district or staff legal officer may, in his discretion, return the investigative report for such additional investigation and information as may be considered necessary. When satisfied with the report, he shall endorse the investigative report with his recommendations as to whether any claim or claims should be paid, and in what amount, stating the legal basis for his recommendations.

(b) The commandant of the naval district (or, with respect to cases arising in Guam, Commander Naval Forces Marianas) or the district or staff legal officer shall approve or disapprove the claims within his adjudicating authority (see § 750.41) as the law and the facts may warrant. In exceptional and unusual cases, even though the claim or claims may appear to fall within the adjudicating authority of the commandant or commander, or his staff legal officer, the entire record, together with pertinent comments and recommendations, may be referred to the Judge Advocate General for appropriate action.

(c) In all cases not coming within the adjudicating authority of the commandant or commander or his staff legal officer, one copy of the investigative report shall be retained for the files and the original of the report, together with all related papers and all three copies of any claims filed shall be forwarded, with pertinent comments and recommendations, to the Judge Advocate General.

§ 750.41 Approval of claims.

(a) Claims cognizable under the provisions governing administrative settlement of Federal tort claims under Title 28, United States Code, and §§ 750.1 to 750.7 shall be approved or disapproved, in whole or in part, by any of the following, all of whom are designated to administer those provisions of law for the Navy:

(1) The Judge Advocate General.

(2) The Deputy Judge Advocate General.

(3) The Assistant Judge Advocate General (International and Administrative Law).

(4) The Director, Civil Law Division, Office of the Judge Advocate General.

(5) The Head, General Claims Branch, Civil Law Division, Office of the Judge Advocate General.

(6) The Director, Office of the Judge Advocate General, West Coast.

(7) Such other officers as may be designated by the Secretary of the Navy.

(8) The Commandant or the District Legal Officer of the Naval District within which the claims arose or, if the claims arose in Guam, Commander Naval Forces Marianas or his staff legal officer or, if the claims arose in the Potomac River Naval Command, the Commandant or the District Legal Officer of that Command, if no claim arising from the accident or incident exceeds $1,000 and there are no known possible claims in any amount for either personal injury or death as a result of the accident or incident. Two copies of the approval and one copy of the voucher shall be forwarded to the Office of the Judge Advocate General without a letter of transmittal.

(9) The Legal Officer, U.S. Naval Base, Newport, Rhode Island, and the Legal Officer, U.S. Naval Submarine Base, New London, Connecticut, for claims accruing to operators of fishing vessels for damage to nets, booms, lines, and other trawler impedimenta as a result of contact with naval ordnance (mines and torpedoes), if no claim arising from the accident or incident exceeds $1,000 and there are no known possible claims in any amount for either personal injury or death as a result of the accident or incident. Two copies of the approval and one copy of the voucher shall be forwarded to the Office of the Judge Advocate General without a letter of transmittal.

(b) Claims cognizable under the Military Claims Act and §§ 750.17 to 750.26 shall be approved or disapproved, in whole or in part by any of the following, all of whom are designated to administer those provisions of law for the Navy provided that the Judge Advocate General is designated to approve or disapprove a claim in an amount of not more than $5,000 and the others are designated to approve or disapprove a claim in an amount of not more than $1,000:

(1) The Judge Advocate General.

(2) The Deputy Judge Advocate General.

(3) The Assistant Judge Advocate General (International and Administrative Law).

(4) The Director, Civil Law Division, Office of the Judge Advocate General.

(5) The Head, General Claims Branch, Civil Law Division, Office of the Judge Advocate General.

(6) The Director, Office of the Judge Advocate General, West Coast.

(7) Such other officers as may be designated by the Secretary of the Navy.

(8) The Commandant or the District Legal Officer of the Naval District within which the claims arose or, if the claims arose in Guam, Commander Naval Forces Marianas or his staff legal officer or, if the claims arose in the Potomac River Naval Command, the Commandant or the District Legal Officer of that Command, if no claim arising from the accident or incident exceeds $1,000 and there are no known possible claims in any amount for either personal injury or death as a result of the accident or incident.

(9) The Officer in Charge, U.S. Sending State Office for Italy.

(10) The Legal Officer, U.S. Naval Base, Newport, Rhode Island, and the Legal Officer, U.S. Naval Submarine Base, New London, Connecticut, for claims accruing to operators of fishing vessels for damage to nets, booms, lines and other trawler impedimenta as a result of contact with naval ordnance (mines and torpedoes), if no claim arising from the accident or incident exceeds $1,000 and there are no known possible claims in any amount for either personal injury or death as a result of the accident or incident.

(11) Foreign Claims Commissions to the extent authorized by Department of Defense Notice of 22 August 1958 (23 F.R. 6839). (See § 753.31 of this chapter.)

(c) Claims cognizable under 10 U.S.C. 7625 and §§ 750.27 to 750.28 shall be approved or disapproved by the Secretary of the Navy.

(d) Subject to the provisions of 28 U.S.C. 1346(b) and §§ 750.8 to 750.16 respecting civil action against the United States, and subject to the provisions of § 750.42, with regard to appeal, any award or determination of the Secretary of the Navy, or his designees, under the provisions governing administrative settlement of Federal tort claims under Title 28, United States Code, is final and conclusive upon all officers of the Government, except when procured by means of fraud. Notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary, any settlement made by the Secretary of the Navy under the authority of the Military Claims Act (10 U.S.C. 2733) and §§ 750.17 to 750.26, or subject to the provisions of § 750.42 with regard to appeal to the Secretary of the Navy, by his designees for the purpose, is final and conclusive for all purposes.

§ 750.42 Notice and appeal.

(a) The claimant shall, in every case, be notified by the approving or disapproving authority, in writing, of the action taken on his claim.

(b) When a claim has been disapproved, either in whole or in part, the claimant may, within thirty days after receipt of the aforementioned notification, appeal to the Secretary of the Navy (Judge Advocate General), stating the grounds relied upon for such appeal. Such appeals may be decided either by the Secretary of the Navy or the Judge Advocate General, except that in cases originally processed and disapproved by the Judge Advocate General, the appeal shall be decided by the Secretary of the Navy. When an appeal from a decision under the Military Claims Act (10 U.S.C. 2733) has been considered and denied either in whole or in part by the Judge Advocate General, a further appeal may be made to the Secretary of the Navy.

(a) In cases in which the claim is approved in the full amount claimed, no settlement agreement, other than the agreement incorporated in the claim for damage or injury, Standard Form #95, is necessary. In cases in which the claim is being approved for a lesser amount than that claimed, no payment will be made until the claimant has indicated in writing his willingness to accept such amount in full satisfaction and final settlement of the claim.

(b) The acceptance by the claimant of any award or settlement made by the Secretary of the Navy, or his designees for the purpose, in pursuance of the authority granted by statute and the regulations in this part, or of any award, compromise, or settlement made by the Attorney General, is final and conclusive upon the claimant and constitutes a complete release by the claimant of any claim against the United States by reason of the same subject matter. The acceptance by the claimant of any award, compromise, or settlement made under the provisions governing the administrative settlement of Federal tort claims under Title 28, United States Code, or the civil action provisions of 28 U.S.C. 1346(b), and §§ 750.1 to 750.16 also constitutes a complete release by the claimant of any claim against the employee of the Government whose act or omission gave rise to the claim, by reason of the same subject matter.

§ 750.44 Payment of claims.

Claims approved by the Secretary of the Navy, the Judge Advocate General, the Deputy Judge Advocate General, the Assistant Judge Advocate General (International and Administrative Law), the Director, Civil Law Division, Office of the Judge Advocate General, or the Head, General Claims Branch, Civil Law Division, Office of the Judge Advocate General as provided in § 750.41 shall be forwarded to the U.S. Navy Regional Accounts Office, Washington 25, D.C., for payment from appropriations designated for that purpose. Claims approved by the Officer in Charge, U.S. Sending State Office for Italy, the Legal Officer, U.S. Naval Base, Newport, Rhode Island, the Legal Officer, U.S. Naval Submarine Base, New London, Connecticut, or a Commandant or Commander or District or Staff Legal Officer as provided in § 750.41 shall be forwarded to such disbursing officer as may be designated by the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts for payment from appropriations designated for that purpose.

§ 750.45 Claims in favor of the United States.

(a) Demands for the payment of all claims in favor of the United States shall be made only by the Judge Advocate General of the Navy or by such other officers as may be specifically designated by the Judge Advocate General for that purpose. Ordinarily, in cases where the Commandant of a Naval District determines that a valid claim exists in favor of the United States, the record together with his recommendations shall be forwarded to the Judge Advocate General for appropriate action.

(b) Where a private party who has caused damage to Government property, or the insurer of such private party, agrees to have the Government property repaired to the satisfaction of the proper Government official concerned, and to pay therefor directly to the person making the repairs, and where such a procedure would be to the interest of the Government, the commanding officer of the activity concerned is authorized to permit such private accomplishment of the necessary repairs. The commanding officer is further authorized to assure the private party who caused the damage that a full release of the claim of the United States arising from such damage will be executed by the Judge Advocate General of the Navy or his designee upon completion of the repairs to the entire satisfaction of the proper Government official, and upon payment by the private party of the entire cost of such repairs.

(c) The procedure authorized in paragraph (b) of this section may be followed without prior approval by the Judge Advocate General and without awaiting the submission of the investigative report required by the regulations in this part. The investigative report submitted in accordance with the requirements of the regulations in this part, however, shall contain a statement of the cost of the repairs and a certification by the proper Government official to the effect that all damages have been satisfactorily repaired and that full payment therefor has been made. A release will then be executed by the Judge Advocate General or his designee and will be forwarded promptly to the appropriate District Legal Officer, or, upon request, to the private party paying for the repairs, or to the insurer of such private party.

(d) In the event repairs to the Government property have been made or are to be made at Government expense and the private party who caused the damage, or the insurer of such private party, tenders full payment for such repairs, such payment should be made in the form of a check, draft or money order, payable to the order of the Treasurer of the United States, and forwarded to the Judge Advocate General. A release will then be executed by the Judge Advocate General or his designee and will be forwarded promptly to the appropriate district legal officer, or, upon request, to the private party paying for the repairs, or the insurer of such private party.

EXCEPTION: Where repairs have been paid for out of Industrial Funds, such payment may be deposited locally to such Funds; Navy Comptroller Manual, paragraph 043114. A notation that the claim is based on a payment from a Navy Industrial Fund should be included whenever applicable on all claims forwarded to the Office of the Judge Advocate General for collection.

No military personnel or civilian employees of the Navy shall release copies of official papers or any other information which can be used as the basis of a claim against the United States, unless such release be properly authorized by competent authority and be made in the discharge of official duties. In particular, the contents of the investigative report shall not be disclosed to the claimant or his attorney or agent, nor shall the claimant be advised as to the recommendations made with regard to his claim. In cases where the claim and investigative report have been forwarded to the Judge Advocate General of the Navy for consideration, claimants who make inquiry as to the status of their claim should be advised that such information may be obtained from the Judge Advocate General.

§ 750.47 Authority for issuance of instructions by the Judge Advocate General.

The Judge Advocate General of the Navy is hereby authorized to issue such instructions, not in conflict with the regulations in this part, as may be necessary to give full force and effect thereto.

§ 750.48 Single service assignment of responsibility for processing of claims.

(a) The Secretary of Defense (Department of Defense Notice, 25 F.R. 9065) has assigned responsibility for the processing of all claims in favor of the United States, or against the United States and cognizable under:

(1) The Foreign Claims Act (10 U.S.C. 2734),

(2) The Military Claims Act (10 U.S.C. 2733), and

(3) The Act of August 31, 1954 (68 Stat. 1006, 31 U.S.C. 2241–2 to 2241–5), which arise in the following countries to the military departments indicated below in this section:

I. Department of the Army: Belgium, Ethiopia, France, The Federal Republic of Germany, Iran, Korea, and as the Receiving State Office in the United States under the Act of August 31, 1954, supra, and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Status of Forces Agreement (4 UST 1792, TIAS 2846).

II. Department of the Navy: Italy and Portugal.

III. Department of the Air Force: Canada, Denmark, Greece, Iceland, Japan, Libya, Luxembourg, Netherlands, Norway, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia, Turkey, and the United Kingdom.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (a) of this section, the Department of the Navy has been authorized by the Secretary of Defense to settle non-scope of duty claims under $100 arising in foreign ports visited by the Sixth Fleet and may, subject to the concurrence of the authorities of the receiving state concerned, process such claims without regard to Article VIII, paragraph 6 of the NATO Status of Forces Agreement.

AUTHORITY: §§ 753.1 to 753.31 issued under R.S. 161, secs. 5031, 6011, 70A Stat. 278, 375, as amended; 5 U.S.C. 22, 10 U.S.C. 5031, 6011. Interpret or apply secs. 1–4, 68 Stat 1006–1007, sec. 2734, 70A Stat. 154, as amended; 31 U.S.C. 2241–2—2241–5, 10 U.S.C. 2734.

Subpart A—Scope of the Foreign Claims Act

§ 753.1 General.

Claims for damage to or loss of real or personal property of a foreign country, political subdivision or inhabitant of a foreign country, and for personal injury or death of the inhabitant of a foreign country, occurring outside the United States, its Territories, Commonwealths or possessions and caused by its military forces or individual members (whether military personnel or civilian employees) thereof or otherwise incident to noncombat activities of such forces are within the scope of the Foreign Claims Act (10 U.S.C. 2734). The word "claims" as used in the regulations in this part refers to those demands for payment submitted by individuals, partnerships, associations, or corporations, including foreign countries, and states, territories, and other political subdivisions of such countries, other than such demands for payment as arise under ordinary obligations incurred by the Department of the Navy in the procurement of services or supplies. The words "Navy" and "naval", as used herein, include the Marine Corps except where the context indicates otherwise.

§ 753.2 Purpose.

The purpose of the Foreign Claims Act (10 U.S.C. 2734) is the "promoting" and "maintaining" of "friendly relations" in foreign countries by the prompt "settlement" of "meritorious" claims. The regulations in this part are to be so administered as to effectuate the expressed purpose of Congress.

§ 753.3 Territorial application.

The provisions of the regulations in this part are applicable to claims arising outside the United States, or its Territories, Commonwealths or possessions. The fact that a claim arises at a place, within a foreign country, under the temporary or permanent jurisdiction of the United States does not preclude the allowance thereunder of a claim which would otherwise be within the Foreign Claims Act.

§ 753.4 Acts not within scope of employment.

As far as military personnel are concerned, the doctrine of scope of employment has no application. Claims, otherwise within the Foreign Claims Act, may be allowed regardless of whether the naval personnel or employee of the United States who caused the damage, injury, or death was acting within the scope of his employment: Provided, That no claim may be allowed if the damage, injury, or death is caused by a civilian employee of the United States, who, if a citizen of the foreign country, is acting outside the scope of his employment. In determining whether conduct, although not expressly authorized, is nevertheless within the scope of employment, consideration may be given to all of the attendant facts and circumstances including, the time, place, and purpose of the activity; whether the activity was for the furtherance of the general interest of the Government; whether the activity is usual for personnel of the grade and classification involved or reasonably to be expected of such personnel; and whether the instrumentality from which the damage or injury resulted was owned or furnished by the Government. A slight deviation as to time or place will ordinarily not constitute a departure from scope of employment; such a deviation, to have legal effect, must be a material deviation.

§ 753.5 Criminal acts.

That the act giving rise to the claim may constitute a crime does not bar relief. Claims, otherwise within the Foreign Claims Act, may be allowed regardless of whether the act of the officer or employee of the United States which caused the damage, injury, or death was a crime or other wrongful act, or negligence or mere mistake of judgment.

§ 753.6 Elements of damage in case of personal injury and death.

Actual and reasonable medical and hospital expenses, reasonable compensation for pain and suffering and loss of earning capacity may be paid in cases of personal injury. If death results, actual and reasonable burial expenses and reasonable compensation for loss of prospective support may also be allowed. Claims of dependents for loss of prospective support are allowable only if such claims are recognized by the law of the country where the injury occurred. In computing damages in cases of personal injury or death, local standards will be taken into consideration as a controlling factor. In case of death, only one claim arises; the amount approved therefor will, to the extent found practicable or feasible, be apportioned among the beneficiaries, and in the proportions, prescribed by law or custom of the place in which the accident or incident resulting in the death occurs.

§ 753.7 Bailed or leased property.

Claims for damage to or loss or destruction of personal property, otherwise within the Foreign Claims Act, may be settled thereunder, notwithstanding the fact that the property was loaned, rented, or otherwise bailed to the Government under an agreement, express or implied. Claims for rent of personal property are not payable under the regulations in this part.

§ 753.8 Use and occupancy of real property.

Claims for damage to real property incident to the use and occupancy thereof by the Government under a lease, express or implied, or otherwise, are payable under the provisions of the regulations in this part even though legally enforceable against the Government, as contract claims; payment may, however, be precluded by the provisions of § 753.13. Claims payable under this section may, if deemed preferable as in the best interests of the Government, be processed as contract claims. Claims for rent of real property are not payable under the regulations in this part.

Claims for damage to or loss or destruction of property, or for personal injury or death, though not caused by acts or omissions of military personnel or civilian employees of the Navy, are payable under the provisions of this section if otherwise incident to the noncombat activities of the Navy. In general the claims within the above category are those arising out of authorized activities which are peculiarly military activities having little parallel in civilian pursuits and out of situations which historically have been considered as furnishing a proper basis for the payment of claims. Included are claims where no particular act or omission on the part of military personnel or civilian employees is present or if present and though occurring within the scope of their employment is at least less obvious or less personal but where, because of the peculiar nature of the activity or of the resulting damage or injury, the burden of the loss should be borne rather by the Government than by the particular individual on whom the loss initially fell. Included also are claims arising out of activities such as those involving the use of explosives, whether or not involving negligent acts or omissions, of which damage or injury is a natural consequence. For example, included are claims for damage or injury arising out of, and which are natural or probable results of incidents of, maneuvers and special field exercises, practice firing of heavy guns, practice bombing, operation of aircraft and antiaircraft, use of instrumentalities having latent mechanical defects not traceable to negligent acts or omissions, movement of combat vehicles or other vehicles, designed especially for military use, and use and occupancy of real estate.

Subpart B—Limitations of Application

§ 753.10 Persons excluded as claimants.

The following classes of claimants are among those excluded:

(a) Members and civilian employees of the armed forces of the United States and their dependents who are inhabitants of the United States and who are in a foreign country primarily because of their sponsors' or their own military orders.

(b) Nationals of a country at war with the United States, or any ally of such an enemy country, except as the Foreign Claims Commission considering the claim, or the local military commander, shall determine that the claimant is friendly to the United States.

§ 753.11 Claims excluded.

The following classes of claims are excluded: Claims purely contractual in character; private contractual and domestic obligations of individual military personnel or civilian employees; claims based solely on compassionate grounds; bastardy claims; claims for patent infringement.

§ 753.12 Negligence or wrongful act on the part of claimant.

No claim will be allowed where the damage, injury, or death is proximately caused in whole or in part by negligence or wrongful act on the part of the claimant, his agent, or employee. This limitation is applicable to situations where under the law of the country where the injury arises contributory negligence bars the claim. If, however, under the law or custom of the country in which the claim arises, such contributory negligence or wrongful act is not recognized generally as a bar to recovery in tort claims, or is held to be a factor diminishing the extent of the claimant's recovery, then in that case such local law or custom will be applied so far as practicable, in determining the effect of such negligence or wrongful act.

Claims for damage to or loss or destruction of property, or for personal injury or death, resulting from action by the enemy, or resulting directly or indirectly from any act by armed forces engaged in combat, are not payable under the Foreign Claims Act.

§ 753.14 Claims of subrogees.

Settlement will be made solely with the insured, rather than with the insurer or with both the insured and the insurer, in cases of damage to or loss or destruction of property or personal injury or death covered by insurance. No inquiry will be made into, or determination made of, the relative interests as between insured and insurer. The entire claim, including any portion thereof insured against, will be filed by or on behalf of the insured and payment of the entire amount allowed will be made to the insured as the real claimant. Claims by insurers in their own right are not within the provisions of the Foreign Claims Act, and will not be considered; insurers presenting claims shall be so advised and informed that subrogation claims are not recognized under the act. Evidence of authority to file a claim on behalf of the insured may be established by a power of attorney, or other documentary evidence satisfactory to the Foreign Claims Commission.

§ 753.15 Statute of limitations.

A claim may be allowed under this part only if it is presented within two years after it accrued.

§ 753.16 Nature of claim.

Any claim will be considered if it states substantially the material facts with such definiteness as to give reasonable notice of the time, place, and nature of the accident or incident out of which the claim arose and an estimate or statement of the damage, loss, destruction, injury, or death resulting. The claim should be signed by or on behalf of the claimant and should, if practicable, be under oath. In cases in which the claim is made in behalf of the true claimant, satisfactory evidence of authority to act for the claimant must be furnished.

§ 753.17 Claims for damage occasioned by naval vessels.

Unless specifically authorized by the Judge Advocate General in each case, the Foreign Claims Commission shall not assume jurisdiction or proceed to hear any claim for damage occasioned by a naval vessel. This provision applies to claims for damage caused to land structures as well as claims of an admiralty nature. The occurrence of any such damage, if brought to the attention of a claims commission, shall be reported immediately to the Judge Advocate General, attention of the Admiralty Division.

Subpart C—Foreign Claims Commissions

(a) All commanding officers are hereby granted authority to appoint Foreign Claims Commissions. For the purposes of the Foreign Claims Act and the regulations in this part, the Officer in Charge, U.S. Sending State Office for Italy, Chiefs of Naval Missions (including chiefs of the naval section of military missions), Chiefs, Military Assistance Advisory Groups (including Chiefs, Naval Section, Military Assistance Advisory Groups), Senior Naval Advisor to Argentina and naval attachés are to be considered commanding officers. Commissions may be appointed to consider each claim as presented, or to constitute a standing claims commission to consider all claims presented to it. The commanding officer to whom a claim is presented has the duty of referring the claim to a commission, and of appointing a commission himself where necessary or expeditious. Each Foreign Claims Commission will be composed of one or more officers.

(b) Claims may be considered by a commission of not more than one member when the amount claimed is not in excess of $1,000; claims may be considered by a commission consisting of three members when the amount claimed exceeds $1,000. The findings of a claims commission are final and not subject to review where the amount awarded is not in excess of $2,500. Where the amount which the commission recommends be paid exceeds $2,500 but does not exceed $15,000, the findings and opinion of the claims commission are subject to the review of the commanding officer; claims as to which the amount the commission recommends be paid exceeds $2,500 but does not exceed $15,000 may be paid only when the commanding officer has approved the action of the commission in allowing such claim. Claims as to which the amount the commission recommends be paid exceeds $5,000 but does not exceed $15,000 may be paid only when the Judge Advocate General or, with respect to claims which arose in Italy, the Officer in Charge, U.S. Sending State Office for Italy, has approved the action of the commission in allowing such claims. As to claims exceeding $15,000, see §§ 753.24(b) and 753.27.

(c) In addition to those listed in paragraph (a) of this section, the Judge Advocate General is hereby designated to appoint Foreign Claims Commissions. The appointment and conduct of these commissions shall be in accordance with this part wherever applicable, except that the findings of the claims commissions appointed by the Judge Advocate General shall be final and not subject to review in cases where the amount awarded is $2,500 or less; and that in cases where the amount awarded is greater than $2,500, the findings shall be subject to the review of the Judge Advocate General.

§ 753.19 Membership of commissions.

The commission shall consist of one or three, as appropriate, commissioned officers of either the Navy or Marine Corps, who shall have rank commensurate with the claim being investigated.

Subpart D—Procedure

§ 753.20 No formal procedure prescribed.

No formal procedure for the conduct of an investigation of a claim is prescribed. However, the instructions governing the procedure of courts of inquiry and boards of investigation by the 1955 Naval Supplement to the Manual for Courts Martial, United States, 1951, should be followed in principle as a guide. A transcript of the testimony of witnesses is not required and only the substance of statements of witnesses need be recorded. However, it is desirable that signed statements of material witnesses be made a part of the record. The formal rules of evidence need not be adhered to and any evidence, regardless of its form, which the commission deems material may be received and evaluated.

§ 753.21 Report of proceedings.

The commission shall at the conclusion of its hearings make findings of fact regarding each claim and of the amount, in the indigenous currency of the country in which the incident occurred or of which claimant was or is an inhabitant, found by it to be just compensation to the claimant and make a brief written report of its proceedings. The report should set forth as a minimum:

(a) The date or dates of the hearing or hearings.

(b) The date of the final determination.

(c) The amount claimed stated in the indigenous currency and, solely for administrative control purposes, the conversion into United States currency at the existing official rate of exchange on the date of initial consideration of the claim.

(d) The amount awarded stated in the indigenous currency and, solely for administrative control and memorandum accounting purposes, the conversion into United States currency at the existing official rate of exchange on the date of final determination.

(e) A brief statement of facts, including the date of accident or injury, the date the claim was filed, and the nature of the damage or injury (i.e., whether to person or property).

(f) Findings as to the necessary jurisdictional facts. A copy of the precept creating the commission together with a copy of claimant's release (in case of allowance) or notification to claimant (in case of disallowance) should be attached to the report. The original report, together with three copies, will be submitted to the convening authority. When the findings of fact of such commission are received by the convening authority they shall in each case be final and conclusive. This procedure applies to claims where the amount to be paid does not exceed $2,500. Where the amount which the commission recommends be paid exceeds $2,500 but does not exceed $5,000, the findings of the commission are transmitted to the convening authority for his consideration and approval; upon receiving such approval, the findings shall in such cases be final and conclusive. For claims which the commission considers meritorious in an amount exceeding $15,000, see §§ 753.24(b) and 753.27.

§ 753.22 Notification to claimant of award.

Upon completion of the report of the commission and approval by the convening authority when required, the claimant will be notified of the award and, if the claimant executes a release for the amount of the award, this release together with the original and one copy of the report of the commission shall be transmitted to the nearest disbursing officer for payment. At the same time one copy of the report shall be forwarded to the Secretary of the Navy (Office of the Judge Advocate General) for filing.

Claims authorized to be paid hereunder will be forwarded after approval to the nearest Navy or Marine Corps disbursing officer for preparation and payment of the public voucher.

Subpart E—Conditions of Payment

§ 753.24 Conditions to be fulfilled.

Prior to payment of any claim within the Foreign Claims Act, each of the following conditions must be fulfilled:

(a) The amount due on account of the damage, loss, destruction, injury, or death must be determined.

(b) The award must not exceed $15,000, but recommendation for awards in excess of that amount may be reported to Congress for consideration.

(c) The claim must be presented within two years.

(d) Claims by subrogees will not be recognized, except as a part of the insured's claim.

(e) Contributory negligence or wrongful act, which is in whole or in part the proximate cause of the injury, bars a claim unless such contributory negligence is not a bar to recovery or is only a diminution of the extent of recovery in tort claims under the local law or custom.

(f) The damage, injury, or death must not have resulted from any action by the enemy or directly or indirectly from any act of American or Allied armed forces engaged in combat.

(g) The damage, loss, personal injury or death must occur outside the United States, its Territories, Commonwealths or Possessions and be

(1) damage to, or loss of, real property of a foreign country or of a political subdivision or inhabitant of a foreign country, including damage or loss incident to use and occupancy, or

(2) damage to, or loss of, personal property of a foreign country or of a political subdivision or inhabitant of a foreign country, including property bailed to the United States, or

(3) personal injury to, or death of, an inhabitant of a foreign country.

(h) If the claimant is a national of a country at war with the United States, or of any ally of such enemy country, there must be a determination by the Foreign Claims Commission or by the local commander that the claimant is friendly to the United States.

(i) The claim must be approved by a Foreign Claims Commission and, if in excess of $2,500, by such higher authority as prescribed by § 753.18(b).

(j) The claimant must accept, in full satisfaction and in final settlement, the amount approved, and give a release therefor.

Subpart F—Nature of Releases

§ 753.25 Release when award is made.

(a) A release should be obtained from the claimant in every case in which an award is made by a commission and accepted by the claimant.

(b) The release executed by the claimant should release the United States and also release the tort-feasor or the person or persons who have done the damage occasioned if their identity is known. If the identity of such persons is unknown and they cannot be described by name, in such an instance, the release should recite that the claimant also releases the person or persons who occasioned the injury, the names and identity of said person or persons being unknown to the claimant.

(c) The release executed should preclude any possible future assertion of the claim for which the United States has made compensation.

Subpart G—Claims Disallowed by Foreign Claims Commissions

§ 753.26 Forwarded to the Judge Advocate General.

Claims within the final jurisdiction of the commission but disallowed as not meritorious or for any other reason will be forwarded direct to the Judge Advocate General within 30 days. In all such cases the original and two copies of the report, claim, and supporting papers (including a copy of the notification of disallowance to the claimant) will be so forwarded; the remaining copy will be retained by the commission for its files.

Subpart H—Claims Not Within Jurisdiction of Foreign Claims Commissions

§ 753.27 Meritorious claims in excess of $15,000.

Claims within the Foreign Claims Act, except that the total amount due on account of damage, injury, and death exceeds $15,000 and the claimant will not accept $15,000 in full satisfaction and in final settlement of his claim, will be forwarded direct to the Judge Advocate General for legal review and appropriate administrative action. All claims of this nature shall be considered by a commission consisting of three members, and the record of such proceedings shall include signed statements of material witnesses or transcripts of their oral testimony. The Foreign Claims Commission will forward with any such claims its findings, and any recommendation as to the action to be taken (including its findings as to the total damage, injury, and death sustained) together with, if practicable, a statement from the owner of the property or the person injured, or the legal representative of the person killed, signifying his willingness to accept the amount so found in full satisfaction and in final settlement of his claim. In all such cases, the original and two copies of the report, claim and supporting papers will be so forwarded; the remaining copy will be retained by the commission for its files.

§ 753.28 Claims outside the jurisdiction of the commission.

Claims arising from incidents on the high seas are ordinarily not within the jurisdiction of a Foreign Claims Commission; see § 753.17. In cases in which a commission considers that the claimant (or decedent in the case of a death claim) is not an inhabitant of a foreign country (or is not the government or a political subdivision of a foreign country) reports shall be forwarded in triplicate to the Judge Advocate General as in cases under § 753.27.

§ 753.29 Claims arising in specified foreign countries.

(a) The United States has ratified the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Status of Forces Agreement (4 U.S.T. 1792, TIAS 2846) and has entered into and contemplates entering into, other similar agreements with foreign countries. Article VIII of the NATO Status of Forces Agreement and certain provisions of other agreements are inconsistent with the continued unrestricted use of the Foreign Claims Act and its implementing regulations in certain countries. It is, therefore, directed that the directives of the cognizant area commander be consulted and that claims not be referred to foreign claims commissions until it has been determined that such action is not inconsistent with the provisions of the aforementioned agreements and their implementing directives. A Department of Defense notice published on September 5, 1958 (23 F.R. 6839) directs that, where a single service has been or may be assigned responsibility for claims in a particular country or area, all reimbursements, settlements or payments that may be made in such country or area under the Foreign Claims Act (10 U.S.C. 2734) and the Military Claims Act (10 U.S.C. 2733) shall be made normally by that service. In countries in which the NATO Status of Forces Agreement or a similar agreement is in force, accidents which may give rise to a tort claim against the United States arising from acts or omissions of naval personnel, or members of the civilian component of the naval service, including claims for death or personal injury, resulting from the navigation or operation of a ship, or from the loading, carriage or discharge of its cargo will be investigated and reports will be made in accordance with the instructions promulgated by the cognizant naval commander.

(b) The Secretary of Defense (Department of Defense Notice, 25 F.R. 9065) has assigned responsibility for the processing of all claims in favor of the United States, or against the United States and cognizable under:

(1) The Foreign Claims Act (10 U.S.C. 2734)

(2) The Military Claims Act (10 U.S.C. 2733) and

(3) The Act of August 31, 1954 (68 Stat. 1006, 31 U.S.C. 224i-2—224i-5), which arise in the following countries to the military departments indicated in this paragraph below:

I. Department of the Army: Belgium, Ethiopia, France, The Federal Republic of Germany, Iran, Korea, and as the Receiving State Office in the United States under the Act of August 31, 1954, supra, and the NATO Status of Forces Agreement.

II. Department of the Navy: Italy and Portugal.

III. Department of the Air Force: Canada, Denmark, Greece, Iceland, Japan, Libya, Luxembourg, Netherlands, Norway, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia, Turkey and the United Kingdom.

Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of this paragraph, the Department of the Navy has been authorized by the Secretary of Defense to settle non-scope of duty claims under $100 arising in foreign ports visited by the Sixth Fleet and may, subject to the concurrence of the authorities of the receiving state concerned, process such claims without regard to article VIII, paragraph 6 of the NATO Status of Forces Agreement.

§ 753.30 Claims generated by other than Department of the Navy personnel.

(a) Cross-servicing. A Department of Defense notice published on September 5, 1958 (23 F.R. 6839) provides that any claim, which may be settled under the provisions of the Foreign Claims Act and the Military Claims Act may be settled by any commission or commissions appointed by the Army, Air Force, Navy or Marine Corps under the provisions thereof, without regard to the service of the military tort-feasor. See § 753.29 in regard to areas in which cross-servicing is mandatory.

(b) Civilian employees in the immediate office of the Secretary of Defense. A Department of Defense notice published on July 30, 1960 (25 F.R. 7220) provides that all Foreign Claims Commissions are designated to settle and pay claims for damage caused by a civilian employee of the Department of Defense other than an employee of a military department.

A Department of Defense notice published on September 5, 1958 (23 F.R. 6839) provides that any claims, whether Army, Air Force, Navy or Marine Corps, which may be settled under the provisions of the Foreign Claims Act or of the Military Claims Act, may be settled by any commission or commissions appointed under the regulations of any of the above-listed services, without regard to the service of the military tort-feasor. See § 753.29 in regard to areas in which cross-servicing is mandatory. The regulations implementing this statutory settlement authority are contained in the Navy General Claims Regulations (Part 750 of this chapter) and will be followed, as far as applicable, in the settlement of claims under this Act by foreign claims commissions.

By direction of the Secretary of the Navy.

Captain, U.S. Navy, Acting Judge Advocate General of the Navy.

Consent order requiring a seller of corneal contact lenses in Phoenix, Ariz., to cease advertising falsely that all persons could successfully wear his contact lenses and without discomfort, that the lenses corrected all defects in vision, protected the eye, and could be worn a lifetime without change of prescription.

The order to cease and desist is as follows:

It is ordered, That respondent Leo Biglaiser, his representatives, agents and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the offering for sale, sale or distribution of contact lenses, do forthwith cease and desist from, directly or indirectly:

1. Disseminating or causing to be disseminated any advertisement by means of the United States mails or by any means in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, which advertisements represent, directly or by implication, that:

a. All persons can successfully wear his contact lenses;

b. There is no discomfort in wearing his contact lenses;

c. His contact lenses will correct all defects of vision;

d. Eyeglasses can always be discarded upon the purchase of his contact lenses;

e. Said contact lenses protect the eye unless limited to the small portion of the eye that is covered thereby;

f. Said contact lenses may be worn a lifetime without change of prescription; or misrepresent the time that they may be worn;

g. Said contact lenses can be worn all day without discomfort unless it is clearly revealed that this is possible only after the wearer has become fully adjusted thereto.

2. Disseminating, or causing to be disseminated, any advertisement, by any means, for the purpose of inducing, or which is likely to induce, directly or indirectly, the purchase of said products in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, which advertisement contains any representation prohibited in paragraph 1, above or which fails to reveal the facts required by paragraph 1(g).

By "Decision of the Commission", etc., report of compliance was required as follows:

It is ordered, That the respondent Leo Biglaiser shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon him of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing, setting forth in detail the manner and form in which he has complied with the order to cease and desist.

Issued: October 19, 1960.

In the Matter of Nu-Vision Optical Studios, Inc., a Corporation, and Eli Shapiro and Arthur Shapiro, Individually and as Officers of Said Corporation

Consent order requiring sellers of contact lenses in Flint, Mich., to cease advertising falsely that their contact lenses could be worn all day and without discomfort by all persons, would correct all eye defects and protect the eye, were unbreakable, eliminated need of eyeglasses, and were manufactured by respondents.

The order to cease and desist is as follows:

It is ordered, That Respondents Nu-Vision Optical Studios, Inc., a corporation, and its officers, and Eli Shapiro and Arthur Shapiro, individually and as officers of said corporation, and Respondents' representatives, agents and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the offering for sale, sale and distribution of contact lenses, do forthwith cease and desist from, directly or indirectly:

A. Disseminating or causing to be disseminated any advertisement by means of the United States mails or by any means in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, which advertisement represents, directly or by implication, that:

1. All persons in need of visual correction can successfully wear their contact lenses;

2. There is no discomfort in wearing their lenses;

3. All persons can wear Respondents' lenses all day without discomfort; or that any person can wear Respondents' lenses all day without discomfort except after that person has become fully adjusted thereto;

4. Eyeglasses can always be discarded upon purchase of Respondents' lenses;

5. Respondents' contact lenses will correct all defects in vision;

6. Said lenses will protect the eye unless limited to the small portion covered thereby;

7. Said lenses are unbreakable;

8. Respondents manufacture the contact lenses sold by them;

B. Disseminating, or causing to be disseminated, any advertisement, by any means, for the purpose of inducing, or which is likely to induce, directly or indirectly, the purchase of said products in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, which advertisement contains any representation prohibited in paragraph A, above.

By "Decision of the Commission," etc., report of compliance was required as follows:

It is ordered, That respondents Nu-Vision Optical Studios, Inc., a corporation, and Eli Shapiro and Arthur Shapiro, individually and as officers of said corporation, shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon them of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing, setting forth in detail the manner and form in which they have complied with the order to cease and desist.

In the Matters of Scepter Music, Inc., a Corporation, and Florence Greenberg, Individually and as an Officer of Said Corporation; Old Town Record Corporation, a Corporation, and Hy Weiss, Individually and as an Officer of Said Corporation; and James Higgins and Robert West, Individually and as Copartners, Trading and Doing Business as B & H Distributing Co., and Betty Alexander, General Manager

Consent orders requiring a manufacturer in New York City and two distributors, in New York City and Detroit, Mich., respectively, to cease paying concealed payola to disc jockeys and other personnel of television and radio stations to induce frequent playing of their records in order to increase sales.

Respondents in these three proceedings were ordered to cease and desist as follows:

It is ordered, That respondents Scepter Music, Inc., a corporation, and its officers, and Florence Greenberg, individually and as an officer of said corporation; Old Town Record Corporation, a corporation, and its officers, and Hy Weiss, individually and as an officer of said corporation; and James Higgins and Robert West, individually and as copartners, trading and doing business as B & H Distributing Co., or under any other name, and Betty Alexander, General Manager; and respondents' agents, representatives and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with phonograph records which have been distributed, in commerce, or which are used by radio or television stations in broadcasting programs in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, do forthwith cease and desist from:

(1) Giving or offering to give, without requiring public disclosure, any sum of money or other material consideration, to any person, directly or indirectly, to induce that person to select, or participate in the selection of, and the broadcasting of, any such records in which respondents, or either of them, have a financial interest of any nature.

(2) Giving or offering to give, without requiring public disclosure, any sum of money, or other material consideration, to any person, directly or indirectly, as an inducement to influence any employee of a radio or television broadcasting station, or any other person, in any manner, to select, or participate in the selection of, and the broadcasting of, any such records in which respondents, or either of them, have a financial interest of any nature.

There shall be "public disclosure" within the meaning of this order, by any employee of a radio or television broadcasting station, or any other person, who selects or participates in the selection and broadcasting of a record when he shall disclose, or cause to have disclosed, to the listening public at the time the record is played, that his selection and broadcasting of such record are in consideration for compensation of some nature, directly or indirectly, received by him or his employer.

By separate "Decision of the Commission", etc., in each of the three captioned matters, reports of compliance were required as follows (combining the orders):

It is ordered, That respondents herein shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon them of these orders, file with the Commission reports in writing setting forth in detail the manner and form in which they have complied with the orders to cease and desist.

Issued: October 14, 1960 (Dockets 7896 and 7900); October 21, 1960 (Docket 7940).

The areas described aggregate 18,272.98 acres.

The lands are in Gooding, Lincoln, and Jerome Counties. All are undeveloped desert lands.

2. Subject to any valid existing rights, the provisions of existing withdrawals, and the requirements of applicable law, the lands are hereby opened to filing of applications, selections and locations in accordance with the following:

a. Until 10:00 a.m. on June 9, 1961, the State of Idaho shall have a preferred right of application to select the lands in accordance with and subject to the provisions of subsection (c) of section 2 of the act of August 27, 1958 (72 Stat. 928; 43 U.S.C. 851-2), and the regulations in 43 CFR.

b. All valid applications under the nonmineral public land laws other than any coming under subparagraph (a) above, presented at or before 10:00 a.m. on January 13, 1961, will be considered as simultaneously filed at that hour. Any rights under such applications filed thereafter will be governed by the time of filing.

c. Applications under subparagraphs (a) and (b) above, shall be subject to those from persons having prior existing valid settlement rights, preference rights conferred by existing law, and equitable claims subject to allowance and confirmation.

3. The lands have been open to applications and offers under the mineral leasing laws, and those in second form withdrawals, to location under the United States mining laws. The remainder shall be open to such locations at 10:00 a.m. on June 9, 1961.

4. Persons claiming preferential consideration must submit evidence of their entitlement.

Inquiries concerning the lands shall be addressed to the Manager, Land Office, Boise, Idaho.

NW¼SW¼, that part lying northeasterly of Chena River.

Containing approximately 693 acres.

3. Subject to any existing valid rights and the requirements of applicable law, the lands are hereby opened to filing of such applications, selections, and locations as may be made for unsurveyed lands in accordance with the following:

a. Applications and selections under the nonmineral public land laws may be presented to the Manager mentioned below, beginning on the date of this order. Such applications, selections, and offers will be considered as filed on the hour and respective dates shown for the various classes enumerated in the following paragraphs:

(1) In accordance with and subject to the provisions of the act of July 28, 1956 (70 Stat. 709; 48 U.S.C. 46–3b), and section 6(g) of the Alaska Statehood Act of July 7, 1958 (72 Stat. 339), the State of Alaska shall be entitled until 10:00 a.m., on March 10, 1961, to a preferred right of application to select the lands released by paragraph 1 of this order.

(2) Applications by persons having prior existing valid settlement rights, preference rights conferred by existing laws, or equitable claims subject to allowance and confirmation will be adjudicated on the facts presented in support of each claim or right. All applications presented by persons other than those referred to in this paragraph will be subject to the applications and claims mentioned in this paragraph.

(3) All valid applications and selections under the nonmineral public land laws other than preference right applications under paragraph 3(a)(1) and 3(a)(2) above, presented prior to 10:00 a.m. on January 13, 1961, will be considered as simultaneously filed at that hour. Rights under such applications and selections filed after that hour will be governed by the time of filing.

4. The lands described in paragraph 1 have been open to applications and offers under the mineral leasing laws. All the lands will be open to location under the United States mining laws, and those described in paragraph 2 to applications and offers under the mineral leasing laws beginning at 10:00 a.m. on March 10, 1961. They will be open to settlement under the homestead and Alaska homesite laws at 10:00 a.m. on March 10, 1961.

Inquiries concerning the lands shall be addressed to the Manager, Land Office, Bureau of Land Management, Fairbanks, Alaska.

GEORGE W. ABBOTT,
Assistant Secretary of the Interior.

WASHINGTON

Partly Revoking Reclamation Withdrawals of October 17, 1903; July 27, 1904; and January 20, 1910 (Okanogan Project)

By virtue of the authority contained in section 3 of the act of June 17, 1902 (32 Stat. 388; 43 U.S.C. 416), it is ordered as follows:

1. The departmental orders of October 17, 1903; July 27, 1904, and January 20, 1910, which withdrew lands in the first form for reclamation purposes in connection with the Okanogan Project, are hereby revoked so far as they affect the following-described lands:

WILLAMETTE MERIDIAN

T. 35 N., R. 24 E.,
Sec. 1, lot 6.
T. 35 N., R. 25 E.,
Sec. 4, lot 1;
Sec. 6, lots 10, 11, and 12.
T. 36 N., R. 25 E.,
Sec. 33, lot 6.

The areas described aggregate 117.31 acres. In T. 35 N., R. 25 E., section 6, lot 10 is patented, and lot 12 is withdrawn for the Conconully Bird Reserve. In T. 36 N., R. 25 E., section 33, lot 6 is withdrawn for the Okanogan National Forest.

2. The lands are situated in northwestern Okanogan County, adjacent to the town of Conconully. They lie primarily on steeply sloping hillsides. Soils are shallow rocky silt loam with numerous granite outcrops. Vegetation is limited to sagebrush and grass with a scattered occurence of fir and pine timber.

3. Subject to any existing valid rights and the requirements of applicable law, the lands are hereby opened to filing of applications, selections, and locations in accordance with the following:

a. Applications and selections under the nonmineral public land laws may be presented to the Manager mentioned below, beginning on the date of this order. Such applications and selections will be considered as filed on the hour and respective dates shown for the various classes enumerated in the following paragraphs:

(1) Applications by persons having prior existing valid settlement rights, preference rights conferred by existing laws, or equitable claims subject to allowance and confirmation will be adjudicated on the facts presented in support of each claim or right. All applications presented by persons other than those referred to in this paragraph will be subject to the applications and claims mentioned in this paragraph.

(2) Until 10:00 a.m. on June 9, 1961, the State of Washington shall have a preferred right of application to select lot 1, section 4, T. 35 N., R. 25 E., in accordance with and subject to the provisions of subsection (c) of section 2 of the act of August 27, 1958 (72 Stat. 928; 43 U.S.C. 851, 852), and the regulations in 43 CFR. The State has waived its preference right of application as to the remainder of the lands released by this order.

(3) All valid applications and selections under the nonmineral public land laws, other than from the State, presented prior to 10:00 a.m. on January 13, 1961, will be considered as simultaneously filed at that hour. Rights under such applications and selections filed after that hour will be governed by the time of filing.

b. The lands have been open to applications and offers under the mineral leasing laws. They will be open to location under the United States mining laws begining at 10:00 a.m. on June 9, 1961, as to lot 1, section 4, and at 10:00 a.m. on March 10, 1961, as to the remaining lands released by this order.

4. Persons claiming preference rights based on valid settlement, statutory preference, or equitable claims must enclose properly corroborated statements in support of their applications, setting forth all facts relevant to their claims.

Inquiries concerning the lands should be addressed to the Manager, Land Office, Bureau of Land Management, Spokane, Washington.

GEORGE W. ABBOTT,
Assistant Secretary of the Interior.

Partly Vacating Withdrawals for Power Purposes (Sequoia National Forest)

By virtue of the authority vested in the President by Section 1 of the Act of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 847; 43 U.S.C. 141), and pursuant to Executive Order No. 10355 of May 26, 1952, and as Secretary of the Interior, it is ordered as follows:

1. The Executive order of June 8, 1926, creating Reservoir Site Reserve No. 17, the departmental order of July 17, 1924 (Power Site Classification No. 80), and the departmental order of August 24, 1933 (Power Site Classification No. 267), are hereby revoked so far as they affect the following-described lands:

MOUNT DIABLO MERIDIAN

T. 25 S., R. 33 E.,
Sec. 9, NE¼NE¼;
Sec. 23, W½NW¼.

Containing 120 acres.

2. In DA–980 and DA–991, the Federal Power Commission vacated Power Project No. 564 so far as it affects the following-described lands:

MOUNT DIABLO MERIDIAN

T. 25 S., R. 33 E.,
Sec. 9, NE¼NE¼;
Sec. 10, W½NW¼, SE¼NW¼, SW¼, W½SE¼, and SE¼SE¼;
Sec. 14, SW¼NW¼ and S½SW¼;
Sec. 23, NW¼.

Containing 720 acres.

3. The lands described in this order are national forest lands. At 10:00 a.m. on March 10, 1961, they shall be open to such forms of disposal as may by law be made of national forest lands, provided, however, that with respect to those portions of the lands in the NE¼NE¼ of Section 9 and in the NW¼NW¼ of Section 10, T. 25 S., R. 33 E., now under permit for operation and maintenance of Southern California Edison Company's Kern No. 3 power plant, and that portion of the NE¼NE¼ of Section 9 now being used under license for transmission line purposes, in Project 174, this opening shall be subject to the provisions of section 24 of the Federal Power Act and to the prior right of said permittee and licensee and their successors to use the lands for power purposes in accordance with the terms and conditions of the permit and license.

4. Until 10:00 a.m. on March 10, 1961, the State of California shall have a preferred right to apply for the reservation to it or to any of its political subdivisions of any of the lands required for rights-of-way or materials sites in accordance with the provisions of section 24 of the Federal Power Act.

Partly Revoking Air Navigation Site No. 172

By virtue of the authority contained in section 4 of the act of May 24, 1928 (45 Stat. 729; 49 U.S.C. 214), it is ordered as follows:

1. The departmental order of December 31, 1941, which established Air Navigation Site Withdrawal No. 172, is hereby revoked so far as it affects the following-described lands:

GALENA

Tract 1

From Corner No. 4 of Air Navigation Site Withdrawal No. 172, U.S. Survey 2627, which is the point of beginning; thence
S. 66°35' E., 15,840 feet along the line which runs between Corners 4 and 5 of said U.S. Survey;
S. 23°25' W., 2,640 feet;
N. 66°35' W., 5,280 feet;
S. 23°35'' W., 2,640 feet;
N. 66°35' W., 10,560 feet to a point on the line which runs between Corners 3 and 4 of said U.S. Survey;
N. 23°25' E., 5,280 feet along said line to the point of beginning.
(Containing 1,600 acres.)

Tract 2

From Corner No. 6 of said U.S. Survey, which is the point of beginning; thence
S. 66°35' E., 11,998.80 feet to Corner No. 7;

N. 23°25' E., 4,999.50 feet to the point of beginning.

The tracts described aggregate 2,288 acres.

2. The lands are situated on the right bank of the Yukon River, approximately 280 miles west of Fairbanks, Alaska. They are for the most part soggy boglands typical of the area. Topography is flat and nearly featureless. Vegetation consists typically of stunted black spruce and willow.

3. Subject to any valid existing rights and the requirements of applicable law, the lands described in paragraph 1 hereof, are hereby opened to settlement, and to filing of such applications, selections, and locations as may be allowed for unsurveyed lands in accordance with the following:

a. Applications and selections under the nonmineral public land laws, and applications and offers under the mineral leasing laws may be presented to the Manager mentioned below, beginning on the date of this order. Such applications, selections, and offers will be considered as filed on the hour and respective dates shown for the various classes enumerated in the following paragraphs:

(1) Applications by persons having prior existing valid settlement rights, preference rights conferred by existing laws, or equitable claims subject to allowance and confirmation will be adjudicated on the facts presented in support of each claim or right. All applications other than those referred to in this paragraph will be subject to the applications and claims mentioned in this paragraph.

(2) Until 10:00 a.m. on March 10, 1961, the State of Alaska shall have a preferred right of application to select the lands in accordance with and subject to the provisions of the act of July 28, 1956 (70 Stat. 709; 48 U.S.C. 46–3b), and section 6(g) of the Alaska Statehood Act of July 7, 1958 (72 Stat. 339; Public Law 85–508).

(3) All valid applications and selections under the nonmineral public land laws, other than from the State of Alaska under paragraph 3(a)(2), and applications and offers under the mineral leasing laws presented prior to 10:00 a.m. on January 13, 1961, will be considered as simultaneously filed at that hour. Rights under such applications, selections, and offers filed after that hour will be governed by the time of filing.

b. The lands will be open to settlement under the Homestead and Alaska Homesite laws, to applications and offers under the mineral leasing laws, and to location under the United States mining laws beginning at 10:00 a.m. on March 10, 1961.

4. Persons claiming preference rights based upon valid settlement, statutory preference, or equitable claims must enclose properly corroborated statements in support of their applications, setting forth all facts relevant to their claims.

Inquiries concerning the lands should be addressed to the Manager, Land Office, Bureau of Land Management, Fairbanks, Alaska.

Title 49—TRANSPORTATION

Chapter I—Interstate Commerce Commission

SUBCHAPTER B—CARRIERS BY MOTOR VEHICLE

[Ex Parte No. MC–59]

PART 171—MOTOR CARRIER OPERATION IN THE STATE OF HAWAII

Certificate of Exemption and Order

At a general session of the Interstate Commerce Commission, held at its office in Washington, D.C., on the 5th day of December A.D. 1960:

Section 204(a)(4a) of the Interstate Commerce Act and the transportation by motor vehicle, in interstate or foreign commerce, solely within the State of Hawaii being under consideration, and good cause appearing therefor:

It is ordered, That 49 CFR be, and it is hereby, amended by adding thereto Part 171, as follows:

Sec.
171.1 Definitions.
171.5 Motor carriers operating solely in Hawaii exempt.

AUTHORITY: §§ 171.1 and 171.5, issued under sec. 204(a)(4a), 54 Stat. 921, 49 U.S.C. sec. 304(a)(4a).

§ 171.1 Definitions.

For the purposes of this part, the following terms and phrases are defined:

(a) "Motor carriers" means carriers by motor vehicle operating in the State of Hawaii.

(b) "Lawfully engaged in operation solely within the State of Hawaii" means engaged within the boundaries of that State in conformity with applicable State laws.

(c) "Qualified" as used to modify "motor carriers" means those motor carriers lawfully operating in Hawaii and which are not affiliated with a carrier operating in another State or States.

§ 171.5 Motor carriers operating solely in Hawaii exempt.

It is hereby certified that transportation in interstate or foreign commerce performed by all qualified motor carriers lawfully engaged in operation solely within the State of Hawaii is in fact of such nature, character or quantity as not substantially to affect or impair uniform regulation by the Commission of transportation by motor carriers engaged in interstate or foreign commerce in effectuating the national transportation policy: Provided, however, That if the State of Hawaii makes a determination of the intrastate operating rights of the respective motor carriers, the exemption granted herein shall not be construed as exempting operations in interstate or foreign commerce any more extensive than those corresponding to the respective intrastate authorities granted by the State.

It is further ordered, That this certificate of exemption, during the period it shall remain effective and unrevoked, shall exempt the class of motor carriers described above from compliance with the provisions of Part II of said Act in respect of transportation in interstate or foreign commerce.

It is further ordered, That this order shall become effective January 23, 1961, and shall remain in effect until modified or revoked in whole or in part by further order of the Commission.

And it is further ordered, That notice of this order shall be given to the general public by depositing a copy thereof in the office of the Secretary of the Commission at Washington, D.C., and by filing a copy with the Director, Office of the Federal Register.

By the Commission.

[SEAL] HAROLD D. McCOY,
Secretary.

(3) Capital loss carryover. The capital loss carryover determined under section 1212, subject to the following conditions and limitations:

(A) The taxable year of the acquiring corporation to which the capital loss carryover of the distributor or transferor corporation is first carried shall be the first taxable year ending after the date of distribution or transfer.

(B) The capital loss carryover shall be a short-term capital loss in the taxable year determined under subparagraph (A) but shall be limited to an amount which bears the same ratio to the net capital gain (determined without regard to a short-term capital loss attributable to capital loss carryover), if any, of the acquiring corporation in such taxable year as the number of days in the taxable year after the date of distribution or transfer bears to the total number of days in the taxable year.

(C) For purposes of determining the amount of such capital loss carryover to taxable years following the taxable year determined under subparagraph (A), the net capital gain in the taxable year determined under subparagraph (A) shall be considered to be an amount equal to the amount determined under subparagraph (B).

§ 1.381(c)(3)-1 Capital loss carryovers.

(a) Carryover requirement. (1) Section 381(c)(3) requires the acquiring corporation in a transaction to which section 381(a) applies to succeed to, and take into account, the capital loss carryovers of the distributor or transferor corporation. To determine the amount of these carryovers as of the close of the date of distribution or transfer, and to integrate them with the capital loss carryovers of the acquiring corporation for purposes of determining the taxable income of the acquiring corporation for taxable years ending after the date of distribution or transfer, it is necessary to apply the provisions of section 1212 in accordance with the conditions and limitations of section 381(c)(3) and this section.

(2) The capital loss carryovers of the acquiring corporation as of the close of the date of distribution or transfer shall be determined without reference to any capital gains or capital losses of the distributor or transferor corporation. The capital loss carryovers of a distributor or transferor corporation as of the close of the date of distribution or transfer shall be determined without reference to any capital gains or capital losses of the acquiring corporation.

(b) First taxable year to which carryovers apply. (1) The capital loss carryovers available to the distributor or transferor corporation as of the close of the date of distribution or transfer shall first be carried to the first taxable year of the acquiring corporation ending after that date. This rule applies irrespective of whether the date of distribution or transfer is on the last day, or any other day, of the acquiring corporation's taxable year.

(2) The capital loss carryovers available to the distributor or transferor corporation as of the close of the date of distribution or transfer shall be carried to the acquiring corporation without diminution by reason of the fact that the acquiring corporation does not acquire 100 percent of the assets of the distributor or transferor corporation.

(c) Limitation on capital loss carryovers for first taxable year ending after date of distribution or transfer. (1) Any capital loss carryover of a distributor or transferor corporation which is available to the acquiring corporation as of the close of the date of distribution or transfer shall be a short-term capital loss of the acquiring corporation in each of the taxable years to which the net capital loss giving rise to such carryover may be carried to the extent provided in section 1212 and this section. However, in the first taxable year of the acquiring corporation ending after the date of distribution or transfer, the total capital loss carryovers of the distributor or transferor corporation which may be treated in that year as short-term capital losses of the acquiring corporation is limited by section 381(c)(3)(B) to an amount which bears the same ratio to the acquiring corporation's net capital gain for such first taxable year (determined without regard to any capital loss carryovers) as the number of days in such first taxable year which follow the date of distribution or transfer bears to the total number of days in such taxable year. Thus, if the date of distribution or transfer is the last day of the acquiring corporation's taxable year, there is no limitation under section 381(c)(3)(B) on the amount of such carryovers which may be treated as short-term capital losses of the acquiring corporation for its first taxable year ending after that date.

(2) The limitation provided by section 381(c)(3)(B) shall be applied to the aggregate of the capital loss carryovers of the distributor or transferor corporation without reference to the taxable years in which the net capital losses giving rise to the carryovers were sustained. If the acquiring corporation has acquired the assets of two or more distributor or transferor corporations on the same date of distribution or transfer, then the limitation provided by section 381(c)(3)(B) shall be applied to the aggregate of the capital loss carryovers from all of such distributor or transferor corporations.

(3) If the acquiring corporation succeeds to the capital loss carryovers of two or more distributor or transferor corporations on two or more dates of distribution or transfer during the same taxable year of the acquiring corporation, the limitation to be applied under section 381(c)(3)(B) to the aggregate of such carryovers shall be determined consistently with the rules prescribed in paragraph (b) of § 1.381(c)(1)-2.

(4) The application of this paragraph may be illustrated by the following example:

Example. (i) X and Y Corporations are organized on January 1, 1954, and make their returns on the basis of the calendar year. On July 4, 1957, X Corporation transfers all its assets to Y Corporation in a statutory merger to which section 361 applies. The net capital losses and the net capital gains (computed without regard to any capital loss carryovers) of the two corporations are as follows:

Taxable year:	X Corporation (transferor)	Y Corporation (acquirer)
1954	($5,000)	0
1955	(10,000)	$5,000
1956	(25,000)	(7,000)
Ending 7-4-57	(8,000)	------
1957	--------	36,500

(ii) The capital loss carryovers of X Corporation which are available to Y Corporation as of the close of July 4, 1957, amount to $48,000 in the aggregate; but only $18,000 ($36,500 × 180/365) of such amount may be treated as short-term capital losses of Y Corporation for 1957.

(d) Computation of carryovers; general rule—(1) Sequence for applying losses and determination of net capital gain. Section 1212 provides that a net capital loss sustained in any taxable year (hereinafter referred to as the "loss year") shall be carried over to each of the five succeeding taxable years and treated in each of such succeeding years as a short-term capital loss to the extent not allowed as a deduction against any net capital gains of any taxable years intervening between the loss year and the taxable year to which such loss is carried. For this purpose, the net capital gain of any intervening taxable year is determined without regard to the net capital loss for the loss year or for any taxable year thereafter, and the various capital loss carryovers from taxable years preceding the loss year to any such intervening taxable year are considered to be applied in reduction of the net capital gain for such year in the order of the taxable years in which the losses were sustained, beginning with the loss for the earliest preceding taxable year. The application of these rules to the net capital gain of the acquiring corporation for any taxable year ending after the date of distribution or transfer involves the use of carryovers of the distributor or transferor corporation and of the acquiring corporation. In determining the order in which the capital loss carryovers of the distributor or transferor and acquiring corporations from taxable years ending on or before the date of distribution or transfer are considered to be applied in reduction of the net capital gain of the acquiring corporation for any intervening taxable year ending after such date, the following rules shall apply:

(i) Each taxable year of the distributor or transferor and acquiring corporations which, with respect to the first taxable year of the acquiring corporation ending after the date of distribution or transfer, constitutes a first preceding taxable year, shall be treated as if each such year ended on the same day, whether or not such taxable years actually end on the same day. In like manner, each taxable year of the distributor or transferor and acquiring corporations which, with respect to such first taxable year of the acquiring corporation ending after the date of distribution or transfer, constitutes a second preceding taxable year, shall be treated as if each such year ended on the same day (whether or not such taxable years actually end on the same day), and a similar rule shall be applied with respect to those taxable years of the distributor or transferor and acquiring corporations which constitute third, fourth, and fifth preceding taxable years;

(ii) If in the same preceding taxable year both the distributor or transferor and acquiring corporations incurred a net capital loss which is a carryover to an intervening taxable year of the acquiring corporation ending after the date of distribution or transfer, then in applying such losses in reduction of the net capital gain for such an intervening year, either such loss may be taken into account before the other; and

(iii) The rules of subdivisions (i) and (ii) of this subparagraph shall apply regardless of the number of distributor or transferor corporations the assets of which are acquired by the acquiring corporation on the same date of distribution or transfer.

(2) Cross reference. If the date of distribution or transfer is a day other than the last day of a taxable year of the acquiring corporation, then in determining the net capital gain of the acquiring corporation for its first taxable year ending after the date of distribution or transfer, section 1212 and this paragraph shall be applied in the special manner set forth in paragraph (e) of this section.

(3) Years to which losses may be carried. The taxable years to which a net capital loss shall be carried are prescribed by section 1212. Since the taxable year of a distributor or transferor corporation ends with the close of the date of distribution or transfer, such taxable year and the first taxable year of the acquiring corporation which ends after that date are considered two separate taxable years to which a net capital loss of the distributor or transferor corporation for any taxable year ending before that date shall be carried. This rule applies even though the taxable year of the distributor or transferor corporation which ends on the date of distribution or transfer is a period of less than twelve months. However, the distribution or transfer has no effect in determining under section 1212 the taxable years to which a net capital loss of the acquiring corporation is carried. For this purpose, the first taxable year of the acquiring corporation which ends after the date of distribution or transfer constitutes only one taxable year even though such taxable year is considered under paragraph (e) of this section as two taxable years for certain purposes. The application of this subparagraph may be illustrated by the following example:

Example: R and S Corporations are organized on January 1, 1954, and both corporations make their returns on the basis of the calendar year. R Corporation has net capital losses for its years 1954, 1955, and 1957, and S Corporation has net capital losses for its years 1954 and 1956. On June 30, 1958, R Corporation transfers all its assets to S Corporation in a statutory merger to which section 361 applies. The taxable years to which these losses of R and S Corporations may be carried are as follows:

Loss year	Carried to
R1954	R1955, R1956, R1957, R6/30/58, S1958.
S1954	S1955, S1956, S1957, S1958, S1959.
R1955	R1956, R1957, R6/30/58, S1958, S1959.
S1956	S1957, S1958, S1959, S1960, S1961.
R1957	R6/30/58, S1958, S1959, S1960, S1961.

(4) Computation of carryovers in case where date of distribution or transfer occurs on last day of acquiring corporation's taxable year. The computation of the capital loss carryovers from the distributor or transferor corporation and from the acquiring corporation in a case where the date of distribution or transfer occurs on the last day of a taxable year of the acquiring corporation may be illustrated by the following example:

Example. X and Y Corporations are organized on January 1, 1955, and make their returns on the basis of the calendar year. On December 31, 1956, X Corporation transfers all its assets to Y Corporation in a statutory merger to which section 361 applies. The net capital losses and the net capital gains (computed without regard to any capital loss carryovers) of the two corporations are as follows:

Taxable year	X Corporation (transferor)	Y Corporation (acquirer)
1955	($20,000)	($2,000)
1956	(10,000)	(8,000)
1957	------	25,000
1958	------	10,000

The sequence in which the net capital losses of X and Y Corporations are applied, and the computation of the capital loss carryovers to Y Corporation's taxable year 1956, may be illustrated as follows. (For purposes of this example, the carryover from a preceding taxable year of the transferor corporation will be applied before the carryover from the same preceding taxable year of the acquiring corporation):

(i) X Corporation's 1955 loss. The carryover to 1959 is $0, computed as follows:

Net capital loss		$20,000
Less: Y's 1957 net capital gain (computed without regard to any capital loss carryovers)		25,000
Carryover to Y 1958 and Y 1959		0

(ii) Y Corporation's 1955 loss. The carryover to 1959 is $0, computed as follows:

Net capital loss		$2,000
Less:
Y's 1957 net capital gain (computed without regard to any capital loss carryovers)	$25,000
Minus capital loss carryovers to Y 1957 (i.e., carryover to $20,000 from X 1955)	20,000
		5,000
Carryover to Y 1958 and Y 1959		0

(iii) X Corporation's 1956 loss. The carryover to 1959 is $0, computed as follows:

Net capital loss		$10,000
Less:
Y's 1957 net capital gain (computed without regard to any capital loss carryovers)	$25,000
Minus capital loss carryovers to Y 1957 (i.e., carryovers of $20,000 from X 1955 and $2,000 from Y 1955)	22,000
		3,000
Carryover to Y 1958		7,000
Less:
Y's 1958 net capital gain (computed without regard to any capital loss carryovers)	$10,000
Minus capital loss carryovers to Y 1958	0
		10,000
Carryover to Y 1959		0

(iv) Y Corporation's 1956 loss. The carryover to 1959 is $5,000, computed as follows:

Net capital loss		$8,000
Less:
Y's 1957 net capital gain (computed without regard to any capital loss carryovers)	$25,000
Minus capital loss carryovers to Y 1957 (i.e., carryovers of $20,000 from X 1955, $2,000 from Y 1955, and $10,000 from X 1956)	32,000
Carryover to Y 1958		8,000
Less:
Y's 1958 net capital gain (computed without regard to any capital loss carryovers)	$10,000
Minus capital loss carryovers to Y 1958 (i.e., carryover of $7,000 from X 1956)	7,000
Carryover to Y 1959		5,000

(e) Computation of carryovers when date of distribution or transfer is not on last day of acquiring corporation's taxable year. (1) General rule. If, in determining under paragraph (d) of this section the portion of a net capital loss for any taxable year which is carried over to a succeeding taxable year, an intervening taxable year is a taxable year of the acquiring corporation which includes, but does not end on, the date of distribution or transfer, the net capital gain of such intervening year shall be determined by applying section 1212 in the special manner provided by this paragraph.

(2) Taxable year considered as two taxable years. Such intervening taxable year of the acquiring corporation shall be considered as though it were two taxable years, but only for the limited purpose of computing capital loss carryovers to subsequent taxable years. The first of such two taxable years shall be referred to in this paragraph as the preacquisition part year; the second, as the postacquisition part year. Though considered as two separate taxable years for purposes of this paragraph, the preacquisition part year and the postacquisition part year are treated as one taxable year in determining the years to which a net capital loss is carried under section 1212. See paragraph (d)(3) of this section.

(3) Preacquisition part year. The preacquisition part year shall begin with the beginning of such taxable year of the acquiring corporation and shall end with the close of the date of distribution or transfer.

(4) Postacquisition part year. The postacquisition part year shall begin with the day following the date of distribution or transfer and shall end with the close of such taxable year of the acquiring corporation.

(5) Division of net capital gain. The net capital gain for such intervening taxable year (computed without regard to any capital loss carryovers) of the acquiring corporation shall be divided between the preacquisition part year and the postacquisition part year in proportion to the number of days in each. Thus, if in a statutory merger to which section 361 applies Y Corporation acquires the assets of X Corporation on June 30, 1956, and Y Corporation has net capital gain (computed in the manner so prescribed) of $36,600 for its calendar year 1956, then the preacquisition part year net capital gain would be $18,200 ($36,000×$\frac{182}{366}$) and the postacquisition part year net capital gain would be $18,400 ($36,000×$\frac{184}{366}$).

(6) Application of capital loss carryovers. After obtaining the net capital gain of the preacquisition part year and postacquisition part year in the manner described in subparagraph (5) of this paragraph, it is necessary to determine the capital loss carryovers which are taken into account with respect to each such part year. The carryovers to be taken into account and the sequence in which such carryovers are applied, shall be determined in accordance with paragraph (d)(1) of this section but subject to the provisions of this subparagraph. With respect to the preacquisition part year, no capital loss carryovers of the distributor or transferor corporation shall be taken into account; that is, only capital loss carryovers of the acquiring corporation shall be taken into account. With respect to the postacquisition part year, capital loss carryovers of both the distributor or transferor corporation and the acquiring corporation shall be taken into account.

(7) Cross reference. If any intervening taxable year is a taxable year of the acquiring corporation during which the acquiring corporation succeeds to the capital loss carryovers of two or more distributor or transferor corporations on two or more dates of distribution or transfer, the net capital gain of the acquiring corporation for such intervening taxable year shall be determined consistently with the rules prescribed in paragraph (c) of § 1.381(c)(1)–2, except that the sequence in which the capital loss carryovers of the distributor or transferor and acquiring corporations shall be applied shall be determined under paragraph (d)(1) of this section.

(8) Illustration. The application of this paragraph may be illustrated as follows:

Example. X Corporation is organized on April 1, 1959, and makes its return on the basis of the fiscal year ending March 31. Y Corporation is organized on January 1, 1959, and makes its return on the basis of the calendar year. On June 30, 1961, X Corporation transfers all its assets to Y Corporation in a statutory merger to which section 361 applies. The net capital losses and the net capital gains (computed without regard to any capital loss carryovers) of the two corporations are as follows:

Taxable year:	X Corporation (transferor)	Y Corporation (acquirer)
1959		($24,000)
Ending 3–31–60	($19,000)
1960		(6,000)
Ending 3–31–61	(5,000)
Ending 6–30–61	0
1961		36,500
1962		12,000

The following table shows those taxable years of the transferor and acquiring corporations which, with respect to Y Corporation's calendar year 1961, are first, second, and third preceding taxable years:

	X Corporation	Y Corporation
First preceding year	Ending 6–30–61	1960
Second preceding year	Ending 3–31–61	1959
Third preceding year	Ending 3–31–60	----

The sequence in which the net capital losses of X and Y Corporations are applied, and the computation of the capital loss carryovers to Y Corporation's calendar year 1963, may be illustrated as follows. (For purposes of this example, the carryover from a preceding taxable year of the acquiring corporation will be applied before the carryover from the same preceding taxable year of the transferor corporation):

(i) X Corporation's 3/31/60 loss. The carryover to 1963 is $0, computed as follows:

Net capital loss		$19,000
Less: Y's postacquisition part year net capital gain computed under subparagraph (5) of this paragraph ($36,500×$\frac{184}{365}$)		18,400
Carryover to Y 1962		600
Less: Y's 1962 net capital gain (computed without regard to any capital loss carryovers)		12,000
Carryover to Y 1963		0

(ii) Y Corporation's 1959 loss. The carryover to 1963 is $0, computed as follows:

Net capital loss		$24,000
Less: Y's preacquisition part year net capital gain computed under subparagraph (5) of this paragraph ($36,500×$\frac{181}{365}$)		18,100
Carryover to Y's postacquisition part year		5,900
Less:
Y's postacquisition part year net capital gain computed under subparagraph (5) of this paragraph	$18,400
Minus capital loss carryovers to postacquisition part year (i.e., carryover of $19,000 from X 3/31/60)	19,000
Carryover to Y 1962		5,900
Less:
Y's 1962 net capital gain (computed without regard to any capital loss carryovers)	$12,000
Minus capital loss carryovers to Y 1962 (i.e., carryover of $600 from X 3/31/60)	600
		11,400
Carryover to Y 1963		0

(iii) X Corporation's 3/31/61 loss. The carryover to 1963 is $0, computed as follows:

Net capital loss		$5,000
Less:
Y's postacquisition part year net capital gain computed under subparagraph (5) of this paragraph	$18,400
Minus capital loss carryovers to postacquisition part year (i.e., carryovers of $19,000 from X 3/31/60 and $5,900 from Y 1959)	24,900
Carryover to Y 1962		5,000
Less:
Y's 1962 net capital gain (computed without regard to any capital loss carryovers)	$12,000
Minus capital loss carryovers to Y 1962 (i.e., carryovers of $600 from X 3/31/60 and $5,900 from Y 1959)	6,500
Carryover to Y 1963		0

(iv) Y Corporation's 1960 loss. The carryover to 1963 is $5,500, computed as follows:

Net capital loss		$6,000
Less:
Y's preacquisition part year net capital gain computed under subparagraph (5) of this paragraph	$18,100
Minus capital loss carryovers to preacquisition part year (i.e., carryover of $24,000 from Y 1959)	24,000
Carryover to Y's postacquisition part year		6,000
Less:
Y's postacquisition part year net capital gain computed under subparagraph (5) of this paragraph	$18,400
Minus capital loss carryovers to postacquisition part year (i.e., carryovers of $19,000 from X 3/31/60, $5,900 from Y 1959, and $5,000 from X 3/31/61)	29,900
Carryover to Y 1962		6,000
Less:
Y's 1962 net capital gain (computed without regard to any capital loss carryovers)	$12,000
Minus capital loss carryovers to Y 1962 (i.e., carryovers of $600 from X 3/31/60, $5,900 from Y 1959, and $5,000 from X 3/31/61)	11,500
Carryover to Y 1963		5,500

(g) Successive acquiring corporations. An acquiring corporation which, in a transaction to which section 381(a) applies, acquires the assets of a distributor or transferor corporation which previously acquired the assets of another corporation in a transaction to which section 381(a) applies, shall succeed to and take into account, subject to the conditions and limitations of sections 1212 and 381, the capital loss carryovers available to the first acquiring corporation under sections 1212 and 381.

§ 1.381(c)(10) Statutory provisions; carryovers in certain corporate acquisitions; items of the distributor or transferor corporation; treatment of certain expenses deferred by the election of distributor or transferor corporation.

SEC. 381. Carryovers in certain corporate acquisitions. • • •

(c) Items of the distributor or transferor corporation. The items referred to in subsection (a) are:

• • • • •

(10) Treatment of certain expenses deferred by the election of distributor or transferor corporation. The acquiring corporation shall be entitled to deduct, as if it were the distributor or transferor corporation, expenses deferred under section 615 and 616 (relating to exploration and development expenditures, respectively) if the distributor or transferor corporation has so elected. For the purpose of applying the limitation provided in section 615, if, for any taxable year, the distributor or transferor corporation was allowed the deduction in section 615(a) or made the election in section 615(b), the acquiring corporation shall be deemed to have been allowed such deduction or to have made such election, as the case may be.

(a) Carryover requirement. (1) If for any taxable year a distributor or transferor corporation has elected under section 615 or section 616 (or corresponding provisions of prior law) to defer and deduct on a ratable basis any exploration or development expenditures made in connection with any ore, mineral, mine, or other natural deposit transferred to the acquiring corporation in a transaction described in section 381(a), then under the provisions of section 381(c)(10) the acquiring corporation shall be entitled to deduct such expenditures on a ratable basis in the same manner, and to the same extent, as they would have been deductible by the distributor or transferor corporation in the absence of the distribution or transfer. For this purpose, the acquiring corporation shall be treated as though it were the distributor or transferor corporation. The principles set forth in paragraph (e) of § 1.615–3 and paragraph (f) of § 1.616–2 are applicable in computing the amount of the deduction allowable to the acquiring corporation in respect of expenditures deferred by a distributor or transferor corporation.

Example. X and Y Corporations are both organized on January 1, 1955, and both corporations compute their taxable income on the basis of the calendar year. During 1955, X Corporation purchases a mineral property which it begins to develop in 1956. During 1956, X Corporation incurs development expenditures of $500,000 in respect of such property which it elects to defer under section 616(b). On December 31, 1956, Y Corporation acquires all of the assets of X Corporation in a reorganization to which section 381(a) applies, no gain being recognized to X Corporation on the transfer. In 1957, Y Corporation sells 150,000 units of produced ore benefited by the development expenditures incurred and deferred by X Corporation, and the number of units remaining as of the end of 1957, plus the number of units sold during that year, is estimated to be 1,000,000. In addition to its deduction for depletion, Y Corporation is, in 1957, entitled to a deduction under sections 616(b) and 381(c)(10) of $75,000 of the development expenditures previously deferred by X Corporation, that is, $500,000×$\frac{150,000}{1,000,000}$.

(2) If a distributor or transferor corporation has elected under section 615 or section 616 (or corresponding provisions of prior law) to defer exploration or development expenditures in respect of a mine or other natural deposit which it subsequently disposes of except for a retained economic interest therein, such as the right to royalty income or in-ore payments, and such retained economic interest is transferred to the acquiring corporation in a transaction to which section 381(a) applies, then the acquiring corporation shall be entitled to deduct such deferred expenditures attributable to the economic interest retained on a ratable basis to the same extent they would have been deductible by the distributor or transferor corporation in the absence of the distribution or transfer. See paragraph (c) of § 1.615–3 and paragraph (c) of § 1.616–2.

(3) For purposes of this section, the terms "exploration expenditures" and "development expenditures" shall have the same meaning as that ascribed to them in the regulations under sections 615 and 616 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, or under sections 23(cc) and 23(ff) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939, whichever applies. See, for example, paragraph (a) of § 1.615–1 and paragraph (a) of § 1.616–1.

(b) Effect and identification of election previously made. (1) The election made by a distributor or transferor corporation under the provisions of section 615 or section 616 (or corresponding provisions of prior law) to defer exploration or development expenditures in respect of any taxable year may not be revoked by the acquiring corporation for any reason whatsoever.

(2) When filing its return for the first taxable year for which it deducts exploration or development expenditures which were deferred under section 615 or section 616 (or corresponding provisions of prior law) by a distributor or transferor corporation, the acquiring corporation shall attach thereto a statement properly identifying the taxable year for which the election to defer was made by the distributor or transferor corporation, the name of the corporation which made the election, and the district director with whom the election was filed.

(3) It is unnecessary for an acquiring corporation to renew an election to defer exploration or development expenditures which was made by a distributor or transferor corporation.

(c) Successive transactions to which section 381(a) applies. If, by virtue of section 381(c)(10), the acquiring corporation is entitled to deduct exploration or development expenditures deferred by a distributor or transferor corporation, then such acquiring corporation shall be deemed to have made the election to defer such expenditures for purposes of applying section 381(c)(10) to any subsequent transaction in which such acquiring corporation is a distributor or transferor corporation.

(d) Carryover of 4-year limitation. (1) If a distributor or transferor corporation transfers any mineral property to the acquiring corporation in a transaction described in section 381(a), then in applying the 4-year limitation of section 615(c) in the case of exploration expenditures paid or incurred by the acquiring corporation in any taxable year ending after the date of distribution or transfer, the acquiring corporation shall be deemed to have been allowed any deduction which, for any taxable year ending on or before such date, was allowed to the distributor or transferor corporation under section 615(a), or under section 23(ff)(1) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939, or to have made any election which, for any preceding taxable year, was made by the distributor or transferor corporation under section 615(b), or under section 23(ff)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939. Thus, in such instance, the acquiring corporation shall take into account for purposes of the 4-year limitation any taxable year in which the distributor or transferor corporation availed itself of the benefits of section 615 or section 23(ff) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939. For this purpose, it is immaterial whether or not the deduction has been allowed to, or the election has been made by, the distributor or transferor corporation with respect to the specific mineral property transferred by that corporation to the acquiring corporation.

(2) Generally, if there are two or more distributor or transferor corporations that transfer any mineral property to the acquiring corporation, each taxable year of any such corporation ending on or before the date of distribution or transfer in which exploration expenditures were deducted or deferred shall be treated as a separate taxable year for purposes of applying the 4-year limitation regardless of the fact that the taxable years of two or more such corporations end on the same date. However, if the date of distribution or transfer is the same with respect to more than one distributor or transferor corporation, then the taxable years of such corporations ending on the same date of distribution or transfer shall be considered as one taxable year for purposes of applying the 4-year limitation even though more than one such corporation deducted or deferred exploration expenditures for such taxable years.

(3) If a distributor or transferor corporation that transfers any mineral property to the acquiring corporation is required under section 615 and paragraph (b) of § 1.615–4 to take into account for purposes of the 4-year limitation any taxable years in which any individual or corporation has deducted or deferred exploration expenditures, then the acquiring corporation shall also take these taxable years into account in applying the 4-year limitation.

(4) The provisions of this paragraph may be illustrated by the following examples:

Example (1). M and N Corporations were organized on January 1, 1955, and each corporation computes its taxable income on the basis of the calendar year. For its taxable years 1955 and 1956, M Corporation deducted exploration expenditures made in such years under section 615(a). N Corporation made no exploration expenditures during its taxable years 1955 and 1956. On December 31, 1956, M Corporation transferred all its assets to N Corporation in a reorganization to which section 381(a) applies, no gain being recognized to the transferor corporation on the transfer. On the basis of these facts, N Corporation may deduct or defer exploration expenditures in accordance with section 615 for any two (not necessarily consecutive) taxable years ending after December 31, 1956.

Example (2). O and P Corporations were organized on January 1, 1955, and each corporation computes its taxable income on the basis of the calendar year. For their taxable years 1955, 1956, and 1957, each corporation deducted exploration expenditures made in such years under section 615(a). On June 30, 1958, O Corporation transferred all its assets to P Corporation in a reorganization to which section 381(a) applies, no gain being recognized to the transferor corporation on the transfer. If, during its short taxable year ending June 30, 1958, O Corporation has made additional exploration expenditures, such expenditures may be deducted or deferred under section 615 since O Corporation has utilized section 615 in only three previous taxable years. However, for its taxable years ending after June 30, 1958, P Corporation may not deduct or defer exploration expenditures under section 615.

Example (3). X, Y, and Z Corporations were organized on January 1, 1955, and each corporation computes its taxable income on the basis of the calendar year. For their taxable years ending December 31, 1955, X and Y Corporations each deducted exploration expenditures made in such taxable years under section 615(a). Z Corporation made no exploration expenditures during its taxable year ending December 31, 1955. On March 31, 1956, X and Y Corporations transferred all their assets to Z Corporation in a reorganization to which section 381(a) applies, no gain being recognized to the transferor corporations on the transfer. X and Y Corporations each made exploration expenditures during their short taxable years ending March 31, 1956, which they deducted under section 615(a). Z Corporation must take into account for purposes of the 4-year limitation the taxable years in which X and Y Corporations have deducted exploration expenditures. In so doing, each taxable year in which exploration expenditures were deducted must be taken into account except that the taxable years of X and Y Corporations ending on March 31, 1956, shall be considered as one taxable year. Therefore, Z Corporation may deduct or defer exploration expenditures in accordance with section 615 for any one taxable year ending after March 31, 1956.

Example (4). For purposes of this example, assume that each taxpayer computes taxable income on the basis of the calendar year. Taxpayer A, an individual who has deducted exploration expenditures under section 23(ff) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939 for his taxable years 1952 and 1953, transferred a mineral property to S Corporation on July 1, 1954, in a transaction in which the basis of the mineral property in the hands of S Corporation is determined under section 362(a). For its taxable year 1954, S Corporation deducted exploration expenditures made in such year under section 615(a). S Corporation had made no exploration expenditures in any preceding taxable year. On December 31, 1954, S Corporation transferred all its assets to T Corporation in a reorganization to which section 381(a) applies, no gain being recognized to the transferor corporation on the transfer. Assuming that T Corporation has not deducted or deferred exploration expenditures in any preceding taxable year, T Corporation may deduct or defer exploration expenditures in accordance with section 615 for any one taxable year ending after December 31, 1954.

(e) Effective date. The provisions of paragraph (d) of this section shall not apply to taxable years beginning after July 6, 1960. For the purpose of applying the $400,000 limitation in the case of taxable years beginning after July 6, 1960, see section 615(c) as amended by the Act of July 6, 1960 (Public Law 86–594, 74 Stat. 333).

§ 1.381(c)(13) Statutory provisions; carryovers in certain corporate acquisitions; items of distributor or transferor corporation; involuntary conversions under section 1033.

SEC. 381. Carryovers in certain corporate acquisitions. * * *

(c) Items of the distributor or transferor corporation. The items referred to in subsection (a) are:

* * * * *

(13) Involuntary conversions under section 1033. The acquiring corporation shall be treated as the distributor or transferor corporation after the date of distribution or transfer for purposes of applying section 1033.

§ 1.381(c)(13)–1 Involuntary conversions.

(a) Carryover requirement—(1) General rule. Section 381(c)(13) requires that after the date of distribution or transfer the acquiring corporation, in a transaction to which section 381 (a) applies, shall be treated as the distributor or transferor corporation for purposes of applying section 1033, relating to involuntary conversions. This rule shall apply even though the property similar or related in service or use to the property converted, or the stock of a corporation owning such similar property, is purchased by the acquiring corporation after the date of distribution or transfer and is not received from the distributor or transferor corporation in the transaction to which section 381(a) applies. Accordingly, if any factor essential to the application of section 1033 occurs on or before the date of distribution or transfer and any other such factor also occurs after that date, then, in accordance with section 381(c)(13) and this section, the provisions of section 1033 shall apply to the acquiring corporation in the same manner that they would have applied to the distributor or transferor corporation in the absence of the distribution or transfer. For purposes of this section, the terms "involuntary conversion" and "disposition of the converted property" shall have the meaning ascribed to them by the regulations under section 1033.

(2) Application to other transactions. The provisions of this section shall apply to any transaction which, under provisions of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, is treated as though it were an involuntary conversion within the meaning of section 1033. See, for example, section 1071, relating to gain from a sale or exchange to effectuate the policies of the Federal Communications Commission; and sections 1332(b)(3) and 1333(3), relating to war loss recoveries.

(b) Conversion into similar property. Section 1033(a)(1) provides that no gain shall be recognized if property is involuntarily converted only into property which is similar or related in service or use to the property so converted. If there is a disposition of property of a distributor or transferor corporation and, subsequent to the date of distribution or transfer, property similar or related in service or use to the property disposed of is received by the acquiring corporation as compensation for the property so disposed of, then no gain shall be recognized to the acquiring corporation, provided that no gain would have been recognized under section 1033(a)(1) if the similar property had been received directly by the distributor or transferor corporation.

Example. Property of S Corporation with an adjusted basis of $100 is condemned by the local government. Shortly after the property is so condemned, S Corporation liquidates and distributes its assets to P Corporation in a distribution to which section 381(a) applies. Subsequent to the date of distribution, P Corporation receives from the government (in settlement of the condemnation proceedings) property with a market value of $500 which is similar or related in service or use to the property so condemned. No gain is recognized to either corporation upon P Corporation's receipt of the similar property, and the property so received has a basis of $100 in the hands of P Corporation on the date of its acquisition.

(c) Conversion into money or dissimilar property when disposition occurs after December 31, 1950—(1) General rule. Section 1033(a)(3) and § 1.1033(a)–2 provide rules for involuntary conversions of property into money or dissimilar property where the disposition of the converted property occurs after December 31, 1950. In such a case, the gain on the conversion, if any, shall be recognized, at the election of the taxpayer, only to the extent that the amount realized on the conversion exceeds the cost of other property purchased by the taxpayer which is similar or related in service or use to the property so converted, or exceeds the cost of stock purchased by the taxpayer in the acquisition of control of a corporation owning such other property, provided (i) the taxpayer purchases such other property or stock for the purpose of replacing the property so converted and (ii) the purchase occurs during the period of time specified in section 1033(a)(3)(B). The provisions of this paragraph shall apply to involuntary conversions where the disposition of the property occurs after December 31, 1950, and where the election to have section 1033(a)(3) apply to the treatment of the gain upon the conversion is contingent upon activities of both the distributor or transferor corporation and the acquiring corporation. For purposes of section 381(c)(13), the period of time specified in section 1033(a)(3)(B) shall be determined by taking into account taxable years of, and extensions of time granted to, both the distributor or transferor corporation and the acquiring corporation.

(2) Replacement period. The period during which the purchase of similar property or stock must be made in order to prevent the recognition of gain on the involuntary conversion terminates one year after the close of the first taxable year in which any part of the gain upon the conversion is realized, or at the close of such later date as may be designated pursuant to an application of the taxpayer. See paragraph (c)(3) of § 1.1033(a)–2. Therefore, if, in a case to which this subparagraph applies, the first taxable year in which gain is realized is the taxable year of the distributor or transferor corporation ending with the close of the date of distribution or transfer, the acquiring corporation will have a maximum of only one year after that date in which to purchase the similar property or stock, unless an extension of time has been granted upon application by the distributor, transferor, or acquiring corporation within the time prescribed. See paragraph (a) of § 1.381(b)–1 as to the termination of the taxable year of the distributor or transferor corporation. See paragraph (c)(3) of § 1.1033(a)–2 as to applications to extend the period within which to replace the converted property. In addition to the information otherwise required under paragraph (c)(3) of § 1.1033(a)–2, the application shall contain sufficient detail in connection with the distribution or transfer to establish that section 381(c)(13) applies to the involuntary conversion involved.

(3) Examples. The application of this paragraph may be illustrated by the following examples:

Example (1). A and B Corporations compute their taxable income on the basis of the calendar year, and both corporations use the cash method of accounting. During 1955 property of A Corporation is destroyed by fire, and in January 1956, A Corporation receives $15,000 from an insurance company as compensation for its loss of property. The adjusted basis of the property on the date of destruction is $10,000; as a consequence, A Corporation realizes a gain of $5,000 on the involuntary conversion. On June 30, 1956, B Corporation acquires all of the assets of A Corporation in a reorganization to which section 381(a) applies. In accordance with paragraph (c)(2) of § 1.1033(a)–2, A Corporation reports in its return for the short taxable year ending June 30, 1956, all the details in connection with the involuntary conversion but does not include the realized gain in gross income, thereby electing to have the gain recognized only to the extent provided in section 1033(a)(3). On June 15, 1957, B Corporation purchases for $20,000 property which is similar or related in service or use to the property previously destroyed. In its return for 1957, B Corporation reports all of the details in connection with its replacement of the property, as required by paragraph (c)(2) of § 1.1033(a)–2. As a result of this replacement by B Corporation, none of the gain realized by A Corporation is recognized. The replacement property which is purchased by B Corporation has a basis to that corporation of $15,000 on the date of its purchase, that is, the cost of such property ($20,000) decreased by the amount of gain not recognized to A Corporation on the involuntary conversion ($5,000).

Example (2). Assume the same facts as in example (1), except that B Corporation does not purchase similar property on or before June 30, 1957, and does not apply on or before that date (in accordance with paragraph (c)(3) of § 1.1033(a)–2) for an extension of time in which to make a replacement. In such event, the gain realized by A Corporation is recognized to that corporation for its taxable year ending June 30, 1956. A Corporation's tax liability for such taxable year must be recomputed in accordance with paragraph (c)(2) of § 1.1033 (a)–2 in order to reflect this additional income.

Example (3). M and N Corporations compute their taxable income on the basis of the calendar year, and both corporations use the cash method of accounting. During 1955, property of M Corporation is destroyed by fire. The adjusted basis of the property on the date of destruction is $10,000. The property is insured against loss by fire, but the insurance claim is not satisfied on or before June 30, 1956, the date on which N Corporation acquires all of the assets (including the insurance claim) of M Corporation in a reorganization to which section 381 (a) applies. On September 1, 1957, N Corporation receives $15,000 from the insurance company as compensation for the fire loss suffered by M Corporation. Upon receipt of the insurance proceeds, N Corporation realizes a gain of $5,000 upon the involuntary conversion; however, in its return for 1957, N Corporation elects under the provisions of paragraph (c)(2) of § 1.1033(a)–2 to have the gain recognized only to the extent provided by section 1033(a)(3). On December 30, 1958, N Corporation purchases for $20,000 property which is similar or related in service or use to the property previously destroyed in the hands of M Corporation. As a result of this replacement by N Corporation, none of the gain realized by N Corporation in 1957 is recognized. The replacement property which is purchased by N Corporation has a basis to that corporation of $15,000 on the date of its purchase, that is, the cost of such property ($20,000) decreased by the amount of gain not recognized to N Corporation on the involuntary conversion ($5,000).

Example (4). R and S Corporations compute their taxable income on the basis of the calendar year, and both corporations use the cash method of accounting. During 1954 property of R Corporation is destroyed by fire. The adjusted basis of the property on the date of destruction is $10,000. In anticipation of taking the benefit of section 1033(a)(3), R Corporation purchases for $20,000 on June 1, 1955, property which is similar or related in service or use to the destroyed property. In its return for 1955, R Corporation reports all of the details in connection with the replacement of the property, as required by paragraph (c)(2) of § 1.1033(a)-2. The property destroyed in 1954 is insured against loss by fire, but the insurance claim is not satisfied on or before March 1, 1956, the date on which S Corporation acquires all of the assets (including the insurance claim) of R Corporation in a reorganization to which section 381(a) applies. On October 1, 1956, S Corporation receives $12,000 from the insurance company as compensation for the fire loss suffered by R Corporation. Upon receipt of the insurance proceeds, S Corporation realizes a gain of $2,000 upon the involuntary conversion; however, in its return for 1956, S Corporation elects under the provisions of paragraph (c)(2) of § 1.1033(a)-2 to have the gain recognized only to the extent provided by section 1033(a)(3). As a result of the replacement by R Corporation, none of the gain realized by S Corporation in 1956 is recognized. Assuming there are no adjustments for depreciation, the replacement property has a basis on October 1, 1956, of $18,000, that is, the cost of such property ($20,000) decreased by the amount of gain not recognized to S Corporation on the involuntary conversion ($2,000).

(d) Conversion into money when disposition occurs before January 1, 1951. Section 1033(a)(2) provides that, if property is disposed of in an involuntary conversion before January 1, 1951, and money is received as compensation for the conversion, no gain shall be recognized if such money is forthwith expended in the acquisition of other property similar or related in service or use to the property so converted, or in the acquisition of control of a corporation owning such other property, or in the establishment of a replacement fund. That section also provides that, if any part of the money is not so expended, the gain, if any, shall be recognized to the extent of the money which is not so expended. For example, if, pursuant to section 381(c)(13) and section 1033(a)(2), property of a distributor or transferor corporation is disposed of before January 1, 1951, in an involuntary conversion, and the proceeds from the conversion are received by the acquiring corporation so that the gain on the conversion is realized by that corporation, the acquiring corporation may avoid recognition of the gain if it complies with the provisions of section 1033(a)(2) for nonrecognition of gain. Thus, the acquiring corporation must forthwith expend the proceeds in the acquisition of similar property or stock, or in the establishment of a replacement fund, in order to avoid recognition of the gain, if the disposition occurred before January 1, 1951. See the provisions of § 1.1033(a)-3 and § 1.1033(a)-4 relating to involuntary conversions and replacement funds when disposition of the converted property occurred before January 1, 1951.

(e) Successive acquiring corporations. An acquiring corporation which, in a transaction to which section 381(a) applies, acquires the assets of a corporation which previously acquired the assets of another corporation in a transaction to which section 381(a) applies, shall be treated as such other corporation for purposes of applying sections 381(c)(13) and 1033 (relating to involuntary conversions). Thus, for example, if any factor essential to the application of section 1033 occurs on or before the date of distribution or transfer in one transaction to which section 381(a) applies, and any other such factor occurs after the date of distribution or transfer in a subsequent transaction to which section 381(a) applies, then the acquiring corporation in such subsequent transaction shall be treated as the first distributor or transferor corporation subject to the rules and limitations of this section for purposes of sections 381(c)(13) and 1033.

§ 1.381(c)(18) Statutory provisions; carryovers in certain corporate acquisitions; items of the distributor or transferor corporation; percentage depletion on extraction of ores or minerals from the waste or residue of prior mining.

SEC. 381. Carryovers in certain corporate acquisitions. • • •

(c) Items of the distributor or transferor corporation. The items referred to in subsection (a) are:

• • • • • •

(18) Percentage depletion on extraction of ores or minerals from the waste or residue of prior mining. The acquiring corporation shall be considered to be the distributor or transferor corporation for the purpose of determining the applicability of section 613(c)(3) (relating to extraction of ores or minerals from the ground).

§ 1.381(c)(18)-1 Depletion on extraction of ores or minerals from the waste or residue of prior mining.

(a) Carryover requirement. Section 381(c)(18) provides that the acquiring corporation in a transaction described in section 381(a) shall be considered as though it were the distributor or transferor corporation after the date of distribution or transfer for the purpose of determining the applicability of section 613(c)(3) (relating to extraction of ores or minerals from the ground). Thus, an acquiring corporation which has acquired the waste or residue of prior mining from a distributor or transferor corporation in a transaction described in section 381(a) shall be entitled, after the date of distribution or transfer, to an allowance for depletion under section 611 in respect of ores or minerals extracted from such waste or residue if the distributor or transferor corporation would have been entitled to such an allowance for depletion in the absence of the distribution or transfer. See paragraph (f) of § 1.613-3 to determine whether a distributor or transferor corporation is entitled to an allowance for depletion with respect to the waste or residue of prior mining.

(b) Application of section 614 to waste or residue of prior mining. If, in a transaction described in section 381(a), the acquiring corporation acquires waste or residue of prior mining from a distributor or transferor corporation, then the acquiring corporation shall be considered as though it were the distributor or transferor corporation for the purpose of applying section 614 and the regulations thereunder to the waste or residue so acquired. Thus, if the distributor or transferor corporation was required under paragraph (c) of § 1.614-1 to treat the waste or residue as part of the mineral deposit from which it was extracted and if the acquiring corporation acquires both the waste or residue and the mineral deposit from which it was extracted in a transaction described in section 381(a), then such waste or residue shall be treated as a part of such mineral deposit in the hands of the acquiring corporation. On the other hand, if the waste or residue was required to be treated as a separate mineral deposit in the hands of the distributor or transferor corporation, such waste or residue shall be treated as a separate mineral deposit in the hands of the acquiring corporation.

§ 1.381(c)(19) Statutory provisions; carryovers in certain corporate acquisitions; items of the distributor or transferor corporation; charitable contributions in excess of prior years' limitation.

SEC. 381. Carryovers in certain corporate acquisitions. • • •

(c) Items of the distributor or transferor corporation. The items referred to in subsection (a) are:

• • • • • •

(19) Charitable contributions in excess of prior years' limitation. Contributions made in the taxable year ending on the date of distribution or transfer and the prior taxable year by the distributor or transferor corporation in excess of the amount deductible under section 170(b)(2), in such taxable years shall be deductible by the acquiring corporation in its first two taxable years which begin after the date of distribution or transfer, subject to the limitations imposed in section 170(b)(2).

§ 1.381(c)(19)-1 Charitable contribution carryovers in certain acquisitions.

(a) Carryover requirement. Section 381(c)(19) provides that, in computing taxable income for its first two taxable years which begin after the date of a distribution or transfer to which section 381(a) applies, the acquiring corporation shall take into account any charitable contributions made by a distributor or transferor corporation during the taxable year ending on the date of distribution or transfer, and in the immediately preceding taxable year, which are in excess of the maximum amount deductible for those taxable years under section 170(b)(2). To determine the amount of the excess contributions made by a distributor or transferor corporation and to integrate them with contributions made by the acquiring corporation for the purpose of determining the charitable contributions deductible by the acquiring corporation for its first two taxable years beginning immediately after the date of distribution or transfer, it is necessary to apply the provisions of section 170(b)(2) in accordance with the conditions and limitations of section 381(c)(19) and this section.

(b) Manner of computing excess charitable contribution carryovers. (1) The amount of any charitable contribution made by a distributor or transferor corporation in any taxable year ending on or before the date of distribution or transfer, or made by the acquiring corporation in any taxable year before its taxable year beginning after the date of distribution or transfer, in excess of the amount allowable as a deduction to such corporation for such taxable year under section 170(b)(2) shall be determined by taking into account the taxable income of, and the contributions made by, that corporation only.

(2) An acquiring corporation which, in a distribution or transfer to which section 381(a) applies, acquires the assets of a distributor or transferor corporation which previously acquired the assets of another corporation in a transaction to which section 381(a) applies, shall succeed to and take into account, subject to the conditions and limitations of sections 170 and 381, the charitable contribution carryovers available to the first acquiring corporation under sections 170 and 381, including those derived by such first acquiring corporation from its distributor or transferor corporation.

(3) The excess charitable contributions made by a distributor or transferor corporation in its taxable year ending on the date of distribution or transfer and in its immediately preceding taxable year which are not deductible by the distributor or transferor corporation because of the 5 percent limitation of section 170(b)(2) shall be available to the acquiring corporation without diminution by reason of the fact that the acquiring corporation does not acquire 100 percent of the assets of the distributor or transferor corporation. Thus, if a parent corporation owning 80 percent of all classes of stock of its subsidiary corporation were to acquire its share of the assets of the subsidiary corporation upon a complete liquidation described in paragraph (b)(1)(i) of § 1.381(a)-1, then, subject to the conditions and limitations of this section, 100 percent of the excess contributions made by the subsidiary corporation would be available to the acquiring corporation.

(c) Taxable years to which carryovers apply and amount deductible. (1) The excess charitable contributions made by a distributor or transferor corporation in its taxable year immediately preceding that ending on the date of distribution or transfer, to the extent not deductible by it because of the limitations of section 170(b)(2) in its taxable year ending on that date, shall be deductible by the acquiring corporation to the extent prescribed by section 170(b)(2) in its first taxable year beginning after the date of distribution or transfer. Any portion of such excess which is not deductible under this section by the acquiring corporation in such first taxable year shall not be deducted by that corporation in any other taxable year.

(2) The excess charitable contributions made by a distributor or transferor corporation in its taxable year ending on the date of distribution or transfer shall first be deductible by the acquiring corporation to the extent prescribed by section 170(b)(2) and this section in its first taxable year beginning after that date and then, to the extent prescribed by section 170(b)(2) and this section, in its second taxable year beginning after that date. Any portion of such excess which is not deductible under this section by the acquiring corporation in such first and second taxable years shall not be deducted by that corporation in any other taxable year.

(3) No excess charitable contributions made by a distributor or transferor corporation shall be deductible by the acquiring corporation in its taxable year which includes the date of distribution or transfer.

(d) Rules governing amounts deductible by acquiring corporations. (1) In applying the provisions of section 170(b)(2) for the purpose of determining the amount of excess charitable contributions which are deductible by the acquiring corporation in its first taxable year beginning after the date of distribution or transfer, all taxable years of the distributor or transferor and acquiring corporations which, with respect to such first taxable year, constitute the second preceding taxable year shall together be considered as one taxable year even though the taxable years involved may not end on the same date. Any excess charitable contributions carried over from such preceding taxable years considered as one taxable year shall be taken into account by the acquiring corporation as one amount, without regard to the extent to which the contributions were made by a distributor or transferor corporation or the acquiring corporation.

(2) In applying the provisions of section 170(b)(2) for the purpose of determining the amount of excess charitable contributions which are deductible by the acquiring corporation in its second taxable year beginning after the date of distribution or transfer, all taxable years of the distributor or transferor and acquiring corporations which, with respect to such second taxable year, constitute the second preceding taxable year shall together be considered as one taxable year even though they may not end on the same date. Any excess charitable contributions carried over from such preceding taxable years considered as one taxable year shall be taken into account by the acquiring corporation as one amount, without regard to the extent to which the contributions were made by a distributor or transferor corporation or the acquiring corporation.

(3) For purposes of this paragraph, the taxable year of a distributor or transferor corporation which ends on the date of distribution or transfer shall be considered a first preceding taxable year with reference to the acquiring corporation's first taxable year beginning after that date and a second preceding taxable year with reference to the acquiring corporation's second taxable year beginning after that date. The taxable year of a distributor or transferor corporation which immediately precedes its taxable year ending on the date of distribution or transfer shall be considered a second preceding taxable year with reference to the acquiring corporation's first taxable year beginning after that date.

(e) Illustration. The application of this section may be illustrated by the following example:

Example. (i) X Corporation is organized on April 1, 1956, and computes its taxable income on the basis of the fiscal year ending March 31. Y Corporation is organized on July 1, 1955, and computes its taxable income on the basis of the fiscal year ending June 30. Z Corporation is organized on January 1, 1956, and computes its taxable income on the basis of the calendar year. On June 30, 1957, X Corporation distributes all its assets to Y Corporation in a complete liquidation to which section 381(a) applies. On November 30, 1957, Y Corporation transfers all its assets to Z Corporation in a statutory merger to which section 381(a) applies.

(ii) The 5-percent limitation (computed in the manner prescribed by section 170(b)(2)), the charitable contributions actually paid, and the excess contributions with respect to each such corporation during the taxable years involved are as follows:

Name of corporation Taxable year ending	X 6-31-57	X 6-30-57
5-percent limitation	$20,000	$20,000
Current contributions	32,000	14,000
(Excess contributions)	(12,000)	(6,000)
Name of corporation Taxable year ending	Y 6-30-58	Y 6-30-57	Y 11-30-57
5-percent limitation	$15,000	$18,000	$18,000
Current contributions	29,000	0	17,000
(Excess contributions)	(14,000)	-------	-------
Balance of 5-percent limitation	-------	10,000	1,000
Name of corporation Taxable year ending	Z 12-31-56	Z 12-31-57	Z 12-31-58
5-percent limitation	$10,000	$30,000	$58,000
Current contributions	40,000	28,000	2,000
(Excess contributions)	(30,000)	-------	-------
Balance of 5-percent limitation	-------	2,000	56,000

(iii) X Corporation was in existence for two taxable years, in each of which it made charitable contributions in excess of the maximum amount deductible for those years under section 170(b)(2). The excess contributions made in the year ending March 31, 1957, of $12,000, are deductible by X Corporation in its short taxable year ending June 30, 1957, and then by Y Corporation in its short taxable year ending November 30, 1957, in each instance in the manner and to the extent prescribed by section 170(b)(2) and this section. The excess contributions made by X Corporation in the year ending June 30, 1957, of $6,000, are deductible by Y Corporation in its short taxable year ending November 30, 1957, and then by Z Corporation in its taxable year 1958, in each instance in the manner and to the extent prescribed by section 170(b)(2) and this section.

(iv) Y Corporation was in existence for three taxable years. In the year ended June 30, 1956, its contributions in excess of the amount deductible for that year under section 170(b)(2) amounted to $14,000. Such excess is deductible by Y Corporation in its taxable ending June 30, 1957, and, together with X Corporation's excess contributions of $18,000, in its short taxable year ending November 30, 1957, in each instance in the manner and to the extent prescribed by section 170(b)(2) and this section. Accordingly, since Y Corporation made no contributions in its taxable year ending June 30, 1957, its deduction for that year on account of excess contributions carried over is $10,000, an amount equal to the 5-percent limitation of section 170(b)(2). The deduction is attributable to excess contributions made by Y Corporation in the taxable year ended June 30, 1956; thus, the excess of those contributions over $10,000, namely, $4,000, is deductible by Y Corporation in its short taxable year ending November 30, 1957, in the manner and to the extent prescribed by section 170(b)(2) and this section. With respect to the short taxable year ending November 30, 1957, the excess contributions of the second preceding year are X Corporation's excess contributions of $12,000 made in the year ending March 31, 1957, and Y Corporation's excess contributions of $4,000 made in the year ending June 30, 1956, which were not deductible by Y Corporation in the taxable year ending June 30, 1957, because of the 5-percent limitation prescribed by section 170(b)(2), an aggregate of $16,000. Inasmuch as Y Corporation's limitation for the short taxable year ended November 30, 1957, exceeds the contributions made in that year by $1,000, the excess contributions of the second preceding taxable year are deductible in the taxable year ending November 30, 1957, to the extent of $1,000 and the remainder ($15,000) is not deductible by any corporation in any taxable year. The excess contributions of the first preceding taxable year, namely, X Corporation's excess contributions made in the short taxable year ending June 30, 1957, are deductible by Z Corporation in its taxable year 1958, in the manner and to the extent prescribed in section 170(b)(2) and this section.

(v) Z Corporation has been in existence for 3 taxable years. The contributions made in 1956 in excess of the amount deductible for that year under section 170(b)(2) amounted to $30,000. Such excess is deductible by Z Corporation in its taxable year 1957 and, together with X Corporation's excess contributions of $6,000 (derived through Y Corporation) made in the taxable year ending June 30, 1957, in the taxable year 1958, in each instance in the manner and to the extent prescribed by section 170(b)(2) and this section. Thus, $2,000 of the $30,000 excess contributions made in the year 1956 are deducted in 1957 and the remainder ($28,000), together with X Corporation's excess contributions of $6,000 made in the short taxable year ending June 30, 1957, are deducted in 1958 since the aggregate of such amounts plus the contributions actually made in that year does not exceed the 5-percent limitation prescribed by section 170(b)(2).

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

[47 CFR Part 1]

[Docket No. 13864; FCC 60-1466]

APPLICATIONS FOR VOLUNTARY ASSIGNMENTS OR TRANSFERS OF CONTROL

Notice of Proposed Rule Making

1. Notice is hereby given of proposed rule making in the above-entitled matter.

2. Commission records show that for the calendar years 1957-1959 inclusive, there were filed with the Commission an average of approximately 555 voluntary applications per year seeking substantial changes in ownership of well over that number of broadcast facilities since many of the applications involved more than one facility (AM, FM or TV). For example, a detailed study was made of all such applications acted upon by the Commission in 1958. Standard broadcast stations were involved in 83 percent of the applications; FM stations in 9 percent; and TV stations in 8 percent. In approximately 10 percent of the applications, more than one station was involved. With respect to the length of time the seller had held its interest, it was determined that in 47 percent of the cases, the interest had been held over three years; in 35 percent it had been held between one and three years; in 11 percent it had been held for six to twelve months; and in 7 percent it had been held less than six months. Of those sellers holding their interests less than three years, 53 percent acquired their interests by purchase and 47 percent by the grant of new construction permits. Thirty-five percent of the transactions involved an all-cash purchase, while in 42 percent of the cases, less than 30 percent of the purchase price was to be in cash. In 4 percent of the cases, no cash consideration was involved (cases involving settlement of estates, exchanges of properties, the creation of trusts, etc.).

3. A supplemental survey was conducted of the 318 applications (involving substantial ownership changes as distinguished from pro forma cases) acted upon by the Commission during the period January 1–October 1, 1960. These applications involved 287 AM, 45 FM and 23 TV stations. The survey indicated that 75 applications called for all cash payments for the facility with the remaining applications involving installment payments over an extended period. In 67 of the applications, the facility had been held by the seller for less than one year, and an additional 129 for less than three years, whereas only 161 of the 355 facilities had been held by the seller for three years or more. In nearly 50 percent of the applications where the facilities had been held less than three years, the selling price indicated a substantial increase over the amount paid by the seller or expended by him in the construction of the station.

4. The frequent turnover of a large number of broadcast stations has been and is a matter of great concern to the Commission, and to the Congress (See House Report No. 2711, 85th Cong., 2d Sess., and House Report 1258, 86th Cong., 2d Sess.). Voluntary sales of stations which have been held by their owners for short periods of time raise questions as to whether they are engaged in trafficking in broadcast interests; and whether the resultant uncertainty on the part of station personnel and disruption in operational continuity cause programming deterioration incompatible with broadcasting in the public interest. Experience has shown that time is needed to adequately ascertain and fully understand the program needs and desires of a community, and to adjust programming requirements to such needs and interests.

5. The Commission considers that each application for acquisition of a construction permit or a license for a broadcast facility whether by initial grant or through purchase includes an implied (if not expressed) representation to the Commission that the applicant intends to operate the station involved for the full period authorized by the license.

6. In light of the above, the Commission is of the view that many of the questions raised may be resolved if persons acquiring stations by purchase or by original grant were required to operate them for a minimum of three years. The Commission appreciates that certain exceptions should be made to such a requirement and has included them in the attached proposed rule.

7. Pursuant to applicable procedures set out in § 1.213 of the Commission's rules, interested parties may file comments on or before January 16, 1961, and reply comments on or before January 26, 1961. All submissions by parties to this proceeding or by persons acting in behalf of such parties must be made in written comments, reply comments, or other appropriate pleadings.

8. In reaching its decision on the proposed rule, the Commission will not be limited to consideration of comments of record, but will take into account all relevant information obtained in any manner from informed sources.

9. In accordance with the provisions of § 1.54 of the rules, the Commission shall be furnished with an original and 14 copies of all written comments filed herein.

10. Authority for the adoption of the amendment proposed herein is contained in sections 4 (i) and (j), 303(r), 308(b), 309 and 310(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

Adopted: December 7, 1960.

Released: December 9, 1960.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION,[1]
[SEAL] BEN F. WAPLE,
Acting Secretary.

§ 1.365 Hearings on transfer and assignment applications.

(a) If, upon the examination, pursuant to sections 309(a) and 310(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, of an application for Commission consent to an assignment of a broadcast construction permit or license or for a transfer of control of a corporate permittee or licensee it appears that the station involved has been operated by the proposed assignor or transferor for less than three successive years and the Commission is unable to find that:

(1) The application involves a translator station only, or a FM station operated for at least three years together with a Subsidiary Communications Authorization held for a lesser period; or

(2) The application involves a pro forma assignment or transfer of controls; or

(3) The assignor or transferor has made an affirmative showing, based on probative evidence, to support his assertion that due to inadequacy of operating capital, to death or disability of station principals or of key management personnel, or to other changed circumstances affecting the licensee or permittee occurring subsequent to the acquisition of the license or permit, Commission consent to the proposed assignment or transfer of control will serve the public interest, convenience and necessity; the application will be designated for hearing on appropriate issues pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

(b) The commencement date of the three-year period set forth in paragraph (a)(1) of this section shall be determined as follows:

(1) Where the authorizations involved in the application consist of a license and a construction permit authorizing a major change in the facilities of the licensed station (as defined in §§ 1.354, 1.355 and 1.356), the three-year period shall commence with the date of the Commission's grant of the construction permit.

(2) Where the authorization involved in the application consists of a construction permit of an operating station, or a license issued subsequent to the issuance of initial operating authority, the three-year period shall commence with the date of issuance of initial operating authority.

(3) Where the operating station involved in the application was obtained by means of an assignment or transfer of control (other than pro forma), the three-year period shall commence with the date of grant by the Commission of the application for said assignment or transfer of control. If the station was put in operation after such assignment or transfer, subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph shall apply.

(4) Where an application is filed for Commission consent to a transfer of control of a corporation holding multiple licenses and/or construction permits, the commencement date applicable to the last-acquired station shall apply to all the stations involved in the transfer, except where the application involves a FM station operated for less than three years and an AM station operated for more than three years, both serving substantially the same area. Said exception shall apply to the same circumstances where assignment applications are involved.

[Docket No. 13897; FCC 60-1494]

MULTIPLE OWNERSHIP OF AM, FM, AND TV BROADCAST STATIONS

Notice of Proposed Rule Making

1. Notice is hereby given of proposed rule making in the above-entitled matter.

2. On November 25, 1953, the Commission adopted a Report and Order making certain changes in §§ 3.35, 3.240, and 3.636 of our rules, which relate to the multiple ownership of AM, FM, and television stations, respectively (Docket No. 8967, Report and Order released November 27, 1953, FCC 53-1570, 9 Pike & Fischer R.R. 1563). Up until that time, our multiple ownership rules had referred to stations "directly or indirectly owned, operated or controlled" by the same person (including persons under common control); the word "control" being defined in the rules as "not limited to majority stock ownership but including actual working control in whatever manner exercised".

3. Under the provisions of the 1953 revision, for the first time "interests" as such, whether majority or minority and whether or not amounting to actual control, were taken into account, so that one person (or persons under common control) cannot hold directly or indirectly interests in more than 7 AM, 7 FM, and 5 television stations (in 1954 the limit on TV stations was changed to 5 VHF and 2 UHF). In our Report and Order (par. 12) we concluded that minority interests should be included because the holder of only a small minority of stock (especially where he has numerous broadcast interests and therefore is active in the field) may often exercise a significant influence on the affairs of the licensee. However, it was recognized that in the case of large corporations with a great many holders of small percentages of outstanding voting stock, the influence of very small stockholders (who are not officers or directors) would normally be so small as not to be of significance in this area. Therefore, footnotes to each of the rules provide that in applying the provisions thereof "to the stockholders of a corporation which has more than 50 voting stockholders, only those stockholders need be considered who are officers or directors or who directly or indirectly own 1% or more of the outstanding voting stock." (Note 2 to §§ 3.35, 3.240, and 3.636.)

In adopting the one percent standard, the Commission rejected the argument that in the case of such large corporations interests of less than five percent of the outstanding voting stock should not be counted; it was concluded that a holder of one percent but less than five percent might have considerable voice in management. (Report and Order, par. 14.)

4. In January, 1955, Westinghouse Broadcasting Company, licensee of several radio and television stations, filed a "Petition for Reconsideration and Amendment of §§ 3.35, 3.240 and 3.636", purportedly in connection with Docket 8967, asking in substance that the respective footnotes to the rules be changed so as to state that in the case of corporations having fewer than 50 stockholders, an interest would not be counted unless the stockholder (other than an officer or director) owns directly or indirectly five percent or more of the outstanding voting stock. Westinghouse's particular interest in this matter arose from the fact that one of the directors of Westinghouse Electric Company, the parent of Westinghouse Broadcasting, owned 2.8 percent of the stock of a television station having 34 stockholders, and not otherwise connected with Westinghouse. To the extent that this interest is chargeable to a director of Westinghouse, it is chargeable to Westinghouse, and the existence of such an interest prevents a licensee in these circumstances from owning as many stations as are available to other licensees where the relatively inconsequential outside interests of an officer or director are not present. The Westinghouse "Petition" argues as follows:

The philosophy underlying the rule requiring that account be taken of interests as small as one percent in corporations having a large number of stockholders is that the owner of a relatively small percentage of outstanding voting stock may, because of failure of a significant number of stockholders to vote or otherwise express their views, exercise a voice in the control and management of the corporation out of proportion to the size of his stockholdings. The corollary of that reasoning is that a stock interest of that size in a corporation having a small number of stockholders (the majority or all of whom would be presumed to vote) would not be sufficient to support the presumption of control or "considerable voice".

Pointing out that under the rule the holder of even one share of the voting stock of a corporation having 49 stockholders is an "interest" within the meaning of the Rule as it now reads, Westinghouse argues that this is an "unintended and unsustainable result" and that in this respect the Rules fail to carry out the meaning and intent of the Report. Therefore, Westinghouse asks that the respective footnotes be changed so as to provide that in the case of corporations having 50 or fewer holders of voting stock, only holders of five percent or more of such stock (plus of course officers and directors) will be considered as having interests in the corporation within the meaning of these rules.

5. It appears that as a general proposition there is substantial merit in the argument asserted by Westinghouse, since in the case of a corporation with a relatively small number of stockholders it may be assumed, as a rule, that most of the stockholders are likely to exercise the voice in the conduct of corporate affairs to which their holdings entitle them. That being so, it seems improbable that the holder of only one or two percent of the corporate voting stock, having no other position in the corporate structure, would exercise the substantial role in the management of the corporation and its business which is the concern of our multiple ownership rules as revised in 1953.

6. Since the rules as they presently read require the inclusion as an "interest" of any voting stock holding in the case of a corporation with 50 or fewer stockholders, we believe that a change therein may be warranted, in line with the considerations set forth in the last paragraph above. The figure of 5 percent as a cutoff point appears to be satisfactory as a basis upon which to proceed. We also believe that there should be a further provisions in the footnote providing that where a stockholder has less than the percentage of voting stock mentioned in the rule (1 percent or 5 percent) but in fact has a substantial voice in the management of the corporation or its affairs, this interest should be taken into account for the purpose of the multiple ownership rules (the Westinghouse "Petition" proposes a provision essentially to the same effect).

7. Accordingly we propose to amend the multiple ownership rules, §§ 3.35, 3.240, and 3.636, by changing the pertinent notes thereto in these respects. Note 2 to §§ 3.35, 3.240 and 3.636 would read as follows:

In applying the foregoing provisions, a person who is not an officer or director of a corporation shall not be deemed to have an interest in or to be a stockholder of that corporation unless he: (1) Directly or indirectly owns 1 percent or more of the outstanding voting stock thereof if the corporation has more than 50 holders of voting stock; or (2) directly or indirectly owns 5 percent or more of the outstanding voting stock if the corporation has 50 or fewer holders of voting stock; or (3) owns any of the stock of the corporation whatsoever and in fact controls or has a substantial voice in the control or management of the corporation or its affairs.

8. The Commission is of the view that rule making proceedings should be instituted in this matter in order that all interested parties may submit their views.

9. Authority for the adoption of the amendments proposed herein is contained in sections 4(i), 303(f), and 303(r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

10. Pursuant to applicable procedures set out in §1.213 of the Commission rules, interested persons may file comments on or before January 16, 1961, and reply comments on or before January 31, 1961. In reaching its decision on the rules and standards of general applicability which are proposed herein, the Commission will not be limited to consideration of comments of record, but will take into account all relevant information obtained in any manner from informed sources.

11. In accordance with the provisions of §1.54 of the rules, the Commission shall be furnished with an original and 14 copies of all written comments filed herein.

Adopted: December 7, 1960.

ATOMIC ENERGY COMMISSION

[Docket No. PP-1]

ELK RIVER POWER DEMONSTRATION REACTOR PROGRAM PROJECT

Order Postponing and Setting New Date for Hearing

On December 9, 1960, the Atomic Energy Division of Allis Chalmers Manufacturing Company, together with the Rural Cooperative Power Association, filed a Motion for postponement of the hearing now scheduled for December 20, 1960, in the above entitled proceeding, on the ground that difficulties have arisen in the fabrication of the fuel elements contemplated for use in the proposed reactor facility, which will necessarily prevent a loading of fuel as originally scheduled. The movants further requested that this hearing be postponed until March 7, 1961. The Staff has consented to the postponement.

The Presiding Officer finds:

A. Good cause exists for a postponement of the hearing to March 7, 1961.

B. In addition to the public notice given of this notice of postponement, including its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, a subsequent notice should be issued at least 30 days prior to the hearing, designating the courtroom facilities available for this hearing.

The Presiding Officer orders:

A. The hearing in this proceeding, scheduled by the Commission to convene at 10:30 a.m. on December 20, 1960, in a courtroom to be assigned in the U.S. District Court, Saint Paul, Minnesota, is postponed.

B. The hearing in this proceeding shall convene on March 7, 1961, in either Saint Paul or Minneapolis, Minnesota.

C. A subsequent notice will be issued designating the courtroom space available for this hearing and will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER 30 days prior to the hearing scheduled for this proceeding.

Issued: December 9, 1960, Germantown, Md.

MOTOR CARRIER ALTERNATE ROUTE DEVIATION NOTICES

DECEMBER 9, 1960.

The following letter-notices of proposals to operate over deviation routes for operating convenience only with service at no intermediate points have been filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission, under the Commission's Deviation Rules Revised, 1957 (49 CFR 211.1(c)(8)) and notice thereof to all interested persons is hereby given as provided in such rules (49 CFR 211.1(d)(4)).

Protests against the use of any proposed deviation route herein described may be filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission in the manner and form provided in such rules (49 CFR 211.1(e)) at any time but will not operate to stay commencement of the proposed operations unless filed within 30 days from the date of publication.

Successively filed letter-notices of the same carrier under the Commission's Deviation Rules Revised, 1957, will be numbered consecutively for convenience in identification and protests if any should refer to such letter-notices by number.

MOTOR CARRIERS OF PROPERTY

No. MC 1658 (Deviation No. 2), NORWALK TRUCK LINES INC. OF DELAWARE, Manheim Pike, Lancaster, Pa., filed November 16, 1960. Carrier proposes to operate as a common carrier, by motor vehicle of general commodities, with certain exceptions, over a deviation route as follows: From Buffalo, N.Y., over the New York Thruway to junction U.S. Highway 20 near Ripley, N.Y., thence over U.S. Highway 20 to junction Interstate Highway 90, thence over Interstate Highway 90 to junction Ohio Highway 44, thence over Ohio Highway 44 to junction U.S. Highway 20, thence over U.S. Highway 20 to Cleveland, Ohio, and return over the same routes for operating convenience only, serving no intermediate points. The notice indicates that the carrier is presently authorized to transport the same commodities over a pertinent service route as follows: From Buffalo over New York Highway 5 to Batavia, N.Y., thence over New York Highway 63 to Wayland, N.Y., thence over U.S. Highway 15 to Painted Post, N.Y., thence over New York Highway 17 to junction U.S. Highway 20, thence over U.S. Highway 20 to Cleveland, Ohio, and return over the same route.

No. MC 43654 (Deviation No. 3) DIXIE OHIO EXPRESS INC., 237 Fountain Street, P.O. Box 750, Akron 9, Ohio, filed November 14, 1960. Carrier proposes to operate as a common carrier, by motor vehicle of general commodities, with certain exceptions, over a deviation route as follows: From Cleveland, Ohio over Temporary Interstate Highway 90 to its junction with Interstate Highway 90, thence over Interstate Highway 90 to the Pennsylvania-New York State line, and return over the same route, for operating convenience only, serving no intermediate points. The notice indicates that the carrier is presently authorized to transport the same commodities over a pertinent service route as follows: From Cleveland over U.S. Highway 21 to Akron, Ohio, thence over Ohio Highway 5 to junction Ohio Highway 7, thence over Ohio Highway 7 to Conneaut, Ohio, and thence over U.S. Highway 20 to the Pennsylvania-New York State line.

No. MC 104004 (Deviation No. 12), ASSOCIATED TRANSPORT INC., 380 Madison Avenue, New York 17, N.Y., filed November 25, 1960. Carrier proposes to operate as a common carrier, by motor vehicle of general commodities, with certain exceptions, over a deviation route as follows: From Cleveland, Ohio over U.S. Highway 42 to junction Ohio Highway 18; thence over Ohio Highway 18 to junction Interstate Highway 71, thence over Interstate Highway 71 to junction U.S. Highway 36, thence over U.S. Highway 36 to junction U.S. Highway 42, and return over the same route, for operating convenience only, serving no intermediate points. The notice indicates that the carrier is presently authorized to transport the same commodities between Cincinnati and Cleveland, Ohio, over U.S. Highway 42.

No. MC 104004 (Deviation No. 13), ASSOCIATED TRANSPORT INC., 380 Madison Avenue, New York 17, N.Y., filed December 2, 1960. Carrier proposes to operate as a common carrier, by motor vehicle of general commodities, with certain exceptions, over a deviation route as follows: From Lebanon, Tenn., over Tennessee Highway 26 to junction U.S. Highway 70-S, thence over U.S. Highway 70-S to Junction U.S. Highway 70-N near Crossville, Tenn., and return over the same route for operating convenience only, serving no intermediate points. The notice indicates that the carrier is presently authorized to transport the same commodities over a pertinent service route as follows: From Nashville over U.S. Highway 70-N to junction U.S. Highway 70-S, thence over U.S. Highway 70-S to Crossville, thence over U.S. Highway 70 to Knoxville, Tenn., and return over the same route.

MOTOR CARRIERS OF PASSENGERS

No. MC-1501 (Deviation No. 56), THE GREYHOUND CORPORATION, P.O. Box 2553, Charlestown 29, W. Va., filed November 25, 1960. Carrier proposes to operate as a common carrier, by motor vehicle of passengers, over a deviation route as follows: From a point near Suwanee, Ga., over unnumbered highway for a distance of approximately 2 miles to Junction Interstate Highway 85, thence over Interstate Highway 85 to Atlanta, Ga., and return over the same route, for operating convenience only, serving no intermediate points. The notice indicates that the carrier is presently authorized to transport passengers over a pertinent service route as follows: From Suwanee over U.S. Highway 23 to Atlanta and return over the same route. This notice supersedes Deviation No. 5 filed by the same carrier. Carrier requests cancellation of Deviation Notice No. 5 (between Duluth and Atlanta, Ga.), filed by Atlantic Greyhound Corporation on May 14, 1959.

TARIFF COMMISSION

BINDING TWINES (BINDER AND BALER TWINES)

"Escape Clause" Report

DECEMBER 9, 1960.

The Tariff Commission today submitted a report to the President in connection with "escape clause" investigation No. 7-90, conducted under section 7 of the Trade Agreements Extension Act of 1951, as amended. This investigation covered binding twines (binder and baler twines), which are free of duty under paragraph 1622 of the Tariff Act of 1930. The duty-free status of such twines was bound in the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT).

The four members of the Tariff Commission who participated in the investigation to its conclusion divided two to two in their findings. Commissioners Schreiber and Sutton found that binding twines are being imported into the United States in such increased quantities, both actual and relative (to domestic production), as to cause serious injury to the domestic industry producing like or directly competitive products. They also found that in order to remedy the serious injury it is necessary to impose a duty of 30 percent ad valorem on such twines.

Commissioners Talbot and Jones found that binding twines are not being imported into the United States in such increased quantities, either actual or relative (to domestic production), as to cause or threaten serious injury to the domestic industry producing like or directly competitive products. They therefore made no recommendation to the President for the modification or withdrawal of the concession applicable to such twines.

Under the law the President may adopt the findings of either group of Commissioners. This is the first escape-clause case involving a recommendation for escape-clause action on a duty-free item. An amendment in the Trade Agreements Extension Act of 1958 authorized the President to impose a duty up to 50 percent ad valorem on a free-list item.

Copies of the Commission's report are available as long as the limited supply lasts. Address requests to the U.S. Tariff Commission, Eighth and E Streets NW., Washington 25, D.C.

HARD-FIBER CORDS AND TWINES (EXCEPT BINDING TWINES)

"Escape Clause" Report

DECEMBER 9, 1960.

The Tariff Commission today submitted a report to the President in connection with "escape clause" investigation No. 7-91 under section 7 of the Trade Agreements Extension Act of 1951, as amended. This investigation covered hard-fiber cords and twines dutiable at 15 percent ad valorem under paragraph 1005(b) of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended. These twines were originally dutiable at 40 percent ad valorem and the present rate is in effect pursuant to concessions granted in the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT).

The four members of the Tariff Commission who participated in the investigation to its conclusion divided two to two in their findings. Commissioners Schreiber and Sutton found that hard-fiber cords and twines provided for in paragraph 1005(b) are being imported into the United States in such increased quantities, both actual and relative (to domestic production), as to cause serious injury to the domestic industry producing like or directly competitive products. They also found that in order to remedy the serious injury, it is necessary to increase the duty on such twines from 15 percent to 30 percent ad valorem.

Commissioners Talbot and Jones found found that hard-fiber cords and twines are not being imported into the United States in such increased quantities, either actual or relative (to domestic production), as to cause or threaten serious injury to the domestic industry producing like or directly competitive products. These Commissioners, therefore, made no recommendation to the President for the modification or withdrawal of the concession applicable to such twines.

Under the law the President may adopt the findings of either group of Commissioners.

Copies of the Commission's report are available as long as the limited supply lasts. Address requests to the U.S. Tariff Commission, Eighth and E Streets NW., Washington 25, D.C.

SPRING CLOTHESPINS

Reports to the President

DECEMBER 9, 1960.

The Tariff Commission today submitted to the President its second periodic report on the developments in the trade in spring clothespins since the "escape clause" action, on December 10, 1957, withdrawing the concession thereon granted in the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. This report is made pursuant to paragraph 1 of Executive Order 10401 of October 14, 1952, which order prescribes procedures for the periodic review of escape-clause actions. Such review is limited to the determination of whether a concession that has been modified or withdrawn can be restored in whole or in part without causing or threatening serious injury to the domestic industry concerned. In submitting its report to the President under paragraph 1 of Executive Order 10401 with respect to spring clothespins the Commission advised the President that the conditions of competition between imported and domestic spring clothespins had not so changed as to warrant the institution of a formal investigation under the provisions of paragraph 2 of Executive Order 10401. This means that, in the Commission's view, the developments in the trade in spring clothespins do not warrant a formal inquiry into the question of whether a reduction in the duty on spring clothespins could be made without resulting in serious injury to the domestic industry concerned.

Copies of the Commission's report are available as long as the limited supply lasts. Address requests to the U.S. Tariff Commission, Eighth and E Streets NW., Washington 25, D.C.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

Office of the Secretary

NONCOMPETITIVE OIL AND GAS LEASES

Establishment of New Rental Rate

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to Public Law 86-705, approved September 2, 1960, the annual rental for noncompetitive oil and gas leases issued under the Act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437, 30 U.S.C., sec. 181), as amended, will be 50 cents per acre or fraction of an acre. If it is determined that the lands are wholly or partly within the known structure of a producing oil or gas field the annual rental shall be $2 per acre or fraction of an acre beginning with the first lease year after 30 days notice.

Pending the approval of new regulations and the printing of new lease forms, the issuance of leases suspended since September 2, 1960, may be resumed provided the applicants agree to a revision in the terms of the lease form to provide for annual rental payments as specified above and such other revisions as are necessary to comply with Public Law 86-705.

Title 14—AERONAUTICS AND SPACE

Chapter I—Federal Aviation Agency

[Regulatory Docket No. 599; Amdt. 41-35]

PART 41—CERTIFICATION AND OPERATION RULES FOR SCHEDULED AIR CARRIER OPERATIONS OUTSIDE THE CONTINENTAL LIMITS OF THE UNITED STATES

Aircraft Dispatcher; Qualification for Route

Section 41.86 of the Civil Air Regulations states in part that "Each dispatcher within 6 months immediately preceding his qualification for a route, or part thereof, shall have made at least one trip over the route on which he is to serve prior to dispatching any aircraft." Section 41.88 states that "After 24 consecutive months of absence from dispatching duty over a route or part thereof, a dispatcher will no longer be considered qualified to dispatch aircraft over such route." Section 41.93 states in part that "Flights shall be started only on the authority of an aircraft dispatcher qualified for the route."

While these requirements were appropriate in the days when aircraft were dispatched from point to point along a single route involving relatively short distances, the changing nature of international scheduled air carrier operations has indicated a need to amend these requirements accordingly. The advent of modern aircraft has resulted in long nonstop flights traversing several dispatch areas. A literal interpretation of §§ 41.86, 41.88, and 41.93 would, today, require each dispatcher who initially dispatches a long nonstop flight to be qualified over the entire route of the flight, even though the flight proceeds far beyond the limits of his area of responsibility, and into and through areas for which other dispatchers exercise responsibility. This would require the air carriers to qualify, by actual flight, many of these dispatchers over routes and portions of routes far removed from the geographic areas for which they have dispatch responsibility. Such qualification flights would impose an undue burden on the air carriers which is not required in the interest of safety. The joint dispatch of these flights by dispatchers, each of whom is qualified for the portion of the route within his assigned area of dispatch responsibility, is operationally feasible and consistent with safety requirements.

An overall revision of Part 41 of the Civil Air Regulations is in the process of being prepared as a notice of proposed rule making. This proposed revision will cover the entire subject of dispatcher qualification and dispatch procedures. However, as it will be several months before a revised Part 41 can become effective, immediate regulatory action to relax the dispatcher qualification requirements in the case of joint dispatch procedures is necessary.

As this amendment imposes no burden upon any person, but provides relief from present requirements, compliance with the notice and public procedure provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act is not required, and it may be made effective immediately.

In consideration of the foregoing, Part 41 of the Civil Air Regulations (14 CFR Part 41, as amended) is hereby amended as follows, effective December 8, 1960.

1. By amending § 41.86 by inserting in the introductory paragraph between the words "route" and "on" and by inserting in the introductory statement of paragraph (c) between the words "route," and "the" the following: ", or part thereof,".

2. By amending § 41.88 by adding at the end thereof the following: ", or part thereof."

3. By amending § 41.93 by adding at the end of the first sentence the following proviso: "Provided, That where an aircraft dispatcher is qualified only on a portion of the route, he may dispatch the flight, but only after coordinating with dispatchers who are qualified for the other portions of the route between the points to be served."

Chapter II—Civil Aeronautics Board

SUBCHAPTER A—ECONOMIC REGULATIONS

[Regulation No. ER-318]

PART 243—FILING OF REPORTS BY ALASKAN AIR CARRIERS

Repeal of Part

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D.C., on the 9th day of December 1960.

At the time the Board adopted Part 293 of the Economic Regulations, entitled Classification and Exemption of Alaskan Air Taxi Operators, it also imposed certain reporting requirements on those operators in revised § 243.3 (Regulation No. ER-245, 24 F.R. 95). The Board has decided to repeal Part 293, as explained in the preamble to the revision of Part 298 issued concurrently herewith (Reg. No. ER-317) and incorporated herein by reference. Consequently, § 243.3 and certain other provisions of Part 243 which are ancillary thereto must also be repealed.

This rule making action is based on the Notice of Proposed Rule Making, EDR-20, of November 2, 1960, 25 F.R. 10575, in which repeal of Part 293 was proposed. Interested persons thus have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this amendment and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter submitted.

It further appears that §§ 243.1 and 243.2 have become obsolete since there are no air carriers to which the reporting requirements of these sections are applicable. It follows that Part 243 should at this time be repealed in its entirety.

For the reasons stated in the referenced preamble to revised Part 298, this amendment will be made effective less than 30 days after publication.

In consideration of the foregoing, the Civil Aeronautics Board hereby repeals Part 243 of its Economic Regulations, 14 CFR Part 243, effective January 1, 1961.

PART 293—CLASSIFICATION AND EXEMPTION OF ALASKAN AIR TAXI OPERATORS

Repeal of Part

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D.C., on the 9th day of December 1960.

Part 293 of the Board's Economic Regulations contains the exemption and regulations applicable to air taxi operators in Alaska. It was promulgated at a time when Alaska was a Territory, and consequently applied to and regulated all operations of Alaskan air taxi operators, including intra-Alaskan operations.

Alaska became a State on January 3, 1959, and, through the Alaska Air Commerce Act of 1960, will assume regulation of intra-Alaskan transportation by air on January 1, 1961. Consequently, pursuant to section 8(d) of the Alaska Statehood Act, the Board's jurisdiction to regulate intra-Alaskan transportation by air will terminate at that time.

A revision of Part 298 of the Economic Regulations is being adopted concurrently herewith, Reg. No. ER-317. As explained in the preamble thereto, which in pertinent part is incorporated herein by reference, the Board has decided to repeal Part 293 and to extend Part 298, with suitable modifications, to air taxi operations in Alaska beginning January 1, 1961.

This rule making action is based on the notice of proposed rule making, EDR-20, of November 2, 1960, 25 F.R. 10575, in which repeal of Part 293 was proposed. Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this rule, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter submitted. For the reasons stated in the referenced preamble to Part 298, this amendment will be made effective less than 30 days after publication.

In consideration of the foregoing, the Civil Aeronautics Board hereby repeals Part 293 of its Economic Regulations, 14 CFR Part 293, effective January 1, 1961.

(Sec. 204(a), 72 Stat. 743; 49 U.S.C. 1324. Interpret or apply sec. 416, 72 Stat. 771; 49 U.S.C. 1386)

PART 298—CLASSIFICATION AND EXEMPTION OF AIR TAXI OPERATORS

Revision

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D.C., on the 9th day of December 1960.

Part 298 of the Board's Economic Regulations, as amended, grants a blanket authorization for the operations of air taxi operators, as defined therein, in all areas of the United States except Alaska. On September 21, 1960, the Board issued a notice of rule making, EDR-13A, Docket 11285, 25 F.R. 9183, in which it proposed to grant operating authority to the air taxi operators for another five years and to reissue the licensing regulation with certain amendments. On November 2, 1960, the Board issued a further notice of rule making, EDR-20, Docket 11886, 25 F.R. 10575, in which it proposed to repeal Part 293 of the Regulations—Classification and Exemption of Alaskan Air Taxi Operators—and to bring those operators under the coverage of revised Part 298. Comments on these notices have been received from air taxi operators, as well as from certificated route air carriers.

The Board concludes that revised Part 298 should be adopted as proposed in the notices except for the modifications hereafter discussed and some editorial changes.

Several air taxi operators and one trade association submitted comments opposing the adoption of § 298.3(a)(1), which prohibits air taxi operators from utilizing aircraft having a maximum take-off weight of more than 12,500 pounds in non-air transportation services. In support of their position they contend that air taxi operators must operate other aviation businesses in order to survive and that the rule appears to be an attempt by the Board to regulate non-air transportation services for which it has no statutory authority.

Without deciding the question of legal authority, the Board has decided to modify its proposal with respect to the operation of large aircraft in "air transportation" by taxi operators. New § 298.22 of the regulation will require all air taxi operators to report any interest they may own in large aircraft or enterprises operating large aircraft; to report subsequent acquisition of such interests; and to report to the Board their method of operations with large aircraft, giving all pertinent particulars and stating why it is believed that the operation is not in "air transportation." Willful violations of this rule would, of course, be ground for revocation of the carrier's air taxi operator authorization, § 298.30.

Comments were also received concerning the adoption of § 298.21(b)(3) which prohibits air taxi operators from providing regularly scheduled air taxi service in competition with "community center and interairport service." One comment suggested that "community center and interairport service" should more clearly be defined for the reason that in time this term might be interpreted to mean airports 50 miles or more apart which, if so interpreted, could be detrimental to air taxi operators. Other comments were received which were concerned with the expansion of "interairport and community center service" into markets which have been developed by air taxi operators.

The Board, in the past, has clearly stated its position that helicopter service, authorized by the Board, must be protected from undue competition from air taxi operators. In accordance with this position the Board has prohibited air taxi operators from competing with helicopter service authorized by the Board. In 1960, the Board redefined the type of service that New York Airways, Inc., a certificated helicopter operator, may provide from "helicopter service" to "community center service and interairport service."[1] This change only means that New York Airways will be permitted to operate, in addition to helicopters, newly developed aircraft, which have the capability of vertical (VTOL) or near vertical (STOL) ascent and descent, when they become available. Such aircraft could be used in place of, or supplemental to, service now provided by helicopters. Thus, the pre-existing protection from regular air taxi operations has been extended to operations with such aircraft. This provision does not restrict air taxi operators in markets where there is no Board-authorized helicopter or community center and interairport service, and therefore does not change the substance of the existing rule. Section 298.21(d) has been amended to express the same principle.

A certificated air carrier requested that § 298.21(b)(4) be clarified to the effect that prohibition against regular service paralleling scheduled certificated service with small aircraft is not restricted to situations where certificated service is provided solely by small aircraft, but that it applies to situations where some of the certificated service is provided with such aircraft. Section 298.21(b)(4) of the draft release prohibited irregular air taxi operations "between any points where (a certificated route air carrier) provides such transportation with aircraft having a maximum take-off weight of 12,500 pounds or less." In response to these comments, the Board has decided to modify this provision to make it applicable where certificated air carriers, operating small aircraft in scheduled service, provide daily scheduled service with small aircraft. Thus, the limitation will apply even where not all the daily certificated service is provided with small aircraft. On the other hand, this modification will prevent a token scheduling of flights with small aircraft by certificated air carriers as a means of preventing taxi operators from providing regular service.

In addition to the comments concerning the specific proposals in the notice, a number of comments were received urging the Board to amend other rules contained in Part 298. Thus, comments were received urging the Board to amend § 298.2(e) (now (f)) by deleting the 3-mile and 25-mile radius provision; to amend § 298.3(a)(1) by increasing the maximum take-off weight of the aircraft used in air taxi service; and to amend § 298.21(b) to prohibit air taxi operators from rendering regular service along the routes of local service carriers.

The Board rejects all three of these proposals for the reason that none of the comments contained sufficient economic data or information which would justify Board consideration of such proposals at this time.

Some Alaskan air carriers advert to the provisions of section 7(4)(b) of the Alaska Air Commerce Act of 1960 which incorporate certain provisions of Part 293 of the Board's Regulations,[2] and express concern lest the Board's proposed action of repealing Part 293 eliminate the 7,900 pounds weight limitation east of 138° West Longitude which the Alaska Air Commerce Act contemplates. Under general principles, amendment or repeal by the Board of regulations incorporated in the Alaska Air Commerce Act of 1960 cannot have any effect on Alaskan law. The Alaska Legislature obviously did not intend either to curtail the Board's freedom of changing its regulations or to subject Alaskan law to changes beyond its control whenever the Board changes its regulations. It appears clear under the Alaska Air Commerce Act that the Legislature intended to incorporate provisions of Part 293 as they were in force at the time of adoption of the Act, and indeed the Act carefully refers to "Part 293 of the Economic Regulations of the Federal Civil Aeronautics Board, adopted December 30, 1958, and made effective February 3, 1959" (sec. 7(4)(b)). Hence no subsequent change in Part 293 which the Board may make can affect the continuing effectiveness as Alaskan law of those provisions thereof which have been incorporated in the Alaska Air Commerce Act. Significantly, the proposed repeal of Part 293 was not protested by any agency of the State of Alaska.

[1] New York Airways Renewal Case, Docket 8569, Orders E-15021 and E-15022, March 17, 1960.

[2] Sections 1, 2, 3 and 17(a) of Part 293 are incorporated and the definition in 293.1 (e) is adopted.

The suggestion that the Board continue the requirement for individual letters of registration for Alaskan taxi operators is rejected since no sufficient showing has been made why these taxi operators should be treated differently from all others now that the Board's powers in Alaska will be the same as in all other States. The Board also rejects the suggestion to extend Part 298 indefinitely on the ground that continually changing circumstances appear to require periodic re-examination and re-evaluation of the blanket exemption granted air taxi operators in the public interest. A suggestion that the air safety regulations for Alaskan air taxi operators be amended should be addressed to the Administrator of the Federal Aviation Agency since the Board lacks jurisdiction to entertain it.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this rule and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

In view of the foregoing, the Board finds that extension of operating authority to the air taxi operators, subject to the changes made herein, for another five years is in the public interest. The Board reaffirms and incorporates herein the findings supporting its exercise of the exemption power in this respect made at the time of adoption of Part 293 and of Part 298 in its original form and when it was continued in effect.

Since the present license of these air carriers (except in Alaska) expires by its own terms on January 1, 1961, the new license provided by the instant revision of this Part must be effective not later than January 1, 1961, since otherwise a hiatus in the operations of these carriers would result which would work a great hardship on them as well as the public. Furthermore, since under section 8(d) of the Alaska Statehood Act, 72 Stat. 344, the Board's jurisdiction to regulate intra-Alaskan transportation by air expires upon the State of Alaska taking over this function, this regulatory action of the Board should be made effective concurrently with such action by the State. The Alaska Air Commerce Act of 1960 under which the State assumes regulation of the intra-Alaskan operations of air taxi operators, provides in section 27 that it "shall take effect on January 1, 1961." Consequently, there is good cause for making this regulation effective on less than 30 days' notice after publication thereof.

Accordingly, the Board hereby adopts and promulgates revised Part 298 of its Economic Regulations, 14 CFR Part 298, effective January 1, 1961, as stated below, terminating the rule-making proceedings, Dockets 11285 and 11886, as of the same date.

AUTHORITY: §§ 298.1 to 298.30 issued under sec. 204(a), 72 Stat. 743. Interpret or apply secs. 411, 416, 72 Stat. 769, 771; 49 U.S.C. 1381, 1386.

Subpart A—General

§ 298.1 Applicability of part.

This part establishes a classification of air carriers known as "air taxi operators," provides certain exemptions from Title IV of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958, as amended, for such air carriers, and establishes rules and regulations applicable to their operations. This part applies to operations of air taxi operators in air transportation in all States, Territories and possessions of the United States of America.

§ 298.2 Definitions.

As used in this part:

(a) "Act" means the Federal Aviation Act of 1958, as amended.

(b) "Air taxi operator" means an air carrier coming within the classification of "air taxi operators" established by § 298.3.

(c) "Air transportation" means interstate, overseas, or foreign air transportation or the transportation of mail by aircraft. This includes carriage by aircraft as a common carrier between places in the same State (1) through airspace outside that State (over other States or the District of Columbia or the open sea or foreign territory) or (2) where such carriage is part of the movement of the passengers or property carried, in interstate, overseas or foreign air commerce.[1]

(d) "Large aircraft" means an aircraft whose maximum certificated take-off weight is greater than 12,500 pounds.

(e) "Maximum certificated take-off weight" means the maximum take-off weight authorized by the terms of the aircraft airworthiness certificate. (This is found in the airplane operating record or in the airplane flight manual which is incorporated by regulation into the airworthiness certificate.)

(f) "Point" when used in connection with any territory or possession of the United States, or the States of Alaska and Hawaii, means any airport or place where aircraft may be landed or taken off, including the area within a 25-mile radius of such airport or place; when used in connection with the Continental United States, except Alaska, it shall have the same meaning except be limited to the area within a 3-mile radius of such airport or place.

§ 298.3 Classification.

(a) There is hereby established a classification of air carriers, designated "air taxi operators" which engage in the direct air transportation of passengers and/or property and which:

(1) Do not utilize aircraft having a maximum take-off weight of more than 12,500 pounds in air transportation.

(2) Do not hold a certificate of public convenience and necessity or other economic authority issued by the Board.

(b) A person who does not observe the conditions set forth in paragraph (a) of this section shall not be an air taxi operator within the meaning of this part with respect to any operations conducted by him while such conditions are not being observed, and during such periods is not entitled to any of the exemptions set forth in this part.

§ 298.4 Requests for statement of authority.

In any instance where an air taxi operator is required by a foreign government to produce evidence of its authority to engage in foreign air transportation under the laws of the United States, the Secretary of the Board will, upon request, furnish the carrier with a written statement, outlining its general operating privileges under this part for presentation to the proper authorities of the foreign government.

§ 298.5 Separability.

If any provision of this part or the application thereof to any air transportation, person, class of persons, or circumstances is held invalid, the remainder of the part and the application of such provision to other air transportation, persons, classes of persons, or circumstances shall not be affected thereby.

Subpart B—Exemptions

§ 298.11 Exemption authority.

Air taxi operators are exempt from the following provisions of Title IV of the Act:

(a) Subsection 401(a);

(b) Section 403;

(c) All provisions in subsection 404(a) except the requirement that air taxi operators shall provide safe service, equipment, and facilities in connection with air transportation;

(d) Subsection 404(b);

(e) Subsection 405(b);

(f) Subsections 407 (b), (c), and (d);

(g) Subsection 408(a); except that no exemption is granted hereby for any air taxi operator to enter into any of the transactions or relationships prohibited by subsection 408(a) with any person (excluding air carriers) who operates for compensation or hire, aircraft having a maximum take-off weight of more than 12,500 pounds.

[1] Section 401(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958, 49 U.S.C. 1371, prohibits any person from engaging in "air transportation" except to the extent he is authorized to do so by the Board.

(h) Subsection 409(a); except that no exemption is granted hereby for any air taxi operator to enter into any of the relationships prohibited by subsection 409(a) with any person (excluding air carriers) who operates for compensation or hire, aircraft having a maximum take-off weight of more than 12,500 pounds.

(i) Subsection 412(a): Provided, That air taxi operators shall not be relieved from filing with the Board a true copy, or, if oral, a true and complete memorandum of every contract or agreement (whether enforceable by provisions of liquidated damages, penalties, bonds or otherwise) affecting air transportation, between any air taxi operator and any person (excluding air carriers) who operates for compensation or hire, aircraft having a maximum take-off weight of more than 12,500 pounds.

§ 298.12 Effect of exemption on anti-trust laws.

The exemption granted in § 298.11 from sections 408, 409(a), and 412 of the Act shall not constitute an order under such sections, within the meaning of section 414 of the Act, and shall not confer any immunity or relief from operation of the "anti-trust laws," or any other statute (except the Federal Aviation Act of 1958, as amended) with respect to any transaction, interlocking relationship, or agreement otherwise within the purview of such sections.

§ 298.13 Duration of exemption.

The exemption from any provision of Title IV of the Act provided by § 298.11 shall continue in effect only until such time as the Board shall find that enforcement of such provision would be in the public interest or would no longer be a burden on air taxi operators: Provided, That upon such a finding as to any air taxi operator or class of air taxi operators, such exemption shall to that extent terminate with respect to such operator or class of operators: And provided further, That unless otherwise ordered by the Board the temporary exemption granted by § 298.11 shall terminate five years from the effective date of this reissued part.

Subpart C—Limitations on Exemptions

§ 298.21 Scope of service authorized.

(a) General scope. The exemption authority provided to air taxi operators by this part shall extend to the direct air transportation of persons and property in aircraft having a maximum take-off weight of 12,500 pounds or less, except as prohibited by paragraphs (b), (c) and (d) of this section.

(b) General limitations. An air taxi operator is prohibited from providing air transportation, or holding out to the public expressly or by course of conduct, that it provides such transportation regularly or with a reasonable degree of regularity (1) within territories or possessions of the United States, (2) within the State of Hawaii, (3) between any points where scheduled helicopter passenger service, or community center and interairport service, is provided by the holder of a certificate of public convenience and necessity either in accordance with such certificate or pursuant to exemption order of the Board, and (4) between any points where an air carrier certificated by the Board to provide unlimited route-type air transportation of persons, property, and mail provides scheduled daily transportation with aircraft having a maximum take-off weight of 12,500 pounds or less.

(c) Air taxi service in Alaska. No service in air transportation shall be offered or performed by an air taxi operator between points both of which are in the State of Alaska, or one of which is in Alaska and the other in Canada, unless the air taxi operator also holds authority from the State of Alaska to operate aircraft of a maximum take-off weight not over 12,500 pounds as a common carrier in intrastate commerce, or has applied to the Board for, and received, special exemption authority (see Subpart D of Part 302 of the Procedural Regulations): Provided, That the operator is prohibited from rendering the above authorized service in air transportation, or holding out to the public expressly or by course of conduct that it renders such service, regularly or with a reasonable degree of regularity. Air taxi operators may also transport over postal routes Nos. 78150 and 78151 or such other designation as may be assigned thereto, and over postal routes designated by the Postmaster General as "gratuitous routes", such mail as may be tendered by the Postmaster of Alaska for transportation over such routes: Provided, That the foregoing restrictions on frequency of service in air transportation shall not apply to the carriage of such mail.

(d) Special limitation. No service by helicopter, STOL or VTOL aircraft shall be offered or performed by an air taxi operator between any two points between which scheduled helicopter, STOL or VTOL aircraft service is provided by the holder of a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing such service.

NOTE: Service shall be deemed to be regular within the meaning of this section unless it is of such infrequency as to preclude an implication of uniform pattern or normal consistency of operations between, or within, such designated points.

§ 298.22 Operation of large aircraft.

(a) Prohibition of operation of large aircraft in air transportation. Nothing in this part shall be construed as authorizing the operation of aircraft having a maximum take-off weight of more than 12,500 pounds by air taxi operators in air transportation.

(b) Reporting of interest in large aircraft. Every air taxi operator shall report to the Board any proprietary interest, direct or indirect, in any large aircraft or any enterprise operating large aircraft. Such reports shall be filed in duplicate within 30 days of the effective date of this part and thereafter within 5 days of acquisition of such interests. They shall be addressed to the Civil Aeronautics Board, Washington 25, D.C., attention of the Chief, Special Authorities Division, Bureau of Air Operations.

(c) Reporting of operations with large aircraft. Any air taxi operator which operates or intends to operate large aircraft for compensation or hire shall file with the Board a description of the method or proposed method of operations and state why such operations are believed not to constitute air transportation. Such reports shall state, among other pertinent matters, whether State lines or the boundaries of the United States will be crossed; the ultimate origin and destination (not only the places between which carriage is provided) of the persons or property carried; and the persons with whom contracts for transportation have been made or are expected to be made. In case operations not falling within the description on file with the Board are to be undertaken, a report containing the same data shall be filed within three days after the particulars of such operations have been decided upon. These reports shall be submitted in duplicate, by air mail if mailed more than 200 miles from Washington, D.C., addressed to the Civil Aeronautics Board, attention of the Chief, Special Authorities Division, Bureau of Air Operations.

§ 298.23 Business name of air taxi operator.

(a) It shall be an express condition upon the exercise of the privileges herein granted and the operating authorizations issued hereunder, that any air taxi operator, in holding out to the public and in performing air transportation services, shall do so only in a name or names in which its air carrier operating certificate is issued pursuant to section 604 of the Act by the Administrator of the Federal Aviation Agency: Provided, That the Board may require an air taxi operator to change such name or names where they appear contrary to the public interest.

(b) Slogans shall not be considered names for the purposes of this section, and their use is not restricted hereby.

(c) Neither the provisions of this section nor the grant of a permission hereunder shall be deemed to constitute a finding for purposes other than for this section, or to effect a waiver of, or exemption from any provisions of the Act, or orders, rules or regulations issued thereunder.

Subpart D—Violations

§ 298.30 Enforcement.

In case of any violation of the provisions of the Act, or this part, or any other rule, regulation, or order issued under the Act, the violator may be subject to a proceeding pursuant to sections 1002 and 1007 of the Act before the Board or a United States District Court, as the case may be, to compel compliance therewith, or, in the case of a willful violation, to criminal penalties pursuant to the provisions of section 902(a) of the Act; or other lawful sanctions including revocation of operating authority.

By the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Title 17—COMMODITY AND SECURITIES EXCHANGES

Chapter II—Securities and Exchange Commission

PART 230—GENERAL RULES AND REGULATIONS, SECURITIES ACT OF 1933

Adoption of Revised Exemption for First Lien Notes and an Exemption for Securities of Cooperative Housing Corporations

The Securities and Exchange Commission has adopted a new rule, designated § 230.234 (Rule 234), which provides a revised exemption from registration under the Securities Act of 1933 for certain notes secured by a first lien on real estate. The new rule supersedes §§ 230.230–230.233 (Regulation A–R; Rules 230–233) which has been rescinded.

The new rule makes clear what has been the Commission's long standing interpretation, that the exemption is available only for notes directly secured by a first lien on real estate, and hence is unavailable for collateral trust notes or participations in an underlying note, even though such underlying note is secured by a first lien on real estate, or for investment contracts involved in the offering of first lien notes. The new rule also provides that the amount of first lien indebtedness for which an exemption is available shall not exceed 75 percent of the appraised value of the property securing the notes. This is a liberalization of the previous requirement that all indebtedness against the property, whether secured by senior or junior liens, shall not exceed 75 percent of the appraised value of the property.

The Commission has also adopted a new rule, designated § 230.235 (Rule 235), which provides an exemption from registration under the Act for securities of certain cooperative housing corporations. This rule provides an exemption for stock or other securities representing membership in a cooperative housing corporation where the securities are issued only in connection with the sale or lease of dwelling units in the housing project and are transferable by the purchaser only in connection with the transfer of such dwelling units.

The text of the new rules, which were adopted pursuant to sections 3(b) and 19(a) of the Securities Act of 1933, follows:

§ 230.234 Exemption of first lien notes.

(a) Promissory notes directly secured by a first lien on a single parcel of real estate upon which is located a dwelling or other residential or commercial property shall be exempt from registration under the Act if such notes are offered in accordance with the following terms and conditions:

(1) Neither the aggregate unpaid principal amount of the notes secured by the lien on the property nor the aggregate amount at which such notes are offered to the public shall exceed $100,000;

(2) The aggregate unpaid principal amount of all indebtedness secured by the first lien on the property shall not exceed 75 percent of the appraised value of such property;

(3) The principal amount of each note to be offered under this regulation shall not be less than $500, and the total number of notes secured by the first lien on the property shall not exceed 125; and

(4) The notes shall be sold for cash or purchasers' obligations to pay cash within 60 days after sale.

(b) Interests or participations in, or promissory notes secured by a lien upon, another note or notes which are in turn secured by a first lien upon real estate shall not be deemed to be directly secured by a first lien on real estate within the meaning of this section.

(c) No exemption shall be available under this section for any investment contract or other security the offering of which is involved in the offering of the notes directly secured by a first lien upon real estate.

§ 230.235 Exemption of securities of cooperative housing corporations.

(a) Stock or other securities representing membership in any cooperative housing corporation shall be exempt from registration under the Act if the terms and conditions of this section are met. The term "cooperative housing corporation" as used herein means a corporation each of whose members is entitled, solely by reason of his membership in such corporation:

(1) To occupy for dwelling purposes a house, or an apartment in a building, owned or leased or to be owned or leased, by such corporation; or

(2) To purchase a dwelling constructed or to be constructed by such corporation.

(b) Such corporation shall not be or intend to be engaged in any business or activity other than the ownership, leasing, management or construction of residential properties for its members, except to the extent that such business or activity is incidental to the ownership, leasing, management or construction of such residential properties.

(c) The securities shall be issued only in connection with the sale or lease of dwelling units to persons who are or thereupon become members of the corporation and shall be transferable by the purchasers only in connection with the transfer of such dwelling units or leases to other persons who are thereupon become such members.

(d) The aggregate offering price of all securities of the corporation offered pursuant to this rule during any twelve-month period shall not exceed $300,000 including any unsold securities initially offered prior to the beginning of such period.

(e) The aggregate offering price of securities offered pursuant to this section shall be computed upon the basis of the price at which the securities are to be sold to members or, if such price is not separately specified, upon the basis of the par or stated value of the securities to be offered.

(Sec. 19, 48 Stat. 85, as amended; 15 U.S.C. 77s. Interprets or applies sec. 3, 48 Stat. 75 as amended; 15 U.S.C. 77c)

The foregoing action shall become effective January 9, 1961.

DECEMBER 8, 1960.

Proposed Rule Making

CIVIL AERONAUTICS BOARD

[14 CFR Part 221]

[Docket No. 11976; Order No. E–16132]

MILITARY TRAFFIC MANAGEMENT AGENCY

Notice of Proposed Rule Making

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D.C., on the 13th day of December 1960. In the matter of an Agreement, No. 13233–A2, filed by the Supplemental Air Carrier Conference. In the matter of exemption of certain carriers from provisions of section 403 of the Federal Aviation Act and the Economic Regulations (14 CFR Part 221) with respect to charter operations by the Military Traffic Management Agency; Docket No. 11976.

By Order E–15459, June 28, 1960, the Board granted an exemption from the provisions of section 403 of the Act and Part 221 of the Economic Regulations to all air carriers to the extent that they would otherwise require such carriers to apply the ferry rates in their published tariffs to the actual ferry mileage flown in those cases where such mileage exceeds that estimated in bids or contracts with the Military Traffic Management Agency, U.S. Army (MTMA). That exemption by its terms expired on September 30, 1960.

The so-called "ferry mileage" exemption was originally granted by Order E–13158, November 14, 1958, and was subsequently extended by Order E–14079, June 19, 1959, and Order E–15459. The circumstances which gave rise to the exemption are discussed in detail in the cited orders and will not be repeated here.

On September 9, 1960, MTMA filed with the Board a letter in which it stated that study of the ferry mileage problem had resulted in a plan which, if approved by the Board, should eliminate the long existing difficulties in connection with this matter. According to the letter, details of this plan were to be incorporated in a revision of Joint Military Air Transportation Agreement No. 3 (SACC) to be submitted to the Board for approval in the immediate future. Inasmuch as time did not permit adoption of the plan by the expiration date of the current exemption, MTMA requested that the outstanding exemption in Order E–15459 be extended until December 31, 1960. Additionally, various air carriers filed requests (Dockets 11731, 11792, 11793, and 11794) for an extension of Order E–15459 for an additional period. By Order E–15825 of September 26, 1960, the exemption was continued in effect through December 31, 1960.

On September 26, 1960 (amended October 10, 1960), SACC filed an agreement for approval under section 412 of the Act, which contains a substitute for ferry miles and a ferry mile rate. In effect, under the agreement only a "live" rate would be stated in the carriers' tariffs, with a provision for an additional charge for "guaranty/warranty" services. However, the amount of this charge is not to be set forth in the tariff, is not controlled by any stated criteria, and depends solely upon the carrier's bid in each contract.

MTMA has supported approval of the agreement by letter of November 17, 1960, which letter was served on three carrier associations—SACC, IAA and ATA. MTMA indicates that the procedure under the agreement will be administratively more simple in that, for example, no post-audit of "ferry-miles" will be needed. It also asserts that the legal sufficiency of the current exemption (MTMA to pay for ferry miles not in excess of those stated in the contract) may not be free from doubt. No statements have been filed by any party other than MTMA.

Upon consideration of all relevant factors, the Board finds that the agreement is not in the public interest and, accordingly, must be disapproved. The agreement does not appear to bring any real substantive improvement in this area, and serves to involve a further departure from the principle that air carrier services should be provided at published tariff rates rather than at rates arrived at through competitive bidding. Weighing the above against the advantage claimed for the agreement, it is believed that, on balance, the agreement might well result in a deterioration of current practices; and could have an impact on the carriers collectively which would not be consistent with their development on a sound economic basis. In this connection, it is noted that the MTMA letter of November 17, 1960, states that "the mechanics of CAM procurement can operate satisfactorily under" the current exemption method.

Disapproval of the agreement, combined with the fact that the current ferry mileage exemption expires as of December 31, 1960, might leave the carriers and MTMA in an awkward position as of January 1, 1961. We construe the MTMA letter as advocating continuation of the currently effective exemption, provided that the SACC agreement is not approved. Under these circumstances, and in view of the shortness of time, the Board proposes on its own initiative to extend the currently effective exemption through December 31, 1961, subject to its being revoked at an earlier date in the event that a better procedure is developed or should subsequent events disclose deficiencies in such procedure. Since the wording of the exemption is being revised to remove any possible legal ambiguity, and since we have had no carrier comment, our order provides that it shall not become final until December 22, 1960, that any interested party may file statements in support of or in opposition to the proposed extension before that date and that, if any such comments are so filed, the extension of the exemption shall not become final until further order of the Board.

Accordingly, pursuant to the Federal Aviation Act of 1958, and particularly sections 412 and 416 thereof: It is ordered, That:

1. Agreement 13233–A2 is disapproved, as not in the public interest; and

2. Paragraph 1 of the directory portion of Order E–15459, June 28, 1960, be and hereby is amended to read as follows: "Subject to the conditions listed hereafter, an exemption from the provisions of section 403 of the Act and 14 CFR Part 221 is hereby granted to the extent necessary to permit air carriers to enter into binding contracts with MTMA requiring such air carriers to apply the ferry rates stated in their tariffs to ferry mileage not in excess of that stated in such contracts in those cases where the actual ferry mileage exceeds that stated in such contracts: Provided, That this exemption shall only apply with respect to charter operations, to be performed within the continental United States, at the request of the Military Traffic Management Agency, U.S. Army: And provided, further, That this exemption authority expires December 31, 1961.[1]"

3. Interested persons may file, in this Docket, statements in support of or in opposition to the proposed extension set out in ordering paragraph 2 above, on or before December 21, 1960, by filing an original and nineteen copies of such statement with the Board's Docket Section;

4. Ordering clause 2, above shall become final and take effect on December 22, 1960, unless before that date objections are filed thereto; if objections are so filed, that portion of this Order shall be stayed pending further order of the Board.

5. This order may be revoked at any time by the Board without prior notice.

6. This order will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

By the Civil Aeronautics Board.

[SEAL] ROBERT C. LESTER, Secretary.

[F.R. Doc. 60–11673; Filed, Dec. 15, 1960; 8:46 a.m.]

[1] The intent of the revised language in this paragraph is to make clear that, under contracts entered into pursuant to the exemption granted herein, the carriers shall not have any right to claim payment for ferry mileage in excess of that provided in such contracts.

[Airspace Docket No. 60-NY-145]

FEDERAL AIRWAYS AND CONTROL AREAS

Alteration

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (14 CFR 409.13), notice is hereby given that the Federal Aviation Agency is considering an amendment to §§ 600.6478 and 601.6478 of the regulations of the Administrator, the substance of which is stated below.

VOR Federal airway No. 478 extends in part from Falmouth, Ky., to Newcombe, Ky. The Federal Aviation Agency has under consideration a proposal by the Air Transport Association of America to extend Victor 478 and its associated control areas eastward from the Newcombe VOR direct to the Beckley, W. Va., VOR. This proposed segment of Victor 478 would provide a by-pass route south of the Charleston, W. Va., terminal area for aircraft operating from Lexington, Ky., and Cincinnati, Ohio, over Newcombe to the Beckley and Roanoke, Va., terminals.

Interested persons may submit such written data, views or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in triplicate to the Chief, Air Traffic Management Division, Federal Aviation Agency, Federal Building, New York International Airport, Jamaica 30, N.Y. All communications received within forty-five days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER will be considered before action is taken on the proposed amendment. No public hearing is contemplated at this time, but arrangements for informal conferences with Federal Aviation Agency officials may be made by contacting the Regional Air Traffic Management Division Chief, or the Chief, Airspace Utilization Division, Federal Aviation Agency, Washington 25, D.C. Any data, views or arguments presented during such conferences must also be submitted in writing in accordance with this notice in order to become part of the record for consideration. The proposal contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received.

The official Docket will be available for examination by interested persons at the Docket Section, Federal Aviation Agency, Room B-316, 1711 New York Avenue NW., Washington 25, D.C. An informal Docket will also be available for examination at the office of the Regional Air Traffic Management Division Chief.

This amendment is proposed under section 307(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 749; 49 U.S.C. 1348).

Issued in Washington, D.C., on December 9, 1960.

Chief, Airspace Utilization Division.

FEDERAL AIRWAYS, CONTROL AREAS AND REPORTING POINTS

Revocation of Segment of Federal Airway, Associated Control Areas and Reporting Points

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (14 CFR 409.13), notice is hereby given that the Federal Aviation Agency is considering an amendment to §§ 600.15, 601.15 and 601.4015 of the regulations of the Administrator, the substance of which is stated below.

Green Federal airway No. 5 extends in part from Pulaski, Va., to Boston, Mass. The Federal Aviation is considering revoking this segment of Green 5. It is the policy of this Agency to revoke L/MF airways wherever adequate VOR airways are available, and it appears that the route from Pulaski to Boston is adequately served by VOR Federal airway No. 16. Therefore, it appears that the retention of this airway segment is unjustified as an assignment of airspace. Accordingly, the Federal Aviation Agency proposes to revoke the segment of Green 5 and its associated control areas from Pulaski to Boston. Adoption of this proposal would not necessarily result in discontinuance of the low frequency navigational aids associated with this segment of Green 5. Any proposal to discontinue one or more of these aids would be processed in accordance with current Agency procedures.

Concurrently with this action, the designated reporting points associated with Green 5 from the Roanoke, Va., radio range station to and including the intersection of the west course of the Providence, R.I., radio range and the southwest course of the Boston radio range would be revoked.

Interested persons may submit such written data, views or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in triplicate to the Chief, Air Traffic Management Division, Federal Aviation Agency, Federal Building, New York International Airport, Jamaica 30, N.Y. All communications received within forty-five days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER will be considered before action is taken on the proposed amendment. No public hearing is contemplated at this time, but arrangements for informal conferences with Federal Aviation Agency officials may be made by contacting the Regional Air Traffic Management Division Chief, or the Chief, Airspace Utilization Division, Federal Aviation Agency, Washington 25, D.C. Any data, views or arguments presented during such conferences must also be submitted in writing in accordance with this notice in order to become part of the record for consideration. The proposal contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received.

The official Docket will be available for examination by interested persons at the Docket Section, Federal Aviation Agency, Room B-316, 1711 New York Avenue NW., Washington 25, D.C. An informal Docket will also be available for examination at the office of the Regional Air Traffic Management Division Chief.

This amendment is proposed under section 307(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 749; 49 U.S.C. 1348).

Issued in Washington, D.C., on December 9, 1960.

Chief, Airspace Utilization Division.

NEVADA

Notice of Filing of Plats of Survey and Order Providing for Opening of Lands

Plats of survey of lands described below will be officially filed at the Land Office, Reno, Nevada, effective at 10:00 a.m. on the 31st day following the publication of this notice.

MOUNT DIABLO MERIDIAN, NEVADA

1. T. 17 N., R. 19 E. (groups 156 and 332), sec. 29, lots 1 through 12; sec. 30, lots 5 through 12; sec. 32, lots 1 through 8.

The area described aggregates 1,098.65 acres. The plat was accepted November 27, 1956.

a. Available data indicates the lands included in this plat are rough steep mountains and flats with shallow to deep medium and fine textured soils.

b. The above described lands are withdrawn by President's Proclamation dated October 3, 1905 for the National Forest now known as the Toiyabe National Forest. In view of this withdrawal the lands described will not be subject to disposition under the general public land laws by reason of official filing of this plat.

2. T. 15 N., R. 21 E. (group 313), secs. 1, 2, 3, 9 through 17, 19 through 36.

a. The area described aggregates 19,131.43 acres. The plat was accepted February 14, 1956.

b. Available data indicates that the lands described are rough broken hills with shallow rocky medium textured soils.

c. It has been determined that springs created a reservation under Public Water Reserve No. 107, and lands listed below are not subject to disposition under the general public lands laws by official filing of this plat:

T. 15 N., R. 21 E., sec. 2, NW¼SE¼, S½SE¼, SE¼SW¼; sec. 14, N½NE¼, NE¼NW¼; sec. 23, NE¼, N½SE¼; sec. 20, SW¼SE¼, SE¼SW¼; sec. 29, NW¼, W½NE¼.

3. T. 45 N., R. 37 E. (groups 326 and 350), secs. 4, 5, 6, all; sec. 7, N½; sec. 8, N½; sec. 9, N½.

a. The area described aggregates 2,808.94 acres. The plat was accepted April 4, 1958.

b. Available data indicates the lands described are low rolling hills and flats with moderately deep medium textured soils.

4. T. 8 N., R. 44 E. (group 252), secs. 1 through 8; sec. 9, lots 1, 2, 3, 4, N½NE¼, W½, S½SE¼; sec. 10, lots 1, 2, E½, N½NW¼, SE¼NW¼, NE¼SW¼, S½SW¼; secs. 11 through 15; sec. 16, lots 1 through 8, E½NE¼, W½NW¼, N½S½, SE¼SE¼; sec. 17, lot 1, N½, SW¼, N½SE¼, SW¼SE¼; sec. 18, lots 1 through 8, E½NW¼, N½SE¼, SE¼SE¼, NE¼; sec. 19, lots 1 through 20; sec. 20, lots 1 through 19; sec. 21, lots 1 through 15; sec. 22, lots 1 through 9, NE¼, N½NW¼; secs. 23 through 27, all; sec. 28, lots 1 through 7, S½, SW¼NW¼, SE¼NE¼; sec. 29, lots 1 through 3, S½, S½N½, NW¼NE¼; sec. 30, lots 1 through 7, NE¼, E½NW¼, E½SW¼, W½SE¼; sec. 31, lots 1 through 12, NW¼SE¼, S½NE¼, N½SE¼, NE¼SW¼; secs. 32 through 36, all.

a. The area described aggregates 21,808.70 acres. The plat was accepted on April 10, 1957.

b. Available data indicates the lands in this plat are rough steep mountains and hills with shallow rocky soils.

c. The following described lands are withdrawn by President's Proclamation of December 10, 1910 for the National Forest now known as the Toiyabe National Forest and are not therefore, subject to disposition under the general public land laws by official filing of this plat:

T. 8 N., R. 44 E., secs. 1 through 18; secs. 22 through 34; sec. 35, N½, SW¼; sec. 36 N½.

5. T. 8 N., R. 44½ E. (group 252), secs. 1, 12, 13, 24, 25, 36.

a. The area described aggregates 3,127.93 acres. The plat was accepted July 13, 1951.

b. Available data indicates the lands of this plat are rough steep mountains with shallow rocky medium textured soils.

c. The following lands are withdrawn by Presidential Proclamation of December 10, 1910 for inclusion within the (now) Toiyabe National Forest and are not subject to disposition under the general public land laws by official filing of this plat.

T. 8 N., R. 44½ E., secs. 1, 12, 13, 24.

6. T. 26 N., R. 48 E. (group 316), secs. 1, 12, 13, 24, 25, 36.

a. The area described aggregates 3,959.73 acres. The plat was accepted January 28, 1959.

b. Available data indicates the lands described are rolling hills and benches with shallow to moderately deep medium textured soils.

7. T. 26 N., R. 52 E. (group 201), secs. 4 through 9; secs. 16 through 21; secs. 29 through 32.

a. The area described aggregates 10,384.89 acres. The plat was accepted October 15, 1953.

ATOMIC ENERGY COMMISSION

[Docket No. 50-133]

PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC CO.

Notice of Issuance of Amendment to Construction Permit

Please take notice that the Atomic Energy Commission has issued Amendment No. 1, set forth below, to Construction Permit No. CPPR-10. The amendment changes the allocation of special nuclear material to Pacific Gas and Electric Company for use through 2004 in connection with operation of its reactor to be located at Buhne Point, near Eureka, Humboldt County, California, from 2754.0 kilograms of contained uranium 235 to 2666.9 kilograms of contained uranium 235, and amends the schedule of transfers of special nuclear material between the Company and the Commission as described in the permittee's Amendment No. 10 to its application for license dated November 10, 1960.

In accordance with the Commission's "Rules of Practice" (10 CFR Part 2) the Commission will direct the holding of a formal hearing on the matter of the issuance of the amendment to the permit upon receipt of a request therefor from the permitee or an intervener within thirty days after issuance of the amendment to the permit. Petitions for leave to intervene and requests for a formal hearing shall be filed by mailing a copy to the Office of the Secretary, Atomic Energy Commission, Washington 25, D.C., or by delivery of a copy in person to the Office of the Secretary, Germantown, Maryland, or the AEC's Public Document Room, 1717 H Street, Washington, D.C. For further details see Amendment No. 10 to the application for license dated November 18, 1960, submitted by Pacific Gas and Electric Company on file at the AEC's Public Document Room.

Dated at Germantown, Maryland this 8th day of December 1960.

For the Atomic Energy Commission.

R. L. KIRK,
Deputy Director, Division of Licensing and Regulation.

[Construction Permit No. CPPR-10. Amdt. No. 1]

Paragraph E. of Construction Permit No. CPPR-10 is hereby amended to read as follows:

E. Pursuant to Section 50.60 of the regulations in Title 10, Chapter 1, CFR, Part 50, the Commission has allocated to the permittee for use in the operation of the reactor 2666.9 kilograms of Uranium-235 contained in uranium in the isotopic ratios specified in Pacific Gas and Electric Company's Amendment No. 10 to its application for license dated November 18, 1960. Estimated schedules of special nuclear material transfers to the permittee and returns to the Commission are contained in revised Exhibit C in application Amendment No. 10. Transfers by the Commission to the permittee will be conditioned upon return to the Commission by the permittee of material substantially in accordance with said revised Exhibit C in application Amendment No. 10.

This amendment is effective as of the date of issuance.

Date of issuance: December 8, 1960.

For the Atomic Energy Commission.

R. L. KIRK,
Deputy Director, Division of Licensing and Regulation.

GENERAL STATEMENT

SECTION 1.1 Authority. The Civil Aeronautics Board derives its authority from and is organized in accordance with the Federal Aviation Act of 1958. It is an independent federal agency comprised of five members appointed for six year terms by the President with the consent of the Senate, with no more than three members appointed from the same political party. Each year the President designates one member as chairman and another as vice chairman.

The Board exercises its powers independently. Its decisions are not subject to review by any executive department or agency, except for the approval of the President required in Board decisions granting or affecting certificates for overseas and foreign air transportation, and foreign air carrier permits.

SEC. 1.2 Functions. In general the Board performs three functions: regulation of the economic aspects of domestic and international United States air carrier operations and of the operations of foreign air carriers to and from the United States, participation in the establishment and development of international air transportation, and promotion of safety in civil aviation. These functions are described briefly in the following paragraphs.

(a) Economic regulation. The Board is responsible for granting authorizations to air carriers to engage in interstate and foreign air transportation. It issues permits to foreign air carriers authorizing them to engage in air transportation between the United States and foreign countries, and also authorizes the navigation of foreign civil aircraft in the United States for other purposes.

The Board has jurisdiction over tariffs, and the rates and fares charged the public for air transportation; it establishes rates for the carriage of mail by air carriers; and it authorizes and pays subsidy to certain air carriers where required for the development of an adequate air transportation system.

In the interest of maintaining regulated competition, the Board passes on mergers, acquisitions of control and interlocking relationships involving air carriers and passes on contracts for cooperative working arrangements between air carriers. The Board also has jurisdiction over unfair competitive practices of air carriers and ticket agents selling air transportation.

The Board regulates the accounting practices of air carriers and requires them to file regular financial and operating reports with the Board. Much of the information from these reports is published by the Board and thereby made available to other government agencies and to the general public.

Under Public Law 85-307 the Board guarantees loans to certain air carriers for the purchase of aircraft.

(b) International Civil Aviation. The Board consults with and assists the Department of State in the negotiation of agreements with foreign governments for the establishment or development of air routes and services.

(c) Safety activities. The Board investigates accidents involving civil aircraft and makes reports on the facts, circumstances and probable causes thereof; it makes such recommendations to the Administrator of the Federal Aviation Agency as will tend to prevent similar accidents in the future; makes such reports public as may be deemed by it to be in the public interest; and conducts special studies and investigations of aeronautical hazards to reduce aircraft accidents and prevent their recurrence.

Upon the request of aggrieved parties, the Board reviews in quasi-judicial proceedings, conducted pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act, denials by the Administrator of the Federal Aviation Agency of applications for airman certificates and orders of the Administrator modifying, amending, suspending, or revoking any air safety certificates. The Board also participates as an interested party in safety rulemaking proceedings conducted by the Administrator of the Federal Aviation Agency.

SEC. 1.3 Offices. (a) The central offices of the Civil Aeronautics Board are located in the Universal Building, 1825 Connecticut Avenue NW., Washington 25, D.C.

(b) The Bureau of Air Operations, the Bureau of Safety and the Office of Carrier Accounts and Statistics maintain field offices in selected cities throughout the country. The location of these offices and a description of their functions are included in sections of this notice describing the Office or Bureau of which the field offices are a part.

(c) Public hearings into the facts, conditions and circumstances surrounding an aircraft accident, public hearings on applications and petitions in both safety certificate and economic proceedings and oral arguments before the Board are held at the time and place announced in the notice thereof which is served on the parties to the proceeding and published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(d) The hours of business for Board offices are 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., local time, Monday through Friday, excluding legal holidays, unless otherwise provided by statute or Executive Order.

SEC. 1.4 Formal submissions. (a) All formal submissions required or permitted to be made in economic and safety certificate proceedings should be addressed to the Docket Section, Civil Aeronautics Board, Washington 25, D.C., unless specifically provided otherwise in the provision requiring or permitting such submission. Requirements as to the form and content of such submissions are set forth in the Board's Procedural Regulations, codified in the Code of Federal Regulations, Title 14, Chapter II.

(b) Notification and reports of aircraft accidents and of missing aircraft required to be reported pursuant to Part 320 of the Board's Procedural Regulations should be directed to the nearest Civil Aeronautics Board office or Federal Aviation Agency communications station or agent.

(c) Instructions concerning the use of forms, and the scope of content of material required or permitted to be filed or maintained are set forth in the Board's Economic, Safety Investigation, Special or Procedural Regulations codified in the Code of Federal Regulations, Title 14, Chapter II. If the form of any document required or permitted to be filed is not prescribed, such document shall be in letter form.

SEC. 1.5 Release of information. (a) The Public Information Officer, Office of Secretary, is the primary channel through which general inquiries from the public and press are answered. Persons seeking general information concerning the Board, its organization, functions, procedures or activities should communicate with that office.

(b) Persons seeking information concerning employment opportunities with the Board should communicate with the Personnel Section, Office of Administration.

(c) The Publications Section, Office of Administration, periodically prepares a list of Board documents and publications which have been duplicated and are available to the public. Items offered for sale are available from the Government Printing Office or other indicated sources on payment of a charge therefor. A list of available publications and free items in limited quantity are available from the Publications Section upon request. Mailing lists are maintained for the weekly Notice of Applications or Amendments Thereto and certain other free publications. Upon written request therefor, the Publications Section will furnish for the remainder of the fiscal year, publications for which mailing lists are maintained.

SEC. 1.6. Access to records. (a) All records of the Board are in the custody of the Secretary of the Board subject to access by employees for purposes relating to their official duties.

(b) Public records, available for inspection or copying during office hours upon application to the Secretary include:

(1) Documents required or permitted to be filed with the Board by the Federal Aviation Act of 1958, as amended, or any other statute or by any rule or order of the Board. These include tariffs, general schedules, contracts and agreements affecting air carriers, undocketed applications and petitions, notices of intent, flight reports, mileage records, carriers' operating and financial reports, and operators' reports of aircraft accidents or of missing aircraft.

(2) The material of record filed in any adjudicatory, investigative or rule-making procedure. These include applications, petitions, complaints, correspondence and related documents in connection with formal proceedings, transcripts of testimony, copies of depositions, exhibits, briefs, examiner's initial decisions, comments on proposed rules, orders and accompanying opinions, if any, the Board's official reports on the facts, conditions, circumstances and probable cause of aircraft accidents and Economic, Accident Investigation, Special and Procedural Regulations. Comments on proposed rules are available for public inspection after the date set forth in the notice of proposed rule making.

(3) Public notices, compilations, tabulations, reports and other materials published by the Board or authorized by the Board for public release.

(4) Approved Minutes of Board meetings, except portions relating to pending matters. Minutes are available only to persons properly and directly concerned with the subject thereof.

(c) Not available for public inspection are matters classified in the interest of national defense pursuant to Executive Order 10501 or withheld from public disclosure by the Board under sections 902(f), 1001 or 1104 of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958, as amended, and § 302.39 of the Procedural Regulations.

(d) Not available for public inspection are other records, letters, memoranda, files and information created by or coming into the possession of, or within the knowledge of the Board or its staff in the discharge of their official duties, except that particular information may be disclosed in response to a request to persons having a legitimate interest if the disclosure of such information is found by an authorized employee to be appropriate to the furtherance of the objectives of the Act or is approved by the Board upon good cause shown. Information ordered by the Board to be withheld may be disclosed only by direction of the Board.

(e) Copies of documents (other than duplicated publications described in section 1.5c above) which are available to the public will, upon written request to the Secretary specifying the number of copies desired, be provided at the expense of the requestor. Without fee, the Secretary, upon written request, will certify that copies are true and correct copies of the original, except that publications of the Board need not be certified, since they are competent evidence of the orders, decisions, rules, regulations and reports of the Board therein contained in all Federal and State courts without further proof or authentication, pursuant to section 204(d) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (49 U.S.C. 1324).

OFFICES OF BOARD MEMBERS

SEC. 2.1 Functions of the Board Members. The Board Members are charged with carrying out the duties and responsibilities of the Board under the Act and the statutes. Action initiated pursuant to the Board's own initiative or by any document authorized or required to be filed with the Board originates in or is referred to the appropriate organizational unit for study and recommendation to the Board in accordance with the description of functions outlined hereinafter. In cases other than those in which action is taken pursuant to a final delegation of authority, or in which the responsibility is that of the Chairman (see below), final action is taken by the Board.

SEC. 2.2 Functions of the Chairman. In addition to his duties as a Member of the Board, the Chairman serves as presiding officer at meetings of the Board, determines the order in which day-to-day matters will receive attention of the Board, and by virtue of his role as Chairman, acts as spokesman for the Board before committees of Congress.

Pursuant to Reorganization Plan No. 13 of 1950, and subject to certain limitations stated therein, the Chairman is responsible for the executive and administrative functions of the Board.

SEC. 2.3 Functions of the Executive Director of the Board. The Executive Director is the chief operating and executive staff official of the Civil Aeronautics Board, assisting the Chairman in the performance of major administrative and executive functions and the Board through the coordination of quasi-judicial matters. The Executive Director is also responsible, through the Congressional Relations Officer for maintaining an effective exchange of information between the Board and the Congress and for serving as the primary channel through which Congressional inquiries are handled.

BUREAU OF HEARING EXAMINERS

SEC. 3.1 Organization. The Bureau of Hearing Examiners consists of the following components: Office of the Chief Examiner, the Hearing Examiners, Docket Section and Indices Section.

SEC. 3.2 Functions of the Chief Examiner. The Chief Examiner supervises the Bureau of Hearing Examiners, which is responsible for the conduct of all formal proceedings under Titles IV, VI, and X of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 in accordance with the requirements of the Procedural Regulations.

SEC. 3.3 Delegated authority of the Chief Examiner. By delegation of authority from the Board, the Chief Examiner is authorized to:

A. Approve or disapprove requests for changes in procedural requirements in economic cases for good cause shown, provided that an extension of time for filing documents shall not be granted within three days of the date originally set for the filing except in cases involving unusual hardship on the requesting party or parties.

B. Consolidate, upon recommendation of the Director, Bureau of Air Operations (or such staff member of the Bureau of Air Operations as he may designate), into one proceeding cases involving the investigation of a tariff or of complaints concerned with related tariffs.

C. With the concurrence of the Director, Bureau of Air Operations (or such staff member of the Bureau of Air Operations as he may designate): grant intervention in formal proceedings; deny intervention in formal proceedings to cities or Chambers of Commerce representing cities which are off-line points; dismiss applications or complaints when such dismissal is requested or consented to by the applicant or complainant, or where such party has failed to prosecute such application or complaint, provided that in the case of complaints involving the Office of Compliance, the Chief of such office concurs; consolidate into one proceeding for the purpose of hearing and decision, and approve applications for such consolidation, or cases arising under sections 401, 402, 408, 409, and 412 of the Federal Aviation Act; approve or deny any request for the severance of a previous application consolidated in accordance with the preceding authority; and dismiss proceedings upon his finding that the proceeding has become moot or that no further basis for continuation exists.

D. The Chief Examiner also has all the authority delegated to Hearing Examiners generally as listed in section 3.8.

SEC. 3.4 Redelegation of authority. The Chief Examiner is authorized to redelegate the authority cited in subsection 3.3B above.

SEC. 3.5 Functions of the Hearing Examiners. Hearing Examiners are responsible for conducting proceedings involving the economic regulatory powers of the Board under Titles IV and X of the Federal Aviation Act, including issuance of certificates of public convenience and necessity concerning both domestic and foreign operations, issuance of foreign air carrier permits, mail, passenger and property rate cases, mergers, acquisitions of control, interlocking relationships, and enforcement cases; and safety enforcement proceedings under Title VI of the Act, including disciplinary proceedings involving suspension or revocation of airman certificates and appeals from action of the Administrator, Federal Aviation Agency, in refusing to issue airman certificates. In carrying out these proceedings examiners hold hearings, make initial decisions, and carry out the other requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act, the Board's procedural regulations, and the delegations of authority to examiners.

SEC. 3.6 Functions of the Docket Section. The Docket Section examines all applications, complaints and petitions for compliance with the requirements of the Procedural Regulations, advises and assists persons filing documents with respect to filing requirements; maintains the Official Docket binder on all formal proceedings and issues periodic reports on the status of docketed cases; maintains a copy of all dockets, financial and operational statistical reports, comments on proposed rules and similar material for public reference; and makes official service of notices, reports, decisions and rules on parties to proceedings.

SEC. 3.7 Functions of the Indices Section. The Indices Section devises and maintains the master subject index, selects orders and opinions and writes digests to cover points involving precedent for publication in the Civil Aeronautics Board Reports, and periodically prepares cumulative index-digests of Board decisions.

SEC. 3.8 Delegated authority of Hearing Examiners. By delegation of authority from the Board each Hearing Examiner is authorized to:

A. Give notice concerning and hold hearings.

B. Administer oaths.

C. Examine witnesses.

D. Issue subpenas and take or cause depositions to be taken.

E. Rule upon offers of proof and receive relevant evidence.

F. Regulate the course and conduct of the hearing.

G. Hold conferences, before or during the hearing, for the settlement or simplification of issues.

H. Rule on motions and dispose of procedural requests or similar matters.

I. Within his discretion, or upon the direction of the Board, certify any question to the Board for its consideration and disposition.

J. Issue initial decisions in proceedings for the amendment, modification, suspension or revocation of airman or other safety certificates upon appeal from an order of the Administrator of the Federal Aviation Agency, and for the review of the Administrator's refusal to issue an airman certificate.

K. Render an initial decision orally on the record or in writing if, before the close of the hearing, any party so requests in cases relating to rates, fares or charges, classification rules or regulations or practices affecting such matters or value of service, or mail compensation.

L. Render a recommended decision orally on the record or in writing in cases where the action of the Board is subject to the approval of the President pursuant to Section 801 of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958.

M. Render an initial decision orally on the record or in writing in cases relating to economic proceedings other than those covered by paragraphs K and L above.

BUREAU OF AIR OPERATIONS

SEC. 4.1 Organization. The Bureau of Air Operations consists of the following organizational components: Office of the Director, International Division, Routes Division, Special Authorities Division, Rates Division, Alaska Liaison Office.

SEC. 4.2 Functions of the Director. The Director supervises the Bureau of Air Operations, which is responsible for the development and interpretation of economic data and for advising the Board regarding, and recommending action on individual matters involving, the policy and procedure to be followed in the economic regulation of domestic, overseas, and international air transportation.

SEC. 4.3 Delegated authority of the Director. By delegation of authority from the Board the Director, Bureau of Air Operations, is authorized to take the actions specified below.

A. To terminate or limit Bureau participation in adversary proceedings when full participation is found to be unnecessary. In those cases in which full participation is found unnecessary, the Director will immediately advise the parties to the proceedings and the Examiner of the nature and extent of future Bureau participation. When the Director finds that renewed participation of Bureau personnel is required in the public interest, he shall immediately so advise the parties.

B. To disapprove an application filed under Part 295 of the Economic Regulations by letter stating such disapproval and the reasons therefor and the options the applicant may exercise. If no option is exercised by the applicant within 15 days from the date of the letter, the application shall be considered withdrawn.

C. With respect to route matters he is authorized:

(1) To approve Airport Notices which indicate an intention to serve regularly a point through any airport not regularly used by a holder of a certificate of public convenience and necessity.

(2) To approve Nonstop Notices which indicate an intention to inaugurate a scheduled nonstop service between any two points nonconsecutively named in the certificate of public convenience and necessity.

(3) To approve interchange schedules which appear to conform to the service plan contemplated by the Board's orders approving the basic interchange agreements.

(4) To deny by letter applications of air carriers for exemptions permitting a carrier to serve a point certificated on one segment of its route in place of a point certificated on another segment of its route whenever no substantial competition to other lines will result or when no new policy is involved and permitting certificated carriers (other than supplemental air carriers) to perform single flights outside the authority contained in the certificate.

D. With respect to rates and tariffs, he is authorized:

(1) To reject any tariff, supplement, or revised page which is filed by any United States air carrier or by any foreign air carrier, and which is subject to rejection because it is not consistent with section 403 of the Act or with Part 221 of the Economic Regulations.

(2) To approve or disapprove any application for permission to make tariff changes upon less than statutory notice, filed pursuant to § 221.190 of the Economic Regulations, which (a) has as its only purpose the correction of mechanical, clerical, or administrative errors, or (b) does not involve new or substantial questions of policy.

(3) To permit cancellation of a tariff in instances when an investigation of a tariff is pending, or the tariff is under suspension, or when a complaint requesting investigation or suspension of a tariff has been filed.

(4) To approve or disapprove methods for indicating cancellation of an existing rate or rule in the publication of tariffs stating the new rate or rule in a manner other than that specifically required by Subpart H of Part 221 of the Economic Regulations.

(5) To determine the form and manner in which a supplement is to be prepared whenever the operation of any provision of a tariff, supplement or looseleaf page is suspended by the Board, in accordance with Subpart I of Part 221 of the Economic Regulations.

(6) To authorize the issuance of supplements to looseleaf tariffs in accordance with § 221.112 of the Economic Regulations.

(7) To approve or disapprove applications for waiver of the provisions of Part 221 of the Economic Regulations in accordance with § 221.201.

(8) To approve or disapprove applications filed under section 403(b) of the Act and § 223.8 of the Economic Regulations for permission to furnish free or reduced rate air transportation in overseas or foreign air transportation. If an application is denied the applicant may request Board review of the matter.

E. With respect to special authorities matters he is authorized:

(1) To approve applications for operating authority filed pursuant to Parts 296 and 297 of the Economic Regulations.

(2) To dismiss, by letter, applications for operating authority filed pursuant to Parts 296 and 297 of the Economic Regulations, provided that each applicant is given notice that his application will be dismissed if, in appropriate cases he does not, within 30 days, file information necessary to complete the processing of his application, or file a tariff.

(3) To approve relationships prohibited by §§ 296.45 and 297.36 of the Economic Regulations.

(4) To Cancel an operating authority upon the filing by a domestic or international Air Freight Forwarder of a written notice with the Board indicating the discontinuance of common carrier activities.

(5) To issue foreign aircraft permits provided for in §§ 375.41 and 375.42 of the Special Regulations if he finds that applications for such permits are in order and meet the requirements of the Sections.

(6) To dispose, without action, of contracts and agreements which, prior to review thereof, have expired, have been terminated, or have been superseded.

(7) To approve, in whole or in part, or deny applications for Letters of Registration filed pursuant to Part 293 of the Economic Regulations.

(8) To approve, in whole or in part, or deny applications for authorization to conduct off-route charter trips filed pursuant to Part 212 of the Economic Regulations.

SEC. 4.4 Redelegation of authority. The Director, Bureau of Air Operations has the authority to redelegate all the authority listed in section 4.3 above except subsections 4.3A and 4.3C(4). He may also redelegate the recommendation authority cited in subsection 3.3B and the concurrence authority cited in subsection 3.3C.

SEC. 4.5 Redelegations to Members of the Director's Office. The Director of the Bureau of Air Operations has redelegated to the Associate Director (Domestic) and to the Associate Director (International) all the authority listed in section 4.3 above except subsections 4.3A and 4.3C(4).

SEC. 4.6 Functions of the International Division. The International Division advises on the formulation of positions to be taken by the United States on international civil aviation matters involving economic foreign policy; serves as liaison between the Board and the Department of State; provides representation, when so designated, in connection with international conferences and bilateral and multilateral relations with foreign countries. In the discharge of these duties the International Division analyzes economic data bearing on the problems to be dealt with.

SEC. 4.7 Functions of the Routes Division. The Routes Division is concerned with the legal and economic aspects of matters arising under sections 401, 402, 404, 405(b), 416, and 1002 of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 relating to the authorizations of routes and other services required to meet the objectives of the Act, whether by issuance of a certificate of public convenience and necessity, foreign air carrier permit or exemption order, and relating to the determination of the route pattern and the carriers required to provide such services.

SEC. 4.8 Redelegations of authority to the Chief, Routes Division. The Director, Bureau of Air Operations, has redelegated to the Chief, Routes Division all the authority pertaining to route matters cited in subsection 4.3C, except the authority stated in subsection 4.3C(3).

SEC. 4.9 Functions of the Special Authorities Division. The Special Authorities Division is concerned with the legal and economic aspects of all carrier relationship matters arising under sections 401(h), 402(g), 407(a), 407(b), 407(c), 408, 409, 411, 412, 1002(i), and 1102 of the Act and to matters arising under sections 401, 402, 404, 405(b), 416, and 1002 of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958, and section 1108(b) of the Act relating to the authorizations of supplemental charter and indirect carrier services required to meet the objects of the Act.

SEC. 4.10 Redelegations of authority to the Chief, Special Authorities Division. The Director, Bureau of Air Operations, has redelegated to the Chief, Special Authorities Division, all the authority cited in subsection 4.3E, except the authority cited in subsection 4.3E(5).

SEC. 4.11 Functions of the Rates Division. The Rates Division is concerned with the economic and legal aspects of matters relating to the fixing of the compensation to be paid to the airlines by the Government for the transportation of United States mail, including a determination of the service mail rates and subsidy, pursuant to section 406 of the Act, determination of commercial rates pursuant to sections 403, 404, and 1002 of the Act and the commercial rate aspects of International Air Transport Association resolutions.

SEC. 4.12 Redelegations of authority to the Chief, Tariffs Section of the Rates Division. The Director, Bureau of Air Operations, has redelegated to the Chief, Tariffs Section, Rates Division, all the authority pertaining to rates and tariffs cited in section 4.3D.

SEC. 4.13 Bureau Counsel. An attorney from the Bureau of Air Operations is designated as Bureau Counsel to present the Bureau position in formal proceedings before the Board arising under the Federal Aviation Act of 1958.

SEC. 4.14 The Alaska Liaison Office. The Alaska Liaison Office is a field office of the Bureau of Air Operations. It is located at Loussac-Sogn Building, Anchorage, Alaska (P.O. Box 2219). This office is concerned with the administration of the Act and the Economic Regulations as they relate to Alaska air taxi operators and to tariff and service matters affecting Alaskan air carriers; advising the Board and the Bureau Director on Alaskan air transportation problems; and conferring with the Alaskan air carriers, government and civic bodies and with users of air transportation in Alaska.

This office is responsible for posting and maintaining for inspection, copies of applications, petitions, notices and complaints submitted to the Board; copies of tariffs, statistical reports and other documents required to be filed with the Board; documents filed in connection with formal proceedings before the Board; and orders, opinions, rules or regulations issued by the Board; insofar as such matters relate to Alaskan air carriers, Alaskan air taxi operators or air transportation to, from, or within Alaska.

SEC. 4.15 Redelegations of authority to Alaska Liaison Representative. The Director, Bureau of Air Operations, has redelegated to the Alaska Liaison Representative, the authorities cited in subsections 4.3D(1), 4.3D(2), 4.3D(6), and 4.3D(7) insofar as they relate to Alaskan Carriers.

BUREAU OF SAFETY

SEC. 5.1 Organization. The Bureau of Safety consists of the following organizational components: Office of the Director, Safety Investigation Division, Operations Division, Engineering Division and Safety Analysis Division.

SEC. 5.2 Functions of the Director. The Director supervises the Bureau of Safety, which is responsible for the investigation and analysis of aircraft accidents occurring within the United States, and the investigation and analysis of accidents involving United States flag carriers occurring abroad in conjunction with the government of the country in which the accident occurred. This Bureau is also responsible for investigating aeronautical hazards, making recommendations for corrective action to prevent recurring accidents and for making appropriate recommendations to the Board regarding international aviation activities in the air safety area and in air safety matters considered by the interdepartmental Committees requiring Board action.

SEC. 5.3 Delegated authority of the Director. The Board has delegated to the Director, Bureau of Safety, the authority to:

A. Order an inquiry, by depositions, or otherwise, into the facts, conditions, circumstances and probable cause of all accidents involving civil aircraft, and to order a public hearing in accordance with the provisions of Part 303 of the Board's Procedural Regulations on the following types of accidents:

(1) Accidents in which unusual, nationwide public interest is demonstrated.

(2) Fatal air carrier accidents in air transportation.

(3) Accidents in air transportation involving an apparent serious departure from good operating practice or significant deficiency in design in which catastrophe is narrowly averted.

(4) Accidents which appear indicative of serious and widespread hazards in air commerce.

(5) Other accidents where the Director deems a public hearing necessary in the public interest.

B. Designate in writing a hearing officer and technical staff for public hearings in accordance with the provisions of Part 303 of the Board's Procedural Regulations; in cases where the Director, Bureau of Safety, will not personally serve on a Board of Inquiry, he may designate one of his staff to take his place.

C. Designate one or more hearing officials with authority to sign and issue subpoenas, administer oaths and affirmations, and to take depositions or cause them to be taken.

D. Order a special study or investigation on matters pertaining to safety in air navigation, and if necessary, designate a hearing officer in this connection who may be authorized to sign and issue subpoenas, administer oaths and affirmations, and take depositions or cause them to be taken.

SEC. 5.4 Redelegations of authority to the Associate Director. The Director, Bureau of Safety, has redelegated all of the authorities listed in section 5.3 above to the Associate Director.

SEC. 5.5 Functions of the Safety Investigation Division. This Division is responsible for the development of accident investigation procedures and techniques, and for the administration of the accident investigation program. Through its field offices, described below, it conducts aircraft accident investigations. It is also responsible for conducting public accident inquiries to determine the facts, conditions, circumstances, and probable cause of aircraft accidents and prepares formal accident investigation reports for adoption by the Board. In addition, the Safety Investigation Division programs and directs special investigations, surveys, and studies relating to incidents, operational procedures and hazards capable of causing serious accidents in order to make recommendations to the Administrator of the Federal Aviation Agency for the implementation of accident prevention measures.

Field Offices of the Safety Investigation Division. Air Safety Investigators assigned to the Division's field offices conduct the accident investigations, special investigations, studies and surveys mentioned above. In the course of their accident investigations they maintain coordination with other interested government agencies and industry representatives. They also participate in public hearings and deposition taking, and prepare reports stating the facts, conditions and circumstances discovered during the investigation and the investigators' recommendation of what the finding of probable cause should be.

The Safety Investigation Division's field offices are located as follows:

SEC. 5.6 Delegated authority of Presiding Officers and Hearing Officials. Presiding Officers and Hearing Officials appointed by the Director, Bureau of Safety, pursuant to delegation of authority stated in subsections 5.3B and 5.3C have the authority to hold hearings, to sign and issue subpoenas, administer oaths and affirmations, examine witnesses, receive evidence and take or cause depositions to be taken.

SEC. 5.7 Functions of the Operations Division. The Operations Division is responsible for providing specialized staff services in the area of aircraft operations. Its specialists in air carrier, general aviation, helicopter and jet operations, meteorology and air traffic control, participate directly in aircraft accident investigations. They participate in public inquiries by testifying and questioning witnesses, and assist in the preparation of the Board's accident report. They also participate in special safety studies and investigations of aeronautical hazards and safety incidents and draft comments and recommendations for corrective action to be forwarded to the Administrator of the Federal Aviation Agency; and they draft comments on safety rules and standards proposed by the Federal Aviation Agency.

SEC. 5.8 Functions of the Engineering Division. This Division provides specialized staff services in the area of engineering and airworthiness. Division personnel participate in the investigation of aircraft accidents, assist in the conduct of public inquiries and prepare the technical portion of accident reports. The Division makes recommendations on engineering problems to further air safety and assist in eliminating aeronautical hazards, drafts comments and recommendations to the Administrator, Federal Aviation Agency, thereon, and represents the Board on committees wherein engineering and airworthiness problems are involved.

SEC. 5.9 Functions of the Safety Analysis Division. This Division is charged with the responsibility for the detailed analysis of all civil aircraft accidents, incidents and flight hazards, to determine all casual and contributory factors necessary for the recommendation of preventive measures; for the researching, collecting, digesting and indexing of technical studies and reports for application to Bureau technical or engineering problems, for preparing and maintaining comprehensive statistics of factors involved in aircraft accidents; for developing, assembling and disseminating recurrent and special statistical analyses reports.

OFFICE OF CARRIER ACCOUNTS AND STATISTICS

SEC. 6.1 Organization. The Office of Carrier Accounts and Statistics consists of the following organizational components: Office of the Chief, Regulations and Reports Division, Field Audits Division, and the Research and Statistics Division.

SEC. 6.2 Functions of the Chief. The Chief supervises the Office of Carrier Accounts and Statistics, which is responsible for recommending economic regulations related to the general accounting and statistical reporting programs and participating with the General Counsel in the formulation of such regulations; administering the Board accounting and reporting regulations; approving all accounting and economic statistical data prepared for release as an official publication; providing expert advice and assistance to the Board and staff on accounting, auditing and statistical matters; and representing the Board at interdepartmental, industry and international conferences at the discretion of the Board.

SEC. 6.3 Delegated authority. Under delegated authority from the Board the Chief, Office of Carrier Accounts and Statistics, is authorized to take any or all of the following actions in administering the accounting, reporting and record-retention requirements of Parts 234, 241, 242, 243, 244, 248, and 249 of the Economic Regulations:

A. Waive any of the accounting, reporting and record-retention requirements as warranted, to meet temporary or local conditions.

B. Interpret the Board's accounting, reporting and record-retention requirements.

C. Require submission by carriers of special statements necessary to an explanation of any carrier accounting or reporting practices.

D. Establish detailed standard accounting, reporting and record-retention practices required to achieve conformance with regulations promulgated by the Board.

E. Grant or deny individual requests for extension of time for filing reports.

F. Dismiss, by letter, petitions for Board action when such dismissal is requested, or consented to, by petitioner.

G. Grant or deny by letter, with the concurrence of the General Counsel and the Director, Bureau of Air Operations, requests for confidential treatment of preliminary year-end financial reports.

H. Extend, with the concurrence of the Director, Bureau of Enforcement, the time period for the preservation of records relating to errors, oversales, irregularities and delays in handling passengers (§ 249.11(f), Category No. 303(a) of the Schedule of Records to Part 249 of the Economic Regulations).

I. Grant or deny by letter, individual requests by air carriers for permission to use their own continuous-feed machine reporting forms, where Board approval for the use of such forms is required by the Economic Regulations.

SEC. 6.4 Redelegation of authority. The Chief, Office of Carrier Accounts and Statistics has the power to redelegate all the authority recited in section 6.3 above except that recited in section 6.3B.

SEC. 6.5 Functions of the Regulations and Reports Division. The Regulations and Reports Division develops and recommends uniform systems of periodic financial operational and accounting reports, and necessary revisions thereof for all air carriers; drafts instructions and letters of interpretation; recommends modification or waiver of uniform requirements; provides expert advice and assistance on accounting matters; comments on prospectuses relating to the issuance of securities by air carriers when so requested by the Securities and Exchange Commission; conducts desk audits of carrier financial and statistical reports filed with the Board; and maintains liaison with accounting personnel in private, public and government practice.

SEC. 6.6 Redelegations of authority to the Chief, Regulations and Reports Division. The Chief, Office of Carrier Accounts and Statistics, has redelegated to the Chief, Regulations and Reports Division, the authority cited in subsections 6.3E, 6.3F, and 6.3H.

SEC. 6.7 Functions of the Field Audits Division. The Field Audits Division conducts field examinations of accounts and records of air carriers to insure adherence to the accounting and reporting requirements; obtains correction by carriers of deficiencies in accounting and reporting practices as revealed by audit; collects data requested by other organizational units of the Board requiring access to carrier records, provides expert advice and assistance on auditing matters; and maintains liaison with auditing personnel in industry and other Federal agencies. The Field Audits Division maintains field offices at 2 Park Avenue, Room 2004, New York 16, New York; 207 Second Avenue, San Mateo, California; and the Pacific Building, Room 1401, 324 Northeast First Avenue, Miami 32, Florida.

SEC. 6.8 Functions of the Research and Statistics Division. The Research and Statistics Division conducts comprehensive economic surveys and studies related to the development and regulation of civil air transportation; develops instructions for the conduct of periodic traffic surveys and other research projects and supervises the technical performance of such projects; prepares recurrent reports of operational and financial data; prepares special reports to meet stipulated requirements and maintains liaison with statistical personnel in industry and government.

OFFICE OF THE GENERAL COUNSEL

SEC. 7.1 Organization. The Office of the General Counsel consists of the following organizational components: The Immediate Office of the General Counsel, the Rules and Legislation Division, the Litigation and Research Division, the Opinion Writing Division and the Special Counsel Division.

SEC. 7.2 Functions of the General Counsel. The General Counsel supervises the Office of the General Counsel which is responsible for advising the Board and its staff on legal aspects (relating to domestic as well as international or foreign law) of the regulatory and accident investigation activities of the Board; representing the Board in negotiations and at conferences where legal matters are involved; and representing the Board on governmental committees and committees of international organizations. In addition, the Office of the General Counsel performs the functions handled by its four Divisions as stated below.

SEC. 7.3 Delegated authority of the General Counsel. The Board has delegated to the General Counsel the authority to:

A. In accordance with the provisions of Part 311 of the Board's Procedural Regulations approve, disapprove, or request further information concerning requests for testimony of Board employees, with respect to their participation in the investigation of aircraft accidents.

B. In safety enforcement proceedings the General Counsel is authorized to: approve or disapprove for good cause shown requests for changes in procedural requirements subsequent to the initial decision; grant or deny requests to file additional briefs pursuant to Section 301.47 of the Procedural Regulations; raise on appeal any issue, the resolution of which he deems important to the proper disposition of proceedings under Section 301.46 of the Procedural Regulations; dismiss appeals from initial decisions upon his finding that the appellant has failed to prosecute his appeal as required by §§ 301.46 and 301.47 of the Procedural Regulations, that the appellant has requested dismissal of the appeal, or that the matter has otherwise become moot.

C. Approve or disapprove for good cause shown requests to extend the time for filing comments on proposed new or amended regulations.

D. To grant or deny, by letter, any motion made by an air carrier association pursuant to § 263.3 of the Economic Regulations for leave to participate in a Board proceeding in which no formal hearing is held.

E. To issue revised Certificates of Public Convenience and Necessity and Foreign Air Permits when revisions thereof are made necessary due to a change in name of the carrier or of points specified in the certificate or permit, providing that no issue of substance concerning the operating authority of a carrier is involved.

F. To issue revised Certificates of Public Convenience and Necessity in cases where the Board has previously authorized a certain carrier to serve a particular point in substitution for another carrier, after proper showing has been made that such a transfer of service has or will be completed on a specified date.

SEC. 7.4 Redelegation of authority. The General Counsel is authorized to redelegate the authority recited in section 7.3 above.

SEC. 7.5 Functions of the Rules and Legislation Division. The Rules and Legislation Division examines legislative proposals of official interest to the Board and prepares comments and reports thereon; drafts proposed legislation; prepares, reviews and interprets regulations and amendments thereto, and insures that the proper procedural steps are followed in the promulgation thereof; and provides legal advice and assistance on matters relating to defense mobilization and internal administration.

SEC. 7.6 Redelegations of authority to Associate General Counsel, Rules and Legislation. The General Counsel has redelegated to the Associate General Counsel, Rules and Legislation, the authority stated in subsections 7.3A, 7.3C, and 7.3D.

SEC. 7.7 Functions of the Litigation and Research Division. The Litigation and Research Division represents the Board in court actions to which the Board is a party, or is interested, except enforcement litigation handled by the Bureau of Enforcement, and performs legal research and renders legal opinions based thereon on matters relating to the Board's work.

SEC. 7.8 Functions of the Opinion Writing Division. In accordance with instructions of the Board, the Opinion Writing Division drafts opinions, orders, certificates and permits in cases where the issues, substantive or procedural, warrant formal expression by the Board; and recommends to the Board appropriate action (a) with respect to motions to review the decision of the Bureau of Enforcement not to institute an enforcement proceeding; (b) on appeals from rules of Examiners; (c) on petitions for reconsideration of previously prepared orders, and (d) with respect to other motions or petitions filed at any time after the Examiner's report is issued.

SEC. 7.9 Redelegations of authority to the Associate General Counsel, Opinion Writing. The General Counsel has redelegated to the Associate General Counsel, Opinion Writing, the authority stated in subsections 7.3B, 7.3E, and 7.3F.

SEC. 7.10 Functions of the Special Counsel Division. The Special Counsel Division advises the Members, staff, industry representatives and the public on legal and related aspects of the Board's regulatory responsibilities including international civil aviation, air carrier routes, routes structures and operating authorizations, inter-carrier and intercorporate agreements and relationships and anti-trust and labor matters and rates and subsidy matters. The Division also furnishes substantive and technical advice in connection with projects affecting several areas of the Board's legal activities, assists attorneys in other offices and bureaus as required.

BUREAU OF ENFORCEMENT

SEC. 8.1 Organization. The Bureau of Enforcement consists of the following organizational components: The Office of the Director, the Legal Division, the Investigation Division and the Service Complaint Section.

SEC. 8.2 Functions of the Director. The Director supervises the Bureau of Enforcement which is responsible for the development and execution of a program to obtain compliance with the provisions of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958, and of regulations, orders and other requirements promulgated by the Board.

SEC. 8.3 Delegated authority of the Director, Bureau of Enforcement. The Board has delegated to the Director, Bureau of Enforcement, the authority to:

A. Institute an economic enforcement proceeding by docketing a petition for enforcement whenever, in his opinion, there are reasonable grounds to believe that any provision of the Act or any rule, regulation, order, limitation, condition or other requirement established pursuant thereto, has been or is being violated, that efforts to arrive at any adjustment or settlement have failed and that investigation of the alleged violation is in the public interest.

B. Advise the complainant in writing within a reasonable time after a formal complaint has been processed that no enforcement proceeding will be instituted with respect to his complaint and the reasons therefor; such letter shall be deemed an order of the Board dismissing the complaint unless complainant requests the Board to review the ruling.

C. Institute and prosecute in the proper court, as agent of the Board, all necessary proceedings for the enforcement of the provisions of the Act or any rule, regulation, requirement, or order thereunder, or any term, condition, or limitation of any certificate or permit, and for the punishment of all violations thereof.

D. Determine, in accordance with Board policies, in each case where a relationship has been established illegally prior to Board approval required under sections 408 and 409 of the Act, whether "exceptional circumstances" exist which would justify processing an application for approval of such relationship notwithstanding the existence of the violation.

E. Compromise civil penalties being imposed for violation of the Board's Safety Investigation Regulations, according to established Board policies and standards and when the penalty does not exceed $100.

F. Additional authority of the Director, Bureau of Enforcement, is set forth in Subpart B of this Part 302 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

SEC. 8.4 Functions of the Legal Division. The Legal Division negotiates with air carriers and ticket agents to obtain voluntary compliance with the Act or Board regulations. The Legal Division also institutes and prosecutes formal actions before the Board against air carriers and ticket agents alleged to have violated the Act or Board orders and regulations, seeking revocation or suspension of operating authority or entry of orders to cease and desist. This Division also institutes and prosecutes on behalf of the Board, through the Department of Justice and appropriate U.S. Attorneys, civil and criminal actions to obtain compliance with provisions of the Act or regulations of the Board; and represents the Board as amicus curiae or intervenor in litigation between private parties involving possible violations of the Act or regulations thereunder.

SEC. 8.5 Functions of the Investigation Division. The Investigation Division conducts investigations of alleged or suspected violations of the economic provisions of the Act and of the Board's Economic Regulations on its own initiative, by request of the Board or other Offices or Bureaus of the Board, or on the basis of complaints received from outside individuals, organizations or air carriers; makes reports on all investigations performed for use in considering or effecting compliance actions; testifies at Board hearings or in court cases; and performs field studies and other investigations as assigned.

SEC. 8.6 Functions of the Service Complaint Section. The Service Complaint Section conducts informal investigations of passenger and shipper complaints filed with the Board, seeking to obtain compliance with the economic provisions of the Act or Board regulations by informal means wherever apparent violations are uncovered.

SEC. 9.1 [Reserved]

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY

SEC. 10.1 The Secretary. The Secretary is responsible for recording all formal actions of the Board; for processing, including review as to accuracy, form and content, of all documents evidencing such action; and for authenticating Board records for any official purpose. Pursuant to the Federal Aviation Act of 1958, the Secretary has legal custody of records and documents as specified therein. He is also responsible, through the Public Information Officer for keeping the public and the air transport industry advised of major actions of the Board and for serving as the primary channel through which inquiries from the public, the press or the industry are answered.

SEC. 10.2 Delegations of authority. The Secretary is authorized to certify as true and correct copies, transcripts of records required by section 1006(c) of the Federal Aviation Act to be filed with the Appellate Court.

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATION

SEC. 11.1 Organization. The Office of Administration consists of the following organizational components: The Office of the Chief, the Budget and Fiscal Section, the Carrier Payments Section, the Management Analysis Section, the Personnel Section, the General Services Section, the Publications Section and the Library.

SEC. 11.2 Functions. The Office of Administration is responsible for providing budget, fiscal, management, personnel and other administrative services to the Board and the staff which include: (a) Developing the Board's annual budget estimates for "Salaries and Expenses" as well as estimates of appropriations for "Payments to Air Carriers" and the justification of these estimates before the Bureau of the Budget and the Appropriations Committees of Congress; (b) developing the Board's annual fiscal plan for utilizing the appropriation for "Salaries and Expenses" and maintaining a system for administrative control of expenditures to conform with such plan and the requirements of law and of regulations; (c) disbursement of, and accounting for, subsidy payments to air carriers which involves among other things, review and processing of the carriers' monthly billings; (d) appraisal of and recommendations concerning the organization of the Board, distribution of functions, operating procedures and management techniques and maintenance of a Manual setting forth current organization, methods and administrative practices; (e) recommending and administering personnel policies and programs and insuring that the same comply with the law and regulations; (f) provision for space, equipment, supplies, communications, duplicating and other resources and facilities.

PERSONS IN "ACTING" CAPACITY

SEC. 12.1 Authority to designate. The head of each Office and Bureau has the authority to designate a member of his staff to serve as acting head of the Office or Bureau in his absence or disability or to serve as the acting chief of any organizational component of the Office or Bureau in the absence or disability of the chief of such component.

SEC. 12.2 Authority of person in acting capacity. The person serving in an acting capacity may exercise all of the authority including delegated authority, which is vested in the officer for whom he serves.

GENERAL DELEGATIONS OF AUTHORITY

SEC. 13.1 Special agents and auditors. Special agents and auditors are authorized to inspect and examine lands, buildings, equipment, accounts, records and memoranda of air carriers and to make notes and copies thereof. The terms "special agent" and "Auditor" are respectively construed to mean (1) any employee of the Bureau of Enforcement, any employee of the Bureau of Safety and any other employee of the Board specifically designated by it or the Secretary of the Board; and (2) any employee of the Audits Division, Office of Carrier Accounts and Statistics.

SEC. 13.2 Officers and employees. All officers and employees of the Board are authorized to request such information from, or make such contact with, the public or agencies of Government as may be necessary to the proper discharge of assigned duties.

OPTIONS OF APPLICANT

SEC. 14.1 Options of applicant where application is denied under delegated authority. Whenever an application is denied by a staff official acting pursuant to a delegation of authority from the Board, the applicant has the following options: He may (a) withdraw his request, (b) modify and resubmit the request, (c) ask that the request be referred to the Board or (d) request a hearing before an examiner, as appropriate, for the particular case.

Effective: August 1, 1960.

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

[Docket No. CP61-53]

COLORADO INTERSTATE GAS CO.

Notice of Application and Date of Hearing

DECEMBER 8, 1960.

Take notice that Colorado Interstate Gas Company (Applicant), a Delaware corporation with a principal place of business in the Colorado Springs National Bank Building, Colorado Springs, Colorado, filed an application on August 22, and a supplement thereto on October 3, 1960, in Docket No. CP61-53, pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act for authorization to (1) construct and operate two new meter stations in or near the Southeast Quarter of the Southeast Quarter of Section 17, Township 19 South, Range 68 West, Fremont County, Colorado; (2) abandon and transfer by sale to Ideal Cement Company (Ideal) a segment of lateral (Portland lateral and Portland lateral extension) consisting of 0.463 miles of 8-inch pipeline and the Ideal Cement West Plant meter station; (3) to abandon and transfer by sale to Plateau Natural Gas Company (Plateau) a segment of lateral (Fibreboard Paper Products lateral) consisting of 1.98 miles of 4-inch pipeline, the Fibreboard Paper Products meter station and the Portland Village meter station; and (4) abandon and retire an existing meter station (Ideal Cement Plant station) and three short segments of lateral, simultaneously with the transfer of facilities to Ideal and Plateau.

The foregoing is more fully described in the application and supplement on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

The application states Applicant now makes three sales of natural gas in the vicinity of Portland from its 8-inch Portland lateral, two direct interruptible sales to the Ideal Cement Company plant and Fibreboard Paper Products Corporation, and a third to Plateau Natural Gas Company for resale in Portland.

Applicant states it operates meter stations at the end of two branch lines off the 8-inch lateral for deliveries to Ideal Cement at two points; it also operates a separate meter station on one of those branch lines for service to Fibreboard and another meter station on the same line for service to Plateau. It proposes to simplify its operations in this area by transferring segments of the branch lines to Ideal and Plateau, letting Plateau serve Fibreboard and consolidating its metering to Ideal and Plateau in one location at the eastern terminus of the lines to be transferred. In connection with the proposal, Plateau will build a new 4-inch branch line about 0.275 miles long from Applicant's new meter station so that it will be able to handle its gas for distribution in Portland and for sale to its new customer, Fibreboard, without commingling with Ideal's gas. Ideal will operate the two existing branch lines which would extend to the two existing Ideal meter stations, one of which will also be transferred to Ideal and the other retired. That portion of the branch line now serving Fibreboard will be disconnected and attached to Plateau's new 4-inch line.

Applicant states facilities to be sold to Plateau have an original cost of $35,406, accrued depreciation of $29,755 and a net book value of $5,651, which Plateau proposes to pay to Applicant. Those to be transferred to Ideal Cement have an original cost value of $14,599, estimated accrued depreciation of $5,973, and a net book value of $8,626. The facilities are to be transferred to Ideal at a nominal value of "one dollar ($1.00) and other good and valuable consideration," with the estimated book loss of $8,626 to be charged to reserve for depreciation. The facilities to be retired have an original cost of $3,412, accrued depreciation of $3,174, and a net book value of $238.

The two metering stations to be constructed are estimated to cost $30,800 which will be financed from current funds on hand.

This matter is one that should be disposed of as promptly as possible under the applicable rules and regulations and to that end:

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act, and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held on December 29, 1960, at 9:30 a.m., e.s.t., in a Hearing Room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street, NW., Washington, D.C., concerning the matters involved in and the issues presented by such application: Provided, however, That the Commission may, after a noncontested hearing, dispose of the proceedings pursuant to the provisions of § 1.30(c) (1) or (2) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure. Under the procedure herein provided for unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicant to appear or be represented at the hearing.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D.C., in accordance with the rules and practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before December 27, 1960. Failure of any party to appear at and participate in the hearing shall be construed as waiver of and concurrence in omission herein of the intermediate decision procedure in cases where a request therefor is made.

JOSEPH H. GUTRIDE,
Secretary.

[5] Four-step periodic increase for J. Ray McDermott & Co., Inc. interest only.

The increased rates and charges so proposed may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds: It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon hearings concerning the lawfulness of the several proposed changes and that the above-designated supplements be suspended and the use thereof deferred as hereinafter ordered.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority of the Natural Gas Act, particularly sections 4 and 15 thereof, the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, and the regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR Ch. I), public hearings shall be held upon the dates to be fixed by notices from the Secretary concerning the lawfulness of the several proposed increased rates and charges contained in the above-designated supplements.

(B) Pending hearings and decisions thereon, the above-designated supplements are hereby suspended and the use thereof deferred until the date indicated in the above "Rate Suspended Until" column, and thereafter until such further time as they are made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(C) Neither the supplements hereby suspended, nor the rate schedules sought to be altered thereby, shall be changed until these proceedings have been disposed of or until the periods of suspension have expired, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission.

(D) Notices of intervention or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D.C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37(f)) on or before January 23, 1961.

By the Commission.

Rules and Regulations

Title 14—AERONAUTICS AND SPACE

Chapter II—Civil Aeronautics Board

SUBCHAPTER B—PROCEDURAL REGULATIONS

[Reg. No. PR-45]

PART 302—RULES OF PRACTICE IN ECONOMIC PROCEEDINGS

Formal Intervention

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D.C., on the 14th day of December 1960.

The Board, on November 15, 1960, delegated to the Chief Examiner, with authority to redelegate to Examiners, authority to grant or deny intervention in all hearing proceedings, such actions to be by "notice" rather than by Board order. Action under this delegated authority is subject to modification or reversal by the Board, on its own motion or upon petition or application by an air carrier or other person affected by, or having a substantial interest in, such action.

The Procedural Regulation dealing with formal intervention, § 302.15 of Part 302, contains language which could be interpreted to signify that petitions for intervention are always disposed of by Board order. It therefore appears advisable to amend said section to avoid this appearance of inconsistency.

Since this amendment is not a substantive rule but one of agency procedure, notice and public procedure hereon are unnecessary, and the amendment may be made effective upon less than 30 days' notice.

In consideration of the foregoing, the Civil Aeronautics Board hereby amends § 302.15 of Part 302 of the Procedural Regulations (14 CFR 302.15) effective December 17, 1960 in the following manner:

1. By amending the introductory phrase of paragraph (b) as follows:

(b) Considerations relevant to determination of petition to intervene. In passing upon a petition to intervene, the following factors, among other things, will be considered:

* * * * *

2. By amending subparagraph (4) of paragraph (c) to read as follows:

(4) Disposition. The decision granting, denying or otherwise ruling on any petition to intervene may be issued without receiving testimony or oral argument either from the petitioner or other parties to the proceeding.

(Sec. 204(a), 72 Stat. 743; 49 U.S.C. 1324. Interpret or apply sec. 1001, 72 Stat. 788; 49 U.S.C. 1481)

By the Civil Aeronautics Board.

[SEAL] ROBERT C. LESTER, Secretary.

Chapter III—Federal Aviation Agency

SUBCHAPTER E—AIR NAVIGATION REGULATIONS

[Airspace Docket No. 60-NY-79]

PART 600—DESIGNATION OF FEDERAL AIRWAYS

PART 601—DESIGNATION OF THE CONTINENTAL CONTROL AREA, CONTROL AREAS, CONTROL ZONES, REPORTING POINTS, POSITIVE CONTROL ROUTE SEGMENTS, AND POSITIVE CONTROL AREAS

Modification of Federal Airways and Associated Control Areas, and Revocation of Reporting Point

On September 14, 1960, a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (25 F.R. 8830) stating that the Federal Aviation Agency proposed to modify VOR Federal airways Nos. 3, 4, 223 and 265. In addition, the Fairland, Md., intersection would be revoked as a domestic VOR reporting point.

Although not mentioned in the Notice, the modification of Victor 3 and Victor 4 requires amendments to the captions of §§ 601.6003 and 601.6004 which designate the control areas associated with these airways. Such action is taken herein.

No adverse comments were received regarding the proposed amendments.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of the rules herein adopted, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

The substance of the proposed amendments having been published, therefore, pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (24 F.R. 4530) and for the reasons stated in the notice, the following actions are taken:

§ 600.6003 [Amendment]

1. In § 600.6003 (14 CFR 600.6003; 25 F.R. 2011, 2662, 5691, 3814, 8861, 10342) the following changes are made:

(a) In the caption "(Key West, Fla., to Presque Isle, Maine)" is deleted and "(Key West, Fla., to McLean, Va., and Riverdale, Md., to Presque Isle, Maine)" is substituted therefor.

(b) In the text "point of INT of the Herndon, Va., VOR 145° and the Washington TVOR 245° radials; to the Washington, D.C., TVOR." is deleted and "to the INT of the Brooke VOR 012° True and the Herndon, Va., VOR 118° True radials." is substituted therefor.

§ 600.6004 [Amendment]

2. In § 600.6004 (14 CFR 600.6004; 25 F.R. 2009, 2883, 5329, 8483, 3755, 4857) the following changes are made:

(a) In the caption "(Seattle, Wash., to Herndon, Va.)" is deleted and "(Seattle, Wash., to McLean, Va.)" is substituted therefor.

(b) In the text "to the Herndon, Va., VOR." is deleted and "Herndon, Va., VOR; to the INT of the Herndon VOR 118° True and the Brooke, Va., VOR 012° True radials." is substituted therefor.

3. Section 600.6223 (14 CFR 600.6223) is amended to read:

§ 600.6223 VOR Federal airway No. 223 (Doncaster, Md., to Harrisburg, Pa.).

From the INT of the Herndon, Va., VOR 143° True and the Washington, D.C., VOR 189° True radials via the Herndon VOR; to the Harrisburg, Pa., VOR.

§ 600.6265 [Amendment]

4. In § 600.6265 (14 CFR 600.6265) the following changes are made:

(a) In the caption "(Washington, D.C., to Dunkirk, N.Y.)" is deleted and "(Linden, Va., to Dunkirk, N.Y.)" is substituted therefor.

PART 600—DESIGNATION OF FEDERAL AIRWAYS

PART 601—DESIGNATION OF THE CONTINENTAL CONTROL AREA, CONTROL AREAS, CONTROL ZONES, REPORTING POINTS, POSITIVE CONTROL ROUTE SEGMENTS, AND POSITIVE CONTROL AREAS

Modification of Federal Airway, Associated Control Areas and Designated Reporting Points

On October 8, 1960, a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (25 F.R. 9686) stating that the Federal Aviation Agency proposed to revoke the segment of Red Federal airway No. 8, its associated control areas and reporting points, between Rushville, Ind., and South Solon, Ohio.

No adverse comments were received regarding the proposed amendments.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of the rules herein adopted, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

The substance of the proposed amendments having been published, therefore, pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (24 F.R. 4530) and for the reasons stated in the notice, the following actions are taken:

1. Section 600.208 (14 CFR 600.208) is amended to read:

§ 600.208 Red Federal airway No. 8 (Lock Haven, Pa., to Crystal Lake, Pa.).

From the INT of the SW course of the Elmira, N.Y., RR and the W course of the Williamsport, Pa., RR via the Williamsport RR to the Crystal Lake, Pa., RBN.

§ 601.208 [Amendment]

2. In the caption of § 601.208 (14 CFR 601.208) "Rushville, Ind., to South Solon, Ohio, and" is deleted.

§ 601.4208 [Amendment]

3. In the caption of § 601.4208 (14 CFR 601.4208) "Rushville, Ind., to South Solon, Ohio, and" is deleted.

These amendments shall become effective 0001 e.s.t. February 9, 1961.

PART 601—DESIGNATION OF THE CONTINENTAL CONTROL AREA, CONTROL AREAS, CONTROL ZONES, REPORTING POINTS, POSITIVE CONTROL ROUTE SEGMENTS, AND POSITIVE CONTROL AREAS

Modification of Control Zone

On September 23, 1960, a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (25 F.R. 9152) stating that the Federal Aviation Agency proposed to modify the Pellston, Mich., control zone.

No adverse comments were received regarding the proposed amendment.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of the rule herein adopted, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

The substance of the proposed amendment having been published, therefore, pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (24 F.R. 4530) and for the reasons stated in the notice, § 601.2060 (14 CFR 601.2060) is amended to read:

§ 601.2060 Pellston, Mich., control zone.

Within a 5-mile radius of the Emmet County Airport, Pellston, Mich. (latitude 45°34'40'' N., longitude 84°47'40'' W.), within 2 miles either side of the 132° True bearing from the Pellston RBN extending from the 5-mile radius zone to 12 miles SE of the RBN, and within 2 miles either side of the 240° True radial of the Pellston VOR extending from the 5-mile radius zone to the VOR.

This amendment shall become effective 0001 e.s.t. February 9, 1961.

PART 608—RESTRICTED AREAS

Modification of Restricted Area

The purpose of this amendment to § 608.25 of the regulations of the Administrator is to modify the Camp Breckinridge, Ky., Restricted Area (R-51) (Nashville Chart).

The presently designated altitudes and time of designation of Restricted Area (R-51) are from the surface to 20,000 feet MSL, continuously, during the period April 1 through September 30, annually. Restricted Area (R-51) is an area of approximately 76 square miles, designated for artillery, mortar and small arms firing, and its controlling agency is the 101st Airborne Division and Camp Breckinridge, Ky.

The Department of the Army has concurred that a reduction of approximately 38 square miles in the size of R-51 can be accomplished without adversely affecting the Army mission and that the time of use can be changed to June 1 through August 31 annually. Additionally, the controlling agency is changed to the Commanding General, U.S. Army Armor Center, Ft. Knox, Ky., to indicate the command presently responsible for utilization of the airspace within R-51. The Federal Aviation Agency is taking action herein to reflect these changes.

Since this amendment reduces a burden on the public, compliance with the notice, public procedure and effective date requirements of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act is unnecessary and it may be made effective immediately.

In consideration of the foregoing, and pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (25 F.R. 8005), the following action is taken:

In § 608.25 Kentucky, the Camp Breckinridge, Ky., Restricted Area (R-51) (Nashville Chart) (23 F.R. 8581, 9773) is amended to read:

Camp Breckinridge, Ky. (R-51) (Nashville Chart):

Description by geographical coordinates. From latitude 37°39'20'' N., longitude 87°-52'20'' W., northeast to latitude 37°40'20 N., longitude 87°51'10'' W., east to latitude 37°40'20'' N., longitude 87°49'40'' W., north to latitude 37°42'20'' N., longitude 87°49'40'' W., northeast to latitude 37°42'45'' N., longitude 87°47'30'' W., southeast to latitude 37°-38'35'' N., longitude 87°42'00'' W., south to latitude 37°36'40'' N., longitude 87°42'00'' W., northwest to latitude 37°37''30'' N., longitude 87°45'00'' W., northwest to point of beginning.

Designated altitudes. Surface to 20,000 feet MSL.

Time of designation. June 1 through August 31 annually.

Controlling agency. Commanding General, U.S. Army Armor Center, Fort Knox, Ky.

This amendment shall become effective upon the date of publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(Sec. 307(a), 72 Stat. 749; 49 U.S.C. 1348)

Issued in Washington, D.C., on December 9, 1960.

Director, Bureau of Air Traffic Management.

PART 609—STANDARD INSTRUMENT APPROACH PROCEDURES

Miscellaneous Amendments

The amendments to standard instrument approach procedures contained herein are being adopted to become effective when indicated in order to promote safety. The revised procedures supersede the existing procedures of the same classification now in effect for the airports specified therein. For the convenience of the users, the revised procedures specify the complete procedure and indicate the changes to the existing procedures.

As a situation exists which demands immediate action in the interests of safety in air commerce, I find that compliance with the notice, procedure and effective date provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act would be contrary to the public interest and is therefore not required.

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (24 F.R. 5662), Part 609 is amended as follows:

1. The low or medium frequency range procedures prescribed in § 609.100(a) are amended to read in part:

LFR STANDARD INSTRUMENT APPROACH PROCEDURE

Bearings, headings, courses and radials are magnetic. Elevations and altitudes are in feet MSL. Ceilings are in feet above airport elevation. Distances are in nautical miles unless otherwise indicated, except visibilities which are in statute miles

If an instrument approach procedure of the above type is conducted at the below named airport, it shall be in accordance with the following instrument approach procedure, unless an approach is conducted in accordance with a different procedure for such airport authorized by the Administrator of the Federal Aviation Agency. Initial approaches shall be made over specified routes. Minimum altitudes shall correspond with those established for en route operation in the particular area or as set forth below.

ILS STANDARD INSTRUMENT APPROACH PROCEDURE

Bearings, headings, courses and radials are magnetic. Elevations and altitudes are in feet MSL. Ceilings are in feet above airport elevation. Distances are in nautical miles unless otherwise indicated, except visibilities which are in statute miles.

If an instrument approach procedure of the above type is conducted at the below named airport, it shall be in accordance with the following instrument approach procedure, unless an approach is conducted in accordance with a different procedure for such airport authorized by the Administrator of the Federal Aviation Agency. Initial approaches shall be made over specified routes. Minimum altitudes shall correspond with those established for en route operation in the particular area or as set forth below.

FAIRLY UNIFORM IN SIZE

On August 6, 1960, a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (25 F.R. 7436) regarding a proposed amendment to § 51.2802(c) of the United States Standards for Lemons (§§ 51.2795–51.2819).

After consideration of all relevant matters presented, including the proposal set forth in the aforesaid notice, § 51.2802(c) of the United States Standards for Lemons is hereby amended pursuant to the authority contained in the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946 (secs. 202–208, 60 Stat. 1087, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 1621–1627). As amended, paragraph (c) reads as follows:

(c) "Fairly uniform in size" means that when lemons are packed for 165 carton count or smaller size, or equivalent sizes when packed in other containers, not less than 90 percent, by count, of the lemons in any container shall be within a diameter range of four-sixteenths inch; when packed for sizes larger than 165 carton count, or equivalent sizes packed in other containers, not less than 90 percent, by count, of the lemons in any container shall be within a diameter range of six-sixteenths inch.

Amended § 51.2802(c) of the United States Standards for Lemons set forth herein shall become effective January 15, 1961.

Dated: December 14, 1960, to become effective January 15, 1961.

§ 914.497 Navel Orange Regulation 197.

(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 14, as amended (7 CFR Part 914), regulating the handling of navel oranges grown in Arizona and designated part of California, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601–674), and upon the basis of the recommendations and information submitted by the Navel Orange Administrative Committee, established under the said amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of handling of such navel oranges, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act by tending to establish and maintain such orderly marketing conditions for such oranges as will provide, in the interests of producers and consumers, an orderly flow of the supply thereof to market throughout the normal marketing season to avoid unreasonable fluctuations in supplies and prices, and is not for the purpose of maintaining prices to farmers above the level which it is declared to be the policy of Congress to establish under the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication hereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (5 U.S.C. 1001–1011) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient, and a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions hereof effective as hereinafter set forth. The committee held an open meeting during the current week, after giving due notice thereof, to consider supply and market conditions for navel oranges and the need for regulation; interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit information and views at this meeting, the recommendation and supporting information for regulation during the period specified herein were promptly submitted to the Department after such meeting was held; the provisions of this section, including its effective time, are identical with the aforesaid recommendation of the committee, and information concerning such provisions and effective time has been disseminated among handlers of such navel oranges; it is necessary, in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, to make this section effective during the period herein specified; and compliance with this section will not require any special preparation on the part of persons subject hereto which cannot be completed on or before the effective date hereof. Such committee meeting was held on December 15, 1960.

(b) Order. (1) The respective quantities of navel oranges grown in Arizona and designated part of California which may be handled during the period beginning at 12:01 a.m., P.s.t., December 18, 1960, and ending at 12:01 a.m., P.s.t., December 25, 1960, are hereby fixed as follows:

(i) District 1: 400,000 cartons;

(ii) District 2: 70,290 cartons;

(iii) District 3: 25,000 cartons;

(iv) District 4: Unlimited movement.

(2) As used in this section, "handled," "District 1," "District 2," "District 3," "District 4," and "carton" have the same meaning as when used in said amended marketing agreement and order.

AUTHORITY: §§ 949.0 to 949.101 issued under secs. 1–19, 48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 601–674.

§ 949.0 Findings and determinations.

The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and of the previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order regulating the handling of milk in the San Antonio, Texas, marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order as hereby amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act;

(2) The parity prices of milk, as determined pursuant to section 2 of the Act, are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the order as hereby amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest;

(3) The said order as hereby amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as, and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial or commercial activity specified in, a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

(4) All milk and milk products handled by handlers, as defined in the order as hereby amended, are in the current of interstate commerce or directly burden, obstruct, or affect interstate commerce in milk or its products; and

(5) It is hereby found that the necessary expense of the market administrator for the maintenance and functioning of such agency will require the payment by each handler, as his pro rata share of such expense, 4 cents per hundredweight or such amount not to exceed 4 cents per hundredweight as the Secretary may prescribe with respect to skim milk and butterfat (i) received from producers, (ii) received at a pool plant as other source milk and allocated to Class I milk, or (iii) distributed as Class I milk in the marketing area from a nonpool plant during such preceding month.

(b) Additional findings. It is necessary in the public interest to make this order amending the order effective not later than January 1, 1961. Any delay beyond that date would tend to disrupt the orderly marketing of milk in the marketing area.

The provisions of the said order are known to handlers. The recommended decisions of the Deputy Administrator of the Agricultural Marketing Service were issued February 1 and August 19, 1960 and the decision of the Assistant Secretary containing all amendment provisions of this order, was issued November 16, 1960. The changes effected by this order will not require extensive preparation or substantial alteration in method of operation for handlers. In view of the foregoing, it is hereby found and determined that good cause exists for making this order amending the order effective January 1, 1961, and that it would be contrary to the public interest to delay the effective date of this order for 30 days after its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER (sec. 4(c), Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. 1001–1011).

(c) Determinations. It is hereby determined that:

(1) The refusal or failure of handlers (excluding cooperative associations specified in section 8c(9) of the Act) of more than 50 percent of the milk, which is marketed within the marketing area, to sign a proposed marketing agreement, tends to prevent the effectuation of the declared policy of the Act;

(2) The issuance of this order, amending the order, is the only practical means pursuant to the declared policy of the Act of advancing the interests of producers as defined in the order as herein amended; and

(3) The issuance of the order amending the order is approved or favored by at least two-thirds of the producers who during the determined representative period were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered, that on and after the effective date hereof, the handling of milk in the San Antonio, Texas, marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order as hereby amended, and the aforesaid order is hereby amended to read as follows:

DEFINITIONS

§ 949.1 Act.

"Act" means Public Act No. 10, 73d Congress, as amended, and as reenacted and amended, by the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.).

§ 949.2 Secretary.

"Secretary" means the Secretary of Agriculture of the United States or any other officer or employee of the United States authorized to exercise the powers and to perform the duties of the said Secretary of Agriculture.

§ 949.3 Person.

"Person" means any individual, partnership, corporation, association, or any other business unit.

§ 949.4 Cooperative association.

"Cooperative association" means any cooperative marketing association of producers which the Secretary determines after application by the association (a) to have its entire activities under the control of its members, (b) to have full authority in the sale of milk of its members, and (c) to be qualified under the provisions of the act of Congress of February 18, 1922, as amended, known as the "Capper-Volstead Act".

§ 949.5 San Antonio, Texas, marketing area.

"San Antonio, Texas, marketing area" hereinafter called the "marketing area" means all the territory including all municipal corporations and all Federal military reservations, facilities and installations located within the boundaries of Bexar County, Texas.

§ 949.6 Distributing plant.

"Distributing plant" means all the buildings, premises, and facilities of a plant:

(a) Which is approved by an appropriate health authority having jurisdiction in the marketing area or by another health authority whose certification is accepted by such health authority for the processing of Grade A milk or which is acceptable to an agency of the Federal government for distribution of milk to its installations in the marketing area;

(b) In which milk or skim milk is processed or packaged; and

(c) From which Class I milk is disposed of during the month on routes in the marketing area or from which Class I milk is supplied to installations located in the marketing area of an agency of the Federal government.

§ 949.7 Supply plant.

"Supply plant" means all the buildings, premises, and facilities of a plant equipped to either receive or cool milk, which is approved by the appropriate health authority to supply fluid milk for distribution as Grade A milk in the marketing area, and from which an amount equal to not less than 50 percent of its receipts from dairy farmers, who would be producers if the plant qualified as a pool plant, are shipped to a distributing plant during the month: Provided, That any plant which qualifies as a supply plant for each of the months of July through February shall be considered to be a supply plant for the following months of March through June of such year, except that if the operator of such plant files a written request with the market administrator, supply plant status shall be terminated as of the first of the following month.

§ 949.8 Pool plant.

"Pool plant" means:

(a) A distributing plant (other than one exempt pursuant to § 949.60) which disposes of as Class I milk on routes in the marketing area 15 percent or more of its receipts of milk during the month from pool plants and from dairy farmers conforming to the requirements set forth in § 949.11;

(b) A supply plant; and

(c) Any plant approved by an appropriate health authority having jurisdiction in the marketing area to supply milk for distribution as Grade A milk in the marketing area which is operated by a cooperative association, and 50 percent or more of the producer milk of members is received during the month in the pool plants of other handlers, or is transferred to such plants from the plant of the cooperative association.

§ 949.9 Nonpool plant.

"Nonpool plant" means any plant, other than a pool plant, engaged in receiving, manufacturing or distributing milk.

§ 949.10 Handler.

"Handler" means:

(a) Any person in his capacity as the operator of one or more pool plants;

(b) Any person in his capacity as the operator of a nonpool plant from which Class I milk is disposed of on routes in the marketing area;

(c) A cooperative association with respect to the milk of a member producer diverted to a nonpool plant for its account pursuant to § 949.11 for each day's milk production that such producer's milk is diverted during the month. Milk so diverted shall be deemed to have been received by the association at a pool plant at the location of the pool plant at which the milk was received prior to diversion; and

(d) A cooperative association with respect to the producer milk of its members which is delivered directly from the farm to the pool plant of a handler in a tank truck owned and operated by or under contract to such cooperative association unless the cooperative association notifies the market administrator and the handler to whom the milk is delivered in writing, prior to the first day of the month, that it does not desire to be the handler for such milk. Milk for which the cooperative association is the handler pursuant to this paragraph shall be deemed to have been received by the association at a pool plant at the location of the pool plant to which it is delivered.

§ 949.11 Producer.

"Producer" means any person who produces milk, (a) under a dairy farm permit or rating for the production of milk to be disposed of for consumption as Grade A milk, issued by an appropriate health authority having jurisdiction in the marketing area or by another health authority whose certification is accepted by such health authority, or (b) which is acceptable to an agency of the Federal government for fluid consumption in its institutions or bases located in the marketing area; which is received directly from the farm at a pool plant or diverted from a pool plant to a nonpool plant for the account of a cooperative association: Provided, That if the days of production of such person for which milk is diverted exceeds one-third of the days of production that milk is delivered to a pool plant during the month, such milk shall cease to be producer milk for the entire period of such diversion. This definition shall not include any person with respect to milk produced by him which is received by a handler partially exempt, pursuant to § 949.60, nor shall it include a dairy farmer during the months of March through June, if milk from the same dairy farmer (or farm) was received at a nonpool plant operated by the same handler, as other than producer milk, on more than half the days of delivery during the preceding months of July through February, except that in the application of this proviso to operations prior to July 1, 1961, the period from the effective date of this amended order through February 1961 shall be substituted for the period of July through February otherwise indicated.

§ 949.12 Producer milk.

"Producer milk" means any skim milk or butterfat contained in milk of a producer received at a pool plant or diverted by a cooperative association in accordance with § 949.10(c).

§ 949.13 Other source milk.

"Other source milk" means all skim milk and butterfat:

(a) Other than that contained in producer milk or in receipts of fluid milk products from pool plants;

(b) In products designated as Class II milk pursuant to § 949.41(b) from any source (including those of a plant's own production) which are reprocessed or converted to another product in the plant during the month; and

(c) In any disappearance of non-fluid milk products not otherwise accounted for.

§ 949.14 Fluid milk products.

"Fluid milk products" means milk, skim milk, buttermilk, flavored milk, flavored milk drinks, cream or any mixture of cream and milk or skim milk (except eggnog, cultured sour cream, frozen storage cream and bulk ice cream and frozen dairy product mixes).

§ 949.15 Route.

"Route" means any delivery of Class I milk (including any delivery by a vendor or disposition at a plant store) to wholesale or retail outlets, except deliveries in bulk form to other pool plants.

MARKET ADMINISTRATOR

§ 949.20 Designation.

The agency for the administration of this part shall be a market administrator who shall be a person selected by the Secretary. Such person shall be entitled to such compensation as may be determined by, and shall be subject to removal at the discretion of, the Secretary.

§ 949.21 Powers.

The market administrator shall have the following powers with respect to this part:

(a) To administer its terms and provisions;

(b) To receive, investigate, and report to the Secretary complaints of violations;

(c) To make rules and regulations to effectuate its terms and provisions; and

(d) To recommend amendments to the Secretary.

§ 949.22 Duties.

The market administrator shall:

(a) Within 30 days following the date upon which he enters upon his duties, execute and deliver to the Secretary a bond, conditioned upon the faithful performance of his duties, in an amount and with surety thereon satisfactory to the Secretary;

(b) Employ and fix the compensation of such persons as may be necessary to enable him to administer its terms and provisions;

(c) Obtain a bond in a reasonable amount and with reasonable surety thereon covering each employee who handles funds entrusted to the market administrator;

(d) Pay out of the funds provided by § 949.88 the cost of his bond and of the bonds of his employees, his own compensation, and all other expenses (except those incurred under § 949.87) necessarily incurred by him in the maintenance and functioning of his office and in the performance of his duties;

(e) Keep such books and records as will clearly reflect the transactions provided for in this part, and, upon request by the Secretary, surrender the same to such other person as the Secretary may designate;

(f) Submit his books and records to examination by the Secretary and furnish such information and reports as the Secretary may request;

(g) Verify all reports and payments of each handler by audit, or such other means as the market administrator finds necessary, of such handler's records and of the records of any other person upon whose utilization the classification of skim milk or butterfat for such handler depends;

(h) Publicly announce, at his discretion, by posting in a conspicuous place in his office and by such other means as he deems appropriate, the name of any person who, within 10 days after the day upon which he is required to perform such acts has not:

(1) Made reports pursuant to §§ 949.30 to 949.31, or

(2) Made payments pursuant to § 949.61 and §§ 949.80 to 949.88.

(i) On or before the twelfth day after the end of each month, report to each cooperative association which so requests the amount and class utilization of milk received by each handler from producers who are members of such cooperative association. For the purpose of this report the milk so received shall be assigned to each class in the proportion that the total producer milk in each class is to the total receipts of producer milk by such handler;

(j) Notify handlers and make announcement by such other means as he deems appropriate of prices as follows:

(1) On or before the tenth day of each month the Class I price for such month computed pursuant to § 949.51 and the Class I butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 949.53;

(2) On or before the fifth day of each month the prices of Class II and Class II–A milk for the preceding month computed pursuant to § 949.52 and the butterfat differential for Class II and Class II–A milk computed pursuant to § 949.53; and

(3) On or before the twelfth day of each month for the preceding month the uniform price computed pursuant to § 949.71, and the butterfat differential to producers computed pursuant to § 949.81.

(k) Prepare and publish such statistics and information as he deems advisable and as do not reveal confidential information.

REPORTS, RECORDS, AND FACILITIES

§ 949.30 Reports of receipts and utilization.

On or before the 7th day after the end of each month, each handler shall report to the market administrator in the detail and on forms prescribed by the market administrator for each of his pool plants as follows:

(a) The quantities of skim milk and butterfat contained in producer milk;

(b) The quantities of skim milk and butterfat contained in (or represented by) receipts from pool plants;

(c) The quantities of skim milk and butterfat contained in receipts of other source milk;

(d) The quantities of skim milk and butterfat contained in receipts of Class II and Class II–A products disposed of in the form in which received without further processing or packaging by the handler;

(e) The utilization of all skim milk and butterfat required to be reported pursuant to this section; and

(f) Such other information with respect to the receipt and utilization of skim milk and butterfat as the market administrator may prescribe.

§ 949.31 Reports of payments to producers.

On or before the 20th day after the end of each month, each handler who received milk from producers shall submit to the market administrator his producer payroll for the month, which shall show for each producer:

(a) His total deliveries of milk;

(b) The average butterfat content of such milk; and

(c) The net amount of such handler's payments to such producer with the prices, deductions, and charges involved.

§ 949.32 Records and facilities.

Each handler shall maintain and make available to the market administrator or to his representative during the usual hours of business such accounts and records of his operations and such facilities as are necessary for the market administrator to verify or establish the correct data with respect to:

(a) The receipts and utilization of all skim milk and butterfat received from any source;

(b) The weights and tests for butterfat and other content of all milk, skim milk, cream and other milk products handled;

(c) Payments to producers and cooperative associations; and

(d) The pounds of skim milk and butterfat contained in or represented by all milk, skim milk, cream and other milk products on hand at the beginning and end of each month.

§ 949.33 Retention of records.

All books and records required under this part to be made available to the market administrator shall be retained by the handler for a period of three years to begin at the end of the month to which such books and records pertain: Provided, That if, within such three-year period, the market administrator notifies the handler in writing that the retention of such books and records, or of specified books and records, is necessary in connection with a proceeding under section 8c(15)(A) of the Act or a court action specified in such notice, the handler shall retain such books and records, or specified books and records, until further written notification from the market administrator. In either case, the market administrator shall give further written notification to the handler promptly, upon the termination of the litigation or when the records are no longer necessary in connection therewith.

CLASSIFICATION

§ 949.40 Skim milk and butterfat to be classified.

All skim milk and butterfat received within the month at a pool plant in the form of producer milk, other source milk, or receipts from other pool plants shall be classified by the market administrator pursuant to the provisions of §§ 949.41 to 949.46.

§ 949.41 Classes of utilization.

Subject to the conditions set forth in §§ 949.43 and 949.44, the classes of utilization shall be as follows:

(a) Class I milk shall be all skim milk (including reconstituted skim milk) and butterfat:

(1) Disposed of in the form of fluid milk products;

(2) Contained in inventories of fluid milk products on hand at the end of the month; and

(3) All other skim milk and butterfat not specifically accounted for as Class II milk or Class II–A milk;

(b) Class II milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat:

(1) Used to produce any product other than those designated as Class I in paragraph (a) of this section or as Class II–A in paragraph (c) of this section;

(2) Disposed of for livestock feed;

(3) In shrinkage allocated to (i) receipts of other source milk in the form of fluid milk products, (ii) receipts of producer milk in an amount not to exceed one-half of one percent of the total receipts of skim milk and butterfat received from producers at the pool plant, plus one and one-half percent of the total pounds of skim milk and butterfat in milk received at a pool plant from producers and in bulk as milk in fluid form from other pool plants (including milk received from a cooperative association in its capacity as a handler pursuant to § 949.10(d)) and which are not disposed of in bulk as milk in fluid form to another pool plant; and

(c) Class II–A milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat used to produce Cheddar cheese.

§ 949.42 Shrinkage.

The market administrator shall allocate shrinkage to a handler's receipts at pool plants as follows:

(a) Compute the total shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat; and

(b) Prorate the resulting amounts between the receipts of skim milk and butterfat in milk of producers and other source milk received in the form of fluid milk products.

§ 949.43 Responsibility of handlers and reclassification of milk.

(a) All skim milk and butterfat shall be Class I milk unless the handler who first receives such skim milk or butterfat can prove to the market administrator that such skim milk or butterfat should be classified otherwise.

(b) Any skim milk or butterfat classified as Class II or Class II–A shall be reclassified if such skim milk or butterfat is later disposed of (whether in original or other form) in another classification.

§ 949.44 Transfers.

Skim milk or butterfat transferred or diverted from a pool plant in the form of milk, skim milk, or cream shall be classified:

(a) As Class I milk, if transferred to the pool plant of another handler, unless utilization as Class II or Class II–A milk is mutually reported in writing to the market administrator by both handlers on or before the 7th day after the end of the month within which such transfer occurred, and the amount of skim milk or butterfat so assigned to Class II or Class II–A does not exceed the amount of skim milk or butterfat, respectively, remaining in Class II or Class II–A utilization by the transferee-handler after the subtraction of other source milk pursuant to § 949.46: Provided, That the skim milk and butterfat so transferred shall be classified so as to result in a maximum assignment of producer milk first to Class I milk and secondly to Class II milk. In no case shall the assignment to Class I milk in the transferee plant be greater than the difference between its total receipts of milk and its total utilization of such milk in Class II and Class II–A.

(b) As Class I milk, if transferred or diverted to a nonpool plant except as:

(1) The transferring or diverting handler claims utilization as Class II milk or Class II–A milk;

(2) The operator of the nonpool plant maintains books and records showing the receipts and utilization of all skim milk and butterfat at such plant which are made available if requested by the market administrator for the purpose of verification, in which case skim milk and butterfat so transferred or diverted shall be allocated to the highest use classification remaining after subtracting in series beginning with the highest use classification, the skim milk and butterfat in milk received at the nonpool plant directly from dairy farmers who the market administrator determines constitute its regular source of supply for Class I milk.

(c) As Class II milk if transferred subject to verification by the market administrator to a wholesale food manufacturing establishment which has no Class I disposition of skim milk or butterfat.

§ 949.45 Computation of skim milk and butterfat in each class.

For each month, the market administrator shall correct for mathematical and for other obvious errors the report submitted by each handler and shall compute the pounds of skim milk and butterfat in each class of milk for such handler. Skim milk contained in any product utilized, produced, or disposed of by the handler during the month shall be considered to be an amount equivalent to the nonfat milk solids contained in such product, plus all of the water originally associated with such solids.

§ 949.46 Allocation of skim milk and butterfat classified.

(a) The pounds of skim milk remaining in each class after making the following computations for each handler for each month shall be the pounds of skim milk in such class allocated to producer milk received by such handler during such month.

(1) Subtract from the total pounds of skim milk in Class I the pounds of skim milk in fluid milk products which were on hand at the beginning of the month;

(2) Subtract from the pounds of skim milk in each class the pounds of skim milk received from other pool plants in a form other than milk, skim milk, or cream according to its classification pursuant to § 949.41;

(3) Subtract from the pounds of skim milk remaining in Class II milk the plant shrinkage of skim milk in producer milk classified as Class II milk pursuant to § 949.41(b)(3)(ii);

(4) Subtract from the pounds of skim milk in Class I milk the pounds of skim milk received from a nonpool plant in the form of packaged fluid milk products which are not in excess of the pounds of skim milk transferred to such plant from the pool plant of the handler in fluid form and classified as Class I milk;

(5) Subtract from the pounds of skim milk remaining in each class beginning with the lowest priced class the pounds of skim milk in other source milk which were received in the form of nonfluid milk products other than condensed skim milk or nonfat dry milk;

(6) Subtract from the pounds of skim milk remaining in each class beginning with the lowest priced class the pounds of skim milk in other source milk received in the form of condensed skim milk or nonfat dry milk;

(7) Subtract from the pounds of skim milk remaining in each class beginning with the lowest priced class the pounds of skim milk in other source milk received in the form of fluid milk products which were not subject to the Class I pricing and payment provisions of another order issued pursuant to the Act and on which a compensatory payment has not been paid under the order;

(8) Subtract from the pounds of skim milk remaining in each class beginning with the lowest priced class the pounds of skim milk in other source milk received in the form of fluid milk products which were subject to the Class I pricing and payment provisions of another order issued pursuant to the Act or on which a compensatory payment had been paid under another order;

(9) Subtract from the pounds of skim milk remaining in each class the pounds of skim milk in fluid milk products received from other pool plants according to the class to which they were assigned pursuant to § 949.44(a);

(10) Add to the pounds of skim milk remaining in Class II milk the pounds of skim milk subtracted pursuant to subparagraph (3) of this paragraph and if the pounds of skim milk remaining in all classes exceed the pounds of skim milk received from producers, subtract such excess from the pounds of skim milk remaining in the various classes in series beginning with the lowest priced class.

(b) Determine the pounds of butterfat in each class to be allocated to producer milk in the same manner prescribed for skim milk in paragraph (a) of this section.

(c) Determine the weighted average butterfat content of Class I, Class II, and Class II–A milk computed pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section.

MINIMUM PRICES

§ 949.50 Minimum prices.

Subject to the appropriate differentials computed purusant to §§ 949.53 and 949.54 each handler shall pay in the manner set forth in §§ 949.70 to 949.86 for milk received at his pool plant from producers at not less than the prices per hundredweight set forth in §§ 949.51 and 949.52.

§ 949.51 Class I milk.

The Class I milk price shall be the price for Class I milk established under Federal Order No. 42 regulating the handling of milk in the North Texas marketing area plus 42 cents.

§ 949.52 Class II and Class II–A milk.

(a) Class II milk. The price rounded to the nearest cent, for Class II milk shall be determined pursuant to subparagraph (1) of this paragraph for the months of April, May, and June, and the higher of the prices determined pursuant to subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph for all other months.

(1) The average of the basic or field prices per hundredweight reported to have been paid for milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content received from farms during the month at the following plants or places for which prices have been reported to the market administrator or to the United States Department of Agriculture;

Carnation Co., Sulphur Springs, Tex.
The Borden Co., Mount Pleasant, Tex.
Lamar Creamery, Paris, Tex.

(2) The sum of the amounts computed pursuant to subdivisions (i) and (ii) of this subparagraph:

(i) Multiply by 4.4 the simple average as computed by the market administrator of the daily wholesale selling prices (using the midpoint of any price range as one price) of Grade A (92-score) bulk creamery butter per pound at Chicago as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture during the month;

(ii) From the average of the carlot prices per pound of nonfat dry milk for human consumption, spray process, f.o.b. manufacturing plants in the Chicago area as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture for the period from the 26th day of the preceding month through the 25th day of the current month, subtract 5 cents, multiply by 8.16.

(b) Class II–A milk. The minimum price per hundredweight to be paid by each handler for milk received at his plant from producers and classified as Class II–A milk shall be computed by multiplying by 8.4 the average of the daily prices paid per pound of cheese at Wisconsin Primary markets ("Cheddars" f.o.b. Wisconsin assembling points, cars or truckloads) as reported by the Department for the month involved and rounding to the nearest cent.

§ 949.53 Butterfat differentials to handlers.

If the average butterfat content of the milk of any handler allocated to any class pursuant to § 949.46 is more or less than 4.0 percent, there shall be added to the respective class price, computed pursuant to §§ 949.51 and 949.52 for each one-tenth of 1 percent, that the average butterfat content of such milk is above 4.0 percent, or subtracted for each one-tenth of 1 percent that such average butterfat content is below 4.0 percent, an amount equal to the butterfat differential computed by multiplying the simple average, as computed by the market administrator, of the daily wholesale prices per pound (using the midpoint of any price range as one price) of Grade A (92-score) bulk creamery butter at Chicago as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture during the appropriate month by the applicable factor listed below:

(a) Class I milk. Multiply such price for the preceding month by 0.125;

(b) Class II and Class II–A milk. Multiply such price for the current month by 0.108.

§ 949.54 Location adjustment credit to handlers.

For milk which is received from producers at a pool plant located more than 50 miles from the City Hall, in San Antonio, Texas, by the shortest hard-surfaced highway distance as determined by the market administrator and which is classified as Class I milk, the price specified in § 949.51 shall be reduced 1.5 cents per hundredweight for each 10 miles or fraction thereof that such plant is distant from the City Hall in San Antonio, Texas: Provided, That in calculating such adjustments, transfers to a pool plant at which a location adjustment is not applicable or at which it is less than at the transferor plant may be assigned to Class I only to the extent that Class I disposition at the transferee plant exceeds 95 percent of the receipts from producers at such plant. Such assignment to transferor plants shall be made first to plants at which no location adjustment credit is applicable and then in sequence to plants at which the lowest rate of such adjustment credit would apply.

§ 949.55 Use of equivalent prices.

If for any reason the price quotation required by this part for computing class prices or for any other purpose is not available in the manner described, the market administrator shall use a price determined by the Secretary to be equivalent to the price which is required.

APPLICATION OF PROVISIONS

§ 949.60 Handlers subject to other orders.

In the case of any handler who the Secretary determines disposes of a greater portion of his milk as Class I milk in another marketing area regulated by an order issued pursuant to the Act for more than two consecutive months, and the handler would be subject to full regulation under such order if he were exempt from this part, the provisions of this part shall not apply after the second month except that the handler, with respect to the total receipts of skim milk and butterfat, shall make reports to the market administrator at such time and in such manner as the market administrator may require, shall allow verification of such reports by the market administrator, and, in the event he has disposed of on routes in the marketing area Class I milk which was neither classified nor priced under such other order or on which a compensatory payment was not made under any other order, shall pay to the market administrator on or before the 13th day of each month an amount computed by multiplying the total volume of such Class I milk disposed of on routes in the marketing area from such plant during the preceding month by the rate of compensatory payment computed pursuant to § 949.65.

§ 949.61 Handlers operating nonpool plants.

Each handler who is the operator of a nonpool plant whose milk is not subject to the classification and Class I pricing provisions of another order issued pursuant to the Act shall report, as required pursuant to § 949.30, reporting receipts from dairy farmers in lieu of such information with respect to producers, shall allow verification of such reports, and on or before the 13th day of each month he shall pay to the market administrator an amount computed by multiplying the total volume of Class I milk disposed of on routes in the marketing area from such nonpool plant during the preceding month by the rate of compensatory payments computed pursuant to § 949.65.

UNPRICED MILK

§ 949.65 Rate of payment on unpriced milk.

The rate of payment per hundredweight applicable to other source milk which has not been subject to the classification and Class I pricing provisions of another order issued pursuant to the Act or on which a compensatory payment has not been made pursuant to another order and which is assigned to Class I use at pool plants or which is disposed of as Class I milk on routes in the marketing area from nonpool plants shall be calculated as follows:

(a) For the months of February through July, subtract the Class II price, adjusted by the Class II butterfat differential, from the Class I price, adjusted by the Class I butterfat differential, and, except in the case of condensed skim milk and nonfat dry milk, by the location adjustment pursuant to § 949.54 which would be applicable if the nonpool plant were a pool plant; and

(b) During the months of January and August, subtract from the Class I price, adjusted by the Class I butterfat differential, the uniform price to producers, adjusted by the Class I butterfat differential.

DETERMINATION OF UNIFORM PRICES TO PRODUCERS

§ 949.70 Computation of value of milk for each handler.

For each month the market administrator shall compute the value of milk for each handler as follows:

(a) Handlers who receive milk from producers:

(1) Multiply the quantity of producer milk in each class computed pursuant to § 949.46 by the applicable class price;

(2) If any overage has been deducted pursuant to § 949.46 (a) and (b), multiply such amount by the applicable class price;

(3) For the months of January through August, multiply the hundredweight of other source skim milk and butterfat subtracted from Class I milk pursuant to § 949.46(a) (5) through (7) and (b) by the applicable rate determined pursuant to §949.65; and

(4) Add together the resulting amounts in (1) through (3) of this paragraph.

(b) Handlers who operate pool plants but who receive no milk from producers:

(1) If any overage has been deducted pursuant to § 949.46 (a) and (b), multiply such amount by the applicable class price;

(2) For the months of January through August, multiply the hundredweight of other source skim milk and butterfat subtracted from Class I milk pursuant to § 949.46(a) (5) through (7) and (b) by the applicable rate determined pursuant to § 949.65; and (3) Add the resulting amounts in (1) and (2) of this paragraph.

§ 949.71 Computation of uniform price for pool milk.

For each month the market administrator shall compute the uniform price for all milk received from producers as follows:

(a) Combine into one total the amounts computed pursuant to § 949.70 (a) and (b) for all handlers who made the reports prescribed in § 949.30 and who are not in default of payments required pursuant to §§ 949.80 and 949.84;

(b) Add an amount representing not less than one-half of the unobligated cash balance in the producer-settlement fund account pursuant to § 949.83;

(c) Add the total value of the location adjustments to producers computed pursuant to § 949.82;

(d) Subtract if the average butterfat content of the producer milk of handlers included in the computations pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section is greater than 4.0 percent, or add if such average is less than 4 percent, an amount computed by multiplying the amount by which such average butterfat content varies from 4.0 percent by the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 949.81 and multiply the resulting amount by the hundredweight of such milk;

(e) Divide by the total hundredweight of producer milk of handlers included in the computation pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section;

(f) Subtract not less than 4 cents nor more than 5 cents. The resulting figure shall be the uniform price per hundredweight for all milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content received from producers.

PAYMENT FOR MILK

§ 949.80 Time and method of payment.

(a) Each handler shall pay to a cooperative association on or before the 13th day of the month for milk received from it during the preceding month, for which such association is a handler pursuant to § 949.10(d), the value of such milk at not less than the applicable class prices.

(b) Except as provided in paragraph (3) of this section, each handler shall make payment to each producer for milk received from such producer as follows:

(1) On or before the last day of each month, for milk received during the first 15 days of such month at not less than the price per hundredweight for Class II milk for the preceding month;

(2) On or before the 15th day after the end of the month during which the milk was received at not less than the uniform price per hundredweight computed for such month pursuant to § 949.71 subject to the following adjustments: (i) the butterfat differential pursuant to § 949.81, (ii) the location adjustment pursuant to § 949.82, (iii) the payment made pursuant to subparagraph (1) of this section, (iv) marketing service deductions pursuant to § 949.87, and (v) proper deductions authorized by such producer: Provided, That if by such date such handler has not received full payment pursuant to § 949.85, he may reduce his total payment to all producers pro rata by not more than the amount of reduction in payments from the market administrator; he shall, however, complete such payments pursuant to this subparagraph not later than the date for making such payments next following receipt of the balance due from the market administrator;

(3) (i) Upon receipt of a written request from a cooperative association which the market administrator determines is authorized by its members to collect payment for their milk and receipt of a written promise to reimburse the handler the amount of any actual loss incurred by him because of any improper claim on the part of the cooperative association, each handler shall on or before the 20th day of each month furnish the cooperative association information showing the daily and total pounds of milk received from each of the association's member producers for the first 15 days of such month and, on or before the 10th day after the end of each month, such information for the 16th through the end of such month, and shall pay to such association on or before the 26th and 13th day of each month, in lieu of payments pursuant to subparagraphs (1) and (2) respectively, of this paragraph an amount equal to the sum of the individual payments otherwise payable to such producers. The foregoing payment shall be made with respect to milk of each producer whom the cooperative association certifies is a member effective on and after the first day next following receipt of such certification through the last day of the month next preceding receipt of notice from the cooperative association of a termination of membership or until the original request is rescinded in writing by the cooperative association.

(ii) A copy of each such request, promise to reimburse and certified list of members shall be filed simultaneously with the market administrator by the cooperative association and shall be subject to verification at his discretion, through audit of the records of the cooperative association pertaining thereto. Exceptions, if any, to the accuracy of such certification by a producer claimed to be a member, or by a handler, shall be made by written notice to the market administrator and shall be subject to his determination.

(4) In making the payments to producers pursuant to subparagraphs (2) and (3) of this paragraph, each handler shall furnish each producer or cooperative association from whom he has received milk with a supporting statement which shall show:

(i) The month for which payment is made and the identity of the handler and of the producer;

(ii) The total pounds and average butterfat test of milk received from such producer;

(iii) The minimum rate or rates at which payment to such producer is required;

(iv) The rate which is used in making the payment, if such rate is other than the applicable minimum rate;

(v) The amount or rate per hundredweight of each deduction claimed by the handler; together with a description of the respective deductions; and

(vi) The net amount of payment to such producer.

§ 949.81 Producer butterfat differential.

In making payments pursuant to § 949.80 there shall be added to the uniform price for each one-tenth of one percent that the average butterfat content of such milk is above 4.0 percent not less than, or there may be deducted from the uniform price for each one-tenth of one percent that the average butterfat content of such milk is below 4.0 percent not more than an amount computed as follows: Multiply by 1.1 the simple average computed by the market administrator of the daily wholesale selling prices (using the midpoint of any price range as one price) of Grade A (92-score) bulk creamery butter per pound at Chicago as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture during the month, divide the result by 10 and round to the nearest one-tenth of a cent.

§ 949.82 Location adjustment to producers.

In making payments to producers pursuant to § 949.80 for that milk which is received from producers at a pool plant located more than 50 miles from the City Hall in San Antonio, Texas, by the shortest hard-surfaced highway distance as determined by the market administrator, the handler may deduct an amount equal to not more than 1.5 cents per hundredweight for each 10 miles or fraction thereof that such plant is distant from the City Hall in San Antonio, Texas.

§ 949.83 Producer-settlement fund.

The market administrator shall establish a separate fund known as the "producer-settlement fund" into which he shall deposit all payments made by handlers, pursuant to §§ 949.60, 949.61, 949.84, and 949.86 and out of which he shall make all payments, pursuant to §§ 949.85 and 949.86.

§ 949.84 Payments to the producer-settlement fund.

On or before the 13th day after the end of the month during which the milk was received, each handler, including a cooperative association which is a handler, shall pay to the market administrator the amount of money, if any, by which the value of the milk received by such handler from producers as determined pursuant to § 949.70 is greater than the value of such milk calculated at the uniform price adjusted by the producer butterfat differential and the location adjustment to producers.

§ 949.85 Payments out of the producer-settlement fund.

On or before the 14th day after the end of the month during which the milk was received, the market administrator shall pay to each handler, including a cooperative association which is a handler, the amount, if any, by which the value of the milk received by such handler from producers during the month as determined pursuant to § 949.70 is less than the value of such milk calculated at the uniform price adjusted by the producer butterfat differential and the location adjustment to producers.

§ 949.86 Adjustment of accounts.

Whenever audit by the market administrator of any handler's books, reports, records, or accounts discloses errors resulting in money due:

(a) The market administrator from such handler;

(b) Such handler from the market administrator; or

(c) Any producer or cooperative association from such handler, the market administrator shall promptly notify such handler of any amount so due and payment thereof shall be made on or before the next date for making payment set forth in the provisions under which such error occurred.

§ 949.87 Marketing service.

(a) Marketing service deduction. Except as set forth in paragraph (b) of this section each handler, in making payments to producers (other than himself) shall make a deduction of six cents per hundredweight of milk or such lesser deduction as the Secretary from time to time may prescribe. Such deductions shall be paid by the handler to the market administrator on or before the 15th day after the end of the month. Such moneys shall be expended by the market administrator for verification of weights and tests of milk received from such producers and in providing market information to such producers.

(b) Marketing service deduction with respect to producers who are members of or are marketing through a cooperative association. In the case of each producer who is a member of, or who has given written authorization for the rendering of marketing services and the taking of a deduction therefor to a cooperative association, which the Secretary has determined is performing the services described in paragraph (a) of this section, such handler, in lieu of the deduction specified under paragraph (a) of this section, shall deduct from the payments to such producer the amount per hundredweight specified by such association which is not in excess of the rate authorized by such producer and shall pay such deduction to the cooperative association entitled to receive it on or before the 15th day after the end of the month during which such milk was received.

§ 949.88 Payment of administration expense.

As his pro rata share of the expense of administration of this part, each handler shall pay to the market administrator on or before the 15th day after the end of the month 4 cents per hundredweight, or such lesser amount as the Secretary may from time to time prescribe, with respect to skim milk and butterfat (a) received from producers, (b) received at a pool plant as other source milk and allocated to Class I milk, or (c) distributed as Class I milk in the marketing area from a nonpool plant during such preceding month.

§ 949.89 Termination of obligation.

The provisions of this section shall apply to any obligation under this part for the payment of money.

(a) The obligation of any handler to pay money required to be paid under the terms of this part shall, except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, terminate two years after the last day of the calendar month during which the market administrator receives the handler's utilization report on the milk involved in such obligation, unless within such two-year period the market administrator notifies the handler in writing that such money is due and payable. Service of such notice shall be complete upon mailing to the handler's last known address, and it shall contain but need not be limited to the following information:

(1) The amount of the obligation;

(2) The delivery period during which the milk, with respect to which the obligation exists, was received or handled; and

(3) If the obligation is payable to one or more producers or to an association of producers, the name of such producer(s) or association of producers, or if the obligation is payable to the market administrator, the account for which it is to be paid.

(b) If a handler fails or refuses, with respect to any obligation under this part, to make available to the market administrator or his representatives all books and records required by this part to be made available, the market administrator may, within the two-year period provided for in paragraph (a) of this section, notify the handler in writing of such failure or refusal. If the market administrator so notifies a handler, the said two-year period with respect to such obligation shall not begin to run until the first day of the calendar month following the month during which all such books and records pertaining to such obligation are made available to the market administrator or his representatives.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, a handler's obligation under this part to pay money shall not be terminated with respect to any transaction involving fraud or willful concealment of a fact, material to the obligation, on the part of the handler against whom the obligation is sought to be imposed.

(d) Any obligation on the part of the market administrator to pay a handler any money which such handler claims to be due him under the terms of this part shall terminate two years after the end of the calendar month during which the milk involved in the claim was received if an underpayment is claimed, or two years after the end of the calendar month during which the agreement (including deduction or set-off by the market administrator) was made by the handler if a refund on such payment is claimed, unless such handler, within the applicable period of time, files, pursuant to section 8c(15)(A) of the Act, a petition claiming such money.

EFFECTIVE TIME, SUSPENSION OR TERMINATION

§ 949.90 Effective time.

The provisions of this part or any amendment to this part shall become effective at such time as the Secretary may declare and shall continue in force until suspended or terminated pursuant to § 949.91.

§ 949.91 Suspension or termination.

The Secretary may suspend or terminate this part or any provision of this part whenever he finds this part or any provision of this part obstructs or does not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act. This part shall terminate in any event whenever the provisions of the Act authorizing it cease to be in effect.

§ 949.92 Continuing obligations.

If, upon the suspension or termination of any or all provisions of this part there are any obligations thereunder the final accrual or ascertainment of which requires further acts by any person (including the market administrator), such further acts shall be performed notwithstanding such suspension or termination.

§ 949.93 Liquidation.

Upon the suspension or termination of the provisions of this part, except this section, the market administrator, or such other liquidating agent as the Secretary may designate, shall if so directed by the Secretary, liquidate the business of the market administrator's office, dispose of all property in his possession or control, including accounts receivable, and execute and deliver all assignments or other instruments necessary or appropriate to effectuate any such disposition. If a liquidating agent is so designated, all assets, books and records of the market administrator shall be transferred promptly to such liquidating agent. If, upon such liquidation, the funds on hand exceed the amounts required to pay outstanding obligations of the office of the market administrator and to pay necessary expenses of liquidation and distribution, such excess shall be distributed to contributing handlers and producers in an equitable manner.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

§ 949.100 Agents.

The Secretary may, by designation in writing, name any officer or employee of the United States to act as his agent or representative in connection with any of the provisions of this part.

§ 949.101 Separability of provisions.

If any provision of this part or its application to any person or circumstances is held invalid, the application of such provision, and the remaining provisions of this part, to other persons or circumstances shall not be affected thereby.

Issued at Washington, D.C., this 13th day of December 1960, to be effective on and after the 1st day of January 1961.

CLARENCE L. MILLER,
Assistant Secretary.

[Lemon Reg. 877]

PART 953—LEMONS GROWN IN CALIFORNIA AND ARIZONA

Limitation of Handling

§ 953.984 Lemon Regulation 877.

(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 53, as amended (7 CFR Part 953; 23 F.R. 9053), regulating the handling of lemons grown in California and Arizona, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.; 68 Stat. 906, 1047), and upon the basis of the recommendation and information submitted by the Lemon Administrative Committee, established under the said amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of handling of such lemons as hereinafter provided will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication hereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U.S.C. 1001 et seq.) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based becomes available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient, and a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions hereof effective as hereinafter set forth. The committee held an open meeting during the current week, after giving due notice thereof, to consider supply and market conditions for lemons and the need for regulation; interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit information and views at this meeting; the recommendation and supporting information for regulation during the period specified herein were promptly submitted to the Department after such meeting was held; the provisions of this section, including its effective time, are identical with the aforesaid recommendation of the committee, and information concerning such provisions and effective time has been disseminated among handlers of such lemons; it is necessary, in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, to make this section effective during the period herein specified; and compliance with this section will not require any special preparation on the part of persons subject hereto which cannot be completed on or before the effective date hereof. Such committee meeting was held on December 13, 1960.

(b) Order. (1) The respective quantities of lemons grown in California and Arizona which may be handled during the period beginning at 12:01 a.m., P.s.t., December 18, 1960, and ending at 12:01 a.m., P.s.t., December 25, 1960, are hereby fixed as follows:

(i) District 1: 27,900 cartons;

(ii) District 2: 130,200 cartons;

(iii) District 3: 23,250 cartons.

(2) As used in this section, "handled," "District 1," "District 2," "District 3," and "carton" have the same meaning as when used in the said amended marketing agreement and order.

[Grapefruit Reg. 133]

PART 955—GRAPEFRUIT GROWN IN ARIZONA; IN IMPERIAL COUNTY, CALIF., AND IN THAT PART OF RIVERSIDE COUNTY, CALIF., SITUATED SOUTH AND EAST OF WHITE WATER, CALIF.

Limitation of Shipments

§ 955.394 Grapefruit Regulation 133.

(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 55, as amended (7 CFR Part 955), regulating the handling of grapefruit grown in the State of Arizona; in Imperial County, California; and in that part of Riverside County, California, situated south and east of White Water, California, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601-674), and upon the basis of the recommendations of the administrative committee (established under the aforesaid amended marketing agreement and order), and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of shipments of grapefruit, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (5 U.S.C. 1001-1011) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient, and a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective date. The Administrative Committee held an open meeting on December 8, 1960, to consider recommendations for a regulation, after giving due notice of such meeting, and interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit their views at this meeting; information regarding the provisions of the regulation recommended by the committee has been disseminated to shippers of grapefruit, grown as aforesaid, and this section, including the effective time thereof, is identical with the recommendation of the committee; it is necessary, in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, to make this section effective on the date hereinafter set forth so as to provide for the continued regulation of the handling of grapefruit; and compliance with this section will not require any special preparation on the part of persons subject thereto which cannot be completed on or before the effective date hereof.

(b) Order. (1) During the period beginning at 12:01 a.m., P.s.t., December 18, 1960, and ending at 12:01 a.m., P.s.t., January 15, 1961, no handler shall handle:

(i) Any grapefruit of any variety grown in the State of Arizona; in Imperial County, California; or in that part of Riverside County, California, situated south and east of White Water, California, unless such grapefruit are fairly well colored, and otherwise grade at least U.S. No. 2; or

(ii) From the State of California or the State of Arizona to any point outside thereof in the United States, any grapefruit, grown as aforesaid, which measure less than 3 11/16 inches in diameter, except that a tolerance of 5 percent, by count, of grapefruit smaller than the foregoing minimum size shall be permitted which tolerance shall be applied in accordance with the provisions for the application of tolerances, specified in the revised United States Standards for Grapefruit (California and Arizona), §§ 51.925 to 51.955 of this title: Provided, That, in determining the percentage of grapefruit in any lot which are smaller than 3 11/16 inches in diameter, such percentage shall be based only on the grapefruit in such lot which are of a size 4 2/16 inches in diameter and smaller.

(2) As used in this section, "handler," "variety," "grapefruit," and "handle" shall have the same meaning as when used in said amended marketing agreement and order; the terms "U.S. No. 2" and "fairly well colored" shall each have the same meaning as when used in the aforesaid revised United States Standards for Grapefruit; and "diameter" shall mean the greatest dimension measured at right angles to a line from the stem to blossom end of the fruit.

Proposed Rule Making

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

Wage and Hour Division

[29 CFR Parts 604, 606, 713]

[Administrative Order 542]

VARIOUS INDUSTRIES IN PUERTO RICO

Appointment To Investigate Conditions and Recommend Minimum Wages; Notice of Hearing

Pursuant to authority contained in the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, as amended (52 Stat. 1060, as amended; 29 U.S.C. 201 et seq.), and Reorganization Plan No. 6 of 1950 (64 Stat. 1263; 3 CFR, 1949–53 Comp., p. 1004), I hereby appoint, convene, and give notice of the hearings of Industry Committee No. 51–A for the Electrical, Instrument, and Related Products Industry in Puerto Rico; Industry Committee No. 51–B for the Metal, Machinery, Transportation Equipment, and Allied Products Industry in Puerto Rico; and Industry Committee No. 51–C for the Fabricated Plastic Products Industry in Puerto Rico.

Industry Committee No. 51–A is composed of the following representatives:

For the public:
John W. McConnell, Chairman, Ithaca, N.Y.
Wesley J. Hennessy, New York, N.Y.
Rafael de J. Cordero, San Juan, P.R.
For the employees:
Albin F. Hartnett, Washington, D.C.
Gilbert X. Barker, Atlanta, Ga.
Andrew Barral, Santurce, P.R.
For the employers:
Leslie E. Woods, Waltham, Mass.
Eugene J. Linder, Guayama, P.R.
Bernard J. Reilly, Vega Alta, P.R.

For the purpose of this order, the Electrical, Instrument, and Related Products Industry in Puerto Rico is defined as follows:

The manufacture, assembly, and repair of machinery, apparatus, equipment and supplies for the generation, storage, transmission, transformation and utilization of electrical energy; and the manufacture, assembly, and repair of instruments, lenses, apparatus, and equipment for scientific, professional, industrial measurement, photographic, ophthalmic, musical, and horological purposes; Provided, however, That the industry shall not include industrial and commercial machinery powered by electric motors; measuring-and-dispensing pumps; ophthalmic frames; or any activity included in the stone, clay, glass, cement, and related products industry, as defined in the wage order for that industry in Puerto Rico (29 CFR Part 678): And provided, further, That the industry shall not include any of the activities defined and described in 29 CFR Part 606.2 (a) and (b).

Industry Committee No. 51–B is composed of the following representatives:

For the public:
John W. McConnell, Chairman, Ithaca, N.Y.
Wesley J. Hennessy, New York, N.Y.
Rafael de J. Cordero, San Juan, P.R.
For the employees:
Albin F. Hartnett, Washington, D.C.
Gilbert X. Barker, Atlanta, Ga.
Andrew Barral, Santurce, P.R.
For the employers:
Leslie E. Woods, Waltham, Mass.
Pedro J. Balleste, Santurce, P.R.
George M. Goldberg, San Juan, P.R.

For the purpose of this order, the Metal, Machinery, Transportation Equipment, and Allied Products Industry in Puerto Rico is defined as follows:

The mining and other extraction of metal ore and the processing of such ore into metal; the manufacture (including repair) of any product or part made chiefly of metal; and the manufacture from any material of machinery, tools, transportation equipment and ordnance; Provided, however, That the industry shall not include the production of any basic material other than metal; the further processing of any basic material other than metal except when done by an establishment producing from such material a product of this industry or subassembly of such product; and any activity included in the button, jewelry, and lapidary work industry as defined in the wage order for that industry (29 CFR Part 616) or in the electrical, instrument, and related products industry as defined in the Administrative Order appointing Industry Committee No. 51–A, for Puerto Rico: And, provided, further, That the industry shall not include any of the activities defined and described in 29 CFR Part 604.2 (a) and (b).

Industry Committee No. 51–C is composed of the following representatives:

For the public:
John W. McConnell, Chairman, Ithaca, N.Y.
Wesley J. Hennessy, New York, N.Y.
Rafael de J. Cordero, San Juan, P.R.
For the employees:
David Lasser, Washington, D.C.
George Burdon, Akron, Ohio.
Frank Grillo, Santurce, P.R.
For the employers:
Leslie E. Woods, Waltham, Mass.
Samuel M. Seltzer, Rio Piedras, P.R.
David Schatzow, Caguas, P.R.

For the purpose of this order, the Fabricated Plastic Products Industry in Puerto Rico is defined as follows:

The molding, extrusion, lamination, or other forming, and the fabrication of plastic products: Provided, however, That the industry shall not include the manufacture of buttons, buckles, jewelry (including rosaries), and jewelry findings (including beads); the manufacture from plastic materials (except plastic molded to shape) of footwear and cut stock and findings for footwear; the manufacture of apparel and apparel furnishings and accessories; and any activity included in the artificial flower, decoration, and party favor industry (29 CFR Part 688), the chemical, petroleum, rubber, and related products industry (29 CFR Part 670), the leather, leather goods, and related products industry (29 CFR Part 602), and the needlework and fabricated textile products industry (29 CFR Part 612), as defined in the wage orders for those industries in Puerto Rico: And provided, further, That the industry shall not include any of the activities defined and described in 29 CFR, Part 713.2(a).

I hereby refer to each of the above-named industry committees the question of the minimum wage rate or rates to be fixed under the provisions of section 6(c) of the Act in the particular industry with which it is concerned. Each industry committee shall investigate conditions in its industry, and the committee, or any authorized sub-committee thereof, shall hear such witnesses and receive such evidence as may be necessary or appropriate to enable the committee to perform its duties and functions under the Act.

Industry Committee No. 51–A shall convene at 10:00 a.m. on January 16, 1961, in the office of the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, United States Department of Labor, New York Department Store Building, Fortaleza and San Jose Streets, San Juan, Puerto Rico, to conduct its investigation and shall commence its hearings at 2:00 p.m. on the same date at the same place. Following this hearing, Industry Committees Nos. 51–B and then 51–C shall convene in the same place at hours designated by the committee chairmen to conduct their investigations and to hold their hearings.

In order to reach as rapidly as is economically feasible the objective of the minimum wage prescribed in paragraph (1) of section 6(a) of the Act, each industry committee shall recommend to the Administrator the highest minimum wage rate or rates for the industry which it determines, having due regard to economic and competitive conditions, will not substantially curtail employment in the industry, and will not give any industry in Puerto Rico a competitive advantage over any industry in the United States outside of Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, and American Samoa. Where an industry committee finds that a higher minimum wage may be determined for employees engaged in certain activities or in the manufacture of certain products in the industry, the industry committee shall recommend such reasonable classifications within the industry as it determines to be necessary for the purpose of fixing for each classification the highest minimum wage rate that can be determined for it under the principles set forth herein which will not substantially curtail employment in such classifications and will not give a competitive advantage to any group in the industry. No classification shall be made, however, and no minimum wage shall be fixed solely on a regional basis or on the basis of age or sex. In determining whether there should be classifications within the industry, in making such classifications, and in determining the minimum wage rates for such classifications, the committee shall consider, among other relevant factors, the following: (1) Competitive conditions as affected by transportation, living, and production costs; (2) the wages established for work of like or comparable character by collective labor agreements negotiated between employers and employees by representatives of their own choosing; and (3) the wages paid for work of like or comparable character by employers who voluntarily maintain minimum wage standards in the industry.

The Administrator shall prepare an economic report for such committees containing such data as he is able to assemble pertinent to the matters referred to these committees. Copies of each such report may be obtained at the national and Puerto Rican offices of the United States Department of Labor as soon as they are completed and prior to the hearings. Each committee will take official notice of the facts stated in the economic report to the extent they are not refuted at the hearings.

The procedure of these industry committees will be governed by 29 CFR Part 511. As a prerequisite to participation as witnesses or parties these regulations require, among other things, that interested persons in the present matters shall file pre-hearing statements containing certain specified data, not later than January 6, 1961.

Signed at Washington, D.C., this 14th day of December 1960.

JAMES P. MITCHELL,
Secretary of Labor.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

[47 CFR Parts 7, 8]

[Docket No. 13898 (RM–194); FCC 60–1495]

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, ST. THOMAS, VIRGIN ISLANDS

Availability of Frequency for Assignment

1. Notice is hereby given of proposed rule-making in the above-entitled matter. The amendments proposed to be adopted are set forth below.

2. This proposal is being issued in response to a petition to amend Parts 7 and 8 of the Commission's rules. The petition was received by the Commission on August 22, 1960, from Albert R. Crumley, Jr., and Manuel Pirallo, d/b as Virgin Isles Communications, San Juan, Puerto Rico. Petitioner requests that the Commission's rules be amended so as to make available for assignment the frequency pair 2506 kc (coast)–2009 kc (ship) for public ship-shore communication in the vicinity of Charlotte Amalie, St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, for use daily between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 9:00 p.m., Atlantic standard time. The petitioner has on file also a related application for construction permit for a public class II–B coast station to be located at Charlotte Amalie, St. Thomas, Virgin Islands.

3. The frequency pair 2506 kc (coast)–2009 kc (ship) is not now available for assignment under the Commission's rules in the vicinity of St. Thomas, Virgin Islands. The frequency 2506 kc (coast) is assigned to public class II–B stations located near Boston, Massachusetts, and Delcambre, Louisiana. In the Eastern part of the United States, the frequency 2009 kc (ship) is assigned to ship stations for use in the Gulf of Mexico area for communication with the public coast station near Tampa, Florida. It is believed that assignment of the proposed frequency pair for use in the vicinity of St. Thomas, Virgin Islands is feasible on a limited basis as requested provided harmful interference will not be caused to ship station reception on 2506 kc in the vicinity of Boston and Delcambre, and to coast station reception on 2009 kc at Tampa. The distance from St. Thomas to Tampa is approximately 1,220 statute miles and to Boston and Delcambre is approximately 1,660 statute miles. In summary, this proposal would make available for assignment the frequency pair 2506 kc (coast)–2009 kc (ship) during the hours 8:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. Atlantic standard time in the vicinity of St. Thomas, Virgin Islands on a noninterference basis to existing public coast and ship stations operating on these frequencies.

4. It is stated in the petition that the present unavailability of a public coast station in the Virgin Islands area adversely affects the safety of ships in these waters in case of emergencies such as those caused by hurricanes and tornadoes. The station proposed by the petitioner on the island of St. Thomas will enhance the safety of navigation in these waters particularly since the station will maintain a listening watch on the calling and distress frequency 2182 kc. The petition also states that the closest public coast station is located in the vicinity of San Juan, Puerto Rico, and that ships in the Virgin Islands waters cannot satisfactorily communicate through the facilities of the San Juan station. The distance between these points is approximately 75 miles. The petitioner states that there is a great unfulfilled need and demand for a public coast station located directly in the Virgin Islands area.

5. It is believed that the proposed rule amendment would provide for more effective utilization of maritime frequencies in the public interest in that it would make a frequency pair available for direct service to an area which apparently is not now adequately served under the present frequency assignment plan.

6. This proposal is issued under the authority contained in section 303 (c), (d), (f), and (r) of the Communications Act of 1934 as amended.

7. Any interested person who is of the opinion that the proposed amendments should not be adopted or should not be adopted in the form set forth herein, may file with the Commission, on or before January 16, 1961, written data, views or briefs setting forth his comments. Comments in support of the proposed amendments may also be filed on or before the same date. Comments in reply to the original comments may be filed within ten days from the last day for filing said original data, views or briefs. The Commission will consider all such comments prior to taking final action in this matter.

8. In accordance with the provisions of § 1.54 of the Commission's rules, an original and fourteen copies of all statements, briefs, or comments filed shall be furnished the Commission.

Adopted: December 7, 1960.

Released: December 14, 1960.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION,
[SEAL] BEN F. WAPLE,
Acting Secretary.

FEDERAL AVIATION AGENCY

[14 CFR Part 601]

[Airspace Docket No. 60-EC-91]

CONTROL ZONES

Alteration

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (14 CFR 409.13), notice is hereby given that the Federal Aviation Agency is considering an amendment to § 601.2083 of the regulations of the Administrator, the substance of which is stated below.

The Huron, S. Dak., control zone is presently designated within a 5-mile radius of the Huron Municipal Airport extending 2 miles either side of the southwest course of the radio range to its intersection with the east course of the Pierre, S. Dak., radio range, and within 2 miles either side of the Huron ILS localizer northwest course extending from the localizer to a point 12 miles northwest of the outer marker.

The Federal Aviation Agency is considering altering the Huron control zone as follows:

1. Revoke the southwest control zone extension. The radio range approach procedure is being revised to eliminate the requirement for this control zone extension.

2. Revoke the portion of the control zone extension, presently based on the Huron ILS localizer northwest course, which extends northwest of the Huron VOR, and realign the remaining portion, between the 5-mile radius zone and the VOR, to base it on the Huron VOR 134° True radial. The prescribed ILS, ADF and VOR instrument approach procedures are being revised to eliminate the requirement for the portion of this control zone extension northwest of the VOR. The remaining portion of the extension would be realigned to coincide with the prescribed VOR final approach course.

If this action is taken, the Huron, S. Dak., control zone would be redesignated within a 5-mile radius of the Howes Airport (latitude 44°23'03" N., longitude 98°13'39" W.), and within 2 miles either side of the 134° True radial of the Huron, S. Dak., VOR extending from the 5-mile radius zone to the VOR.

Interested persons may submit such written data, views or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in triplicate to the Chief, Air Traffic Management Field Division, Federal Aviation Agency, 4825 Troost Avenue, Kansas City 10, Mo. All communications received within forty-five days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER will be considered before action is taken on the proposed amendment. No public hearing is contemplated at this time, but arrangements for informal conferences with Federal Aviation Agency officials may be made by contacting the Regional Air Traffic Management Field Division Chief, or the Chief, Airspace Utilization Division, Federal Aviation Agency, Washington 25, D.C. Any data, views or arguments presented during such conferences must also be submitted in writing in accordance with this notice in order to become part of the record for consideration. The proposal contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received.

The official Docket will be available for examination by interested persons at the Docket Section, Federal Aviation Agency, Room B-316, 1711 New York Avenue NW., Washington 25, D.C. An informal Docket will also be available for examination at the office of the Regional Air Traffic Management Field Division Chief.

This amendment is proposed under section 307(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 749; 49 U.S.C. 1348).

Issued in Washington, D.C., on December 9, 1960.

CHARLES W. CARMODY,
Chief, Airspace Utilization Division.

CONSTRUCTION OR ALTERATION; CRITERIA, PROCEDURES AND RULES FOR DETERMINATION OF EFFECT UPON USE OF NAVIGABLE AIRSPACE OF OBSTRUCTIONS TO AIR NAVIGATION

Supplemental Notice of Public Hearing

On September 16, 1960, a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (25 F.R. 8911) stating that the Federal Aviation Agency was considering the adoption of Part 626 of the regulations of the Administrator as set forth therein. This proposed regulation would establish when public notice of proposed construction or alteration of structures must be given to the Agency; establish criteria as to which proposed structures would constitute hazards to air navigation by reason of their location and height; provide procedures for giving individual consideration to any specific construction proposal to determine whether waiver of the criteria as applied to that structure would be consistent with safety in air navigation; and would provide for the regulatory establishment of "antenna farm areas" of specific dimensions of area and height within which tall structures could be erected exempt from the hazard criteria.

Requests for a public hearing on this proposal have been received from representatives of a number of industrial organizations. Because of the complexity of detail of the proposed regulation and its effect upon diverse non-aviation interests, it is the determination of the Administrator that it would be in the public interest to grant these petitions for a hearing.

Accordingly, a public hearing will be held to afford interested persons an opportunity to present data, views or arguments on the proposed regulation. The hearing will convene on January 10, 1961, at 10:00 a.m., e.s.t., in the 7th Floor Conference Room of Wing C, Federal Aviation Agency Headquarters, 1711 New York Avenue, Washington, D.C.

Persons desiring to be heard are requested to notify the Director, Bureau of Air Traffic Management, Federal Aviation Agency, Washington 25, D.C. Mr. D. D. Thomas, Director, Bureau of Air Traffic Management, will be the presiding officer.

This hearing is scheduled under § 409.14 of the regulations of the Administrator (14 CFR 409.14).

Issued in Washington, D.C., on December 15, 1960.

D. D. THOMAS,
Director, Bureau of Air Traffic Management.

AUDIOCASTING OF TEXAS, INC., AND HORACE K. JACKSON, SR.

Memorandum Opinion and Order

In re applications of Audiocasting of Texas, Inc., Waco, Texas, Docket No. 12876, File No. BP-11851; Horace K. Jackson, Sr., Gatesville, Texas, Docket No. 12877, File No. BP-12550; for construction permits for new standard broadcast stations.

1. Audiocasting of Texas, Inc. (Audiocasting) seeks a construction permit for a new station at Waco, Texas, to operate on 1580 kc, 500 w, 1 kw-LS, DA-2, unlimited time. Horace K. Jackson, Sr., sought a similar permit on the same frequency to operate with 250 watts power, daytime only, at Gatesville, Texas. On September 16, 1959, Audiocasting filed a petition for leave to amend, stating that a merger had been arranged with Jackson, whereby Jackson would withdraw his application and receive 25 percent of the voting stock of Audiocasting. An Initial Decision released April 7, 1960 (FCC 60D-43, Mimeo No. 86818) granted Audiocasting's amendment and application and dismissed Jackson's application without prejudice. The Broadcast Bureau supported the ultimate conclusion of the Examiner, but filed exception to certain portions of the Initial Decision. Audiocasting also filed exceptions, but withdrew them and adopted the Bureau's exception. (See Memorandum Opinion and Order [released July 25, 1960, FCC 60-865, Mimeo No. 90948] denying Audiocasting's request for immediate consideration of the Initial Decision.)

2. On September 13, 1960, there became effective amendments to the Communications Act of 1934, which, inter alia, revised section 311 to include provisions relating to withdrawals and mergers of and payments to any of the applicants. The Commission has reviewed the record and the Initial Decision herein and is unable to make a determination as to whether the agreement between the above-captioned applicants is permissible under section 311 of the Act, as recently amended.

Accordingly, it is ordered, This 7th day of December 1960, that the record herein is reopened and the proceeding is remanded to the Hearing Examiner who originally presided at the hearing, for further hearing with respect to the following issue and for the preparation of a Supplemental Initial Decision: "To determine whether the agreement between the applicants herein is permissible under 47 U.S.C. 311(c)."

HENNEPIN BROADCASTING ASSOCIATES ET AL.

Memorandum Opinion and Order Amending Issues

In re applications of Albert S. Tedesco and Patricia W. Tedesco, d/b as Hennepin Broadcasting Associates, Minneapolis, Minnesota, Docket No. 13673, File No. BP-12416; Robert E. Smith, River Falls, Wisconsin, Docket No. 13674, File No. BP-13339; Jack I. Moore, James L. Magner, Ray Ekberg, Ingvald C. Ryan, Donald E. Nebelung, Post Publishing Company, Inc., and Carl Bloomquist, d/b as Crystal Broadcasting Company, Crystal, Minnesota, Docket No. 13675, File No. BP-13750; for construction permits.

1. The Commission has before it for consideration (1) a Petition of Hennepin Broadcasting Associates to enlarge the issues, filed August 8, 1960; (2) a Reply in support by Crystal Broadcasting Company, filed August 17, 1960; (3) an Opposition of Robert E. Smith, filed August 18, 1960; (4) an Opposition of the Broadcast Bureau filed on August 22, 1960; and (5) a Reply by Hennepin, filed on September 7, 1960.

2. Hennepin seeks by this Petition to enlarge the issues beyond those designated for hearing by the Commission's Order published July 22, 1960 (25 F.R. 6996) to include the financial and other qualifications of Smith. Hennepin charges that the sources of Smith's financing are: (1) uncertain; (2) not available as a matter of law; and (3) not fully disclosed. Hennepin further contends that Smith has undisclosed business interests or backers; that this is probably a "block application;" and that Smith's character and other qualifications should be put in issue due to his failure to reveal that certain of his funds were received as outright gifts; his inclusion of the transmitter site that he did not own among his claimed assets; his possible management interest in a competing radio station; and because of his repeated failure to disclose required information until compelled by Hennepin's inquiries.

3. Smith contends that whatever information he failed to provide was due either to innocent oversight, or to the failure of his advisers and counsel to properly transmit the information; that, in most cases, he demonstrated his good faith by providing such information on other portions of his application; and that whatever erroneous or unclear statements were made conveyed the substance of the truth and were merely formally incorrect. Smith asserts that he is not connected in any way with any persons or interests undisclosed in his application; that he has no interest other than as an employee in any other radio station; and that his rapid increase in assets has been due to the enhancement in value of the transmitter site, to diligent budgeting of his personal income and to the sale of his prior residence.

4. Neither petitioner's allegations nor Smith's explanations are wholly persuasive. Considering the contradictory charges and explanations in the pleadings and all the facts and circumstances of this case, the matter can best be resolved through an evidentiary hearing in order that further light may be shed on the matters alleged through the vehicle of cross-examination of the parties and affiants.

Accordingly, it is ordered, This 7th day of December 1960, that the petition to enlarge issues, filed by Hennepin Broadcasting Associates on August 8, 1960, is granted; that the existing issue No. 10 is renumbered issue No. 13; and the issues in this proceeding are enlarged as follows:

10. To determine whether Robert E. Smith is financially qualified to construct and operate for a reasonable period of time the station he proposes in River Falls, Wisconsin.

11. To determine whether the application of Robert E. Smith fails to disclose all of his business interests and relationships; whether any other persons are financing his application and/or the construction of the station; whether any other persons may have an equity interest in the station; whether the application is in the nature of a "block application"; and, in the event of an affirmative finding on any of the foregoing, whether Robert E. Smith possesses the character qualifications requisite to a license of the Commission.

12. To determine whether Robert E. Smith has entered into a lease agreement with respect to the New Richmond, Wisconsin station or negotiated with respect thereto, and, if so, all of the facts and circumstances relating to such an agreement or negotiation; and, in the event Robert E. Smith is found to own, operate or control, directly or indirectly, the New Richmond station (WIXK), then to determine whether a grant of his application for River Falls would violate § 3.35 of the Commission's rules.

BRANDYWINE BROADCASTING CORP. ET AL.

Order Continuing Hearing

In re applications of Brandywine Broadcasting Corporation, Media, Pennsylvania, Docket No. 13466, File No. BP-11856; David G. Hendricks and Lester Grenewalt, d/b as Boyertown Broadcasting Company, Boyertown, Pennsylvania, Docket No. 13467, File No. BP-12548; Dinkson Corporation, Hammonton, New Jersey, Docket No. 13468, File No. BP-12955; for construction permits.

The Hearing Examiner having under consideration a petition filed December 7, 1960, on behalf of Brandywine Broadcasting Corporation requesting that the prehearing conference scheduled for December 7, 1960, be continued to December 14, 1960, and that the evidentiary hearing scheduled for December 14, 1960, be continued to a date to be later designated; and

It appearing that the reason for the requested continuance is the fact that at an informal engineering conference held in the offices of the Commission on December 5, 1960, a request was made for additional engineering exhibits which cannot be prepared by December 7, 1960, the date now scheduled for a formal prehearing conference and additional time is needed for the preparation of such exhibits; and

It further appearing that all parties have consented to the requested continuance, that good cause has been shown for granting the petition and that the element of time requires immediate consideration thereof;

It is ordered, This the 7th day of December 1960, that the petition to postpone hearing conference and hearing date is granted and the date for the prehearing conference is continued from December 7, 1960, to December 14, 1960, and the date for the further evidentiary hearing is continued from December 14, 1960, to a date to be announced at the conclusion of the prehearing conference to be held on such date.

BRENNAN BROADCASTING CO.

Memorandum Opinion and Order

In re application of William J. Brennan, Cyril G. Brennan, and Daniel M. Brennan, doing business as Brennan Broadcasting Company, Jacksonville, Florida, Docket No. 8584, File No. BP-6222; for construction permit.

1. The Commission has before it for consideration the following two petitions, filed June 29, 1960, and September 16, 1960, by the Brennan Broadcasting Company, and pleadings filed in response thereto. In these petitions, Brennan requests (a) reconsideration and rehearing; (b) leave to amend its application and for acceptance of the attached amendment; (c) that the application as thus amended be retained in hearing status and granted; (d) that § 3.28(c) of the rules be waived for good cause shown.

2. In an Initial Decision released July 14, 1949 (5 RR 454), the Hearing Examiner proposed a grant of the application of William J. Brennan, Cyril G. Brennan and Daniel M. Brennan, doing business as Brennan Broadcasting Company (hereinafter "Brennan"), for a new standard broadcast station at Jacksonville, Florida, to operate on 690 kc, 25 kw, unlimited time. Before the Initial Decision became final, the Commission, on October 26, 1951, announced the policy it would follow with respect to signatory countries, pending action on the ratification and entry into force of the new NARBA, and at the same time, released procedural amendments to the rules to implement this proposed policy.[1]

3. The Brennan daytime proposal afforded protection to Cuba in accordance with NARBA then being negotiated, but the nighttime proposal did not. The Commission, in an Order released October 7, 1952 (8 RR 309(b) (1952)), therefore placed the Brennan application in the pending file and continued it in hearing status, in accordance with the amended policy. No action was thereafter taken until May 22, 1956, when Brennan petitioned to have the Initial Decision adopted, or in the alternative, that a grant be made of its daytime proposal and that action on its nighttime proposal be temporarily withheld. In a Decision released March 4, 1957 (15 RR 7, 23 FCC 498), the Commission granted Brennan the right to the daytime operation, but retained the portion concerning nighttime operation in hearing status in the pending file pending ratification of NARBA, with the understanding the said nighttime portion would be dismissed by the Commission on its own motion without further hearing in the event that it conflicts with any provisions of NARBA at such time as the treaty shall be ratified. The NARBA agreement was ratified and became effective as of April 19, 1960. Thereafter, the Commission, by Order released June 2, 1960 (FCC 60-630), dismissed the nighttime portion of the above-entitled application in accordance with the aforementioned Decision because it did not afford Cuba the required protection.

4. Brennan now requests that the Order released June 2, 1960, supra, be set aside or stayed; that the application be returned to the pending file and retained in hearing status; and that he be given a reasonable opportunity to amend his application, in accordance with § 1.352 (c) (3) of the rules,[2] so that he may thus achieve consistency with NARBA. The Bureau is of the view that the Commission should reconsider the dismissal of the application and should return it to the pending file, but urges that the application be removed from hearing status, contending that petitioner had a reasonable period of time within which to amend, since he was long aware of the inconsistency of the nighttime portion of the application with the NARBA which had been negotiated but which did not become effective until April 19, 1960.

5. Section 1.352 of the rules governs the situation here presented. That section contemplates the retention of this application in hearing status and the granting of a reasonable period of time within which to amend. In view of the fact that NARBA was not ratified until April 19, 1960, and petitioner's application was not dismissed until June 2, 1960, petitioner herein was diligent in filing his request for leave to amend. The amendment eliminates the previous inconsistency with NARBA, and it will therefore be accepted. Hence, the petitioner's application as thus amended will be retained in hearing status with no change in file number. However, with respect to the request for an immediate grant and a waiver of § 3.28(c) of the rules, the Commission does not at this time deem it feasible to afford such relief.

Accordingly, it is ordered, This 7th day of December 1960, that the above-described petitions filed by William J. Brennan, Cyril G. Brennan and Daniel M. Brennan, doing business as Brennan Broadcasting Company on June 29, 1960 and September 16, 1960, respectively, are granted to the extent indicated herein and is in all other respects denied.

It is further ordered, That the Commission Order released June 2, 1960 (FCC 60-630) dismissing the nighttime portion of the above-entitled application, is set aside.

It is further ordered, That the request for leave to amend is granted, the amendment attached to the second of the moving petitions is accepted, and the application as amended is retained in hearing status with no change in file number.

It is further ordered, That the record herein is reopened, the proceeding is remanded for further hearing upon the issue specified below, and thereafter that a Supplemental Initial Decision be issued: "To determine whether interference received from any existing station would affect more than ten per cent of the population within the normally protected primary service area of the instant proposal of Radio Station WAPE, in contravention of § 3.28(c) (3) of the Commission rules, and, if so, whether circumstances exist which would warrant a waiver of said section."

Released: December 14, 1960.

"3. Applications in hearing status. (a) Whenever it appears with respect to any application which has been designated for hearing by itself or with respect to all of the applications in any consolidated proceeding that a grant of the application or applications involved would be inconsistent with the NARBA or would result in objectionable interference to a station in a North American Country, not signatory to the NARBA, and where the hearing involved has not been commenced, such application or applications will be removed from the hearing docket and placed in the pending file. Where the hearing involved has been commenced, such application or applications will be placed in the pending file, but will not be removed from the hearing docket. Such action shall be by order and may be taken by the Commission upon its own motion or by the Motions Commissioner upon motion of any party to the proceeding or of the Chief of the Broadcast Bureau."

B. Footnote 9a (part 3), released October 26, 1951 (FCC 51-1059); Mimeo. No. 68893; 16 F.R. 11187 (November 2, 1951):

"9a. Pending action with respect to ratification and entry into force of • • • (NARBA) • • • no assignment for a standard broadcast station will be made which would be inconsistent with the terms of the Agreement."

[2] Section 1.352(c)(3) is substantially identical with its precursor, footnote 3(c) to § 3.28(b), supra, and provides in pertinent part: "Section 1.352(c)(3): "In any proceeding in which, after the hearing has commenced, it becomes necessary to place the applications involved in the pending file or to add, with respect to any application or applications, an issue concerning consistence with the NARBA • • •, the applicants concerned will, notwithstanding the status of proceeding and the provisions of § 1.311(b), be afforded a reasonable opportunity to amend for the purpose of achieving consistency with these agreements • • •;"

The Hearing Examiner having under consideration an informal request from counsel for G. Stuart Nixon for a continuance of the second prehearing conference now scheduled for December 16, 1960;

It appearing that there has been a delay in the exchange of exhibits but that all of the parties have agreed among themselves upon a new exchange date which is satisfactory to the Hearing Examiner and that this means that additional time is required for study of the material by all of the engineers; and

It further appearing that a change in the date of the second prehearing conference will not affect the date of hearing which is tentatively established as January 17, 1961;

It is ordered, This 9th day of December 1960, that the second prehearing conference is continued from December 16, 1960, to January 9, 1961, and the date of January 17, 1961, is set for the commencement of hearing.

VARIOUS INTRUDER ALARM DEVICES

Notice of Inquiry

The Commission has before it two petitions for amendment of its rules to permit the operation of radio-frequency devices for detection purposes, or so-called intruder alarms.

The first of these, filed by Radar-Eye Corporation, RM-64, filed October 9, 1958, requests that:

1. The maximum permissible radiation limits specified in Part 15 of the Rules be changed

(a) To remove the limits; or

(b) To raise the limits to 100 microvolts per meter at 1000 feet; or

2. Part 18 of the Rules be amended to make the Radar-Eye eligible as an industrial, scientific or medical (ISM) device; or

3. Part 19, Citizens Radio Service Rules, be changed to permit operation of the device in the range 460-470 Mc with a radiated field of 100 microvolts per meter at 1000 feet; or

4. The Commission legalize operation of the device within the frequency range now being employed, 300-400 Mc, with 100 microvolts per meter at 1000 feet.

The second of these petitions, also involving the Radar-Eye device, was filed by the Electro-Security Corporation, RM-153, filed November 20, 1959, and requests that:

1. (a) The Commission institute rule-making providing for operation of Radio Frequency Burglar Alarm Systems operating on a frequency of 401 megacycles plus or minus one megacycle with a radiation limit not to exceed one volt per meter at a distance of twenty-five feet from the outside surface of any enclosures containing said system.

(b) The radiated signal be a continuous, unmodulated wave carrier.

(c) The emission outside the above band be limited to at least 30 db below the carrier level as measured at a distance of twenty-five feet from any outdoor antenna or a distance of twenty-five feet from the outside surface of any enclosure containing said system.

2. The radiation limits and definitions as contained in Part 15 of the Commission's rules respecting Restricted Radiation Devices be amended to include Radio Frequency Burglar Alarms operating continuously on an unlicensed basis and that the radiation limit for such Burglar Alarms be amended to permit a radiation level of one volt per meter as defined in paragraph 1 (a), (b), and (c) above.

3. The Commission issue an interim ruling permitting operation of Radio Frequency Burglar Alarms consistent with the existing operational conditions.

The Commission is aware of other similar devices which have been developed using frequencies in the vicinity of 1700 and 2200 Mc and there are undoubtedly other devices which have been developed to use still other portions of the spectrum that have not come to the attention of the Commission.

Section 303 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, requires that the Commission study new uses for radio, provide for experimental uses of radio frequencies, and generally encourage the larger and more effective use of radio in the public interest. Although the Commission recognizes the importance of promoting the general advancement of the state of the art, the complexity of our present national allocations structure resulting from the tremendous growth in spectrum usage in recent years makes it exceedingly difficult to find suitable radiofrequency channels for new developments.

The table of frequency allocations and our present classification of radio services have been developed over the years through formal rule-making proceedings in which every known use of radio and its relationship to public service was taken into consideration. The Commission must give due consideration to these factors as well as the technical aspects of the new development in determining whether to make provision for this new radio development in the existing rules, or to provide a new service and promulgate new rules, or whether the development is sufficiently in the public interest to warrant rule-making.

The Commission is instituting this Inquiry to provide the information that it requires to properly evaluate the mentioned petitions. Comments are requested on the specific issues listed below as well as on the petitions in general.

1. Why is it in the public interest to use radio for intruder alarms, in lieu of using other means such as sound waves, light beams, infra-red radiation, etc.?

2. If radio is to be used should intruder alarms be regulated without requirement of licensing? What should be the technical limitations and operating conditions so that interference will not be caused to the licensed radio services?

3. If licensing is proposed what should be the technical and operating requirements, including operating frequencies, power and emission?

4. Can intruder alarms share frequencies with an existing service or would separate frequencies for their exclusive use be needed?

5. To what extent is intruder alarm equipment impervious to interference from similar units and from other equipment on the same frequency? On adjacent frequencies? What is the probability of interference to other radio services on the same frequency? On adjacent frequencies?

6. To what extent is it desirable to classify intruder alarm equipment as a radiodetermination device and require it to operate on frequencies allocated for this purpose?

7. Information is requested on the extent to which intruder alarms are likely to be used. Will use be limited to a particular industry, to certain groups of individuals, or will it be mass produced for use by the general public? What pattern of use by geographic area can be anticipated?

Proponents of a specific device intended to serve as an intruder alarm are requested to provide the following information, also:

8. Describe the device and how it operates.

a. Give reasons for selection of operating frequency.

b. Give entire frequency range over which the equipment is capable of operating.

c. Describe the emission characteristics.

d. Indicate the minimum field strength needed for satisfactory operation.

e. State the minimum bandwidth required.

f. Discuss the equipment susceptibility to interference from similar units and from other electronic equipment on the same frequency. On adjacent frequencies.

g. Discuss the interference potential of your device to other radio services on the same frequency. On adjacent frequencies.

h. Useful range of the device in feet.

i. In a multiple unit installation, can all units be installed to operate on the same frequency? If not, what is the minimum number of frequencies required, and what is the minimum feasible separation between frequencies?

Any interested person, especially anyone who is of the opinion that interference will be caused by operation of intruder alarm type equipment in accordance with the various specifications contained in the petitions above, is urged to submit comments on his views.

Comments in response to this Inquiry should be submitted on or before April 3, 1961. In accordance with the provisions of § 1.54 of the Commission's rules, an original and 14 copies of all statements or comments shall be furnished the Commission.

Adopted: December 7, 1960.

Released: December 15, 1960.

FEDERAL REGISTER

VOLUME 25 NUMBER 245

Washington, Saturday, December 17, 1960

Uniform System of Accounts for Class D Public Utilities and Licensees

Title 18—CONSERVATION OF POWER

Chapter I—Federal Power Commission

SUBCHAPTER C—ACCOUNTS, FEDERAL POWER ACT

[Order No. 226; Docket No. R-185]

PART 105—UNIFORM SYSTEM OF ACCOUNTS FOR CLASS D PUBLIC UTILITIES AND LICENSEES

This Commission has under consideration in this proceeding the revision of Part 104—Application of Uniform System of Accounts to Class C and Class D Public Utilities and Licensees of Subchapter C—Accounts, Federal Power Act, of Chapter I—Federal Power Commission, Title 18—Conservation of Power, of the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR), to prescribe a revised Uniform System of Accounts Prescribed for Public Utilities and Licensees Subject to the Provisions of the Federal Power Act (Class D). That revised System of Accounts, as set forth in the attachment to the Notice of Proposed Rulemaking in this docket (25 F.R. 7602–7616) is prescribed hereinafter to become effective January 1, 1961, as a new part of the CFR, Part 105.

Part 104, §§ 104.1 through 104.11, of said Title and Code correspond to, and appear at pages 193–219 of the Commission's pamphlet publication of its Uniform System of Accounts Prescribed for Public Utilities and Licensees Subject to the Provisions of the Federal Power Act, effective January 1, 1937 (effective January 1, 1938, as to Class C and Class D Public Utilities and Licensees),[1] revised to September 1, 1957, as amended by Order No. 204[2] issued May 29, 1958 (23 F.R. 4160, June 12, 1958). That System of Accounts, as revised and prescribed hereinafter, follows the numbering system (accounts, instructions, definitions, etc.) used in the Notice of Proposed Rulemaking referred to above.

Important developments in the electric power industry since the adoption in 1936 of the Uniform System of Accounts effective January 1, 1938, and the experience of the Commission over the past 24 years indicated the need for a revision of the System of Accounts. Accordingly, this proceeding was commenced by Notice of Proposed Rulemaking served upon interested parties, including State and Federal regulatory agencies, and by publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER on August 10, 1960 (25 F.R. 7601). Copies of the proposed revised System of Accounts were served and published as a part of that general notice, as heretofore noted.

The revisions of the Commission's System of Accounts, as then proposed are prescribed hereinafter as part of the Commission's Uniform System of Accounts to become effective January 1, 1961.

Heretofore, the Commission has not had a separately issued Uniform System of Accounts for Class D Public Utilities and Licensees, as such. The accounting requirements presently effective for small utilities (Class C and Class D), consist of an abridgment of the accounts for large public utilities and licensees by means of account charts appearing as Appendix III of the pamphlet version of the Uniform System of Accounts. In these account charts, the condensed accounts applicable to the small utilities are indicated by bracketing related account titles applicable to Class A and Class B utilities. The result is that small utilities have had to work with an inordinate amount of textual materials designed for larger utilities. An objective of the System of Accounts, prescribed hereinafter, is to relieve small utilities from that burden. It is believed that the revised System of Accounts provides these smaller utilities with a simplified System of Accounts appropriate for the magnitude of their operations. The revised System of Accounts

[1] The Uniform System of Accounts effective January 1, 1938, was prescribed by Commission Order No. 43, dated December 31, 1936 (1 F.R. 77, January 16, 1937); and was contained in the codification and reissuance of the Commission's general rules promulgated by Commission Order No. 141, December 11, 1947, effective January 1, 1948 (12 F.R. 8461). Insofar as the above sections are by their terms applicable to State and municipal licensees, that requirement was dispensed with by the Act of August 15, 1950, 67 Stat. 617.

[2] Also see Order No. 216 issued October 29, 1959 (24 F.R. 8790, October 29, 1959).

counts prescribed herein reflects the basic principles found in this Commission's recently issued revised Uniform System of Accounts Prescribed for Class A and Class B Public Utilities and Licensees Subject to the Provisions of the Federal Power Act, Docket No. R-173. The revised System of Accounts introduces the following important improvements in this Commission's small utility accounting requirements:

a. New size classifications for electric utilities;

b. Certain necessary new accounts;

c. New arrangement of balance sheet and certain other accounts to make them more informative;

d. A reduced number of expense account classifications, mainly but not entirely, by the discontinuance of segregations of numerous functional accounts as to labor and other expenses;

e. Expanded items lists of account texts and clearer description of such items according to their functional nature, to facilitate use and consistency of respective account classifications; and

f. Restatements of the accounting aspects of certain accounting interpretations issued in the past.

In recommending the form of revised System of Accounts accompanying the Notice of Proposed Rulemaking in this proceeding, the staff of this Commission correlated its activities with the activities of the National Association of Railroad and Utility Commissioners (NARUC) which has recently prepared a form of NARUC Uniform System of Accounts for Class D electric utilities. This was done to promote continued consistency and uniformity of approach to the common problems with which the two accounting systems are concerned; and to assure a minimum amount of deviation where the two accounting systems do differ. The staff's activities in this regard were undertaken mainly with the Committee on Statistics and Accounts of the NARUC.

The aforesaid Notice of Proposed Rulemaking provided for the submission of data, views, comments, or protests in writing not later than September 12, 1960. To date no such data, views, comments, or protests have been received.

The Commission recognizes that some burden and expense will have to be borne by the accounting and reporting parties affected in connection with the transition from the present to the revised System of Accounts. However, the Commission is of the opinion that the physical burden and monetary cost of the change over is of minor importance when viewed in relation to the immediate and future benefits to be derived from the revised System of Accounts, as prescribed herein.

For the convenience of all parties concerned, Appendix A set forth below correlates the account titles of the Commission's Uniform System of Accounts applicable to Class D Public Utilities and Licensees, effective January 1, 1938, with the revised System of Accounts prescribed herein effective January 1, 1961. Being a schematic presentation only, and of a very general nature, nothing contained therein shall be construed as in any way modifying the general or specific account titles, texts, and instructions of either of the Systems of Accounts.

Also, it should be noted that for the period of time required for the preparation and publication of the revised System of Accounts prescribed herein in pamphlet form, the revised System of Accounts (18 CFR Part 105) will be available in the printed form set forth below as Appendix B.

The Commission finds:

(1) In view of the foregoing, and upon consideration of all relevant matters presented, it is necessary and appropriate for the purposes of the Federal Power Act, that the proposed revised System of Accounts as set forth in the Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (25 F.R. 7602-7616), be adopted and promulgated as this Commission's revised Uniform System of Accounts Prescribed for Public Utilities and Licensees Subject to the Provisions of the Federal Power Act (Class D), effective January 1, 1961, all in the manner as hereinafter provided.

(2) Good cause exists for the adoption of the revised System of Accounts set forth herein to be effective as of January 1, 1961.

The Commission, acting pursuant to the Federal Power Act, as amended particularly sections 301(a), 304, and 309 (16 U.S.C. 825, 825c, and 825h) orders:

(A) Effective January 1, 1961, Subchapter C—Accounts, Federal Power Act of Chapter I—Federal Power Commission, Title 18—Conservation of Power, of the Code of Federal Regulations is amended by the addition of a new Part 105 to read as set forth in Appendix B below.

(B) Effective January 1, 1961, all Class D Public Utilities and Licensees under the Federal Power Act shall keep their accounts in the manner set forth in the revised System of Accounts appearing in Appendix B below.

(C) The Secretary of the Commission shall cause prompt publication of this order.

Issued: December 17, 1960.

By the Commission.

APPENDIX B—UNIFORM SYSTEM OF ACCOUNTS PRESCRIBED FOR PUBLIC UTILITIES AND LICENSEES SUBJECT TO THE PROVISIONS OF THE FEDERAL POWER ACT (CLASS D)

Definitions

When used in this system of accounts:

1. "Accounts" means the accounts prescribed in this system of accounts.

2. "Amortization" means the gradual extinguishment of an amount in an account by distributing such amount over a fixed period, over the life of the asset or liability to which it applies, or over the period during which it is anticipated the benefit will be realized.

3. "Book cost" means the amount at which property is recorded in these accounts without deduction of related provisions for accrued depreciation, amortization or for other purposes.

4. "Commission" means the Federal Power Commission.

5. "Cost" means the amount of money actually paid for property or services. When the consideration given is other than cash in a purchase and sale transaction, as distinguished from a transaction involving the issuance of common stock in a merger or a pooling of interest, the value of such consideration shall be determined on a cash basis.

6. "Cost of removal" means the cost of demolishing, dismantling, tearing down or otherwise removing electric plant, including the cost of transportation and handling incidental thereto.

7. "Depreciation," as applied to depreciable electric plant, means the loss in service value not restored by current maintenance, incurred in connection with the consumption or prospective retirement of electric plant in the course of service from causes which are known to be in current operation and against which the utility is not protected by insurance. Among the causes to be given consideration are wear and tear, decay, action of the elements, inadequacy, obsolescence, changes in the art, changes in demand and requirements of public authorities.

8. "Investment advances" means advances, represented by notes or by book accounts only, with respect to which it is mutually agreed or intended between the creditor and debtor that they shall be settled by the issuance of securities or shall not be subject to current settlement.

9. "Licensee" means any person, or State, licensed under the provisions of the Federal Power Act and subject to the Commission's accounting requirements under the terms of the license.

10. "Minor items of property" means the associated parts or items of which retirement units are composed.

11. "Net salvage value" means the salvage value of property retired less the cost of removal.

12. "Original cost," as applied to electric plant, means the cost of such property to the person first devoting it to public service.

13. "Nonproject property" means the electric plant of a licensee which is not a part of the project property subject to a license issued by the Commission.

14. "Project" means complete unit of improvement or development, consisting of a power house, all water conduits, all dams and appurtenant works and structures (including navigation structures) which are a part of said unit, and all storage, diverting, or forebay reservoirs directly connected therewith, the primary line or lines transmitting power therefrom to the point of junction with the distribution system or with the interconnected primary transmission system, all miscellaneous structures used and useful in connection with said unit or any part thereof, and all water rights, rights of way, ditches, dams, reservoirs, lands, or interest in lands the use and occupancy of which are necessary or appropriate in the maintenance and operation of such unit.

15. "Project property" means the property described in and subject to a license issued by the Commission.

16. "Property retired," as applied to electric plant, means property which has been removed, sold, abandoned, destroyed, or which for any cause has been withdrawn from service.

17. "Public utility" means any person who owns or operates facilities subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission under the Federal Power Act. (See section 201(e) of said act.)

18. "Replacing" or "replacement," when not otherwise indicated in the context, means the construction or installation of electric plant in place of property retired, together with the removal of the property retired.

19. "Retirement units" means those items of electric plant which, when retired, with or without replacement, are accounted for by crediting the book cost thereof to the electric plant account in which included.

20. "Salvage value" means the amount received for property retired, less any expenses incurred in connection with the sale or in preparing the property for sale; or, if retained, the amount at which the material recoverable is chargeable to materials and supplies, or other appropriate account.

21. "Service life" means the time between the date electric plant is includible in electric plant in service, or electric plant leased to others, and the date of its retirement. If depreciation is accounted for on a production basis rather than on a time basis, then service life should be measured in terms of the appropriate unit of production.

22. "Service value" means the difference between original cost and net salvage value of electric plant.

23. "State" means a State admitted to the Union, the District of Columbia, and any organized Territory of the United States.

24. "Utility," as used herein and when not otherwise indicated in the context, means any public utility or licensee to which this system of accounts is applicable.

General Instructions

1. Classification of Utilities.

A. For the purpose of applying systems of accounts prescribed by the Commission, electric utilities and licensees are divided into four classes as follows:

Class A. Utilities having annual electric operating revenues of $2,500,000 or more.

Class B. Utilities having annual electric operating revenues of $1,000,000 or more but less than $2,500,000.

Class C. Utilities having annual electric operating revenues of $150,000 or more but less than $1,000,000.

Class D. Utilities having annual electric operating revenues of $25,000 or more but less than $150,000.

B. This system of accounts applies to Class D utilities. Those applicable to Classes A and B and to Class C utilities are issued separately.

C. The class to which any utility belongs shall originally be determined by the average of its annual electric operating revenues for the last three consecutive years. Subsequent changes in classification shall be made when the annual electric operating revenues for each of the three immediately preceding years shall exceed the upper limit, or be less than the lower limit, of the annual electric operating revenues of the classification previously applicable to the utility.

D. Any utility may, at its option, adopt the system of accounts prescribed by the Commission for any larger class of utilities.

2. Records.

A. Each utility shall keep its books of account, and all other books, records, and memoranda which support the entries in such books of account so as to be able to furnish readily full information as to any item included in any account. Each entry shall be supported by such detailed information as will permit a ready identification, analysis, and verification of all facts relevant thereto.

B. In addition to prescribed accounts, clearing accounts, temporary or experimental accounts, and subdivisions of any account, may be kept provided the integrity of the prescribed accounts is not impaired.

C. Each utility shall keep its books on either a monthly or quarterly basis. Each utility shall close its books at the end of each calendar year unless otherwise authorized by the Commission.

3. Item Lists.

Lists of "items" appearing in the texts of the accounts or elsewhere herein are for the purpose of more clearly indicating the application of the prescribed accounting. The lists are intended to be representative, but not exhaustive. The appearance of an item in a list warrants the inclusion of the item in the account mentioned only when the text of the account also indicates inclusion inasmuch as the same item frequently appears in more than one list. The proper entry in each instance must be determined by the texts of the accounts. In cases of doubtful interpretation, the matter shall be submitted to the Commission for decision.

4. Distribution of Pay and Expenses of Employees.

The charges to electric plant, operating expenses and other accounts for services and expenses of employees engaged in activities chargeable to various accounts, such as construction, maintenance, and operations, shall be based upon the actual time engaged in the respective classes of work, or in case that method is impracticable, upon the basis of a study of the time actually engaged during a representative period.

5. Functions and Accounts not Included.

If the utility contemplates or is following accounting for deferred taxes on income (and is permitted by the Commission to practice such accounting) it shall use the accounts for deferred taxes on income prescribed for Classes A and B or Class C electric utilities and licensees and comply with the related instructions and account texts of such Class A and B or Class C Uniform System of Accounts as though such accounts and instructions were a part of this system of accounts.

6. Separate Accounts or Records for Each Licensed Project.

The accounts or records of each licensee shall be so kept as to show for each project under license:

(a) the actual legitimate original cost of the project, including the original cost (or fair value as determined under section 23 of the Federal Power Act) of the original project, the original cost of additions thereto and betterments thereof, credits for property retired from service, and credits for related contributions in aid of construction, as determined under the Commission's regulations;

(b) the charges for operation and maintenance of the project property directly assignable to the project;

(c) the credits and debits to the depreciation reserve account, and the balance in such account;

(d) the credits and debits to operating revenue, income, and surplus accounts that can be identified with and directly assigned to the project.

NOTE: The purpose of this instruction is to insure that accounts or records are currently maintained by each licensee from which reports may be made to the Commission for use in determining the net investment in each licensed project. The instruction covers only the debit and credit items appearing in the licensee's accounts which may be identified with and assigned directly to any licensed project. In the determination of the net investment as defined in section 3 of the Federal Power Act, allocations of items affecting the net investment may be required where direct assignment is not practicable.

Electric Plant Instructions

1. Electric Plant To Be Recorded at Cost.

A. All amounts included in the accounts for electric plant acquired as an operating unit or system, except as otherwise provided in the texts of the intangible plant accounts, shall be stated at the cost incurred by the person who first devoted the property to utility service. All other electric plant shall be included in the accounts at the cost incurred by the utility. Where the term "cost" is used in the detailed plant accounts, it shall have the meaning stated in this paragraph.

B. When the consideration given for property is other than cash, the value of such consideration shall be determined on a cash basis (see, however, Definition 5). In the entry recording such transaction, the actual consideration shall be described with sufficient particularity to identify it. The utility shall be prepared to furnish the Commission the particulars of its determination of the cash value of the consideration if other than cash.

C. When property is purchased under a plan involving deferred payments, no charge shall be made to the electric plant accounts for interest, insurance or other expenditures occasioned solely by such form of payment.

D. Electric plant contributed to the utility or constructed by it from contributions to it of cash or its equivalent shall be charged to the electric plant accounts at cost of construction estimated if not known. There shall be credited to the accounts for accumulated depreciation and amortization the estimated amount of depreciation and amortization applicable to the property at the time of its contribution to the utility. The difference between the amounts included in the electric plant accounts and the accumulated depreciation and amortization shall be credited to account 271, Contributions in Aid of Construction.

2. Components of Construction Cost.

The cost of construction of property chargeable to the electric plant accounts shall include, where applicable, the cost of labor, materials and supplies, transportation, work done by others for the utility, injuries and damages incurred in construction work, privileges and permits, special machine service, interest during construction and such portion of general engineering, administrative salaries and expenses, insurance, taxes and other analogous items as may be properly includible in construction costs.

3. Land and Land Rights.

A. The accounts for land and land rights shall include the cost of land owned in fee by the utility and rights, interests, and privileges held by the utility in land owned by others, such as leaseholds, easements, water and water power rights, diversion rights, submersion rights, rights of way, and other like interest in land.

B. Where special assessments for public improvements provide for deferred payments, the full amount of the assessments shall be charged to the appropriate land account and the unpaid balance shall be carried in an appropriate liability account. Interest on unpaid balances shall be charged to the appropriate interest account. If any part of the cost of public improvements is included in the general tax levy, the amount thereof shall be charged to the appropriate tax account.

C. The cost of buildings and other improvements (other than public improvements) shall not be included in the land accounts. If at the time of acquisition of an interest in land such interest extends to buildings or other improvements (other than public improvements), which are then devoted to utility operations, the land and improvements shall be separately appraised and the cost allocated to land and buildings or improvements on the basis of the appraisals. If the improvements are removed or wrecked without being used in operations, the cost of removing or wrecking shall be charged and the salvage credited to the account in which the cost of the land is recorded.

D. When the purchase of land for utility operations requires the purchase of more land than needed for such purposes, the charge to the specific land account shall be based upon the cost of the land purchased, less the fair market value of that portion of the land which is not to be used in utility operations. The portion of the cost measured by the fair market value of the land not to be used shall be included in account 394, Property Held for Future Use, or account 121, Nonutility Property, as appropriate.

4. Structures and Improvements.

A. The accounts for structures and improvements shall include the cost of all buildings and facilities to house, support, or safeguard property or persons, including all fixtures permanently attached to and made a part of buildings and which cannot be removed therefrom without cutting into the walls, ceilings, or floors, or without in some way impairing the buildings, and improvements of a permanent character on or to land.

B. The cost of specially provided foundations not intended to outlast the machinery or apparatus for which provided, and the cost of angle irons, castings, etc., installed at the base of any item of equipment, shall be charged to the same account as the cost of the machinery, apparatus or equipment.

C. Where furnaces and boilers are used primarily for furnishing steam for some particular department and only incidentally for furnishing steam for heating a building and operating the equipment therein, the entire cost of such furnaces and boilers shall be charged to the appropriate plant account, and no part to the building account.

D. Where the structure of a dam forms also the foundation of the power plant building, such foundation shall be considered a part of the dam.

5. Equipment.

A. The cost of equipment chargeable to the electric plant accounts, unless otherwise indicated in the text of an equipment account, includes the net purchase price thereof, sales taxes, investigation and inspection expenses necessary to such purchase, expenses of transportation when borne by the utility, labor employed, materials and supplies consumed, and expenses incurred by the utility in unloading and placing the equipment in readiness to operate.

B. Exclude from equipment accounts hand and other portable tools, which are likely to be lost or stolen or which have relatively small value or short life, unless the correctness of the accounting therefor as utility plant is verified by current inventories. Special tools acquired and included in the purchase price of equipment shall be included in the appropriate plant account. Portable drills and similar tool equipment when used in connection with the operation and maintenance of a particular plant or department, such as production, transmission, distribution, etc., or in "stores," shall be charged to the plant account appropriate for their use.

C. The equipment accounts shall include angle irons and similar items which are installed at the base of an item of equipment, but piers and foundations which are designed to be as permanent as the buildings which house the equipment, or which are constructed as a part of the building and which cannot be removed without cutting into the walls, ceilings, or floors, or without in some way impairing the building, shall be included in the building accounts.

6. Electric Plant Retired.

A. When depreciable electric plant is abandoned, destroyed, withdrawn or otherwise retired from service for any cause, the book cost of the plant shall be deducted from the electric plant accounts and charged to accumulated provision for depreciation. The cost of removing such plant (except customer meters and line transformers) shall be charged to accumulated provision for depreciation and the amount received for any materials recovered and sold, or salvage value if returned to stores, shall be credited to the accumulated provision for depreciation. It is not intended that the above procedure shall be followed in the replacement of minor items of plant, the replacement of which is charged to operating expense accounts.

B. The book cost of land retired shall be credited to the appropriate land account. If the land is sold, the difference between the book cost (less any accumulated provision for depreciation or amortization therefor which has been authorized and provided) and the sale price of the land (less commissions and other expenses of making the sale) shall be included in account 434, Miscellaneous Credits to Surplus, or account 435, Miscellaneous Debits to Surplus, as appropriate. If the land is not used in utility service but is retained by the utility, the book cost shall be charged to account 394, Electric Plant Held for Future Use, or account 121, Nonutility Property, as appropriate.

C. The book cost of electric plant retired shall be the amount at which such property is included in the electric plant accounts, including all components of construction costs. The book cost shall be determined from the utility's records and, if this cannot be done, it shall be estimated. When it is impracticable to determine the book cost of each unit, due to the relatively large number or small cost thereof, an appropriate average book cost of the units, with due allowance for any difference in size and character, shall be used as the book cost of the units retired.

Balance Sheet Accounts

1. UTILITY PLANT

100 Electric plant.

A. This account shall include the book amount of electric plant, included in the plant accounts 301 to 397, inclusive, prescribed herein, and having an expectation of life in service of more than one year from date of installation, including such property owned by the utility but held by nominees.

B. The cost of additions to and betterments of property leased from others, which are includible in this account, shall be maintained in subdivisions separate and distinct from those relating to owned property.

110 Accumulated provision for depreciation and amortization of electric plant.

A. This account shall be credited with the following:

(1) Amounts charged to account 403, Depreciation Expense, to account 404, Amortization Expense, to account 413, Expenses of Electric Plant Leased to Others, to account 416, Costs and Expenses of Merchandising, Jobbing and Contract Work, or to clearing accounts for currently accruing depreciation or amortization of plant.

(2) Amounts charged to account 435, Miscellaneous Debits to Surplus, for past accrued depreciation or amortization.

(3) Amounts of depreciation applicable to electric properties acquired as operating units or systems.

(4) Amounts chargeable to account 182, Extraordinary Property Losses, when authorized by the Commission.

(5) Amounts of depreciation applicable to electric plant donated to the utility.

B. At the time of retirement of electric plant, this account shall be charged with the book cost of the property retired and the cost of removal, and shall be credited with the salvage value and any other amounts recovered, such as insurance.

C. The credits and debits to this account shall be so kept as to show separately: (1) the amount of accrual for depreciation or amortization, (2) the book cost of property retired, (3) cost of removal, (4) salvage, and (5) other items, including recoveries from insurance.

D. The utility is restricted in its use of the accumulated provision for depreciation to the purposes set forth above. It shall not transfer any portion of this account to surplus or make any other use thereof without authorization by the Commission.

118 Other utility plant.

This account shall include the balances in accounts for utility plant, other than electric plant, such as gas, railway, etc.

119 Accumulated provision for depreciation and amortization of other utility plant.

This account shall include the accumulated provision for depreciation and amortization applicable to utility property other than electric plant.

2. OTHER PROPERTY AND INVESTMENTS

121 Nonutility property.

This account shall include the book cost of land, structures, equipment or other tangible or intangible property owned by the utility, but not used in utility service and not properly includible in account 394, Electric Plant Held for Future Use.

122 Accumulated provision for depreciation and amortization of nonutility property.

This account shall include the accumulated provision for depreciation and amortization applicable to property other than utility plant.

124 Other investments.

A. This account shall include the book cost of investments in securities issued or assumed by other companies, investment advances to such companies, and any investments not accounted for elsewhere. Include also the offsetting entry to the recording of amortization of discount or premium on interest-bearing investments. (See account 419, Interest and Dividend Income.)

B. The records shall be maintained in such manner as to show the amount of each investment and the investment advances to each person.

125 Special funds.

This account shall include the amount of cash and book cost of investments which have been segregated in special funds for bond retirements, property additions, and replacements, insurance, employees' pensions, savings, relief, hospital, and other purposes not provided for elsewhere. A separate account, with appropriate title, shall be kept for each fund.

NOTE A: Amounts deposited with a trustee under the terms of an irrevocable trust agreement for pensions or other employees' benefits shall not be included in this account.

NOTE B: Licensees under the Federal Power Act which are required to establish an amortization fund under terms of the license shall provide a special subdivision of this account for the purpose of accounting for and identifying the cash, investments or other specific assets associated with account 264, Amortization Reserve—Federal.

3. CURRENT AND ACCRUED ASSETS

131 Cash and working funds.

This account shall include the amount of cash on hand and in banks and cash advanced to officers, agents, employees, and others as petty cash or working funds. Special cash deposits for payment of interest, dividends or other special purposes shall be included in this account in separate subdivisions which shall specify the purpose for which each such special deposit is made.

NOTE: Special deposits for more than one year, which are not offset by current liabilities, shall not be charged to this account but to account 125, Special Funds.

132 Temporary cash investments.

A. This account shall include the book cost of investments, such as demand and time loans, bankers' acceptances, United States Treasury certificates, marketable securities, and other similar investments, acquired for the purpose of temporarily investing cash.

B. This account shall be so maintained as to show separately temporary cash investments in securities of associated companies and of others. Records shall be kept of any pledged investments.

141 Notes receivable.

This account shall include the book cost, not includible elsewhere, of all collectible obligations in the form of notes receivable and similar evidences (except interest coupons) of money due on demand or within one year from the date of issue.

NOTE: The face amount of notes receivable, discounted, sold, or transferred without releasing the utility from liability as endorser thereon, shall be credited to a separate subdivision of this account and appropriate disclosure shall be made in financial statements of any contingent liability arising from such transactions.

142 Customer accounts receivable.

A. This account shall include amounts due from customers for utility service, and for merchandising, jobbing and contract work.

B. This account shall be maintained so as to permit ready segregation of the amounts due for merchandising, jobbing and contract work.

143 Other accounts receivable.

A. This account shall include amounts due the utility upon open accounts, other than amounts due from customers for utility services and merchandising, jobbing and contract work.

B. This account shall be maintained so as to show separately amounts due on subscriptions to capital stock and from officers and employees, but the account shall not include amounts advanced to officers or others as working funds.

144 Accumulated provision for uncollectible accounts—Cr.

A. This account shall be credited with amounts provided for losses on accounts receivable which may become uncollectible, and also with collections on accounts previously charged hereto. Concurrent charges shall be made to account 590, Uncollectible Accounts, for amounts applicable to utility operations, and to corresponding accounts for other operations. Records shall be maintained so as to show the writeoffs of accounts receivable for each utility department.

B. This account shall be subdivided to show the provision applicable to the following classes of accounts receivable:

Utility Customers.
Merchandising, Jobbing and Contract Work.
Officers and Employees.
Other.

NOTE A: Accretions to this account shall not be made in excess of a reasonable provision against losses of the character provided for.

NOTE B: If provisions for uncollectible notes receivable are necessary, separate subaccounts therefor shall be established under account 141, Notes Receivable.

150 Materials and supplies.

A. This account shall include the cost of fuel on hand and unapplied materials and supplies (except line transformers and meters). It shall include also the book cost of materials recovered in connection with construction, maintenance or the retirement of property, such materials being credited to construction, maintenance, or accumulated depreciation provision, respectively, and included herein as follows:

(1) Reusable materials consisting of large individual items shall be included in this account at original cost, estimated if not known. The cost of repairing such items shall be charged to the maintenance account appropriate for the previous use.

(2) Reusable materials consisting of relatively small items, the identity of which (from the date of original installation to the final abandonment or sale thereof) cannot be ascertained without undue refinement in accounting, shall be included in this account at current prices new for such items. The cost of repairing such items shall be charged to the appropriate expense account as indicated by previous use.

(3) Scrap and nonusable materials included in this account shall be carried at the estimated net amount realized therefrom. The difference between the amounts realized for scrap and nonusable materials sold and the net amount at which the materials were carried in this account, as far as practicable, shall be adjusted to the accounts credited when the materials were charged to this account.

B. Materials and supplies issued shall be credited hereto and charged to the appropriate construction, operating expense, or other account on the basis of a unit price determined by the use of cumulative-average, first-in-first-out, or such other method of inventory accounting as conforms with accepted accounting standards consistently applied.

C. Inventories of materials, supplies, fuel, etc. shall be taken at least annually and the necessary adjustments shall be made to bring this account into agreement with the actual inventories. In effecting the adjustments, large differences which can be assigned to important classes of materials shall be equitably adjusted among the accounts to which such classes of materials have been charged since the previous inventory. Other differences shall be equitably apportioned among the accounts to which materials have been charged.

ITEMS

1. Invoice price of materials less cash or other discounts.
2. Freight, switching or other transportation charges when practicable to include as part of the cost of particular materials to which they relate.
3. Customers duties and excise taxes.
4. Cost of inspection and special tests prior to acceptance.
5. Insurance and other directly assignable charges.

NOTE A: Where expenses applicable to materials purchased cannot be directly assigned to particular purchases, they may be charged to a stores expense clearing account and distributed therefrom to the appropriate account.

NOTE B: When materials and supplies are purchased for immediate use, they need not be carried through this account but may be charged directly to the appropriate utility plant or expense account.

165 Prepayments.

A. This account shall include the amount of rents, taxes, insurance, interest and like disbursements made in advance of the period to which they apply. As the periods covered by such prepayments expire, credit this account and charge the proper operating expense or other account with the amount applicable to the period.

B. This account shall be kept or supported in such manner as to disclose the amount of each class of prepayments.

170 Other current and accrued assets.

This account shall include the book cost of all other current and accrued assets, appropriately designated and supported so as to show the nature of each asset included herein.

4. DEFERRED DEBITS

181 Unamortized debt discount and expense.

A. This account shall include the total of the unamortized balance of discount and expense for all classes of long-term debt.

B. The discount and expense shall be amortized over the life of the respective issues under a plan which will distribute the amounts equitably over the life of the securities. The amortization shall be charged to account 428, Amortization of Debt Discount and Expense. The utility may, however, accelerate the writing off of discount and expense where the amounts are insignificant.

182 Extraordinary property losses.

A. When authorized or directed by the Commission, this account shall include extraordinary losses on property abandoned or otherwise retired from service which are not provided for by the accumulated provisions for depreciation or amortization and which could not reasonably have been foreseen and provided for, and extraordinary losses, such as unforeseen damages to property, which could not reasonably have been anticipated and which are not covered by insurance or other provisions.

B. The entire cost, less net salvage, of depreciable property retired shall be charged to accumulated provision for depreciation. If all, or a portion, of the loss is to be included in this account, the accumulated provision for depreciation shall then be credited and this account charged with the amount properly chargeable hereto.

C. Application to the Commission for permission to use this account shall be accompanied by a statement giving a complete explanation with respect to the items which it is proposed to include herein, the period over which, and the accounts to which it is proposed to write off the charges, and other pertinent information.

183 Other deferred debits.

A. This account shall include the following classes of items:

(1) Expenditures for preliminary surveys, plans, investigations, etc., made for the purpose of determining the feasibility of projects under contemplation. If construction results, this account shall be credited with the amount applicable thereto and the appropriate plant accounts shall be charged with an amount which does not exceed the expenditures which may reasonably be determined to contribute directly and immediately and without duplication to plan. If the work is abandoned, the charge shall be to account 435, Miscellaneous Debits to Surplus, or to the appropriate operating expense account.

(2) Undistributed balances in clearing accounts at the date of the balance sheet. Balances in clearing accounts shall be substantially cleared not later than the end of the calendar year unless items held therein related to a future period.

(3) Balances representing expenditures for work in progress other than on utility plant. This includes jobbing and contract work in progress.

(4) Other debit balances, the proper final disposition of which is uncertain, and unusual or extraordinary expenses, not included in other accounts, which are in process of being written off.

B. The records supporting the entries to this account shall be so kept that the utility can furnish full information as to each deferred debit included herein.

LIABILITIES AND OTHER CREDITS

5. PROPRIETARY CAPITAL

201 Common capital stock.

204 Preferred capital stock.

A. These accounts shall include the par value or the stated value of stock without par value if such stock has a stated value, and, if not, the cash value of the consideration received for such nonpar stock, of each class of capital stock actually issued, including the par or stated value of such capital stock in account 217, Reacquired Capital Stock.

B. When the actual cash value of the consideration received is more or less than the par or stated value of any stock having a par or stated value, the difference shall be credited or debited, as the case may be, to the premium or discount account for the particular class and series.

C. When capital stock is retired, these accounts shall be charged with the amount at which such stock is carried herein.

D. A separate ledger account, with a descriptive title, shall be maintained for each class and series of stock. The supporting records shall show the shares nominally issued, actually issued, and nominally outstanding.

NOTE: When a levy or assessment, except a call for payment on subscriptions, is made against holders of capital stock, the amount collected upon such levy or assessment shall be credited to account 207, Other Paid-In Capital: Provided, however, That the credit shall be made to account 213, Discount on Capital Stock, to the extent of any remaining balance of discount on the issue of stock.

207 Other paid-in capital.

This account shall include the balance of all other credits for paid-in capital not includible in the capital stock accounts, and shall be kept so as to show the source of the credits includible herein.

ITEMS

1. Premium received on original issues of capital stock.
2. Donations received from stockholders consisting of capital stock or reduction of debt of the utility, and the cash value of other assets received as a donation.
3. Reduction in par or stated value of capital stock.
4. Gain on resale or cancellation of reacquired capital stock.
5. Miscellaneous paid-in capital.

NOTE: Premium on capital stock shall not be set off against expenses. Further, a premium received on an issue of a certain class or series of stock shall not be set off against expense of another issue of the same class or series.

212 Installments received on capital stock.

A. This account shall include in a separate subdivision for each class and series of capital stock the amount of installments received on capital stock on a partial or installment payment plan for subscribers who are not bound by legally enforceable subscription contracts.

B. As subscriptions are paid in full and certificates issued, this account shall be charged and the appropriate capital stock account credited with the par or stated value of such stock. Any discount or premium on an original issue shall be included in the appropriate discount or premium account.

213 Discount on capital stock.

A. This account shall include in a separate subdivision for each class and series of capital stock all discount on the original issuance and sale of capital stock, including additional capital stock of a particular class or series as well as first issues.

B. When capital stock which has been actually issued is retired, the amount in this account applicable to the shares retired shall be written off to account 207, Other Paid-In Capital: Provided, however, That the amount shall be charged to account 435, Miscellaneous Debits to Surplus, to the extent that it exceeds the balance in account 207.

C. The utility may amortize the balance in this account by systematic charges to account 425, Miscellaneous Amortization, or it may write off capital stock discount in whole or in part to account 435, Miscellaneous Debits to Surplus.

214 Capital stock expense.

A. This account shall include in a separate subdivision for each class and series of stock all commissions and expenses incurred in connection with the original issuance and sale of capital stock, including additional capital stock of a particular class or series as well as first issues. Expenses applicable to capital stock shall not be deducted from premium on capital stock.

B. When capital stock which has been actually issued by the utility is retired, the amount in this account applicable to the shares retired shall be written off to account 207, Other Paid-In Capital, to the extent of gains on resale or cancellation of reacquired stock includible therein: Provided, however, That the amount shall be charged to account 435, Miscellaneous Debits to Surplus, to the extent that it exceeds the balance in account 207, from such source.

C. The utility may amortize the balance carried in this account by systematic charges to account 425, Miscellaneous Amortization, or it may write off capital stock expense in whole or in part by charges to account 435, Miscellaneous Debits to Surplus.

NOTE: Expenses in connection with the reacquisition or resale of the utility's capital stock shall not be included herein.

215 Appropriated earned surplus.

This account shall include the amount of earned surplus which has been appropriated or set aside for specific purposes. Separate subaccounts shall be maintained under such titles as will designate the purpose for which each appropriation was made.

216 Unappropriated earned surplus.

This account shall include the balance, either debit or credit, of unappropriated surplus arising from earnings. It shall not include items includible in any subaccount of account 207, Other Paid-In Capital.

217 Reacquired capital stock.

A. This account shall include in a separate subdivision for each class and series of capital stock, the cost of capital stock actually issued by the utility and reacquired by it and not retired or canceled, except, however, stock which is held by trustees in sinking or other funds.

B. When reacquired capital stock is retired or canceled, the difference between its cost, including commissions and expenses paid in connection with the reacquisition, and its par or stated value plus any premium and less any discount and expenses applicable to the shares retired, shall be debited or credited, as appropriate, to account 207, Other Paid-In Capital, provided, however, that debits shall be charged to account 435, Miscellaneous Debits to Surplus, to the extent that they exceed the balance of gains on resale or cancellation of reacquired stock included in account 207.

C. When reacquired capital stock is resold by the utility, the difference between the amount received on the resale of the stock, less expenses incurred in the resale, and the cost of the stock included in this account shall be accounted for as outlined in paragraph B.

NOTE: The accounting for reacquired stock shall be as prescribed herein unless otherwise specifically required by statute.

218 Noncorporate proprietorship.

This account shall include the investment in an unincorporated utility by the proprietor thereof, and shall be charged with all withdrawals from the business by its proprietor. At the end of each calendar year the net income for the year, as developed in the income account, shall be transferred to this account. (See optional accounting procedure provided in Note C, hereunder.)

NOTE A: Amounts payable to the proprietor as just and reasonable compensation for services performed shall not be charged to this account but to appropriate operating expense or other accounts.

NOTE B: When the utility is owned by a partnership, a separate account shall be kept to show the net equity of each member therein and the transactions affecting the interest of each such partner.

NOTE C: This account may be restricted to the amount considered by the proprietor to be the permanent investment in the business, subject to change only by additional investment by the proprietor or the withdrawal of portions thereof not representing net income. When this option is taken, the earned surplus accounts shall be maintained and entries thereto shall be made in accordance with the texts thereof.

6. LONG-TERM DEBT

221 Bonds.

A. Separate accounts shall be maintained hereunder for unmatured bonds of each class and series. Each such account shall be subdivided so as to show: (1) the face value of the actually issued and unmatured bonds, which have not been retired or canceled; also, the face value of such bonds issued by others, the payment of which has been assumed by the utility, (2) the face value of bonds actually issued or assumed by the utility and reacquired by it and not paid, retired, or canceled. The account for reacquired debt shall not include securities which are held by trustees in sinking or other funds.

B. When bonds are reacquired, the difference between face value, adjusted for unamortized discount, expense or premium and the amount paid upon reacquisition, shall be included in account 434, Miscellaneous Credits to Surplus, or account 435, Miscellaneous Debits to Surplus as appropriate.

223 Advances from associated companies.

A. This account shall include the face value of notes payable to associated companies and the amount of open book accounts representing advances from associated companies. It does not include notes and open accounts representing indebtedness subject to current settlement.

B. The records supporting the entries to this account shall be so kept that the utility can furnish complete information concerning each note and open account.

224 Other long-term debt.

A. This account shall include, until maturity, all long-term debt not otherwise provided for. This covers such items as receivers' certificates, real estate mortgages executed or assumed, assessments for public improvements, notes and unsecured certificates of indebtedness not owned by associated companies, receipts outstanding for long-term debt, and other obligations maturing more than one year from date of issue or assumption.

B. Separate accounts shall be maintained for each class of obligation, and records shall be maintained to show for each class all details as to date of obligation, date of maturity, interest dates and rates, security for the obligation, etc.

NOTE: Miscellaneous long-term debt reacquired shall be accounted for in accordance with the procedures set forth in account 221, Bonds.

7. CURRENT AND ACCRUED LIABILITIES

231 Notes payable.

This account shall include the face value of all notes, drafts, acceptances, or other similar evidences of indebtedness, payable on demand or within a time not exceeding one year from date of issue.

232 Accounts payable.

This account shall incude all amounts payable by the utility within one year, which are not provided for in other accounts.

235 Customer deposits.

This account shall include all amounts deposited with the utility by customers as security for the payment of bills.

236 Taxes accrued.

A. This account shall be credited with the amount of taxes accrued during the accounting period, corresponding debits made to the appropriate accounts for tax charges. Such credits may be based upon estimates, but from time to time during the year as the facts become known, the amount of the periodic credits shall be adjusted so as to include as nearly as can be determined in each year the taxes applicable thereto. Any amount representing a prepayment of taxes applicable to the period subsequent to the date of the balance sheet shall be shown under account 165, Prepayments.

B. If accruals for taxes are found to be insufficient or excessive, correction therefor shall be made through current tax accruals. However, if such corrections are so large as to seriously distort current expenses, they shall be included in account 434, Miscellaneous Credits to Surplus, or account 435, Miscellaneous Debits to Surplus, as appropriate.

C. Accruals for taxes shall be based upon the net amount payable after credit for any discounts and shall not include any amounts for interest on tax deficiencies or refunds. Interest received on refunds shall be credited to account 419, Interest and Dividend Income, and interest paid on deficiencies shall be charged to account 431, Other Interest Expense.

D. The records supporting the entries to this account shall be kept so as to show for each class of taxes, the amount accrued, the basis for the accrual, the accounts to which charged, and the amount of tax paid.

237 Interest accrued.

This account shall include the amount of interest accrued but not matured on all liabilities of the utility, not including, however, interest which is added to the principal of the debt on which incurred. Supporting records shall be maintained so as to show the amount of interest accrued on each obligation.

238 Other current and accrued liabilities.

This account shall include the amount of all other current and accrued liabilities not provided for elsewhere appropriately designated and supported so as to show the nature of each liability.

ITEMS

1. Dividends declared but not paid.
2. Matured long-term debt.
3. Matured interest.
4. Taxes collected through payroll deductions or otherwise pending transmittal to the proper taxing authority.

8. DEFERRED CREDITS

251 Unamortized premium on debt.

A. This account shall include the total of the unamortized balance of premium and expense for all classes of long-term debt, including receivers' certificates.

B. The premium and expense shall be amortized over the life of the respective issues under a plan which will distribute the amounts equitably over the life of the securities. The amortization shall be credited to account 429, Amortization of Premium on Debt—Cr.

252 Customer advances for construction.

This account shall include advances by customers for construction which are to be refunded either wholly or in part. When a customer is refunded the entire amount to which he is entitled, according to the agreement or rule under which the advance was made, the balance, if any, remaining in this account shall be credited to account 271, Contributions in Aid of Construction.

253 Other deferred credits.

This account shall include advance billings and receipts and other deferred credit items, not provided for elsewhere, including amounts which cannot be entirely cleared or disposed of until additional information has been received.

9. OPERATING RESERVES

261 Property insurance reserve.

A. This account shall include amounts reserved by the utility for self-insurance against losses through accident, fire, flood, or other hazards to its own property or property leased from others. A schedule of risks covered by this reserve shall be maintained, giving a description of the property involved, the character of the risks covered and the rates used.

B. Charges shall be made to this account for losses covered by self-insurance. Details of these charges shall be maintained according to the year the casualty occurred which gave rise to the loss.

264 Amortization reserve—Federal.

A. This account shall be credited with such amounts as are appropriated or set aside by a licensee from earnings for amortization purposes in accordance with the requirements of a license; also the interest derived from the "Amortization Fund—Federal," or income from investments belonging to such fund.

B. This account shall be debited with only such items or amounts as the Commission may require or approve. (See account 125, Amortization Fund—Federal.)

265 Miscellaneous operating reserves.

A. This account shall include all operating reserves maintained by the utility which are not provided for elsewhere.

B. This account shall be maintained in such manner as to show the amount of each separate reserve and the nature and amounts of the debits and credits thereto.

NOTE: This account includes only such reserves as may be created for operating purposes and does not include any reservations of income the credits for which should be carried in account 215, Appropriated Earned Surplus.

10. CONTRIBUTIONS IN AID OF CONSTRUCTION

271 Contributions in aid of construction.

A. This account shall include donations or contributions in cash, services, or property from states, municipalities or other governmental agencies, individuals, and others for construction purposes.

B. The credits to this account shall not be transferred to earned surplus or to any other account without the approval of the Commission.

C. The records supporting the entries to this account shall be so kept that the utility can furnish information as to the purpose of each donation, the conditions, if any, upon which it was made, the amount of donations from (a) States, (b) municipalities, (c) customers and (d) others, and the amount applicable to each utility department.

D. This account shall be subdivided as follows:

Contributions in Aid of Construction—General.
Contributions in Aid of Construction—Federal.

Contributions in Aid of Construction—General shall include all the donations to the various utility departments except those which are made in respect to a licensed project. Contributions in Aid of Construction—Federal shall be kept only by licensees. There shall be included therein donations from States, municipalities, individuals or others which have been expended for plant, or which are included in the plant accounts, of a licensed project, referred to in section 3, subsection (13) of the Federal Power Act, 49 Stat. 839; 16 U.S.C. 796(13). This treatment shall not affect the determination of actual legitimate original cost or net investment in accordance with the Act.

NOTE: There shall not be included in this account advances for construction which are ultimately to be repaid wholly or in part. (See account 252, Customer Advances for Construction.)

Electric Plant Accounts

1. INTANGIBLE PLANT

301 Organization.
302 Franchises and consents.

Electric Plant Accounts

1. INTANGIBLE PLANT

301 Organization.

This account shall include the cost of organizing and incorporating the utility and putting it into readiness to do business. This includes the cost of legal services, amounts paid for privileges of incorporation, office expenses, incident to organizing the company and stock and minute books and corporate seal.

NOTE: This account shall not include any discounts upon securities issued or assumed, nor shall it include any costs incident to negotiating loans, selling bonds, or other evidences of debt, or expenses in connection with the authorization, issuance or sale of capital stock.

302 Franchises and consents.

A. This account shall include amounts paid to the federal government, to a state or to a political subdivision thereof in consideration for franchises, consents, water power licenses, or certificates, running in perpetuity or for a specified term of more than one year, together with necessary and reasonable expenses incident to procuring such franchises, consents, water power licenses, or certificates of permission and approval, including expenses of organizing and merging separate corporations, where statutes require, solely for the purpose of acquiring franchises.

B. If a franchise, consent, water power license, or certificate is acquired by assignment, the charge to this account in respect thereof shall not exceed the amount paid therefor by the utility to the assignor, nor shall it exceed the amount paid by the original grantee, plus the expense of acquisition to such grantee. Any excess of the amount actually paid by the utility over the amount above specified shall be charged to account 435, Miscellaneous Debits to Surplus.

C. When any franchise has expired, the book cost thereof shall be credited hereto and charged to account 435, Miscellaneous Debits to Surplus, or to account 110, Accumulated Provision for Depreciation and Amortization of Electric Plant, as appropriate.

D. Records supporting this account shall be maintained so as to show separately the book cost of each franchise or consent.

NOTE: Annual or other periodic payments under franchises shall not be included herein but in the appropriate operating expense account.

303 Miscellaneous intangible plant.

A. This account shall include the cost of patent rights, licenses, privileges, and other intangible property necessary or valuable in the conduct of utility operations and not specifically chargeable to any other account.

B. When any item included in this account is retired or expires, the book cost thereof shall be credited hereto and charged to account 435, Miscellaneous Debits to Surplus, or account 110, Accumulated Provision for Depreciation and Amortization of Electric Plant, as appropriate.

C. This account shall be maintained in such a manner that the utility can furnish full information with respect to the amounts included herein.

2. PRODUCTION PLANT

A. STEAM PRODUCTION

310 Land and land rights.

This account shall include the cost of land and land rights used in connection with steam-power generation. (See electric plant instruction 3.)

311 Structures and improvements.

This account shall include the cost in place of structures and improvements used in connection with steam-power generation. (See electric plant instruction 4.)

NOTE: Include steam production roads and railroads in this account.

312 Steam power equipment.

This account shall include the cost installed of equipment in steam production plants used in generating electricity, such as:

(1) Furnaces, boilers, coil and ashhandling equipment, steam and feed water piping, water supply and purification systems, boiler apparatus and accessories.

(2) Steam engines, reciprocating or rotary, and their associated auxiliaries; generators, engine driven and turbine driven.

(3) Accessory and other equipment in steam plants.

NOTE: This account shall not include boilers or steam pipes whose primary purpose is the heating of structures.

B. HYDRAULIC PRODUCTION

330 Land and land rights.

This account shall include the cost of land and land rights used in connection with hydraulic power generation. (See electric plant instruction 3.)

331 Structures and improvements.

This account shall include the cost in place of structures and improvements used in connection with hydraulic power generation. (See electric plant instruction 4.)

332 Reservoirs, dams and waterways.

This account shall include the cost in place of facilities used for impounding, collecting, storage, diversion, regulation and delivery of water used primarily for generating electricity. This includes reservoirs, dams and waterways with all construction appurtenant thereto, such as spillways, flash boards, gates, canals, tunnels, gate houses, fish ladders, intakes, flumes, penstocks, forbays, tailraces, and all other construction identified therewith.

333 Hydraulic power equipment.

This account shall include the cost installed of equipment in hydraulic power plants used in generating electricity, such as:

(1) Water wheels and hydraulic turbines and generators driven thereby and their accessories.

(2) Accessory and other equipment in hydraulic power plants.

C. OTHER PRODUCTION

340 Land and land rights.

This account shall include the cost of land and land rights used in connection with other power generation. (See electric plant instruction 3.)

341 Structures and improvements.

This account shall include the cost in place of structures and improvements used in connection with other power generation. (See electric plant instruction 4.)

342 Other power equipment.

This account shall include the cost installed of equipment in internal combustion engine and other power production plants used in generating electricity, such as:

(1) Fuel handling and storage equipment, and gas producers and accessories devoted to the production of gas for use in internal combustion engines driving electric generators.

(2) Diesel engines or other prime movers with their auxiliaries.

(3) Generators and their accessories.

(4) Accessory and other equipment in other power production plants.

3. TRANSMISSION AND DISTRIBUTION PLANT

350 Land and land rights.

This account shall include the cost of land and land rights used in connection with transmission and distribution operations. (See electric plant instruction 3.)

351 Structures and improvements.

This account shall include the cost in place of structures and improvements used in connection with transmission and distribution operations. (See electric plant instruction 4.)

352 Station equipment.

This account shall include the cost installed of transforming, conversion, and switching equipment, including transformer banks, etc., used for the purpose of changing the characteristics of electricity in connection with its transmission or distribution, and equipment for controlling the electric circuits.

NOTE: The cost of rectifiers, series transformers and other special station equipment devoted exclusively to street lighting or signal system service shall not be included in this account, but in account 363, Street Lighting and Signal Systems.

353 Overhead lines.

A. This account shall include the cost installed of overhead transmission and distribution lines, including:

(1) Poles, towers, and appurtenant fixtures, such as anchors, guys, crossarms, brackets, guards, pins, pole steps, transformer racks, and platforms, pole plates, etc.

(2) Wire and cable, circuit breakers, insulators, clamps, lightning arresters and ground wires, switches and other line devices, except transformers.

(3) Services, i.e., conductors leading from last pole to the connection with customer's service outlet and wiring.

B. The costs chargeable to this account include also such items as permits, municipal inspection, protection of street openings, etc.

NOTE: The cost of plant used solely for street lighting or signal systems shall not be included in this account but in account 363, Street Lighting and Signal Systems.

356 Underground lines.

A. This account shall include the cost installed of underground transmission and distribution lines, including:

(1) Conduit, including foundations, manholes, lighting systems, sewer connections, ventilating equipment, etc.

(2) Wire and cable, circuit breakers, insulators, clamps, lightning arresters, switches, and other line devices, except transformers.

(3) Service, i.e., conductors, leading from distribution box or manhole to the connection with customer's service outlet or wiring.

B. The costs chargeable to this account include also such items as permits, municipal inspection, protection of street openings, etc.

NOTE: The cost of plant used solely for street lighting or signal systems shall not be included in this account but in account 363, Street Lighting and Signal Systems.

358 Line transformers.

A. This account shall include the cost installed of overhead and underground distribution line transformers and pole-type and underground voltage regulators owned by the utility, for use in transforming electricity to the voltage at which it is to be used by the customer, and the cost of transformers held in reserves. The installation cost includible herein is the first installation only.

B. When a transformer is permanently retired from service, the installed cost thereof shall be credited to this account.

C. The records covering line transformers shall be so kept that the utility can furnish the number of transformers of various types and capacities in service and those in reserve, and the location and the use of each transformer.

ITEMS

1. Installation, labor of (first installation only).
2. Network protectors, installed.
3. Transformers, line and network.
4. Transformer cut-out boxes, installed.
5. Transformer lightning arrester, installed.
6. Voltage regulators.
7. Capacitors.

NOTE A: The cost of removing and resetting line transformers shall not be charged to this account but to account 550, Supervision and Labor.

NOTE B: The cost of line transformers used solely for street lighting or signal systems shall be included in account 363, Street Lighting and Signal Systems.

360 Meters.

A. This account shall include the cost installed of meters or devices and appurtenances thereto, for use in measuring the electricity delivered to its users, and the cost of meters held in reserve. The installation cost includible herein is the first installation only.

B. When a meter is permanently retired from service, the installed cost included herein shall be credited to this account.

C. The records covering meters shall be so kept that the utility can furnish information as to the number of meters of various types and capacities in service and in reserve as well as the location of each meter owned.

ITEMS

1. Meters.
2. Current limiting devices.
3. Demand indicators.
4. Instrument transformers.
5. Meter badges and their attachments, installed.
6. Testing new meters.
7. Installation, labor of (first installation only).
8. Meter boards and boxes, installed.
9. Meter fittings and materials used in installation.
10. Meter switches and cut-outs, installed.
11. Protective devices, installed.

NOTE A: This account shall not include meters for recording output of a generating station, substation meters, etc. It includes only meters for use to record energy delivered to customers.

NOTE B: The cost of removing and resetting meters shall be charged to account 550, Supervision and Labor.

361 Installations on customers' premises.

This account shall include the cost installed of equipment on the customers' side of a meter when the utility incurs such cost and when the utility retains title to and assumes full responsibility for maintenance and replacement of such property. This account shall not include equipment leased to customers. (See account 362, Leased Property on Customers' Premises.)

ITEMS

1. Cable vaults.
2. Commercial lamp equipment.
3. Foundations and setting specially provided for equipment included herein.
4. Frequency changer sets.
5. Motor generator sets.
6. Motors.
7. Switchboard panels, high or low tension.
8. Wire and cable connections to incoming cables.

NOTE: Do not include in this account any costs incurred in connection with merchandising, jobbing or contract work activities.

362 Leased property on customers' premises.

This account shall include the cost of electric motors, transformers, and other equipment on customers' premises (including municipal corporations), leased to customers, but not including property held for sale.

NOTE A: The cost of setting and connecting such appliances or equipment on the premises of customers and the cost of resetting or removal shall not be charged to this account but to operating expense account 550, Supervision and Labor.

NOTE B: Do not include in this account any costs incurred in connection with merchandising, jobbing, or contract work activities.

363 Street lighting and signal systems.

This account shall include the cost installed of equipment used wholly for public street and highway lighting or traffic, fire alarm, police and other signal systems.

ITEMS

1. Armored conductors, buried or submarine, including insulators, insulating materials, splices, trenching, etc.
2. Automatic control equipment.
3. Conductors, overhead or underground, including lead or fabric covered, parkway cables, etc., including splices, insulators, etc.
4. Conduit runs used solely for street lighting or signal systems, not including ducts in a bank, part of which is used or held for use for other purposes.
5. Lamps, arc, incandescent, or other types, including glassware, suspension fixtures, brackets, etc.
6. Municipal inspection.
7. Ornamental lamp posts.
8. Pavement disturbed, including cutting and replacing pavement, pavement base, and sidewalks.
9. Permits.
10. Poles and towers and appurtenant attachments.
11. Posts and standards.
12. Protection of street openings.
13. Relays or time clocks.
14. Series contactors.
15. Switches.
16. Transformers, pole or underground.
17. Transformers, rectifiers, and other special station equipment devoted exclusively to street lighting and signal systems.

4. GENERAL PLANT

370 Land and land rights.

This account shall include the cost of land and land rights used for utility purposes, the cost of which is not properly includible in other land and land rights accounts. (See electric plant instruction 3.)

371 Structures and improvements.

This account shall include the cost in place of structures and improvements used for utility purposes, the cost of which is not properly includible in other structures and improvements accounts. (See electric plant instruction 4.)

372 Office furniture and equipment.

This account shall include the cost of office furniture and equipment owned by the utility and devoted to utility service, and not permanently attached to buildings, except the cost of such furniture and equipment which the utility elects to assign to other plant accounts on a functional basis.

ITEMS

1. Bookcases and shelves.
2. Desks, chairs, and desk equipment.
3. Drafting-room equipment.
4. Filing, storage, and other cabinets.
5. Floor covering.
6. Library and library equipment.
7. Mechanical office equipment, such as accounting machines, typewriters, etc.
8. Safes.
9. Tables.

373 Transportation equipment.

This account shall include the cost of transportation vehicles used for utility purposes.

ITEMS

1. Airplanes.
2. Automobiles.
3. Bicycles.
4. Electrical vehicles.
5. Motor trucks.
6. Motorcycles.
7. Repair cars or trucks.
8. Tractors and trailers.
9. Other transportation vehicles.

379 Other general equipment.

This account shall include the cost installed of the following equipment:

(1) Equipment used for the receiving, shipping, handling and storage of materials and supplies when not an integral part of the housing structure.

(2) Equipment specially provided for general shops when such equipment is not an integral part of the housing structure.

(3) Laboratory equipment used for general laboratory purposes and not specially provided for or includible in other departmental or functional plant accounts.

(4) Tools, implements, and equipment used in construction or repair work exclusive of equipment includible in other equipment accounts.

(5) Other general equipment, apparatus, etc., used in the utility's electric operations, and which is not includible in any other account.

NOTE: General equipment of the nature indicated above whenever practicable shall be assigned to the electric plant accounts on a functional basis.

5. OTHER ELECTRIC PLANT

390 Other tangible property.

This account shall include the cost of tangible electric plant not provided for elsewhere.

391 Electric plant purchased or sold.

This account shall be charged with the cost of utility plant acquired as an operating unit or system by purchase, merger, consolidation, liquidation, or otherwise, and shall be credited with the selling price of like property transferred to others pending the distribution to appropriate accounts as the Commission shall approve or direct.

392 Electric plant in process of reclassification.

A. This account shall include temporarily the balance of electric plant as of the effective date of the prior system of accounts, which has not yet been reclassified as of the effective date of this system of accounts. The detail or primary accounts in support of this account employed prior to such date shall be continued pending reclassification into the electric plant accounts herein prescribed (301–390), but shall not be used for additions, betterments, or new construction.

B. No charges other than as provided in paragraph A, above, shall be made to this account, but retirements of such unclassified electric plant shall be credited hereto and to the supporting (old) fixed capital accounts until the reclassification shall have been accomplished.

393 Electric plant leased to others.

A. This account shall include the original cost of electric plant owned by the utility, but leased to others as operating units or systems, where the lessee has exclusive possession.

B. The property included in this account shall be classified according to the detailed accounts (301–390) prescribed for electric plant in service, and this account shall be maintained in such detail as though the property were used by the owner in its utility operations.

394 Electric plant held for future use.

A. This account shall include the original cost of property owned and held for future use in electric service under a definite plan for such use. There shall be included herein property acquired but never used by the utility in electric service, but held for such service in the future under a definite plan, and property previously used by the utility in electric service pending its reuse in the future, under a definite plan, in electric service.

B. The property included in this account shall be classified according to the detailed accounts (301–390) prescribed for electric plant in service and the account shall be maintained in such detail as though the property were in service.

NOTE: Materials and supplies, meters and transformers held in reserve, and normal spare capacity of plant in service shall not be included in this account.

395 Construction work in progress—Electric.

This account shall include the total of the balances of work orders for electric plant in process of construction but not ready for service at the date of the balance sheet.

396 Electric plant acquisition adjustments.

A. This account shall include the difference between (a) the cost to the accounting utility of electric plant acquired as an operating unit or system by purchase, merger, consolidation, liquidation, or otherwise, and (b) the original cost, estimated, if not known, of such property, less the amount or amounts credited by the accounting utility at the time of acquisition to accumulated provision for depreciation and amortization and contributions in aid of construction with respect to such property.

B. The amounts recorded in this account with respect to each property acquisition shall be amortized, or otherwise disposed of, as the Commission may approve or direct.

397 Other electric plant adjustments.

A. This account shall include the difference between the original cost, estimated if not known, and the book cost of electric plant to the extent that such difference is not properly includible in account 396, Electric Plant Acquisition Adjustments.

B. Amounts included in this account shall be classified in such manner as to show the origin of each amount and shall be disposed of as the Commission may approve or direct.

NOTE: The provisions of this account shall not be construed as approving or authorizing the recording of appreciation of electric plant.

Income Accounts

1. UTILITY OPERATING INCOME

400 Operating revenues.

There shall be shown under this caption the total amount included in the electric operating revenue accounts provided herein and in similar accounts for other utility departments.

401 Operation and maintenance expense.

There shall be shown under this caption the total amount included in the electric operation and maintenance expense accounts provided herein and in similar accounts for other utility departments.

403 Depreciation expense.

This account shall include the amount of depreciation expense for all classes of depreciable electric plant in service except such depreciation expense as is chargeable to clearing accounts or to merchandising, jobbing and contract work activities.

404 Amortization expense.

This account shall include amortization charges applicable to amounts included in the electric plant accounts for limited-term franchises, licenses, patent rights, limited-term interests in land, and expenditures on leased property where the service life of the improvements is terminable by action of the lease. The charges to this account shall be such as to distribute the book cost of each investment as evenly as may be over the period of its benefit to the utility. Include, also, when authorized by the Commission, amortization of extraordinary property losses. (See account 182, Extraordinary Property Losses.)

408 Taxes other than income taxes.

A. This account shall include the amount of ad valorem, gross revenue or gross receipts taxes, state unemployment insurance, franchise taxes, federal excise taxes, social security taxes, and all other taxes assessed by federal, state, county, municipal, or other local governmental authorities, which are properly chargeable to electric operations, except income taxes.

B. This account shall be charged with the amount of taxes which is applicable thereto, with concurrent credits to account 236, Taxes Accrued, or account 165, Prepayments, as appropriate. When it is not possible to determine the exact amount of taxes, the amount shall be estimated and adjustments made in current accruals as the actual tax levies become known.

C. The charges to this account shall be made or supported so as to show the amount of each tax and the basis upon which each charge is made. In the case of a utility rendering more than one utility service, taxes of the kinds includible in this account shall be assigned directly to the utility department the operation of which gave rise to the tax in so far as practicable. Where the tax is not attributable to a specific utility department, it shall be distributed among the utility departments or nonutility operations on an equitable basis.

NOTE A: Taxes applicable to nonutility property or investments, including taxes on net income derived therefrom, shall be charged to the account in which the income from the property or investments is included.

NOTE B: Special assessments for street and similar improvements shall be included in the appropriate utility plant or nonutility property account.

NOTE C: Taxes specifically applicable to construction shall be included in the cost of construction.

NOTE D: Taxes assumed by the utility on property leased from others for use in utility operations shall be charged to the appropriate rent expense or clearing account.

NOTE E: Gasoline and other sales taxes shall be charged as far as practicable to the same account as the materials on which the tax is levied.

NOTE F: Social Security and other forms of so-called pay roll taxes shall be distributed to utility departments and to nonutility functions on a basis related to pay roll. Amounts applicable to construction shall be charged to the appropriate plant account.

409 Income taxes.

A. This account shall include the amount of state and federal taxes on income properly accruable during the period covered by the income statement to meet the actual liability for such taxes. Concurrent credits for the tax accruals shall be made to account 236, Taxes Accrued, and as the exact amount of taxes becomes known, the current tax accruals shall be adjusted accordingly so that this account, as nearly as can be ascertained, shall include the actual taxes payable which are chargeable to utility operations.

B. The accruals for income taxes shall be apportioned among utility departments and nonutility operations so that, as nearly as practicable, each tax shall be included in the expenses of the utility department or nonutility operation the income from which gave rise to the tax.

NOTE A: Taxes assumed by the utility on interest shall be charged to account 431, Other Interest Expense.

NOTE B: Income taxes on income from electric plant leased to others shall be charged to account 413, Expenses of Electric Plant Leased to Others.

NOTE C: Where statutes or regulatory practices require that the profits or losses of merchandising, jobbing and contract work shall not be considered in arriving at rates to be charged for utility service, income taxes on income from merchandising, jobbing and contract work shall be charged to account 416, Costs and Expenses of Merchandising, Jobbing and Contract Work.

NOTE D: Income taxes on nonutility income shall be charged to the account in which the income is included.

NOTE E: Interest on tax refunds or deficiencies shall not be included in this account but in account 419, Interest and Dividend Income, or account 431, Other Interest Expense, as appropriate.

412 Revenues from electric plant leased to others.

413 Expenses of electric plant leased to others.

A. These accounts shall include, respectively, revenues from electric property constituting a distinct operating unit or system leased by the utility to others, and which property is properly includible in account 393, Electric Plant Leased to Others, and the expenses attributable to such property.

B. The detail of expense shall be kept or supported so as to show separately the following:

Operation and Maintenance.
Rents.
Depreciation.
Amortization.
Taxes Other Than Income Taxes.
Income Taxes.

414 Other utility operating income.

A. This account shall include the revenues received and expenses incurred in connection with the operations of utility plant, the book cost of which is included in account 118, Other Utility Plant.

B. The expenses shall include every element of cost incurred in such operations, including depreciation, rents, taxes, and insurance.

2. OTHER INCOME

415 Revenues from merchandising, jobbing and contract work.

416 Costs and expenses of merchandising, jobbing and contract work.

These accounts shall include, respectively, all revenues derived from the sale of merchandise and jobbing or contract work including any profit or commission accruing to the utility on jobbing work performed by it as agent under contracts whereby it does jobbing work for another for a stipulated profit or commission, and all expenses incurred in such activities.

NOTE: The revenues and expenses of merchandising, jobbing and contract work shall be reported in these accounts if a state regulatory body having jurisdiction over the utility requires the net income therefrom to be reported as other income; but the revenues and expenses shall be reported in accounts 592 and 593 if such regulatory body requires the net income to be reported as an operating income or expense item. In the absence of a requirement by a state regulatory body, the utility may use these accounts or accounts 592 and 593 at its option, in which case the practice of the utility must be consistent.

ITEMS

Account 415:

1. Revenues from sale of merchandise and from jobbing and contract work.
2. Discounts and allowances made in settlement of bills for merchandise and jobbing work.

Account 416:

1. Cost of merchandise sold and materials used in jobbing work.
2. Labor and expenses incurred in merchandising and jobbing operations.

418 Nonoperating rental income.

This account shall include all rent revenues and related expenses of land, buildings, or other property included in account 121, Nonutility Property.

419 Interest and dividend income.

A. This account shall include interest revenues on securities, loans, advances, special deposits, tax refunds and all other interest-bearing assets, and dividends on stocks of other companies, whether the securities on which the interest and dividends are received are carried as investments or included in sinking- or other special-fund accounts.

B. If any interest or dividends are required to be retained in a special fund and the fund is represented by a reserve, the amount of such accretion to the fund shall concurrently be credited to the appropriate reserve account and charged to account 436, Appropriations of Surplus.

421 Miscellaneous nonoperating income.

This account shall include all revenue and expense items properly includible in the income account and not provided for elsewhere.

3. MISCELLANEOUS INCOME DEDUCTIONS

425 Miscellaneous amortization.

This account shall include amortization charges not includible in other accounts which are properly deductible in determining the income of the utility before interest charges. Charges includible herein, if significant in amount, must be in accordance with an orderly and systematic amortization program. Similar charges made irregularly without a definite program, or which are dependent upon the amount of net income shall be charged to account 435, Miscellaneous Debits to Surplus.

ITEMS

1. Amortization of utility plant acquisition adjustments or of intangibles included in utility plant in service when not authorized to be included in utility operating expenses by the Commission.
2. Amortization of amounts in account 182, Extraordinary Property Losses, when not authorized to be included in utility operating expenses by the Commission.
3. Amortization of capital stock discount or expenses when in accordance with a systematic amortization program.

426 Other income deductions.

This account shall include miscellaneous expense items which are nonoperating in nature but which are properly deductible before determining total income before interest charges.

ITEMS

1. Donations for charitable, social or community welfare purposes.
2. Life insurance of officers and employees where utility is beneficiary (net premiums less increase in cash surrender value of policies).
3. Penalties or fines for violation of statutes pertaining to regulation.

NOTE: The classification of expenses as nonoperating and their inclusion in this account is for accounting purposes. It does not preclude Commission consideration of proof to the contrary for ratemaking or other purposes.

4. INTEREST CHARGES

427 Interest on long-term debt.

A. This account shall include the amount of interest on outstanding long-term debt issued or assumed by the utility, the liability for which is included in account 221, Bonds, or account 224, Other Long-Term Debt.

B. This account shall be so kept or supported as to show the interest accruals on each class and series of long-term debt.

NOTE: This account shall not include interest on nominally issued or nominally outstanding long-term debt, including securities assumed.

428 Amortization of debt discount and expense.

A. This account shall include the amortization of unamortized debt discount and expense on outstanding long-term debt. Amounts charged to this account shall be credited concurrently to account 181, Unamortized Debt Discount and Expense.

B. This account shall be so kept or supported as to show the debt discount and expense on each class and series of long-term debt.

429 Amortization of premium on debt—Cr.

A. This account shall include the amortization of unamortized net premium on outstanding long-term debt. Amounts credited to this account shall be charged concurrently to account 251, Unamortized Premium on Debt.

B. This account shall be so kept or supported as to show the premium on each class and series of long-term debt.

430 Interest on debt to associated companies.

A. This account shall include the interest accrued on amounts included in account 223, Advances from Associated Companies, and on all other obligations to associated companies.

B. The records supporting the entries to this account shall be so kept as to show to whom the interest is to be paid, the period covered by the accrual, the rate of interest and the principal amount of the advances or other obligations on which the interest is accrued.

431 Other interest expense.

This account shall include all interest charges not provided for elsewhere.

ITEMS

1. Interest on notes payable on demand, or maturing one year or less from date and on open accounts, except notes and accounts with associated companies.
2. Interest on customers' deposits.
3. Interest on claims and judgments, tax assessments, and assessments for public improvements past due.
4. Income and other taxes levied upon bondholders of utility and assumed by it.

432 Interest charged to construction—Cr.

This account shall include concurrent credits for interest charged to construction based upon the net cost for the period of construction of borrowed funds used for construction purposes and a reasonable rate upon other funds when so used. No interest shall be capitalized on plant which is completed and ready for service.

5. EARNED SURPLUS

433 Balance transferred from income.

This account shall include the net credit or debit transferred from income for the year.

434 Miscellaneous credits to surplus.

This account shall include credits affecting earned surplus not provided for elsewhere. If an amount otherwise required by the uniform system of accounts to be credited to this account is not significant with respect to net income determination for the year, it may be credited to the appropriate nonoperating income account. All items included in this account shall be sufficiently described in the entries relating thereto as to permit ready analysis.

ITEMS

1. Delayed credits.
2. Profit on reacquisition and resale or retirement of utility's debt securities.
3. Profit on sale of property or investments.

435 Miscellaneous debits to surplus.

This account shall include amounts chargeable to earned surplus but not provided for elsewhere. If an amount otherwise required by the uniform system of accounts to be charged to this account is not significant with respect to net income determination for the year, it may be charged to the appropriate nonoperating income deduction account. All items included in this account shall be sufficiently described in the entries relating thereto as to permit ready analysis.

ITEMS

1. Decline in value of investments.
2. Delayed debits.
3. Loss on reacquisition and resale or retirement of utility's debt securities.
4. Provision for past accrued depreciation not provided for.
5. Long-term debt discount and expense written off.
6. Loss on sale of property or investments.
7. Write off of utility plant acquisition adjustments or of intangibles when not done under an orderly systematic program indicating the propriety of inclusion of the annual charges in account 425, Miscellaneous Amortization.
8. Preliminary survey and investigation expenses on abandoned projects.
9. Income taxes, both State and Federal, occasioned by items included in account 434, Miscellaneous Credits to Surplus.
10. Charges from retirement or resale of reacquired capital stock.

436 Appropriations of surplus.

This account shall include appropriations of earned surplus for purposes not provided for elsewhere in this system of accounts.

ITEMS

1. Appropriations of income required under terms of mortgages, orders of courts, contracts or other agreements.
2. Appropriations of income required by action of regulatory authorities.
3. Miscellaneous appropriations of income made at option of utility for specified purposes.

437 Dividends declared—preferred stock.

This account shall include amounts declared payable out of earned surplus as dividends on actually outstanding preferred or prior lien capital stock issued by the utility.

438 Dividends declared—common stock.

This account shall include amounts declared payable out of earned surplus as dividends on actually outstanding common capital stock issued by the utility.

Operating Revenue Accounts

1. SALES OF ELECTRICITY

440 Residential sales.

A. This account shall include the net billing for electricity supplied for residential or domestic purposes.

B. Records shall be maintained so that the quantity of electricity sold and the revenue received under each rate schedule shall be readily available.

NOTE: When electricity supplied through a single meter is used for both residential and commercial purposes, the total revenue shall be included in this account, or account 442, Commercial and Industrial Sales, according to the rate schedule which is applied. If the same rate schedules apply to residential as to commercial and industrial service, classification shall be made according to principal use.

442 Commercial and industrial sales.

A. This account shall include the net billing for electricity supplied to customers for commercial and industrial purposes.

B. Records shall be maintained so that the quantity of electricity sold and the revenue received under each rate schedule shall be readily available.

NOTE: When electricity supplied through a single meter is used for both commercial and residential purposes, the total revenue shall be included in this account, or in account 440, Residential Sales, according to the rate schedule which is applied. If the same rate schedules apply to residential as to commercial and industrial service, classification shall be made according to the principal use.

444 Public street and highway lighting.

A. This account shall include the net billing for electricity supplied and services rendered for the purposes of lighting streets, highways, parks and other public places, or for traffic or other signal system service, for municipalities or other divisions or agencies of state or federal governments.

B. Records shall be maintained so that the quantity of electricity sold and the revenue received from each customer shall be readily available. In addition, the records shall be maintained so as to show the revenues from (a) contracts which include both electricity and services, and (b) contracts which include sales of electricity only.

Operating Revenue Accounts

1. SALES OF ELECTRICITY

440 Residential sales.
442 Commercial and industrial sales.
444 Public street and highway lighting.
447 Sales for resale.
448 Interdepartmental sales.
449 Other sales.

2. OTHER OPERATING REVENUES

450 Forfeited discounts.
456 Other electric revenues.

447 Sales for resale.

A. This account shall include the net billing for electricity supplied to other electric utilities or to public authorities for resale purposes.

B. Records shall be maintained so as to show the quantity of electricity sold and the revenue received from each customer.

NOTE: Revenues from electricity supplied to other public utilities for use by them and not for distribution, shall be included in account 442, Commercial and Industrial Sales, unless supplied under the same contract as and not readily separable from revenues includible in this account.

448 Interdepartmental sales.

A. This account shall include amounts charged by the electric department at tariff or other specified rates for electricity supplied by it to other utility departments.

B. Records shall be maintained so that the quantity of electricity supplied each other department and the charges therefor shall be readily available.

449 Other sales.

A. This account shall include revenues for electricity supplied which are not provided for elsewhere.

B. Records shall be maintained so as to show the quantity of electricity sold and the revenue received from each customer.

2. OTHER OPERATING REVENUES

450 Forfeited discounts.

This account shall include the amount of discounts forfeited or additional charges imposed because of the failure of customers to pay their electric bills on or before a specified date.

456 Other electric revenues.

This account shall include revenues derived from electric operations not includible in any of the foregoing accounts.

ITEMS

1. Charges for maintenance of appliances, wiring, piping or other installations on customers' premises.
2. Commission on sale or distribution of electricity of others when sold under rates filed by such others.
3. Fees for changing, connecting or disconnecting service.
4. Minor or incidental management or supervision services charged to others.
5. Profit or loss on sale of material and supplies not ordinarily purchased for resale.
6. Rent from utility plant used in electric operations.
7. Interdepartmental rents.
8. Revenues from transmission of electricity for others.
9. Sales of steam, but not including sales made by a steam-heating department or transfers of steam under joint facility operations.
10. Sale of water and water power.

Operation and Maintenance Expense Accounts

593 Costs and expenses of merchandising, jobbing, and contract work.

Operation and Maintenance Expense Accounts

1. PRODUCTION EXPENSES

A. STEAM POWER GENERATION

500 Supervision and labor.

This account shall include the cost of supervision and labor in the operation and maintenance of steam power generating stations.

ITEMS

1. Attending stokers.
2. Blowing flues.
3. Cleaning boilers.
4. Firing and operating furnaces.
5. Handling coal and ashes.
6. Janitor work.
7. Operating water pumps.
8. Operating machinery, switchboard, etc.
9. Repairing steam power plant.
10. Supervision of steam power operation and maintenance.
11. Testing steam meters.

501 Fuel.

This account shall include the cost delivered at stations of coal, oil, gas or other fuel used in the production of steam which is used in generating electricity. This includes the invoice cost of fuel plus freight, switching, hauling and all handling costs incurred in connection with the delivery of the fuel at the station or storage pile. It shall also include the net cost of, or amount realized from, the disposal of ashes.

502 Supplies and expenses.

This account shall include the cost of supplies used and expenses incurred in the operation of steam power generating stations. It shall also include the cost of supplies used in pumping water for steam.

ITEMS

1. Boiler compounds.
2. Boiler inspection fees.
3. Fireroom tools.
4. Filter cleaning.
5. Log sheets and charts.
6. Lubricants for machinery.
7. Packing.
8. Pumping supplies.
9. Rents.
10. Tools.
11. Water for steam.
12. Water purchased for boilers, condensers and cooling engines.
13. Washers.
14. Wipers.

503 Steam from other sources.

This account shall include the cost of steam purchased or transferred from another department of the utility or from others under a joint facility operating arrangement for use in prime movers devoted to the production of electricity.

504 Steam transferred—Cr.

This account shall include credits for expenses of producing steam which are charged to others or to other utility departments under a joint operating arrangement. Include also credits for steam expenses chargeable to other electric accounts outside of the steam generation group. Full details of the basis of determination of the cost of steam transferred shall be maintained.

506 Repairs of steam production plant.

This account shall include the amount of bills from others for repairs made to steam production plant. It does not include the cost of labor of the utility's own plant operating force.

ITEMS

1. Contract work in plants and in rearranging or relocating plant not retired.
2. Repair parts and materials used in maintenance of steam production plant.

B. HYDRAULIC POWER GENERATION

520 Supervision and labor.

This account shall include the cost of supervision and labor in the operation and maintenance of the hydraulic power generating stations.

ITEMS

1. Attending generators.
2. Cleaning reservoirs and dams.
3. Janitor work.
4. Operating intakes.
5. Operating machinery and switchboards.
6. Patrolling flumes.
7. Repairing hydraulic power plant.
8. Supervision of hydraulic production operations.

521 Water for power.

This account shall include the cost of water used for hydraulic power generation.

ITEMS

1. Cost of water purchased from others, including water tolls paid reservoir companies.
2. Periodic payments for licenses or permits from any governmental agency for water rights, or payments based on the use of the water.
3. Periodic payments for riparian rights.
4. Periodic payments for headwater benefits or for detriments to others.

522 Supplies and expenses.

This account shall include the cost of supplies and expenses incurred in the operation of hydraulic generating stations.

ITEMS

1. Log sheets and charts.
2. Lubricants for machinery.
3. Materials to protect dam and gates.
4. Packing.
5. Rents.
6. Tools (hand).
7. Washers.
8. Wipers.

524 Repairs of hydraulic production plant.

This account shall include the amount of bills from others for repairs made to hydraulic production plant. It does not include the cost of labor of the utility's own plant operating force.

ITEMS

1. Contract work in repairing plant and in rearranging or relocating plant not retired.
2. Repair parts and materials used in maintenance of hydraulic production plant.

C. OTHER POWER GENERATION

530 Supervision and labor.

This account shall include the cost of supervision and labor incurred in the operation and maintenance of other power generating stations.

ITEMS

1. Attending generators.
2. Fueling engines.
3. Janitor work.
4. Operating machinery and switchboards.
5. Protective service.
6. Supervision of internal combustion engine production.

531 Fuel.

This account shall include the cost delivered at the station of all fuel, such as gas, oil, kerosene, and gasoline used in internal combustion engines or other prime movers. This includes the invoice cost of fuel plus freight, switching, hauling and all handling costs incurred in connection with the delivery of the fuel at the station. It shall also include the net cost of, or amount realized from, disposal of residuals.

532 Supplies and expenses.

This account shall include the cost of supplies used and expenses incurred in the operation of internal combustion engine power generating stations.

ITEMS

1. Log sheets and charts.
2. Lubricants.
3. Packing, washers, etc.
4. Rents.
5. Tools (hand).

534 Repairs of other power production plant.

This account shall include the amount of bills from others for repairs made to other power production plant. It does not include the cost of labor of the utility's own plant operating force.

ITEMS

1. Contract work in repairing plant and in rearranging or relocating plant not retired.
2. Repair parts and materials used in maintenance of other power production plants.

D. OTHER POWER SUPPLY EXPENSES

540 Purchased power.

A. This account shall include the cost at the point of delivery to the utility of electricity purchased for resale, including net settlements for exchange of electricity or power.

B. The records shall be so kept as to show, by months, the demands and demand charges and kilowatt-hours and prices thereof under each purchase or interchange agreement.

549 Other expenses.

A. This account shall be charged with any production expenses, including expenses incurred directly in connection with the purchase of electricity, which are not specifically provided for in other production expense accounts. Charges to this account shall be supported so that a description of each type of charge will be readily available.

B. Recoveries from insurance companies, under use and occupancy provisions of policies, of amounts in reimbursements of excessive or added production costs for which the insurance company is liable under the terms of the policy shall be credited to this account.

2. TRANSMISSION AND DISTRIBUTION EXPENSES

14. Rearranging and changing the location of property not retired.
15. Refusing transformer cut-outs.
16. Renewing oil, repainting and rewinding transformers.
17. Replacing minor items of plant.
18. Restoring the condition of property damaged by storm, flood, etc.
19. Straightening poles and crossarms.
20. Tightening guys and racking stubs.
21. Trimming trees, clearing brush, etc.
22. Testing for, locating and clearing trouble.
23. Tools and implements used.
24. Voltage surveys.

552 Supplies and expenses.

This account shall include the cost of supplies used and expenses incurred in the operation and maintenance of transmission and distribution plant.

ITEMS

1. Distilled water for storage batteries.
2. Gloves.
3. Lamps and globes.
4. Lubricants.
5. Maps and records.
6. Material used in repair and maintenance, such as brushes for boosters and compensators, brackets, wire, paint, insulators, etc.
7. Rents of transmission and distribution facilities.
8. Tools.

555 Transportation expenses.

A. This account shall include the cost of labor, materials used and expenses incurred in the operation and maintenance of general transportation equipment of the utility.

B. This account may be used as a clearing account in which event the charges hereto shall be cleared by apportionment to the appropriate operating expense, utility plant, or other accounts on a basis which will distribute the expenses equitably. Credits to this account shall be made in such detail as to permit ready analysis.

ITEMS

1. Depreciation of transportation equipment.
2. Insurance on transportation equipment.
3. License fees for vehicles and drivers.
4. Rents for equipment and garages.
5. Repairs of transportation equipment.
6. Supplies, such as gas, oil, tires, tubes, grease, etc.

NOTE: Transportation expenses applicable to construction shall not be included in operating expenses.

3. GENERAL EXPENSES

580 Administrative and general salaries.

This account shall include the cost of supervision and labor incurred in administrative, customer accounts, and sales activities.

ITEMS

1. Accounting and clerical work on customers accounts and on general records.
2. Meter reading.
3. Solicitation of business.
4. Stenographic work.
5. Supervision and administration.

581 Office supplies and expenses.

This account shall include office supplies and expenses incurred in connection with customer accounts, sales and general administration of the utility's operations.

ITEMS

1. Address plates and supplies.
2. Automobile service, including charges through clearing account.
3. Bank messenger and service charges.
4. Books, periodicals, bulletins and subscriptions to newspapers, newsletters, tax services, etc.
5. Building service expenses for customer accounts, sales, and administrative and general purposes.
6. Commissions or fees to others for collecting revenues.

7. Communication service expenses.
8. Cost of individual items of office equipment used by general departments which are of small value or short life.
9. Meals, traveling and incidental expenses.
10. Membership fees and dues in trade, technical, and professional associations paid by utility for employees. (Company memberships are includible in account 589).
11. Meter books and binders.
12. Office supplies and expenses.
13. Payment of court costs, witness fees, and other expenses of legal department.
14. Postage, printing and stationery.
15. Rent of office equipment.
16. Repairs of office equipment.

582 Outside services employed.

A. This account shall include the fees and expenses of professional consultants and others for general services which are not applicable to a particular operation function nor to other accounts. It shall include also the pay and expenses of persons engaged for a special or temporary administrative or general purpose in circumstances where the person so engaged is not considered an employee of the utility.

B. This account shall be so maintained as to permit ready summarization according to the nature of service and the person furnishing the same.

ITEMS

1. Fees, pay and expenses of accountants and auditors, actuaries, appraisers, attorneys, engineering consultants, management consultants, negotiators, public relations counsel, tax consultants, etc.
2. Supervision fees and expenses paid under contracts for general management services.

NOTE: Do not include inspection and brokerage fees and commissions chargeable to other accounts or fees and expenses in connection with security issues which are includible in the expenses of issuing securities.

584 Insurance expense.

A. This account shall include the cost of insurance or of reserve accruals (1) to protect the utility against losses and damages to owned or leased property used in its utility operations and (2) to protect the utility against injuries and damages claims of employees or others, losses of such character not covered by insurance, and expenses incurred in settlement of injuries and damages claims.

B. Recoveries from insurance companies or others for property damages shall be credited to the account charged with the cost of the damage. If the damaged property has been retired, the credit shall be to the appropriate account for accumulated provision for depreciation.

C. Reimbursements from insurance companies or others for expenses charged hereto on account of injuries and damages and insurance dividends or refunds shall be credited to this account.

586 Employee pensions and benefits.

A. This account shall include pensions paid to or on behalf of retired employees, or accruals to provide for pensions, or payments for the purchase of annuities for the purpose, when the utility has definitely, by contract, committed itself to a pension plan under which the pension funds are irrevocably devoted to pension purposes, and payment for employee accident, sickness, hospital, and death benefits, or insurance therefor. Include, also, expenses incurred in medical, educational or recreational activities for the benefit of employees.

B. The utility shall maintain a complete record of accruals or payments for pensions and be prepared to furnish full information to the Commission of the plan under which it has created or proposes to create a pension fund and a copy of the declaration of trust or resolution under which the pension plan is established.

C. There shall be credited to this account the portion of pensions and benefits expenses which is applicable to nonutility operations or which is charged to construction unless such amounts are distributed directly to the accounts involved and are not included herein in the first instance.

588 Regulatory commission expenses.

A. This account shall include all expenses (except pay of regular employees only incidentally engaged in such work) properly includible in utility operating expenses, incurred by the utility in connection with formal cases before regulatory commissions, or other regulatory bodies, or cases in which such a body is a party, including payments made to a regulatory commission for fees assessed against the utility for pay and expenses of such commission, its officers, agents, and employees, and, also, including payments made to the United States for the administration of the Federal Power Act.

B. Amounts of regulatory commission expense which by approval or direction of the Commission are to be spread over future periods shall be charged to account 183, Other Deferred Debits, and amortized by charges to this account.

C. The utility shall be prepared to show the cost of each formal case.

589 Miscellaneous general expenses.

This account shall include the cost of expenses incurred in connection with the general management of the utility not provided for elsewhere.

ITEMS

1. Industry association dues for company memberships.
2. Contributions for conventions and meetings of the industry.
3. Experimental and general research work for the industry.
4. Communication service not chargeable to other accounts.
5. Trustee, registrar, and transfer agent fees and expenses.
6. Stockholders meeting expenses.
7. Dividend and other financial notices.
8. Printing and mailing dividend checks.
9. Directors' fees and expenses.
10. Publishing and distributing annual reports to stockholders.
11. Institutional or goodwill advertising.
12. Public notices of financial, operating, and other data required by regulatory statutes, not including, however, notices required in connection with security issues or acquisitions of property.
13. Rents for property used in customer accounts, sales or administrative and general functions.

590 Uncollectible accounts.

This account shall be charged with losses from uncollectible accounts or with accruals to provide for anticipated losses from uncollectible utility revenues. Such accruals shall be credited to account 144, Accumulated Provision for Uncollectible Accounts—Cr. If the accrual method is used, losses from uncollectible accounts shall be charged to account 144.

592 Revenues from merchandising, jobbing, and contract work.

593 Costs and expenses of merchandising, jobbing, and contract work.

These accounts shall include respectively all revenues derived from the sale of merchandise and jobbing or contract work, including any profit or commission accruing to the utility on jobbing work performed by it as agent under contracts whereby it does jobbing work for another for a stipulated profit or commission, and all expenses incurred in such activities.

NOTE A: The revenues and expenses of merchandising, jobbing and contract work shall be reported in this account if a state regulatory body having jurisdiction over the utility requires the net income therefrom to be reported as an operating expense item; but the amounts shall be reported in accounts 415 and 416 if such regulatory body requires such income to be reported as nonoperating income. In the absence of a requirement by a state regulatory body, the utility may use these accounts or accounts 415 and 416, at its option, in which case the practice of the utility must be consistent.

NOTE B: See accounts 415 and 416 for list of items includible herein.

PART 933—ORANGES, GRAPEFRUIT, TANGERINES, AND TANGELOS GROWN IN FLORIDA

Miscellaneous Amendments

Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 33, as amended (7 CFR Part 933), regulating the handling of oranges, grapefruit, tangerines, and tangelos grown in Florida, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601–674), and upon the basis of the recommendations of the committees established under the aforesaid amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of all shipments of oranges, including Temple oranges, grapefruit, tangerines, and tangelos, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this amendatory order until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (5 U.S.C. 1001–1011) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this order is based became available and the time when it must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient; a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions hereof effective as hereinafter set forth. Shipments of oranges, including Temple oranges, grapefruit, tangerines, and tangelos, grown in the production area, are currently subject to regulation by grades and sizes, pursuant to the amended marketing agreement and order; the recommendation and supporting information for regulation during the period December 5, 1960–January 2, 1961, including a proposed prohibition of shipments during the period specified herein, were promptly submitted to the Department after an open meeting of the Growers Administrative Committee on November 29, 1960; such meeting was held to consider recommendations for regulations, after giving due notice of such meeting, and interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit their views at this meeting; necessary supplemental information for consideration in connection with the proposed prohibition of shipments was not available until December 14, 1960; the provisions of this order temporarily prohibiting shipments of fruit, including its effective time, are identical with the aforesaid recommendation of the committee, and information concerning such provisions and effective time has been disseminated among handlers of such fruit; it is necessary, in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, to make this order effective during the period hereinafter set forth; and compliance with the provisions hereof will not require any special preparation on the part of the persons subject thereto which cannot be completed by the effective time hereof.

It is, therefore, ordered, That, the respective provisions of § 933.1035 (Orange Regulation 380; 25 F.R. 12405); § 933.1036 (Grapefruit Regulation 333; 25 F.R. 12406); § 933.1037 (Tangerine Regulation 219; 25 F.R. 12406); § 933.1038 (Tangelo Regulation 25; 25 F.R. 12407); and § 933.1039 (Orange Regulation 381; 25 F.R. 12505) are each hereby amended by adding thereto the following paragraph:

(c) Temporary prohibition of shipments. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (b) of this section, no handler shall, during the period beginning at 12:01 a.m., e.s.t., December 23, 1960, and ending at 12:01 a.m., e.s.t., December 29, 1960, ship between the production area and any point outside thereof in the continental United States, Canada, or Mexico, any fruit of any variety specified in paragraph (b) of this section.

(Secs. 1–19, 48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 601–674)

Dated: December 15, 1960.

Director, Fruit and Vegetable Division, Agricultural Marketing Service.

AUTHORITY: §§ 944.0 to 944.95 issued under secs. 1–19, 48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 601–674.

§ 944.0 Findings and determinations.

The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and of the previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreements and to the orders regulating the handling of milk in the Quad Cities and Dubuque marketing areas. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order is hereby amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act;

(2) The parity prices of milk, as determined pursuant to section 2 of the Act, are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the order as hereby amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest;

(3) The said order as hereby amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as, and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial or commercial activity specified in, a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

(4) All milk and milk products handled by handlers, as defined in the order as hereby amended, are in the current of interstate commerce or directly burden, obstruct, or affect interstate commerce in milk or its products; and

(5) It is hereby found that the necessary expense of the market administrator for the maintenance and functioning of such agency will require the payment by each handler, as his pro rata share of such expense, 3 cents per hundredweight or such amount not to exceed 3 cents per hundredweight as the Secretary may prescribe, with respect to butterfat and skim milk contained in (a) producer milk; (b) other source milk at a pool plant which is allocated to Class I milk pursuant to § 944.46(a) (3) and (4) and the comparable step of § 944.46(b); and (c) any amount due pursuant to § 944.62 (a)(2) or (b)(2).

(b) Additional findings. It is necessary in the public interest to make this order amending the order effective not later than January 1, 1961. Any delay beyond that date would tend to disrupt the orderly marketing of milk in the marketing area.

The provisions of the said order are known to handlers. The recommended decision of the Deputy Administrator of the Agricultural Marketing Service was issued September 2, 1960 and the decision of the Assistant Secretary containing all amendment provisions of this order, was issued November 18, 1960. The changes effected by this order will not require extensive preparation or substantial alteration in method of operation for handlers. In view of the foregoing, it is hereby found and determined that good cause exists for making this order amending the order effective January 1, 1961, and that it would be contrary to the public interest to delay the effective date of this order for 30 days after its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER (sec. 4(c), Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. 1001–1011).

(c) Determinations. It is hereby determined that:

(1) The refusal or failure of handlers (excluding cooperative associations specified in section 8c(9) of the Act) of more than 50 percent of the milk, which is marketed within the marketing area, to sign a proposed marketing agreement, tends to prevent the effectuation of the declared policy of the Act;

(2) The issuance of this order, amending the order, is the only practical means pursuant to the declared policy of the Act of advancing the interests of producers as defined in the order as herein amended; and

(3) The issuance of the order amending the order is approved or favored by at least two thirds of the producers who participated in a referendum and who during the determined representative period were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered, that on and after the effective date hereof, the handling of milk in the Quad Cities-Dubuque marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the order, as hereby amended:

DEFINITIONS

§ 944.1 Act.

"Act" means Public Act No. 10, 73d Congress, as amended, and as reenacted and amended by the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.).

§ 944.2 Secretary.

"Secretary" means the Secretary of Agriculture of the United States or any other officer or employee of the United States authorized to exercise the powers or to perform the duties of the Secretary of Agriculture.

§ 944.3 Department.

"Department" means the United States Department of Agriculture or any other Federal agency authorized to perform the price reporting functions of the United States Department of Agriculture.

§ 944.4 Person.

"Person" means any individual, partnership, corporation, association, or other business unit.

§ 944.5 Cooperative association.

"Cooperative association" means any cooperative marketing association which the Secretary determines:

(a) To be qualified under the provisions of the act of Congress of February 18, 1922, as amended, known as the "Capper-Volstead Act"; and

(b) To be engaged in making collective sales, or marketing milk or its products for its members.

§ 944.6 Quad Cities-Dubuque marketing area.

"Quad Cities-Dubuque marketing area" hereinafter called the marketing area, means the territory within the boundaries of the counties of Clinton, Dubuque, Jackson, Muscatine and Scott in the state of Iowa; the county of Rock Island, and the city of East Dubuque, in the state of Illinois, including territory within such boundaries that is occupied by government (Municipal, State or Federal) reservations, installations, institutions, or other establishments.

§ 944.7 Producer.

"Producer" means any person, except a producer-handler, who produces milk in compliance with Grade A inspection requirements of a duly constituted health authority, which milk is received at a pool plant.

§ 944.8 Distributing plant.

"Distributing plant" means a plant which is approved by an appropriate health authority for the processing or packaging of Grade A milk from which any fluid milk product is processed or packaged and disposed of during the month on routes (including routes operated by vendors) or through plant stores to retail or wholesale outlets (except pool plants) located in the marketing area.

§ 944.9 Supply plant.

"Supply plant" means a plant from which milk, skim milk or cream which is acceptable to the appropriate health authority for distribution in the marketing area under a Grade A label is shipped during the month to a pool plant qualified pursuant to § 944.10(a).

§ 944.10 Pool plant.

"Pool plant" means a plant described in paragraph (a), (b) or (c) of this section except as provided in §§ 944.60 and 944.61: Provided, That if a portion of a plant is physically apart from the Grade A portion of such plant, is operated separately and is not approved by any health authorities for the receiving, processing or packaging of any fluid milk product for Grade A disposition, it shall not be considered as part of a pool plant pursuant to this section.

(a) A distributing plant from which a volume of Class I milk not less than 35 percent of the Grade A milk received at such plant from dairy farmers and from other plants is disposed of during the month on routes (including routes operated by vendors) or through plant stores to retail or wholesale outlets (except plants) and not less than 15 percent of such receipts are so disposed of to such outlets in the marketing area.

(b) A supply plant from which the volume of fluid milk products shipped during the month to plants qualified pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section is not less than 35 percent of the Grade A milk received at such plant from dairy farmers during such month: Provided, That if such shipments are not less than 50 percent of the receipts of Grade A milk directly from dairy farmers at such plant during the immediately preceding period of September through November, such plant shall be a pool plant for the months of December through August, unless written application is filed with the market administrator on or before the 1st day of any of the months of December through August to be designated a nonpool plant for such month and for each subsequent month through August.

(c) A plant operated by a cooperative association from whose members the total pounds of producer milk received at the pool plants of other handlers during the month, or during the 12-month period immediately preceding such month, are more than the total pounds of Grade A milk received at its plant from dairy farmers during the corresponding period: Provided, That if written application is filed with the market administrator on or before the 5th day of any month such plant may be designated a nonpool plant for such month and for any subsequent months.

§ 944.11 Nonpool plant.

"Nonpool plant" means any milk manufacturing, processing or bottling plant other than a pool plant.

§ 944.12 Handler.

"Handler" means:

(a) Any person in his capacity as the operator of one or more distributing or supply plants.

(b) A cooperative association which is the operator of a pool plant pursuant to § 944.10(c).

(c) Any cooperative association with respect to the milk from producers diverted by the association for the account of such association from a pool plant to a nonpool plant.

§ 944.13 Producer-handler.

"Producer-handler" means any person who operates a dairy farm and a distributing plant but who receives no milk from producers or other source milk.

§ 944.14 Producer milk.

"Producer milk" means the skim milk and butterfat contained in milk received at a pool plant directly from producers: Provided, That milk diverted from a pool plant to a nonpool plant for the account of either the operator of the pool plant or a cooperative association shall be deemed to have been received by the diverting handler at the plant from which diverted: And provided further, That in any of the months of July through January milk diverted from the farm of a producer on more than the number of days that milk was delivered to a pool plant from such farm during the month shall not be deemed to have been received by the diverting handler.

§ 944.15 Fluid milk product.

"Fluid milk product" means milk, skim milk, buttermilk, milk drinks (plain or flavored), cream or any mixture in fluid form of skim milk and butterfat (except aerated cream products, products containing cheese and labeled as such, yogurt, ice cream mix, evaporated or condensed milk, and sterilized products packaged in hermetically sealed containers).

§ 944.16 Other source milk.

"Other source milk" means all skim milk and butterfat contained in:

(a) Receipts during the month in the form of fluid milk products except (1) fluid milk products received from pool plants, (2) producer milk, or (3) inventory at the beginning of the month; and

(b) Products other than fluid milk products from any source (including those produced at the plant) which are reprocessed or converted to another product in the plant during the month.

§ 944.17 Chicago butter price.

"Chicago butter price" means the simple average as computed by the market administrator of the daily wholesale selling prices (using the midpoint of any range as one price) per pound of 92-score bulk creamery butter at Chicago as reported during the month by the Department.

MARKET ADMINISTRATOR

§ 944.20 Designation.

The agency for the administration of this part shall be a market administrator, appointed by the Secretary, who shall be entitled to such compensation as may be determined by, and shall be subject to removal by the Secretary.

§ 944.21 Powers.

The market administrator shall have the following powers with respect to this part:

(a) To administer its terms and provisions;

(b) To receive, investigate, and report to the Secretary complaints of violations;

(c) To make rules and regulations to effectuate its terms and provisions; and

(d) To recommend amendments to the Secretary.

§ 944.22 Duties.

The market administrator shall perform all duties necessary to administer the terms and provisions of this part, including but not limited to the following:

(a) Within 45 days following the date on which he enters upon his duties, or such lesser period as may be prescribed by the Secretary, execute and deliver to the Secretary a bond, effective as of the date on which he enters upon his duties and conditioned upon the faithful performance of such duties, in an amount and with surety thereon satisfactory to the Secretary;

(b) Employ and fix the compensation of such persons as may be necessary to enable him to administer the terms and provisions of this part;

(c) Obtain a bond in a reasonable amount, and with reasonable surety thereon, covering each employee who handles funds entrusted to the market administrator;

(d) Pay out of the funds provided by § 944.87: (1) The cost of his bond and of the bonds of his employees, (2) his own compensation, and (3) all other expenses, except those incurred under § 944.88, necessarily incurred by him in the maintenance and functioning of his office and in the performance of his duties.

(e) Keep such books and records as will clearly reflect the transactions provided for in this part, and upon request by the Secretary, surrender the same to such other person as the Secretary may designate;

(f) Publicly announce, unless otherwise directed by the Secretary, by posting in a conspicuous place in his office and by such other means as he deems appropriate the name of any person who within 10 days after the date upon which he is required to perform such acts, has not made reports and payments required by this part;

(g) Submit his books and records to examination by the Secretary and furnish such information and reports as may be required by the Secretary;

(h) Verify all reports and payments of each handler by audit of such handler's records and of the records of any other handler or person upon whose utilization the classification of skim milk or butterfat for such handler depends, or by such investigation as the market administrator deems necessary;

(i) Prepare and disseminate to the public such statistics and such information as he deems advisable and as do not reveal confidential information;

(j) Publicly announce on or before:

(1) The 5th day of each month, the minimum price for Class I milk pursuant to § 944.50(a) and the Class I butterfat differential, pursuant to § 944.51(a) both for the current month; and the minimum price for Class II milk, pursuant to § 944.50(b), and the Class II butterfat differential, pursuant to § 944.51(b) both for the preceding month; and

(2) The 10th day of each month the uniform price pursuant to § 944.71 and the producer butterfat differential pursuant to § 944.81 for the preceding month; and

(k) On or before the 10th day after the end of each month, report to each cooperative association, which so requests, the percentage of milk caused to be delivered by the cooperative association or its members to the pool plant(s) of each handler during the month, which was utilized in each class. For the purpose of this report, the milk so delivered shall be allocated to each class for each handler in the same ratio as all producer milk received by such handler during the month.

REPORTS, RECORDS AND FACILITIES

§ 944.30 Reports of receipts and utilization.

On or before the 7th day after the end of each month, each handler, except a producer-handler, shall report for such month to the market administrator in the detail and on forms prescribed by the market administrator:

(a) The quantities of skim milk and butterfat contained in receipts of producer milk;

(b) The quantities of skim milk and butterfat contained in fluid milk products received from other pool plants;

(c) The quantities of skim milk and butterfat contained in other source milk;

(d) The quantities of skim milk and butterfat contained in producer milk diverted to nonpool plants pursuant to § 944.14.

(e) Inventories of fluid milk products on hand at the beginning and end of the month;

(f) The utilization of all skim milk and butterfat required to be reported pursuant to this section, including a separate statement of the disposition of Class I milk outside the marketing area; and

(g) Such other information with respect to his receipts and utilization of butterfat and skim milk as the market administrator may prescribe.

§ 944.31 Other reports.

Each producer-handler shall make reports to the market administrator at such time and in such manner as the market administrator may prescribe.

§ 944.32 Records and facilities.

Each handler shall maintain and make available to the market administrator or to his representative during the usual hours of business such accounts and records of his operations together with such facilities as are necessary for the market administrator to verify or establish the correct data which are required to be reported pursuant to this part and the payments required pursuant to this part.

§ 944.33 Retention of records.

All books and records required under this part to be made available to the market administrator shall be retained by the handler for a period of three years to begin at the end of the month to which such books and records pertain: Provided, That if, within such three-year period, the market administrator notifies the handler in writing that the retention of such books and records is necessary in connection with a proceeding under section 8c(15)(A) of the act or a court action specified in such notice the handler shall retain such books and records, or specified books and records, until further written notification from the market administrator. In either case, the market administrator shall give further written notification to the handler promptly upon the termination of the litigation or when the records are no longer necessary in connection therewith.

CLASSIFICATION

§ 944.40 Skim milk and butterfat to be classified.

The skim milk and butterfat which are required to be reported pursuant to § 944.30 shall be classified each month by the market administrator, pursuant to the provisions of §§ 944.41 through 944.46.

§ 944.41 Classes of utilization.

Subject to the conditions set forth in § 944.44 the classes of utilization shall be as follows:

(a) Class I milk. Class I milk shall be all skim milk (including concentrated and reconstituted skim milk) and butterfat (1) disposed of in the form of a fluid milk product (except as provided in paragraphs (b) (2) and (4) of this section) and (2) not accounted for as Class II milk;

(b) Class II milk. Class II milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat (1) used to produce any product other than a fluid milk product; (2) disposed of to wholesale bakeries, candy manufacturers, soup companies, or for livestock feed; (3) contained in inventory of fluid milk products on hand at the end of the month; (4) skim milk dumped if the market administrator has been notified in advance and afforded the opportunity of verifying such dumping; (5) in shrinkage allocated to receipts of producer milk (except milk diverted to a nonpool plant pursuant to § 944.14) but not in excess of 2 percent of such receipts of skim milk and butterfat, respectively; and (6) in shrinkage of other source milk.

§ 944.42 Shrinkage.

The market administrator shall allocate shrinkage over a handler's receipts as follows:

(a) Compute the total shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat for each handler; and

(b) Prorate the resulting amounts between the receipts of skim milk and butterfat contained in producer milk and in other source milk.

§ 944.43 Responsibility of handlers and reclassification of milk.

(a) All skim milk and butterfat shall be Class I milk unless the handler who first receives such skim milk or butterfat can prove to the market administrator that such skim milk or butterfat should be classified otherwise.

(b) Any skim milk or butterfat shall be reclassified if verification by the market administrator discloses that the original classification was incorrect.

§ 944.44 Transfers.

Skim milk or butterfat disposed of each month from a pool plant shall be classified:

(a) As Class I milk, if transferred in the form of a fluid milk product to the pool plant of another handler unless utilization as Class II milk is claimed by both handlers in their reports submitted for the month to the market administrator pursuant to § 944.30: Provided, That the skim milk or butterfat so assigned to Class II milk shall be limited to the amount thereof remaining in Class II milk in the plant of the transferee-handler after the subtraction of other source milk pursuant to § 944.46, and any additional amounts of such skim milk or butterfat shall be classified as Class I milk: And provided further, That if either or both handlers have received other source milk, the skim milk or butterfat so transferred shall be classified at both plants so as to allocate the greatest possible Class I utilization to the producer milk of both handlers;

(b) As Class I milk, if transferred to a producer-handler in the form of a fluid milk product;

(c) As Class I milk if transferred or diverted in the form of a fluid milk product to a nonpool plant located more than 300 miles from the City Hall, Rock Island, Illinois, by the shortest highway distance as determined by the market administrator; and

(d) As Class I milk, if transferred or diverted in the form of a fluid milk product in bulk to a nonpool plant located not more than 300 miles from the City Hall, Rock Island, Illinois, by the shortest highway distance as determined by the market administrator, unless:

(1) The transferring or diverting handler claims classification in Class II milk in his report submitted to the market administrator pursuant to § 944.30 for the month within which such transaction occurred;

(2) The operator of such nonpool plant maintains books and records showing the utilization of all skim milk and butterfat received at such plant which are made available if requested by the market administrator for the purpose of verification; and

(3) The skim milk and butterfat in the fluid milk products (except in ungraded fluid milk products disposed of for manufacturing uses) disposed of from such nonpool plant do not exceed the receipts of skim milk and butterfat in milk received during the month directly from Grade A dairy farms that the market administrator determines constitute the regular source of supply for such plant: Provided, That any skim milk or butterfat in fluid milk products (except in ungraded fluid milk products disposed of for manufacturing uses) disposed of from the nonpool plant which is in excess of receipts from such dairy farms shall be assigned to the fluid milk products so transferred or diverted and classified as Class I milk: And provided further, That if the total skim milk and butterfat which were transferred or diverted during the month to such nonpool plant from all plants subject to the classification and pricing provisions of this part and other orders issued pursuant to the Act are more than the skim milk and butterfat available for assignment to Class I milk pursuant to the preceding proviso hereof, the skim milk and butterfat assigned to Class I milk at a pool plant shall be not less than that obtained by prorating the assignable Class I milk at the transferee plant over the receipts at such plant from all plants subject to the classification and pricing provisions of this and other orders issued pursuant to the Act.

§ 944.45 Computation of the skim milk and butterfat in each class.

For each month, the market administrator shall correct for mathematical and for other obvious errors the reports of receipts and utilization for the pool plant(s) of each handler and shall compute the pounds of butterfat and skim milk in Class I milk and Class II milk for such handlers: Provided, That if any of the water contained in the milk from which a product is made is removed before the product is utilized or disposed of by a handler, the pounds of skim milk disposed of in such product shall be considered to be an amount equivalent to the nonfat milk solids contained in such products, plus all of the water reasonably associated with such solids in the form of whole milk.

§ 944.46 Allocation of skim milk and butterfat classified.

After making the computations pursuant to § 944.45 the market administrator shall determine the classification of producer milk received at the pool plant(s) of each handler each month as follows:

(a) Skim milk shall be allocated in the following manner:

(1) Subtract from the total pounds of skim milk in Class II milk the pounds of skim milk assigned to producer milk pursuant to § 944.41(b)(5);

(2) Subtract from the total pounds of skim milk in Class I milk the pounds of skim milk that were received in the form of fluid milk products in containers not larger than a gallon, that are subject to the Class I pricing provisions of another order issued pursuant to the Act, and in the case of cream subject to the Class II pricing provisions of Federal Order No. 41 and that are disposed of in the same form as received; Provided, That this subparagraph shall not apply to any items received if the same item is processed and packaged in the pool plant during the month.

(3) Subtract from the remaining pounds of skim milk in each class, in series beginning with Class II milk, the pounds of skim milk in other source milk other than that received in the form of fluid milk products;

(4) Subtract from the remaining pounds of skim milk in each class, in series beginning with Class II milk, the pounds of skim milk in other source milk received in the form of fluid milk products which were not subject to the Class I pricing provisions of an order issued pursuant to the act;

(5) Subtract from the remaining pounds of skim milk in Class II milk an amount equal to such remainder, or the product obtained by multiplying the pounds of skim milk in producer milk by 0.05, whichever is less;

(6) Subtract from the remaining pounds of skim milk in each class in series beginning with Class II milk, the pounds of skim milk in other source milk received in the form of fluid milk products which are subject to the Class I pricing provisions of another order issued pursuant to the act and that were not subtracted pursuant to subparagraph (2) of this paragraph;

(7) Add to the pounds of skim milk remaining in Class II milk the pounds of skim milk subtracted pursuant to subparagraph (5) of this paragraph;

(8) Subtract from the remaining pounds of skim milk in each class the skim milk in fluid milk products received from the pool plants of other handlers according to the classification of such products as determined pursuant to § 944.44(a);

(9) Subtract from the remaining pounds of skim milk in each class, in series beginning with Class II milk, the pounds of skim milk contained in inventory of fluid milk products on hand at the beginning of the month;

(10) Add to the pounds of skim milk remaining in Class II milk the pounds of skim milk subtracted pursuant to subparagraph (1) of this paragraph and if the remaining pounds of skim milk in both classes exceed the pounds of skim milk contained in producer milk, subtract such excess from the remaining pounds of skim milk in series beginning with Class II. Any amount of excess so subtracted shall be called "overage".

(b) Butterfat shall be allocated in accordance with the same procedure prescribed for skim milk in paragraph (a) of this section.

(c) The amounts of skim milk and butterfat in producer milk allocated pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section shall be combined into one total for each class and the weighted average butterfat content of producer milk in each class determined from such totals.

MINIMUM PRICES

§ 944.50 Class prices.

Subject to the provisions of §§ 944.51 and 944.52 the class prices per hundredweight for the month shall be as follows:

(a) Class I milk price. The Class I milk price shall be the price for Class I milk established under Federal Order No. 41, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Chicago, Ill., marketing area, plus 20 cents.

(b) Class II milk price. The Class II milk price shall be the average of the basic or field prices reported to have been paid or to be paid per hundredweight for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content received from farmers during the month at the following plants or places for which prices have been reported to the market administrator or to the Department:

PRESENT OPERATOR AND PLANT LOCATION

Amboy Milk Products Co., Amboy, Ill.
Borden Co., Dixon, Ill.
Carnation Co., Morrison, Ill.
Carnation Co., Oregon, Ill.
Carnation Co., Waverly, Iowa.
United Milk Products Co., Argo Fay, Ill.

§ 944.51 Butterfat differentials to handlers.

For milk containing more or less than 3.5 percent butterfat, the class prices for the month calculated pursuant to § 944.50 shall be increased or decreased, respectively, for each one-tenth percent butterfat at the appropriate rate, rounded to the nearest one-tenth cent, determined as follows:

(a) Class I price. Multiply the Chicago butter price for the preceding month by 0.125.

(b) Class II price. Multiply the Chicago butter price for the current month by 0.110 for the months of April, May, and June, and by 0.115 for all other months.

§ 944.52 Location differentials to handlers.

For that milk which is received from producers at pool plants in Dubuque and Jackson Counties, Iowa, and East Dubuque, Illinois, and which is classified as Class I milk, the price specified in § 944.50(a) shall be reduced 10 cents and for that milk which is received from producers at pool plants outside the marketing area and 70 miles or more from the City Hall, Rock Island, Illinois, by the shortest hard surfaced highway distance, as determined by the market administrator, and which is classified as Class I milk, the price specified in § 944.50(a) shall be reduced at the rate set forth in the following schedule according to the location of the pool plant where such milk is received from producers:

Distance from the Rock Island City Hall (miles):	Rate per hundredweight (cents)
70 but less than 80	10.0
For each additional 10 miles or fraction thereof an additional	1.5

Provided, That for the purpose of calculating the location differential adjustment applicable pursuant to this section, fluid milk products which are transferred between pool plants shall be assigned to any remainder of Class II milk in the transferee-plant after making the calculations prescribed in § 944.46(a)(6) and the comparable steps in (b) for such plant, such assignment to transferor plants to be made in sequence according to the location differential applicable to each plant, beginning with the plant having the largest differential.

§ 944.53 Use of equivalent prices.

If for any reason a price quotation required by this order for computing class prices or for other purposes is not available in the manner described, the market administrator shall use a price determined by the Secretary to be equivalent to the price which is required.

APPLICATION OF PROVISIONS

§ 944.60 Producer-handler.

Sections 944.70, 944.71 and 944.80 through 944.88 shall not apply to a producer-handler.

§ 944.61 Plants subject to other Federal orders.

The provisions of this part shall not apply to a distributing plant, a supply plant or a plant otherwise qualified as a pool plant pursuant to § 944.10(c) during any month in which such plant would be subject to the classification and pricing provisions of another order issued pursuant to the act unless such plant would otherwise be qualified as a pool plant pursuant to § 944.10 and a greater volume of fluid milk products is disposed of from such plant to retail or wholesale outlets and to pool plants in the Quad Cities-Dubuque marketing area than in the marketing area regulated pursuant to such other order: Provided, That the operator of a distributing plant or a supply plant which is exempt from the provisions of this order pursuant to this section shall, with respect to the total receipts and utilization or disposition of skim milk and butterfat at the plant, make reports to the market administrator at such time and in such manner as the market administrator may require (in lieu of the reports required pursuant to § 944.30) and allow verification of such reports by the market administrator.

§ 944.62 Handler operating a nonpool distributing plant.

Each handler, other than a producer-handler, who during the month operates a nonpool plant from which Grade A fluid milk products are distributed on a route in the marketing area, shall make payment to the market administrator as follows:

(a) If such handler so elects at the time of reporting pursuant to § 944.30 his obligations shall be as follows:

(1) On or before the 25th day after the end of the month, for the producer-settlement fund, any plus amount resulting from the following computation:

(i) Compute an amount equal to the value of milk which would be computed pursuant to § 944.70 for Grade A milk received from dairy farmers at such plant for such month if such plant had been a pool plant;

(ii) Deduct the gross payments made by the handler to dairy farmers, for Grade A milk received at such plant for such month. Gross payments to be included in this computation shall be limited to cash payments made to the dairy farmer or his assignee on or before the 15th day after the end of the month, plus the value of any supplies or services furnished by the handler on prior written authorization or as evidenced by a delivery ticket signed by the dairy farmer; and

(2) On or before the 15th day after the end of the month, as his pro rata share of the expense of administration, an amount equal to that which would have been computed pursuant to § 944.87 had such plant been a pool plant.

(b) Unless such handler elects to have his obligations computed pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section, his obligations shall be as follows:

(1) On or before the 13th day after the end of the month, for the producer-settlement fund, an amount determined by multiplying the quantity of Class I milk disposed of during the month on routes in the marketing area by the applicable rates as set forth in § 944.63; and

(2) On or before the 15th day after the end of the month, as his pro rata share of the expense of administration, the rate specified in § 944.87 with respect to Class I milk disposed of on routes in the marketing area.

§ 944.63 Rate of payment on unpriced milk.

The rate of payment per hundredweight to be made by handlers on unpriced other source milk allocated to Class I milk shall be any plus amount calculated as follows:

(a) During the months of December through June, subtract from the Class I price adjusted by the Class I butterfat and location differentials applicable at a pool plant of the same location as the nonpool plant supplying such other source milk, the Class II price adjusted by the Class II butterfat differential; and

(b) During the months of July through November subtract from the Class I price the uniform price to producers.

DETERMINATION OF UNIFORM PRICE

§ 944.70 Computation of value of milk for each handler.

The value of producer milk received during each month by each handler shall be a sum of money computed by the market administrator as follows:

(a) Multiply the pounds of milk in each class by the applicable class price and add together the resulting amounts;

(b) Add the amounts computed by multiplying the pounds of overage deducted from each class pursuant to § 944.46(a)(10) and the corresponding step of (b) by the applicable class prices;

(c) Add the amount obtained in multiplying the difference between the Class II price for the preceding month and the Class I price for the current month by the hundredweight of producer milk classified in Class II (less shrinkage) during the preceding month, or the hundredweight of milk subtracted from Class I pursuant to § 944.46(a)(9) and the corresponding step of (b), whichever is less; and

(d) Add an amount calculated by multiplying the hundredweight of skim milk and butterfat subtracted from Class I milk pursuant to § 944.46(a)(3) and (4) and the corresponding step of (b) by the rate of payment on unpriced milk determined pursuant to § 944.63 at the nearest nonpool plant(s) from which an equivalent amount of other source skim milk or butterfat was received: Provided, That if the source of any Class I products at a pool plant is not clearly established or if such skim milk is in the form of nonfat dry milk, they shall be considered to have been received from a source at the location of the pool plant where they are classified.

§ 944.71 Computation of uniform price.

For each of the months the market administrator shall compute a uniform price for producer milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content f.o.b. Rock Island, Illinois as follows:

(a) Combine into one total the values computed pursuant to § 944.70 for all handlers who made the reports prescribed in § 944.30 for such month, except those in default of payments required pursuant to § 944.84 for the preceding month;

(b) Add or subtract for each one-tenth percent that the average butterfat content of producer milk represented by the values included under paragraph (a) of this section is less or more, respectively, than 3.5 percent, an amount computed by multiplying such differences by the butterfat differential to producers, and multiplying the result by the total hundredweight of producer milk;

(c) Add an amount equal to the sum of the location differential deductions to be made pursuant to § 944.82;

(d) Add an amount equal to one-half of the unobligated cash balance in the producer-settlement fund;

(e) Divide the resulting amount by the total hundredweight of producer milk included in these computations; and

(f) Subtract not less than 4 cents nor more than 5 cents from the price computed pursuant to paragraph (e) of this section. The resulting figure shall be the uniform price for producer milk.

PAYMENT FOR MILK

§ 944.80 Time and method of payment for producer milk.

Each handler shall make payment as follows:

(a) On or before the 17th day after the end of each month during which the milk was received, to each producer for milk received from him and for which payment is not made to a cooperative association pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section, at not less than the uniform price computed in accordance with § 944.71, subject to the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 944.81 and less location differential deductions pursuant to § 944.82.

(b) On or before the 15th day after the end of each month during which the milk was received, to a cooperative association for milk which it caused to be delivered to such handler from producers, if such cooperative association is authorized to collect such payments for its member producers and exercises such authority, an amount equal to the sum of the individual payments otherwise payable to such producers.

(c) On or before the 10th day after the end of the month, each handler shall pay to each cooperative association which is also a handler, for milk received from it not less than the value of such milk as classified pursuant to this part at the applicable respective class prices including differentials prescribed by this part.

§ 944.81 Butterfat differentials to producers.

The applicable uniform prices to be paid each producer pursuant to § 944.80 shall be increased or decreased for each one-tenth of one percent which the butterfat content of his milk is above or below 3.5 percent, respectively, at the rate determined by multiplying the total pounds of butterfat in the producer milk allocated to Class I and Class II milk during the month pursuant to § 944.46 by the respective butterfat differential for such class, dividing the sum of such values by the total pounds of such butterfat, and rounding the resultant figure to the nearest one-tenth of a cent.

§ 944.82 Location differentials to producers.

In making payment pursuant to § 944.80 the uniform price pursuant to § 944.71 for milk which is received from producers at pool plants in Dubuque and Jackson Counties, Iowa, and East Dubuque, Illinois, shall be reduced 10 cents and for milk which is received from producers at pool plants outside the marketing area and 70 miles or more from the City Hall, Rock Island, Illinois, by the shortest hard-surfaced highway distance as determined by the market administrator shall be reduced at the rate set forth in the following schedule according to the location of the pool plant where such milk is received from producers:

Distance from the Rock Island City Hall (miles):	Rate per hundredweight (cents)
70 but less than 80	10.0
For each additional 10 miles or fraction thereof an additional	1.5

§ 944.83 Producer-settlement fund.

The market administrator shall establish and maintain a separate fund known as the "producer-settlement fund" into which he shall deposit all payments made by handlers pursuant to §§ 944.62, 944.84 and 944.86 and out of which he shall make all payments to handlers pursuant to §§ 944.85 and 944.86.

§ 944.84 Payments to the producer-settlement fund.

On or before the 12th day after the end of each month, each handler shall pay to the market administrator the amount by which the value of milk for such handler pursuant to § 944.70 for such month exceeds the obligation pursuant to § 944.80 of such handler to producers for milk received during the month.

§ 944.85 Payments out of the producer-settlement fund.

On or before the 14th day after the end of each month the market administrator shall pay to each handler the amount by which the obligation, pursuant to § 944.80, of such handler to producers for milk received during the month exceeds the value of milk for such handler computed pursuant to § 944.70: Provided, That if the balance in the producer-settlement fund is insufficient to make all payments pursuant to this paragraph, the market administrator shall reduce uniformly such payments and shall complete such payments as soon as the necessary funds are available. A handler who has not received the balance of such payments from the market administrator shall not be considered in violation of § 944.80 if he reduces his payments to producers by not more than the amount of the reduction in payment from the producer-settlement fund.

§ 944.86 Adjustment of accounts.

Whenever audit by the market administrator of any handler's reports, books, records, or accounts discloses errors resulting in moneys due (a) the market administrator from such handler, (b) such handler from the market administrator, or (c) any producer or cooperative association from such handler, the market administrator shall promptly notify such handler of any amount so due; and payment thereof shall be made on or before the next date for making payment set forth in the provisions under which such error occurred.

§ 944.87 Expense of administration.

As his pro rata share of the expense of the administration of the order, each handler shall pay to the market administrator, on or before the 15th day after the end of each month 3 cents per hundredweight or such lesser amount as the Secretary may prescribe with respect to butterfat and skim milk contained in (a) producer milk; (b) other source milk at a pool plant which is allocated to Class I milk pursuant to § 944.46(a)(3) and (4) and the comparable step of § 944.46(b); and (c) any amount due pursuant to § 944.62 (a)(2) or (b)(2).

§ 944.88 Marketing services.

(a) Except as set forth in paragraph (b) of this section, each handler in making payments to each producer pursuant to § 944.80, shall deduct 6 cents per hundredweight or such lesser amount as the Secretary may prescribe with respect to all milk received by such handler from such producer (except such handler's own farm production), during the month, and shall pay such deductions to the market administrator not later than the 15th day after the end of the month. Such money shall be used by the market administrator to verify or establish weights, samples, and tests of milk received by handlers from such producers during the month and to provide such producers with market information.

(b) In case of producers for whom a cooperative association is actually performing, as determined by the Secretary, the services set forth in paragraph (a) of this section, each handler shall make in lieu of the deductions specified in paragraph (a) of this section, such deductions as are authorized by such producers and, on or before the 15th day after the end of each month, pay over such deductions to the association rendering such services.

§ 944.89 Termination of obligations.

The provisions of this section shall apply to any obligation under this part for the payment of money.

(a) The obligation of any handler to pay money required to be paid under the terms of this part shall, except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, terminate two years after the last day of the calendar month during which the market administrator receives the handler's utilization report on the milk involved in such obligation, unless within such two-year period the market administrator notifies the handler in writing that such money is due and payable. Service of such notice shall be complete upon mailing to the handler's last known address, and it shall contain but need not be limited to, the following information:

(1) The amount of the obligation;

(2) The month(s) during which the milk, with respect to which the obligation exists, was received or handled; and

(3) If the obligation is payable to one or more producers or to an association of producers, the name of such producer(s) or association of producers, or if the obligation is payable to the market administrator, the account for which it is to be paid.

(b) If a handler fails or refuses, with respect to any obligation under this part, to make available to the market administrator or his representatives all books and records required by this part to be made available, the market administrator may, within the two-year period provided for in paragraph (a) of this section, notify the handler in writing of such failure or refusal. If the market administrator so notifies a handler, the said two-year period with respect to such obligation shall not begin to run until the first day of the calendar month following the month during which all such books and records pertaining to such obligation are made available to the market administrator or his representatives.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, a handler's obligation under this part to pay money shall not be terminated with respect to any transaction involving fraud or willful concealment of a fact, material to the obligation, on the part of the handler against whom the obligation is sought to be imposed.

(d) Any obligation on the part of the market administrator to pay a handler any money which such handler claims to be due him under the terms of this part shall terminate two years after the end of the calendar month during which the milk involved in the claim was received if an underpayment is claimed, or two years after the end of the calendar month during which the payment (including deduction or set-off by the market administrator) was made by the handler if a refund on such payment is claimed, unless such handler, within the applicable period of time, files pursuant to section 8c(15)(A) of the act, a petition claiming such money.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

§ 944.90 Effective time.

The provisions of this part, or any amendment to this part, shall become effective at such time as the Secretary may declare and shall continue in force until suspended or terminated.

§ 944.91 Suspension or termination.

The Secretary shall, whenever he finds this part, or any provision hereof, obstructs or does not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act, terminate or suspend the operation of this part or any such provision of this part.

§ 944.92 Continuing obligations.

If, upon the suspension or termination of any or all provisions of this part, there are any obligations hereunder the final accrual or ascertainment of which require further acts by any person (including the market administrator) such further acts shall be performed notwithstanding such suspension or termination.

§ 944.93 Liquidation.

Upon the suspension or termination of the provisions of this part, except this section, the market administrator, or such other liquidating agent as the Secretary may designate, shall, if so directed by the Secretary, liquidate the business of the market administrator's office, dispose of all property in his possession or control, including accounts receivable, and execute and deliver all assignments or other instruments necessary or appropriate to effectuate any such disposition. If a liquidating agent is so designated all accounts, books, and records of the market administrator shall be transferred promptly to such liquidating agent. If, upon such liquidation the funds on hand exceed the amounts required to pay outstanding obligations of the office of the market administrator and to pay necessary expenses of liquidation and distribution, such excess shall be distributed to contributing handlers and producers in an equitable manner.

§ 944.94 Agents.

The Secretary may, by designation in writing, name any officer or employee of the United States to act as his agent or representative in connection with any of the provisions of this part.

§ 944.95 Separability of provisions.

If any provision of this part or its application to any person or circumstance, is held invalid, the application of such provision, and of the remaining provisions of this part, to other persons or circumstances shall not be affected thereby.

Issued at Washington, D.C., this 15th day of December 1960, to be effective on and after the 1st day of January 1961.

CLARENCE L. MILLER,
Assistant Secretary.

PART 970—IRISH POTATOES GROWN IN MAINE

Approval of Expenses and Rate of Assessment

Notice of rule making regarding proposed expenses and rate of assessment, to be made effective under Marketing Agreement No. 122 and Order No. 70 (7 CFR Part 970), regulating the handling of Irish potatoes grown in the State of Maine, was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER November 23, 1960 (25 F.R. 11110). This regulatory program is effective under the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (Secs. 1-19, 48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 601-674). After consideration of all relevant matters presented, including the proposals set forth in the aforesaid notice, which proposals were adopted and submitted for approval by the Maine Potato Administrative Committee established pursuant to said marketing agreement and order, it is hereby found and determined that:

§ 970.206 Expenses and rate of assessment.

(a) The reasonable expenses that are likely to be incurred by the Maine Potato Administrative Committee to enable such committee to perform its functions pursuant to the provisions of aforesaid marketing agreement and order, during the fiscal period ending August 31, 1961, will amount to $57,875.00.

(b) The rate of assessment to be effective for the fiscal period ending August 31, 1961, shall be $1.25 per railroad car, $1.00 per truckload of 25,000 pounds or over 25,000 pounds, and $0.50 (fifty cents) per truckload of less than 25,000 pounds, or the respective equivalent quantities, of potatoes handled during said fiscal period.

(c) The terms used in this section shall have the same meaning as when used in Marketing Agreement No. 122 and this part.

It is hereby found that good cause exists for not postponing the effective time of this action until 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER (5 U.S.C. 1001-1011) in that: (1) the relevant provisions of said marketing agreement and order require that rates of assessment fixed for a particular fiscal period shall be applicable to all assessable potatoes from the beginning of such period and (2) the current fiscal period began on September 1, 1960, and the rates of assessment herein fixed will automatically apply to all assessable potatoes beginning with such date.

(Secs. 1-9, 48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 601-674)

Dated: December 14, 1960.

[Milk Order No. 110]

PART 1010—MILK IN WILMINGTON, DELAWARE, MARKETING AREA

Order Suspending Certain Provisions

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), and of the order regulating the handling of milk in the Wilmington, Delaware, marketing area (7 CFR Part 1010), it is hereby found and determined that:

(a) The following provisions of the order do not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act: The provisions of § 1010.22(j)(2) except "the 15th day of the month * * * the Class I price * * *;".

(b) Notice of proposed rule making, public procedure thereon, and 30 days notice of effective date hereof are impractical, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest in that:

(1) This suspension order does not require of persons affected substantial or extensive preparation prior to the effective date.

(2) This suspension order is necessary to reflect current marketing conditions in the marketing area.

(3) There is pending before the Secretary a final decision on proposed amendments to the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and Wilmington, Delaware, Federal milk orders. There is insufficient time prior to the regular date of Class I price announcement, December 15, 1960 for Wilmington order prices effective in January, February and March, 1961 for the Secretary to issue a final decision on the proposed amendments which were considered in the revised recommended decision issued November 14, 1960 (25 F.R. 10938) on the Philadelphia and Wilmington milk orders and to issue amendments to these orders.

(4) If this suspension order were not issued the Class I price which would be announced on December 15, 1960, could differ from the price which would result from order provisions which might be adopted to be effective for January 1961 and subsequent months, and this could result in confusion as to the intent of the Department in connection with current amendment procedure.

Therefore, good cause exists for making this order effective immediately.

It is therefore ordered, That the aforesaid provision of the order is hereby suspended effective upon issuance of this order: Provided, That this suspension action shall not affect the price heretofore announced for December 1960.

(Secs. 1-19, 48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 601-674)

Issued at Washington, D.C., this 15th day of December 1960.

CLARENCE L. MILLER,
Assistant Secretary.

Pursuant to the provisions of sections 1 and 3 of the Act of March 3, 1905, as amended, sections 1 and 2 of the Act of February 2, 1903, as amended, and sections 4 and 5 of the Act of May 29, 1884, as amended (21 U.S.C. 111-113, 120, 121, 123, 125), §§ 74.2 and 74.3 of Part 74, Subchapter C, Chapter I, Title 9, Code of Federal Regulations, as amended, are hereby amended in the following respects:

1. Subparagraph (3) of paragraph (a) of § 74.2 is amended to read:

(3) All counties in New Mexico except Bernalillo and San Miguel.

2. Subparagraph (2) of paragraph (a) of § 74.3 is amended to read:

(2) The following counties in New Mexico: Bernalillo and San Miguel.

(Secs. 4, 5, 23 Stat. 32, as amended, secs. 1, 2, 32 Stat. 791-792, as amended, secs. 1, 3, 33 Stat. 1264, as amended, 1265, as amended; 21 U.S.C. 111-113, 120, 121, 123, 125. Effective date. The foregoing amendment shall become effective upon issuance.

The amendment deletes the County of San Miguel in New Mexico from the free areas and adds such County to the infected areas and to the eradication areas, as sheep scabies is known to exist in such County. Hereafter, the restrictions pertaining to the interstate movement of sheep from, into, and through infected and eradication areas as contained in 9 CFR Part 74, as amended, will apply to this County.

The amendment imposes certain restrictions necessary to prevent the spread of scabies, a communicable disease of sheep, and must be made effective immediately in order to accomplish its purpose in the public interest. Accordingly, under section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. 1003), it is found upon good cause that notice and other public procedure with respect to the amendment are impracticable and contrary to the public interest and good cause is found for making the amendment effective less than 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

SUBCHAPTER C—AIRCRAFT REGULATIONS

[Regulatory Docket No. 601; Amdt. 235]

PART 507—AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

Brantly B-2 Helicopters

A failure of the tail rotor drive shaft just forward of the oil cooler fan drive pulley occurred in flight on a Brantly B-2 helicopter resulting in complete loss of directional control. Investigation indicated the failed shaft had been subjected to bending forces which were apparently introduced by shaft misalignment. As such a failure represents a safety hazard, inspection and modifications are required to preclude additional failures.

In the interest of safety notice and public procedure hereon are impracticable and good cause exists for making this amendment effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

In consideration of the foregoing, and pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (25 F.R. 6489), § 507.10(a) of Part 507 (14 CFR Part 507), is hereby amended by adding the following new airworthiness directive:

BRANTLY. Applies to all Brantly Model B-2 helicopters prior to Serial No. 44 not previously modified in accordance with Brantly Service Bulletin No. 4.

Compliance required within 25 hours' time in service after the effective date of this directive.

(a) Remove the B2-108-34 drive shaft extension and the B2-108-35 coupling from between the transmission and the oil cooler fan drive pulley. Using Brantly alining jig No. AT-108-31 and following instructions in Brantly Service Bulletin No. 4, check alinement of the tail rotor drive shaft installation. Adjust bearing positions as necessary per instructions to obtain satisfactory alinement.

(b) Using Brantly drill jig No. MT-339-16 and in accordance with instructions in Service Bulletin No. 4, install an additional flexible coupling on the aft end of the B2-108-34 drive shaft extension. Brantly parts B2-108-45 (one), B2-14-14 (two), plus associated standard attachments prescribed in Service Bulletin No. 4 are required for this modification. Orientation of the two flexible couplings on the shaft with respect to each other in accordance with Modification Step No. 15 of Service Bulletin No. 4 is imperative.

This amendment shall become effective December 20, 1960.

[Regulatory Docket No. 532; Amdt. 39]

PART 514—TECHNICAL STANDARD ORDERS FOR AIRCRAFT MATERIALS, PARTS, PROCESSES, AND APPLIANCES

TSO-C68 Airborne Automatic Dead Reckoning Computer Equipment

Proposed § 514.74 establishing minimum performance standards for airborne automatic dead reckoning computer equipment utilizing aircraft heading and doppler-obtained ground speed and drift angle data for use as a primary aid in navigation on civil aircraft of the United States engaged in air carrier operations was published in 25 F.R. 9671.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of the amendment. No objections were received.

In consideration of the foregoing, and pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (25 F.R. 6489), Part 514 of the regulations of the Administrator (14 CFR Part 514) is hereby amended as follows:

Section 514.74 is added as follows:

§ 514.74 Airborne automatic dead reckoning computer equipment utilizing aircraft heading and doppler-obtained ground speed and drift angle data (for air carrier aircraft)—TSO–C68.

(a) Applicability—(1) Minimum performance standards. Minimum performance standards are hereby established for airborne automatic dead reckoning computer equipment utilizing aircraft heading and doppler-obtained ground speed and drift angle data which is to be used on civil aircraft of the United States engaged in air carrier operations. New models of airborne automatic dead reckoning computer equipment utilizing aircraft heading and doppler-obtained ground speed and drift angle data manufactured for use on civil air carrier aircraft on or after January 16, 1961, shall meet the standards in Radio Technical Commission for Aeronautics Papers 101–60/DO–104[1] dated June 8, 1960; 100–54/DO–60[1] dated April 13, 1954; and 256–58/EC–366[1] dated November 13, 1958. Exceptions, additions, and substitutions to these standards are listed in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph.

(2) Exceptions. (i) Radio Technical Commission for Aeronautics Paper 100–54/DO–60, and amendment Paper 256–58/EC–366 dated November 13, 1958, outline environmental test procedures for equipment designed to operate under three environmental test conditions as specified therein under Procedures A, B, and C. Only airborne automatic dead reckoning computer equipment utilizing aircraft heading and doppler-obtained ground speed and drift angle data which meets the operating requirements as outlined under Procedure A or Procedure B of Paper 100–54/DO–60, as amended, is eligible under this section.

(ii) The vibration values specified below may be used for equipment designed exclusively for installation on the instrument panel of aircraft in lieu of those specified in Paper 100–54/DO–60 as amended. No shock mounting shall be used during the conduct of this test if the vibration values specified below are used.

Amplitude: 0.01" (0.02" total excursion).
Frequency: Variable 10–55 c.p.s.
Maximum Acceleration: 1.5 g.

(iii) Equipment which is designed exclusively for installation on the instrument panel of aircraft need not be subjected to the shock requirements outlined in Paper 100–54/DO–60 as amended.

(iv) Indicating instruments which are a part of the system, but which are not designed exclusively for installation on the instrument panel of aircraft, may also be tested to the vibration requirements specified in subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph, and need not be subjected to the shock requirements outlined in Paper 100–54/DO–60 as amended.

(b) Marking. (1) In addition to the markings specified in § 514.3, equipment which has been designed to operate over the environmental conditions outlined in Procedure A of RTCA Paper 100–54/DO–60, as amended, shall be marked as Category A equipment. Equipment which has been designed to operate over the environmental conditions outlined in Procedure B of this same paper shall be marked as Category B equipment. Equipment which has been designed exclusively for installation on the instrument panel of aircraft and which meets only the amended vibration requirements outlined above shall be identified with the letters I.P. following the category of equipment, such as CAT. A—I.P.

(2) Each major component of equipment (antenna, power supply, etc.) shall be identified with at least the manufacturer's name and TSO number.

(c) Data requirements. (1) The manufacturer shall maintain a current file of complete design data.

(2) The manufacturer shall maintain a current file of complete data describing the inspection and test procedures applicable to his product. (See paragraph (d) of this section.)

(3) Six copies each, except where noted, of the following shall be furnished to the Chief, Engineering and Manufacturing Division, Bureau of Flight Standards, Federal Aviation Agency, Washington 25, D.C.

(i) Manufacturer's operating instructions and equipment limitations.

(ii) Installation procedures with applicable schematic drawings, wiring diagrams, and specifications. Indicate any limitations, restrictions, or other conditions pertinent to installation.

(iii) One copy of the manufacturer's test report.

(d) Quality control. Airborne automatic dead reckoning computer equipment utilizing aircraft heading and doppler-obtained ground speed and drift angle data shall be produced under a quality control system, established by the manufacturer, which will assure that each equipment is in conformity with the requirements of this section and is in a condition for safe operation. This system shall be described in the data required under paragraph (c)(2) of this section. A representative of the Administrator shall be permitted to make such inspections and tests at the manufacturer's facility as may be necessary to determine compliance with the requirements of this section.

(e) Previously approved equipment. Airborne automatic dead reckoning computer equipment utilizing aircraft heading and doppler-obtained ground speed and drift angle data approved prior to January 16, 1961, may continue to be manufactured under the provisions of its original approval.

Effective date. January 16, 1961.

SUBCHAPTER E—AIR NAVIGATION REGULATIONS

[Airspace Docket No. 60–LA–67]

PART 601—DESIGNATION OF THE CONTINENTAL CONTROL AREA, CONTROL AREAS, CONTROL ZONES, REPORTING POINTS, POSITIVE CONTROL ROUTE SEGMENTS, AND POSITIVE CONTROL AREAS

Modification of Control Zone

On October 1, 1960, a Notice of Proposed Rule Making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (25 F.R. 9415) stating that the Federal Aviation Agency proposed to modify the Las Vegas, Nev., control zone.

No adverse comments were received regarding the proposed amendment.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of the rule herein adopted, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

The substance of the proposed amendment having been published, therefore, pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (24 F.R. 4530) and for the reasons stated in the notice, § 601.2177 (14 CFR 601.2177) is amended to read:

§ 601.2177 Las Vegas, Nev., control zone.

Within a 5-mile radius of McCarran Field (latitude 36°05'06" N., longitude 115°09'37" W.); within a 5-mile radius of Nellis AFB (latitude 36°14'45" N., longitude 115°02'00" W.); including the area within 2 miles either side of the SW course of the Las Vegas RR and within 2 miles either side of the Las Vegas VORTAC 032° True radial, extending from the McCarran Field 5-mile radius zone to the Nellis AFB 5-mile radius zone.

These amendments shall become effective 0001 e.s.t. February 9, 1961.

(Sec. 307(a), 72 Stat. 749; 49 U.S.C. 1348)

Issued in Washington, D.C., on December 13, 1960.

PART 601—DESIGNATION OF THE CONTINENTAL CONTROL AREA, CONTROL AREAS, CONTROL ZONES, REPORTING POINTS, POSITIVE CONTROL ROUTE SEGMENTS, AND POSITIVE CONTROL AREAS

Designation of Control Zone and Control Area Extension

On October 1, 1960, a Notice of Proposed Rule Making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (25 F.R. 9418) stating that the Federal Aviation Agency proposed to designate a control zone and control area extension at Bluefield, W. Va.

No adverse comments were received regarding the proposed amendments.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of the rules herein adopted, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

The substance of the proposed amendments having been published, therefore, pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (24 F.R. 4530) and for the reasons stated in the notice, Part 601 (14 CFR Part 601) is amended by adding the following sections:

§ 601.2214 Bluefield, W. Va., control zone.

Within a 5-mile radius of the Mercer County Airport (latitude 37°17'45" N., longitude 81°12'29" W.), and within 2 miles either side of the 047° True radial of the Bluefield VOR extending from the 5-mile radius zone to 12 miles NE of the VOR.

§ 601.1022 Control area extension (Bluefield, W. Va.).

The airspace NE of the Bluefield VOR bounded on the NE by VOR Federal airway No. 140, on the SW by VOR Federal airway No. 59, on the SE by VOR Federal airway No. 45, and on the NW by a line eight miles NW of and parallel to the 047° True radial of the Bluefield VOR.

These amendments shall become effective 0001 e.s.t. February 9, 1961.

(Sec. 307(a), 72 Stat. 749; 49 U.S.C. 1348)

Issued in Washington, D.C., on December 13, 1960.

[Airspace Docket No. 60–WA–263]

PART 601—DESIGNATION OF THE CONTINENTAL CONTROL AREA, CONTROL AREAS, CONTROL ZONES, REPORTING POINTS, POSITIVE CONTROL ROUTE SEGMENTS, AND POSITIVE CONTROL AREAS

Revocation, Modification and Designation of Reporting Points

The purpose of these amendments to §§ 601.5001 and 601.7001 of the regulations of the Administrator is to revoke the Antwerp, Ohio, intersection as a domestic VOR reporting point, modify the Turlock, Calif., intersection, and designate the Balboa, Fla., intersection and the Lake Tahoe, Calif., VOR as reporting points.

Flight progress reports over designated locations, automatically initiated by pilots, will facilitate air traffic management and assist the controller in the performance of his duties. However, due to the continuous modernization of the airway structure, the need for reporting points at particular locations is constantly being revised. The actions taken herein reflect this changing need on the part of air traffic management.

Since these amendments are of a procedural nature and do not assign or reassign the use of navigable airspace, notice and public procedure hereon are unnecessary. However, since it is necessary that sufficient time be allowed to permit appropriate changes to be made on aeronautical charts, these amendments will become effective more than 30 days after publication.

In consideration of the foregoing, and pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (24 F.R. 4530), the following actions are taken:

1. In the text of § 601.5001 (14 CFR 601.5001) the following is added: "Balboa Intersection: INT of a line bearing 166° True from the Key West, Fla., RR and a line bearing 215° True from the Marathon, Fla., RBN."

2. In the text of § 601.7001 (14 CFR 601.7001, 25 F.R. 7489) "Turlock INT: the INT of the Fresno, Calif., VOR 322° True and the Castle, Calif., VOR 010° True radials." is deleted and "Turlock INT: the INT of the Fresno, Calif., VOR 322° True and the Los Banos, Calif., VOR 025° True radials." is substituted therefor.

3. In the text of § 601.7001 (25 F.R. 3576) "Antwerp INT: the INT of the Fort Wayne, Ind., VORTAC 068° True and the Findlay, Ohio, VOR 289° True radial." is revoked.

4. In the text of § 601.7001 (14 CFR 601.7001) the following is added: "Lake Tahoe, Calif., VOR".

These amendments shall be effective 0001 e.s.t. February 9, 1961.

(Sec. 307(a), 72 Stat. 749; 49 U.S.C. 1348)

Issued in Washington, D.C., on December 13, 1960.

[Airspace Docket No. 60–WA–96]

PART 602—ESTABLISHMENT OF CODED JET ROUTES AND NAVIGATIONAL AIDS IN THE CONTINENTAL CONTROL AREA

Modification and Revocation of Coded Jet Routes

On October 6, 1960, a Notice of Proposed Rule Making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (25 F.R. 9683) stating that the Federal Aviation Agency proposed to modify VOR/VORTAC jet route No. 2 between El Paso, Tex., and San Antonio, Tex., extend VOR/VORTAC jet route No. 15 from Wink, Tex., to San Antonio, and revoke VOR/VORTAC jet route No. 48 in its entirety between El Paso and San Antonio.

No adverse comments were received regarding the proposed amendments. However, the Air Transport Association requested radar advisory service be provided on J–15–V between Wink and San Antonio. This service will be provided.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of the rules herein adopted, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

The substance of the proposed amendments having been published, therefore, pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (24 F.R. 4530) and for the reasons stated in the Notice, the followings actions are taken:

1. In the text of § 602.502 (14 CFR 602.502, 25 F.R. 3067) "Wink, Tex., VOR;" is deleted and "Fort Stockton, Tex., VORTAC;" is substituted therefor.

2. In § 602.515 (14 CFR 602.515) the following changes are made:

(a) In the caption "Wink, Tex.," is deleted and "San Antonio, Tex.," is substituted therefor.

(b) In the text "From the Wink, Tex., VOR via the Roswell, N. Mex., VOR;" is deleted and "From the San Antonio, Tex., VORTAC via the Wink, Tex., VOR; Roswell, N. Mex., VOR;" is substituted therefor.

3. In Part 602 (14 CFR 602) the following section is revoked:

Section 602.548 VOR/VORTAC jet route No. 48 (El Paso, Tex., to San Antonio, Tex.).

These amendments shall become effective 0001 e.s.t. February 9, 1961.

[Airspace Docket No. 60–WA–267]

PART 608—RESTRICTED AREAS

Modification of Restricted Area

The purpose of this amendment to §608.26 of the regulations of the Administrator is to change the controlling agency of the Camp Claiborne, La., Restricted Area (R–431) (Beaumont Chart). The activities conducted within this area are air-to-air gunnery, rocket firing and dive bombing.

The Department of the Air Force has agreed to changing the controlling agency for Restricted Area (R–431) from "Alexandria, La., AFB" to "Federal Aviation Agency, New Orleans ARTC" in order to provide for the maximum utilization of the airspace within this area.

Since this amendment imposes no additional burden on the public, compliance with the notice, public procedure, and effective date requirements of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act is unnecessary and it may be made effective immediately.

In consideration of the foregoing, and pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (25 F.R. 8005), the following action is taken:

In § 608.26 Louisiana, the Camp Claiborne, La., Restricted Area (R–431) (Beaumont Chart) (23 F.R. 8581) "Alexandria, La., AFB." is deleted and "Federal Aviation Agency, New Orleans ARTC Center." is substituted therefor.

This amendment shall become effective upon the date of publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(Sec. 307(a), 72 Stat. 749; 49 U.S.C. 1348)

Issued in Washington, D.C., on December 13, 1960.

Title 16—COMMERCIAL PRACTICES

Chapter I—Federal Trade Commission

[Docket 8031 c.o.]

PART 13—PROHIBITED TRADE PRACTICES

Anniston Foundry Co.

Subpart—Discriminating in price under section 2, Clayton Act—Payment for Services or Facilities for Processing or Sale Under 2(d): § 13.824 Advertising Expenses.

(Sec. 6, 38 Stat. 721; 15 U.S.C. 46. Interprets or applies sec. 2, 49 Stat. 1527; 15 U.S.C. 13) [Cease and desist order, Anniston Foundry Company, Anniston, Ala., Docket 8031, October 19, 1960]

Consent order requiring a manufacturer of cast iron soil pipe and fittings in Anniston, Ala., to cease discriminating among its customers in violation of section 2(d) of the Clayton Act by making payments to some customers for promoting its products but not to all their competitors on proportionally equal terms, such as sums amounting to $3,300 paid to the American-Radiator and Standard Sanitary Corp. for promoting the sale of its products through television programs sponsored by the company in the trading areas of New Orleans, Pittsburgh, and elsewhere.

The order to cease and desist is as follows:

It is ordered, That respondent, Anniston Foundry Company, a corporation, and its officers, employees, agents and representatives, directly or through any corporate or other device, in or in connection with the offering for sale, sale or distribution of pipe, pipe fittings, and related products, in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Clayton Act, as amended, do forthwith cease and desist from: Paying or contracting for the payment of anything of value to, or for the benefit of, any customers of respondent as compensation or in consideration for any services or facilities furnished by or through such customers in connection with the handling, offering for sale, sale or distribution of said products, unless such payment or consideration is affirmatively made available on proportionally equal terms to all other customers competing in the distribution of such products.

By "Decision of the Commission", etc., report of compliance was required as follows:

It is ordered, That the respondent herein shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon it of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing setting forth in detail the manner and form in which it has complied with the order to cease and desist.

Issued: October 19, 1960.

By the Commission.

In the Matter of Wilson Trading Corporation, a Corporation, Jacob Bleetstein and Norman Glauber, Jr., Individually and as Officers of Said Corporation

Order requiring distributors of yarn in New York City to cease violating the Wool Products Labeling Act by representing as 100 percent cashmere, on invoices and carton labels, cones of yarn which contained substantially less than 100 percent cashmere fibers; and by failing to label certain of said wool products to show the percentages of the total fiber weight, as required.

The order to cease and desist is as follows:

It is ordered, That the respondents, Wilson Trading Corporation, a corporation, and its officers, Jacob Bleetstein and Norman Glauber, Jr., individually and as officers of said corporation, and respondents' representatives, agents, and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the introduction or manufacture for introduction into commerce, or the offering for sale, sale, transportation or distribution in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act and the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939, of yarns or any other wool products, as such products are defined in and subject to the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939, which products contain, purport to contain, or in any way are represented as containing "wool", "reprocessed wool", or "reused wool", as those terms are defined in said Act, do forthwith cease and desist from misbranding such products by:

1. Falsely or deceptively stamping, tagging, labeling, or otherwise identifying such products as to the character or amount of the constituent fibers included therein;

2. Failing securely to affix to or place on each such product, a stamp, tag, label, or other means of identification showing in a clear and conspicuous manner:

(a) The percentage of the total fiber weight of such wool products, exclusive of ornamentation not exceeding five percentum of said total fiber weight, of (1) wool, (2) reprocessed wool, (3) reused wool, (4) each fiber other than wool where said percentage by weight of such fiber is five percentum or more, and (5) the aggregate of all other fibers;

(b) The maximum percentages of the total weight of such wool products of any non-fibrous loading, filling or adulterating matter;

(c) The name or the registered identification number of the manufacturer of such wool products or of one or more persons engaged in introducing such wool products into commerce, or in the offering for sale, sale, transportation, distribution, or delivery for shipment thereof in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939.

It is further ordered, That Wilson Trading Corporation, a corporation, and its officers, Jacob Bleetstein and Norman Glauber, Jr., individually and as officers of said corporation, and respondents' representatives, agents, and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the offering for sale, sale or distribution of yarn or any other products in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, do forthwith cease and desist from: Misrepresenting by statements or representations in contracts, orders, confirmations, invoices, or other documents, by correspondence, orally, or by any other means the character or amount of the constituent fiber content of such products.

By "Decision of the Commission", etc., report of compliance was required as follows:

It is further ordered, That the respondents, Wilson Trading Corporation, a corporation, Jacob Bleetstein and Norman Glauber, Jr., individually and as officers of said corporation, shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon them of this order, file with the Commission a report, in writing, setting forth in detail the manner and form in which they have complied with the order to cease and desist.

Issued: October 20, 1960.

Title 32A—NATIONAL DEFENSE, APPENDIX

Chapter X—Oil Import Administration, Department of the Interior

[Revision 2; Amdt. 2]

OIL IMPORT REGULATION 1

Allocations of Crude Oil and Unfinished Oils; District V

Section 11 of Oil Import Regulation 1 (Revision 2) (25 F.R. 4958) is amended to read as follows:

Sec. 11 Allocations of crude oil and unfinished oils; District V.

(a) The quantity of imports of crude oil determined to be available for allocation in District V for the allocation period January 1, 1961, through June 30, 1961, shall be allocated by the Administrator among eligible applicants as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section.

(b) Except as provided in paragraph (c) of this section, each eligible applicant shall receive an allocation based on refinery inputs for the year ending September 30, 1960, and computed according to the following schedule:

Average B/D input:	Percent of input
0– 10,000	42.0
10– 20,000	33.0
20– 30,000	23.9
30– 60,000	14.2
60–100,000	11.5
100–150,000	10.5
150–200,000	7.6
200,000 plus	9.4

(c) If an eligible applicant has been importing crude oil pursuant to an allocation under the Voluntary Oil Import Program and if an allocation computed under paragraph (b) of this section would be less than 70 percent of the applicant's last allocation of imports of crude oil under the Voluntary Oil Import Program, the applicant shall nevertheless receive an allocation under this section equal to 70 percent of his last allocation of imports of crude oil under the Voluntary Oil Import Program.

(d) Allocations made pursuant to this section shall not permit the importation of unfinished oils in excess of 10 percent of the permissible imports of crude oil. With respect to any allocation made pursuant to this section, the Administrator upon request shall issue a license permitting the importation of unfinished oils in an amount not in excess of 10 percent of the allocation. If the total quantity of unfinished oils applied for is less than 10 percent of the permissible imports of crude oils, the Administrator may to that extent increase the percentage amount of unfinished oils specified in licenses of persons who request such increases. Each person making such a request shall receive an increase in the proportion that his allocation bears to the total of allocations made to all persons requesting increases. Each barrel of unfinished oil imported shall be deemed to be the equivalent of one barrel of crude oil and will be so charged against the person's license by the respective Collectors of Customs. The permissible percentage of imports of unfinished oils and the equivalence of unfinished oils to crude oil may be changed during the allocation period, if necessary to prevent impairing accomplishment of the purposes of the program. Such a change will be made only after notice of proposed rule making and will not become effective until the 30th calendar day following publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER of the amendment making such change.

(e) No allocation made pursuant to this section may be sold, assigned, or otherwise transferred.

Because notices of allocations must be mailed, applications for licenses returned, and licenses issued before January 1, 1961, it is impracticable to give notice of proposed rule making on, or to delay the effective date of, this amendment. Accordingly, this amendment shall become effective immediately.

ELMER F. BENNETT,
Acting Secretary of the Interior.

§ 1001.309 Solicitations for information or planning purposes.

Requests for quotations (including letter requests) for informational or planning purposes relating to weapon systems, subsystems, components, or support equipment, or developments leading to such items, and price and availability studies applicable to Military Assistance Program (Grant Aid only) may be issued only when completely justified to and with the prior approval of the Commander, or his designee, of the cognizant AMC procuring activity, i.e., AMC centers, AMAs and depot. All other requests will be submitted to AMC (MCPP) for prior approval of the Director of Procurement and Production, Hq AMC.

§ 1001.313 [Redesignation]

8. Redesignate § 1001.313 as § 1001.310.

Subpart E—Contingent or Other Fees

§ 1001.508–2 [Amendment]

In Subpart E, "Contingent or Other Fees", § 1001.508–2, amend the symbol "MCPI" in paragraph (d) to read: "MCPP."

Subpart F—Debarred, Ineligible, and Suspended Bidders

1. Revise § 1001.601–3(a) to read as follows:

§ 1001.601–3 Joint consolidated list.

(a) Changes. Additions, deletions, or modifications to the Joint Consolidated List will be forwarded through the Procurement Division (MCPP), Hq AMC, to DCS/M, Hq USAF for transmittal to the Department of the Army. MCPP will recommend to DCS/M action to be taken.

§ 1001.601–5 [Deletion]

2. Delete § 1001.601–5.

§§ 1001.603–1—1001.603–3; 1001.604–50; 1001.605–1 and 1001.605–2 [Deletion]

3. Delete §§ 1001.603–1 to 1001.603–3; 1001.604–50; 1001.605–1 and 1001.605–2.

4. Revise § 1001.605–4 to read as follows:

§ 1001.605–4 Notice of suspension.

The DCS/M, Hq USAF, will furnish the notice of suspension required by § 1.605–4 of this title. All inquiries or correspondence from or in behalf of suspended contractors concerning their status, reasons for suspension action, etc., will be referred through command channels to AMC (MCPP) for appropriate action. MCPP will refer these matters to DCS/M, Hq USAF (AFMPP–PR) if review, advice, or action by that Headquarters is considered appropriate.

§§ 1001.609—1001.609–9 [Deletion]

5. Delete §§ 1001.609 to 1001.609–9.

§ 1001.650 [Amendment]

6. In the second sentence of § 1001.650, the words "through MCPI" are changed to: "through Hq AMC (MCPP), and the symbol "MCPI" in the third sentence is changed to: "MCPP."

Subpart K—Qualified Products

§§ 1001.1104—1001.1104–3; 1001.1104–5—1001.1104–8, and 1001.1105—1001.1105–2 [Deletion]

7. In Subpart K, "Qualified Products", delete §§ 1001.1104 to 1001.1104–3; 1001.1104–5 to 1001.1104–8 and 1001.1105 to 1001.1105–2.

PART 1002—PROCUREMENT BY FORMAL ADVERTISING

Subpart B—Solicitation of Bids

In subpart B, Solicitation of Bids:

§ 1002.201 [Amendment]

1. Delete paragraphs (c) to (e) of § 1002.201.

§§ 1002.206—1002.206–50 [Deletion]

2. Delete §§ 1002.206 to 1002.206–50.

PART 1003—PROCUREMENT BY NEGOTIATION

Subpart H—Price Negotiation Policies and Techniques

§ 1003.804–1 [Amendment]

In Subpart H, Price Negotiation Policies and Techniques, delete the last sentence of § 1003.804–1.

PART 1004—SPECIAL TYPES AND METHODS OF PROCUREMENT

Part 1004 is changed to read as follows:

Subpart A—[Reserved]

Subpart B—[Reserved]

Subpart C—[Reserved]

Subpart D—[Reserved]

Subpart E—Procurement by Barter—Commodity Credit Corporation

CROSS REFERENCE: See Subpart E, Part 4 of this title.

PART 1006—FOREIGN PURCHASES

Subpart T—Offshore Procurement

In Subpart T:

§ 1006.2001 [Amendment]

1. Delete paragraph (c) of § 1006.2001.

§ 1006.2005 [Amendment]

2. Delete and reserve paragraph (b) of § 1006.2005.

PART 1007—CONTRACT CLAUSES

Subpart B—Clauses for Cost-Reimbursement Supply Contracts

§ 1007.204–19 [Amendment]

1. In Subpart B, add the following to § 1007.204–19: "See § 7.204–19 of this title."

Subpart C—Clauses for Fixed-Price Research and Development Contracts

§ 1007.304–6 [Deletion]

In Subpart C, delete § 1007.304–6.

Subpart D—Clauses for Cost-Reimbursement-Type Research and Development Contracts

§ 1007.404–5 [Deletion]

In Subpart D, delete § 1007.404–5.

PART 1010—BOND AND INSURANCE

Subpart A—Contract Bonds

In Subpart A:

§ 1010.102–52 [Amendment]

1. Delete last sentence of paragraph (a) in § 1010.102–52.

§ 1010.108–56 [Amendment]

2. Delete second sentence from end in § 1010.108–56.

PART 1013—GOVERNMENT PROPERTY

Subpart U—Adjustment of Discrepancies Incident to the Shipment of Government Property

§ 1013.2104–4 [Amendment]

In Subpart U, delete "(19)" in introduction of § 1013.2104–4.

PART 1052—PRE-AWARD SURVEYS

Subpart D—Management of the FCR

§ 1052.402–6 [Amendment]

In Subpart D, in § 1052.402–6, delete the reference "§ 1053.407–9(c)" and "§ 1053.407–9(b)."

PART 1054—CONTRACT ADMINISTRATION

Subpart I—Wage and Salary Acceptance

In Subpart I, revise § 1054.902 to read as follows:

§ 1054.902 Definition.

Section 15.205–6 of this title defines "wages and salaries" as used in this subpart.

§ 1054.903 [Amendment]

2. In § 1054.903 revise the parenthetical phrase to read: "(see § 15.205–6 of this title;".

PART 1057—REPORTS

Subpart KK—Financial Management Report

§ 1057.3703 [Amendment]

In Subpart KK, § 1057.3703(d), revise the references to read: "§§ 1007.204–52 and 1007.403–54 of this chapter."

[50 CFR Part 41]

FEDERAL AID TO STATES IN FISH AND WILDLIFE RESTORATION

Nondiscrimination in Employment and in Use of Facilities

Basis and purpose. Notice is hereby given that pursuant to the authority vested in the Secretary of the Interior by RS 161; 5 U.S.C. 22, as well as that contained in section 10 of the Federal Aid in Wildlife Restoration Act (50 Stat. 917; 16 U.S.C. 669i) and the Federal Aid in Fish Restoration Act (64 Stat. 430; 16 U.S.C. 777i) as amended, authorizing the Secretary to make rules and regulations for carrying out provisions of these Acts, it is proposed to amend 50 CFR, as set forth below.

Although the proposed amendments are exempt from the rule making requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. 1003), it is the policy of the Department of the Interior, whenever practicable, to afford the public an opportunity to participate in the rule making process. Accordingly, interested persons may submit written comments, suggestions, or objections to the Secretary of the Interior, Washington 25, D.C., within thirty days of the publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Sections 41.28 and 41.70 are amended to read as follows:

§ 41.28 Project agreements.

After the Secretary shall have approved the preliminary project statement and the plans, specifications, and estimates of cost, the mutual obligations to be undertaken by the cooperating agencies shall be evidenced by a project agreement to be executed between the State Fish and Game Department and the Secretary for each such project or project segment of a project. Each project agreement shall contain a nondiscrimination in employment provision as required by Executive Order 10557, September 3, 1954 (3 CFR 1954 Supp., page 69) as follows:

In connection with the performance of work under this contract, the contractor agrees not to discriminate against any employee or applicant for employment because of race, religion, color, or national origin. The aforesaid provision shall include, but not be limited to, the following: Employment, upgrading, demotion, or transfer; recruitment or recruitment advertising; layoff or termination; rates of pay or other forms of compensation; and selection for training, including apprenticeship. The contractor agrees to post hereafter in conspicuous places, available for employees and applicants for employment, notices to be provided by the contracting officer setting forth the provisions of the nondiscrimination clause.

The contractor further agrees to insert the foregoing provision in all subcontracts hereunder, except subcontracts for standard commercial supplies or raw materials.

§ 41.70 Project standards.

* * * * *

(g) The State Fish and Game Department and its employees, in the administration of any structure or other facility acquired or constructed under the Acts, shall not discriminate against any person because of race, religion, color, or national origin by refusing to furnish such person any accommodation, service, or privilege offered to or enjoyed by the general public, and shall not publicize the accommodations, services, or privileges in any manner that would directly or inferentially reflect upon or question the acceptability of the patronage of any person because of race, religion, color, or national origin. The State Fish and Game Department shall include and require compliance with a provision similar to the foregoing provision in any contract made with respect to the operations to be carried out hereunder.

[Docket Nos. AO–160–A22–R01 and AO–276–A2–R01]

MILK IN PHILADELPHIA, PA., AND WILMINGTON, DEL., MARKETING AREAS

Decision on Proposed Amendments to Tentative Marketing Agreements and to Orders

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, on October 22–23, 1959, pursuant to notice thereof issued on October 2, 1959 (24 F.R. 8117), and reopened at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, on November 23, 1959, pursuant to notice thereof which was issued November 5, 1959 (24 F.R. 9166).

Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at the hearing and the record thereof, the Deputy Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, on March 29, 1960 (25 F.R. 2769) filed with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, his recommended decision containing notice of the opportunity to file written exceptions thereto. Interested parties were given through June 1, 1960 to file exceptions, and at the request of a producer cooperative association, an additional period of September 2 through September 10, 1960. Because of the nature of exceptions and the extent of the changes deemed necessary to modify the findings and conclusions contained in the March 29 recommended decision, the Acting Deputy Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, on November 14, 1960, filed with the Hearing Clerk a revised recommended decision (25 F.R. 10939) containing notice of opportunity to file exceptions thereto.

The material issues on the record of the hearing relate to:

1. Revision of the Philadelphia and Wilmington Class I pricing provisions to update the base years of the various components of the formula index, to change the seasonality of such components, and to relate the Class I price to Class I prices in other Federally regulated marketing areas and to the value of milk for manufacturing uses. Also, to add a supply-demand adjuster provision to the Wilmington order.

2. Revision under the Wilmington order of the Class I, Class II, and producer butterfat differentials and the basic butterfat test of milk to which the established minimum prices apply.

Findings and conclusions. The following findings and conclusions on the material issues are based upon the evidence introduced at the hearing including the reopened hearing and the record thereof:

Issue No. 1. The Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and the Wilmington, Delaware, orders should be amended to (1) update the base period used in the components of the Class I formula index, (2) revise the seasonal adjustment of various components of the formula index, (3) revise the index of Class I sales, (4) change the Class I price schedule, (5) revise the supply-demand adjustment mechanism and include such a provision under the Wilmington order, and (6) add a provision limiting the level of the Class I prices under the Philadelphia and Wilmington orders in relation to the Midwestern manufacturing milk prices.

The Class I prices under the Philadelphia and Wilmington orders are currently determined by an economic-type formula initially adopted under the Philadelphia order on April 1, 1951. The formula was incorporated in the Wilmington order when that order was issued on June 1, 1956. The Wilmington order, however, provides for a basic price 15 cents less than the Philadelphia Class I price and no supply-demand factor is applicable. Class I prices under each order are established on a quarterly basis and, exclusive of movements in the formula index, the price decreases seasonally 40 cents on January 1 and April 1 and increases 40 cents on July 1 and October 1.

Since the formula was initially adopted it has been modified to accommodate changes made in the reporting of various components of the formula index and other provisions of the order. Specifically, the Philadelphia order was amended on June 11, 1952, to include the United States wholesale commodity price index as revised to a 1947–49 base period by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, United States Department of Labor. The Class I price schedule under the Philadelphia order was further amended effective on February 1, 1958, to reflect the change from pricing milk on 4.0 percent butterfat content to 3.7 percent butterfat content. Also, determinations have been necessary for both orders on several occasions resulting from a change in method of calculating the index of prices received by Pennsylvania farmers for farm products except dairy.

Proponents for revision of the Class I pricing provisions suggested that under the diverse economic conditions which have existed during the period from 1951 to 1959, the pricing formula has generally provided appropriate prices. They pointed out, however, that movements of the formula index in response to inappropriate seasonal adjustments in several of the formula components are disrupting the intended seasonality of pricing. They further suggested that during the past two years the Class I price resulting from the formula has been unduly low in relation to prices in surrounding fluid markets. It was proposed that these alleged defects be corrected by revision of the seasonality in three of the component indexes, adjustment of the Class I sales index to include sales from fluid milk plants under the Wilmington order and revision of the "bracket" system by which the formula index is related to a specific price schedule. It was further proposed that, as an attendant change, the base period be updated.

The seasonality of Midwestern condensery prices and Class I sales has changed since the adoption of the formula in 1951. There is no longer any significant seasonality reflected in the index of prices received by Pennsylvania farmers for farm products except dairy. The computed seasonal change for the period July 1956 to June 1959, indicates a variation of only 1.4 points, from 99.3 to 100.7 on a quarterly basis whereas under the present order the variation in seasonal adjustment provided is 8 points. In line with proponent's recommendations, it is concluded that the seasonal adjustment of this index should be discontinued. It is further concluded that seasonal adjustment of the indexes of Midwestern condensery prices and Class I sales should be revised to reflect seasonal variation characteristic in recent years. These changes will contribute to assuring intended seasonal changes in the Class I price prior to the recommended "tie-in" and supply-demand provisions discussed in subsequent findings and conclusions.

The Class I sales index has been one of the dominant components in movements of the pricing formula. Notwithstanding the institution of regulation in Wilmington on June 1, 1956, extension of the Philadelphia marketing area in 1958, and more recently, consolidation by certain handlers of their Philadelphia and Wilmington operations, the Class I sales index reflects a direct comparison of the volume of specified current sales by Philadelphia handlers with the volume of such sales in a base period (1936–40) preceding these changes. Modification of this index is essential to maintain the validity of the pricing formula. To avoid ambiguity which might attach to the term "Class I sales", the term "Class I disposition" should be used instead.

The Class I disposition index should be revised to include Class I disposition by regulated plants under the Philadelphia and Wilmington orders. Proponents, while recommending an expansion to include Wilmington order Class I disposition, contended that in-area disposition and only specified outside-area disposition should be included. They stated that out-of-area disposition other than to New Jersey and Delaware, and disposition outside the marketing areas by handlers having Class I disposition in the marketing areas of less than 5 percent of their total Class I milk, both tend to fluctuate to an extent that their inclusion results in erratic movements in the index.

The exclusion of outside disposition (on routes or otherwise) of handlers with less than 5 percent of their route disposition in the marketing areas will be some protection against fluctuations of the index due to erratic changes in out-of-area disposition. Adoption of this provision makes unnecessary the provision in the recommended decision of March 29, 1960, which would have excluded plants not regulated under the orders during the 3 months ending with the second month preceding the quarter for which prices are established. The provision would apply to plants distributing milk on routes in the marketing areas.

In view of producers' exceptions asking for the continued use of the weekly figures of the wholesale price index rather than the monthly figure so that the date of price announcement might continue to be on the 15th of the month and in view of the apparent close agreement between the weekly and monthly figures, it is concluded that the weekly figures should continue to be used.

The proposed revisions to a 1957–1958 base period can be achieved by using as "base quantities" the following:

United States wholesale commodity price index, 118.3; prices paid by Pennsylvania farmers for mixed dairy feed, $3.896; index of prices received by Pennsylvania farmers for farm products except dairy, 210.3; prices paid by Midwestern condenseries, $3.0673; and the average daily Class I sales of 2.9476 million pounds under Order Nos. 61 and 110.

Under the present orders, the formula index is based primarily on data reported for the one month immediately preceding the date of announcing Class I prices for the next quarter. Thus, the conditions reflecting one-month data determine the price for three months. Interested parties at the hearing recommended using Class I disposition data for the three months preceding the date of price announcement so as to minimize the effect that the varying number of days in a month has on the average daily figure used to compute the Class I disposition index.

It is appropriate under the quarterly pricing system to reflect quarterly changes in the components of the index by including the data for three months. Therefore, it is concluded that data for the five components of the formula index for three months be used in determining such index.

One of the major reasons that proponents offered for changing the level of Class I prices was to correct the abnormal seasonal changes in Class I prices that occurred during 1958 and 1959.

The Class I prices, both in 1958 and in 1959, decreased 20 cents rather than 40 cents from the first to the second quarter and increased 20 cents rather than 40 cents from the third to the fourth quarter. The intended seasonal changes between quarters are in 40-cent intervals. These recommended intervals can be achieved by revising the Class I price schedule to accommodate both the revised formula index and the proposed seasonal changes.

The level of the Class I prices under these orders should be related to all supply and demand conditions affecting the respective market. Some of these conditions are reflected in the various formula factors already discussed. It is possible, and to be expected, that occasionally other influences not reflected in the formula indexes will be important factors in the supply-demand situation. Such factors may include changes of a fundamental nature in the supply-demand situations in neighboring markets. Beyond such more immediate relationships, there is need to recognize inter-regional relationships. The importance of such inter-regional relationships as well as relationships to nearby markets is augmented by the increased efficiency of modern milk transportation methods. For this reason, it is necessary to anticipate a greater sensitivity in competitive relationships among milk supplies normally associated with separate markets.

Official notice is taken of the Class I prices and market statistics announced for the Philadelphia, Wilmington, Washington, D.C., Upper Chesapeake Bay and New York-New Jersey markets for periods referred to herein, including the months intervening since the hearing.

During the entire period since the Class I pricing formula was installed in 1951, the Philadelphia market has been served by an adequate supply. Also, the level of supply in relation to Class I disposition has resulted in a percentage of producer milk in Class I on an annual average marketwide basis which has varied in only a narrow range. In 1951 the weighted average percentages of producer milk used in Class I was 76.1. In following years the annual average utilization continued within 1 percent of this figure until 1955, when the percentage was 74.1, and continued very close to the 1955 level through 1958. In 1959, the annual average percentage was 74.3, although there was a discernible change in the relation of supply to sales in the latter part of the year.

Part of the Class I milk utilization of Philadelphia handlers is sales of Order 61 milk in the Wilmington marketing area. In recent years an increased portion of the Wilmington market has been so served. The portion of the market served by farmers who are producers under the Wilmington order, however, has continued to provide a relatively high utilization outlet for such producers. On an annual average basis, Wilmington producer milk was 83 percent Class I in 1957, 90 percent in 1958 and 92 percent in 1959. The weighted average percentages for the combined markets were 74.9 percent in 1957, 76.4 in 1958 and 75.2 percent in 1959.

During the latter part of 1959, production for the Philadelphia market increased substantially both in relation to the previous year and in relation to Class I disposition. Production at a level higher than a year earlier continued through the first half of 1960. In July and August 1960, however, the percentage of producer milk used in Class I was about the same as the year earlier, and in September 1960 it was higher than the year before.

Under Order No. 61 the annual average Class I prices in 1957, 1958 and 1959 were $5.49, $5.59 and $5.59, respectively, for milk of 3.7 percent butterfat content. Prices effective or announced for the four calendar quarters in 1960 also would produce an annual average of $5.59. Class I prices under the Wilmington order have been 15 cents less (for milk of 3.7 percent butterfat test) than Philadelphia order prices.

In the nearby markets of Upper Chesapeake Bay and Washington, D.C., which recently became regulated, Class I prices (for 3.7 milk f.o.b. the market) have been established to yield an annual average price of approximately $5.56. The New York-New Jersey Class I–A price for the years 1957, 1958 and 1959 averaged $5.72, $5.67 and $5.72, respectively (for 3.7 milk in the 201–210 mile zone). Since the present formula became fully effective in 1952 the Philadelphia f.o.b. market Class I price on an annual basis has averaged approximately 13 cents over the New York-New Jersey Class I–A (201–210 mile zone). This price difference ranged from 51 cents over the New York-New Jersey Class I–A price in 1952 to 23 cents under that price in 1957. In the two years 1958 and 1959, the New York-New Jersey Class I–A price has exceeded the Order No. 61 price by an average of approximately 10 cents.

Based on the above considerations, it is concluded that the Philadelphia order prices in recent years generally have been in conformance with a reasonable balance of supply-demand. It is concluded that the continuation of the annual average level of Class I price which has been effective under the order for the three years 1958–1960 would be an appropriate method of maintaining a balance of local supply and demand conditions and a reasonable relationship to other markets for the immediate future.

Exceptions to the revised recommended decision issued November 14, 1960 pointed out that the annual level of price for the three years 1958–1960 resulted from a formula which contained defective seasonal adjustment factors. It was further argued that had such seasonal adjustment factors been corrected earlier, the formula would have yielded an average annual level of Class I price of $5.69 for each of the three years.

This argument does not weaken the appropriateness of the Class I price of $5.59 adopted herein. This level is adopted on the basis of a full re-evaluation of factors in the current supply-demand situation. On this basis, the price is concluded to be more appropriate and suitable than the higher price requested. Although changes are being made in the seasonal factors of the component indexes which would have resulted in a higher level of prices during 1958–1960, this does not support the argument that the price in those years should have been the price produced with these adjustments. On the contrary the level of prices for the period as a whole was reasonable in the circumstances.

Exceptions received to the prior recommended decision of March 29, 1960 from producers and from some handlers raised objections to the proposed "tie-in" of the Philadelphia and Wilmington Class I prices to the Class I–A price under the New York-New Jersey Federal order. These objections were critical particularly of the relative levels of the prices under the Philadelphia and New York-New Jersey orders which would result from the tie-in, and of the procedural aspect that there could be changes in the level of prices under the Philadelphia and Wilmington orders as a result of amendments to the New York-New Jersey order.

It is important, however, to provide some safeguard in the Philadelphia and Wilmington orders to limit the action of the Class I price formulas to a range which will maintain reasonable coordination of prices on an inter-regional basis. Relating the Class I prices under these orders to Midwest condensery prices which are used as part of the basic price in many of the Federal milk orders will achieve this purpose. It must be recognized that milk from any source meeting the quality requirements for the markets is part of the potential supply. Thus, it is important to consider the relation of prices under these orders to the level of prices in Midwest areas where large reserve supplies exist.

The average price paid by the group of condenseries, which is used in Midwestern order markets as part of the basis price, is reported by the United States Department of Agriculture on the basis of milk containing 3.5 percent butterfat. For purposes of comparison, the Philadelphia order Class I price, which is on a 3.7 butterfat test, should be converted to a price for 3.5 test. To eliminate the effects of seasonal variation and temporary variations of a random nature, the comparison is made with 12-month average of the condensery prices for the period ending with the second month preceding the calendar quarter for which the Class I price is established.

A review of the relationship which has existed during the period in which the Class I formula has been in operation shows differences of the Philadelphia Class I price over the condensery price ranging from about $2.00 in the earliest period to $2.55 in early 1960. Since 1952 the average of the Midwest condensery price has declined from the annual level of $3.80 to $3.02 in 1960, with a somewhat higher level indicated for 1960. The annual level of $5.59 for the Philadelphia Class I price contemplated in this action would correspond to approximately $5.45 for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content. This exceeds the 12-month average of condensery prices for the period ending with September 1960 by $2.36.

It is necessary, considering the circumstances of adequate supply which have persisted in recent years under relatively stable price conditions, and in view of the need to maintain price relationships with other markets, that the condensery price tie-in be geared to a level of price close to the level contemplated for the market pursuant to this action. It is concluded that the so called "annual level" of the Philadelphia order Class I price, converted to a price for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat test, should not exceed the 12-month average condensery price by more than $2.60. The application of this limitation under the bracket system would require that the price be adjusted, if adjustment under this limitation were called for, in multiples of 20 cents so that the resulting price would not exceed the condensery price by more than $2.60.

It is intended that the 15-cent differential between the Philadelphia and Wilmington Class I prices shall be continued. It is necessary, therefore, that this 15-cent differential be reflected in the "tie-in" relationship to the condensery price. This can be done if the Wilmington price, prior to seasonal and supply-demand adjustment, is adjusted to a price bracket such that it does not exceed the 12-month average of the Midwestern condensery prices by more than $2.45.

Relating the prices to the condensery price in the above stated manner will permit the seasonal price adjustment to operate. The recommended "tie-in" provision also will permit the supply-demand adjustment factor to operate freely to increase or decrease the price in response to changed local supply-demand conditions in the Philadelphia and Wilmington markets even though the price so adjusted might exceed the Midwestern manufacturing price by more than the amount indicated above.

Some changes in the bracketing system are adopted. The change to a new base period of 1957–58 for the composite formula index will reduce it a little more than half of the old index value. The average of the index values on the old base was 207.36 during the two years 1957–58. The amount of index equivalent to a 20-cent price change should, accordingly, be reduced from 7.8 units of index to 3.8 index units. The current level of index should be made to correspond to a current level of price by centering an index bracket at such current index value. Producers have asked that the existing system of intervals between brackets be retained. The effect of such intervals is that a price change does not occur if the index moves out of a bracket and into such interval, but not into the next index bracket. In the price schedules adopted herein, the range of each bracket is two units of index and the interval between brackets is 1.8 units of index. The bracket representing the current price under Order No. 61 of $5.59 per hundredweight (annual basis) is centered at 100.

There was testimony that the supply-demand adjustment mechanism should be deleted from the Class I pricing formula on the grounds that the several components of the pricing formula tend to reflect conditions of supply and demand and that the provision has not influenced the price since its adoption and, therefore, is not necessary. Nevertheless, retention of the provision is desirable and necessary to provide assurance that should supplies increase or decrease relative to Class I sales to the extent that the market is generally in short or in long supply, the Class I price will be adjusted to reflect such conditions. There is merit, however, for revision of the supply-demand provision under the Philadelphia order and for use of the same device in the Wilmington order.

Under the present Philadelphia order this provision would adjust the Class I price upward or downward in any quarter when supplies during the 12-month period ending with the second preceding month were less than 115 percent of Class I sales or more than 137 percent, respectively. It is herein proposed that Class I sales and producer receipts, respectively, of the Wilmington and Philadelphia orders be combined in measuring the change in supply-sales relationship.

In exceptions by producers it was claimed that changes in the make-up of the market and changes in the allocation provisions of the order have resulted in handlers carrying larger supplies of producer milk. A basis for estimating to what extent this may be true has not been found in the record. It is likely that, currently, the level of supplies carried by handlers has been affected by the general increase in production per farm which has occurred in recent years. It is concluded, however, that the current supply-demand situation in the market does not call for a price adjustment from the level established by the modified formula index.

Exceptions from producers point to the fact that the revised supply demand computation including the milk subject to the Wilmington order, would result in a supply-sales ratio a fraction less than the 137 percent which under the current formula would call for a price reduction. In view of this, producers suggest that a certain latitude be allowed before the new supply demand adjustment becomes effective, and further suggest that this be accomplished by raising the percentage to 139 percent for a first downward price adjustment of 20 cents per hundredweight and 142 percent for a second 20-cent reduction.

In concluding that the new annual level of price should be established at $5.59 for Class I milk, the recent levels of supply in relation to sales were considered. This annual level of price is appropriate for current conditions and should not be modified by only slight changes in the supply-sales ratio. For this reason the percentages should be modified as requested by producers.

The supply-demand adjustment should provide a downward price adjustment of 20 cents per hundredweight if the supply-sales ratio exceeds 139 percent, and an additional downward adjustment of 20 cents if the ratio exceeds 142 percent. Price adjustments intended as a response to a short supply situation should similarly be in two steps. The standard percentages used for this purpose should be more in conformance with market experience than the present standard of 115 percent. The price should be adjusted upward 20 cents per hundredweight if the supply-sales ratio is less than 129 percent, and upward an additional 20 cents if the ratio is less than 126 percent. Although the higher of these percentages is slightly more than some of the percentages which resulted from the computations made under the order prior to 1955, some recognition is given here to the likelihood that when the market is relatively short, changes in market practices and changes in the order provisions referred to by producers which have taken place since such earlier periods may result in handlers carrying slightly more reserve in their own plants. This method of price adjustment in two steps of 20 cents each will permit a smoother readjustment of production to demand. The same adjustment should apply in both the Philadelphia and Wilmington markets.

Under the present Philadelphia order, receipts of plants which were not regulated during three consecutive months are not included in the computation of the receipts and sales percentages under the supply-demand provisions. This requirement was intended to exclude plants which are not associated in a major way with the market. It is concluded, however, that such a provision is not practical in light of the possible shifts by a handler of producers and sales from one of his plants to another. In some cases where one of these plants might come under the three-month exclusion provision (or urider any similar provision) the result of such exclusion could cause as much distortion in the supply-sales ratio as the provision may be intended to correct in other instances. Accordingly, the data to be included in the 12-month percentage should include producer receipts and Class I disposition at all producer milk plants (Order No. 61) and fluid milk plants (Order No. 110), excluding any duplication as the result of inter-order or inter-plant transactions.

It is provided also that the various formula index factors and supply-demand utilization percentages will be computed and announced for each month.

The provisions for announcement of the Class I price in § 961.22(j)(2) will call for announcement of the price for each calendar quarter on or before the 15th day of the month preceding the calendar quarter. For the months of October, November and December 1960, part of this provision has been suspended so that the market administrator is not required to announce the price for the January–March 1961 quarter until January 15. The attached order amendment contains a modification of this provision so that for the first quarter of 1961 the market administrator may announce the Class I price on or before January 5. Price announcements for subsequent calendar quarters would be made on or before the 15th day of the month preceding the calendar quarter. The same change should be made in announcement of the Wilmington order price.

Issue No. 2. Revision should be made in Class I, Class II and producer butterfat differentials as part of the procedure of establishing prices for milk on the basis of 3.7 percent butterfat content under the Wilmington order as in the Philadelphia order.

In view of the increasing inter-relationship of the Wilmington and Philadelphia markets in recent years, it is desirable that both markets use the same butterfat differentials and the same basic tests. At the time the Wilmington order was issued milk under both orders was priced at the same basic 4.0 percent test. Subsequently, on February 1, 1958, the Philadelphia order was amended to provide for pricing milk on the basis of 3.7 percent butterfat. It is concluded, therefore, that milk should be priced under the Wilmington order on the basis of 3.7 percent butterfat content. Moreover, the Class I, Class II and producer butterfat differentials should be the same under both orders. The Class I price schedule in the Wilmington order should be revised to maintain the price 15 cents below the Philadelphia Class I price.

Rulings on proposed findings and conclusions. Briefs and proposed findings and conclusions were filed on behalf of certain interested parties in the market. These briefs, proposed findings and conclusions, and the evidence in the record were considered in making the findings and conclusions set forth above. To the extent that the suggested findings and conclusions filed by interested parties are inconsistent with the findings and conclusions set forth herein, the requests to make such findings or to reach such conclusions are denied for the reasons previously stated in this decision.

General findings. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid orders and of the previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) The tentative marketing agreements and the orders as hereby proposed to be amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act;

(b) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to Section 2 of the Act, are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the marketing areas, and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreements and the orders as hereby proposed to be amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(c) The tentative marketing agreements and the orders as hereby proposed to be amended, will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and will be applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in, marketing agreements upon which a hearing has been held.

Rulings on exceptions. In arriving at the findings and conclusions, and the regulatory provisions of this decision, each of the exceptions received was carefully and fully considered in conjunction with the record evidence pertaining thereto. To the extent that the findings and conclusions, and the regulatory provisions of this decision are at variance with any of the exceptions, such exceptions are hereby overruled for the reasons previously stated in this decision.

Marketing agreements and orders. Annexed hereto and made a part hereof are four documents entitled, respectively, "Marketing Agreement Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, Marketing Area", "Order Amending the Order Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, Marketing Area", "Marketing Agreement Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Wilmington, Delaware, Marketing Area" and "Order Amending the Order Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Wilmington, Delaware, Marketing Area", which have been decided upon as the detailed and appropriate means of effectuating the foregoing conclusions.

It is hereby ordered, That all of this decision, except the attached marketing agreements, be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulatory provisions of said marketing agreements are identical with those contained in the orders as hereby proposed to be further amended by the attached order which will be published with this decision.

Referendum order; determination of representative period; and designation of referendum agent.

It is hereby directed that referendums be conducted to determine whether the issuance of the attached orders amending the orders, regulating the handling of milk in the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and Wilmington, Delaware, marketing areas, respectively, are approved or favored by the producers, as defined under the terms of the respective order as hereby proposed to be amended, and who, during the representative period, were engaged in the production of milk for sale within the respective marketing area.

The month of September 1960 is hereby determined to be the representative period for the conduct of each referendum.

L. S. Iverson is hereby designated agent of the Secretary to conduct such referenda in accordance with the procedure for the conduct of referenda to determine producer approval of milk marketing orders (15 F.R. 5177), such referenda to be completed on or before the 30th day from the date this decision is issued.

Issued at Washington, D.C. this 15th day of December 1960.

CLARENCE L. MILLER,
Assistant Secretary.

Order[1] Amending the Order Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, Marketing Area

§ 961.0 Findings and determinations.

The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and of the previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.) and the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order regulating the handling of milk in the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order as hereby amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act;

(2) The parity prices of milk, as determined pursuant to section 2 of the Act, are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the order as hereby amended are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest;

(3) The said order as hereby amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as, and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial or commercial activity specified in, a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered, that on and after the effective date hereof, the handling of milk in the Philadelphia marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as hereby amended, and the aforesaid order is hereby amended as follows:

[1] This order shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders have been met.

§ 961.22 [Amendment]

1A. In § 961.22(j) delete subparagraph (2) and substitute the following:

(2) The 15th day of the month preceding the start of each calendar quarter, the Class I price for such calendar quarter: Provided, That the Class I price for the calendar quarter of January, February and March 1961 shall be announced on or before January 5, 1961;

1B. In § 961.22(j) delete the word "and" at the end of subparagraph (4), change the period at the end of subparagraph (5) to a semicolon and add the word "and" and add a new subparagraph as follows:

(6) The 15th day of each month, the indexes computed pursuant to § 961.50 (a)(1) for the preceding month, the 12-month average of condensery prices for the period ending with the preceding month calculated in the manner described in § 961.50(a)(3), and the 12-month percentage utilization factor for the period ending with the preceding month calculated in the matter described in § 961.50(a)(4) and (5).

§ 961.50 [Amendment]

2. Delete § 961.50(a) and substitute therefor the following:

(a) Class I milk. For each month in each calendar quarter the price per hundredweight of Class I milk shall be the price computed for such quarter pursuant to subparagraphs (1) through (5) of this paragraph.

(1) Compute the indexes set forth in subdivisions (i) through (v) of this subparagraph for the 2d, 3d and 4th months preceding the first month of the pricing quarter and divide the sum of these indexes by 15. The result shall be the formula index.

(i) Compute an index of wholesale commodity prices, using a 1957–1958 base period, by dividing by 1.183, the average of the four latest weekly index figures (those available on the 15th day of the following month) of wholesale commodity prices as reported on a 1947–1949 base by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, United States Department of Labor.

(ii) Compute an index of prices paid by Pennsylvania farmers per hundredweight for 20 percent protein mixed dairy feed, using a 1957–1958 base period, by dividing by 0.03896 the monthly price for such feed published by the Pennsylvania Federal-State Crop Reporting Service.

(iii) Compute an index of prices received by Pennsylvania farmers for farm products except dairy, using a 1957–1958 base period, by dividing by 2.103 the monthly index published by the Pennsylvania Federal-State Crop Reporting Service.

(iv) Compute an index of prices paid for milk by selected Midwestern condenseries, using a 1957–1958 base period, by dividing by 0.030673 the monthly average prices paid by the following selected Midwestern condenseries;

(3) If the annual level of the price for any calendar quarter (the price indicated for the first and third quarters for the bracket in which the formula index computed pursuant to subparagraph (1) falls) adjusted to a price for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content (using the Class I butterfat differential computed for the second month preceding the quarter, pursuant to § 961.51) is greater than $2.60 over the simple average of prices of selected Midwestern condenseries (identified in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph) as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture for the 12-month period ending with the second month preceding the quarter for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat, the Class I price for such quarter shall be adjusted downward (in multiples of 20 cents) to a price so adjusted which will be within such $2.60 variance.

(4) For each month of any calendar quarter the Class I price shall be 20 cents more per hundredweight than the price prescribed in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, adjusted pursuant to subparagraph (3) of this paragraph, if receipts of milk from producers at producer milk plants under Order No. 61 and fluid milk plants under Order No. 110 during the 12-month period ending with the second preceding month are less than 129 percent of total Class I disposition by such plants in the same period, (excluding any duplication because of disposition between plants), and shall be an additional 20 cents more if the percentage of such receipts to such disposition is less than 126: Provided, That the price adjustment pursuant to this subparagraph shall not exceed an amount which will result in a Class I price equal to the Class I price for the same quarter of the preceding year plus 80 cents.

(5) For each month of any calendar quarter the Class I price shall be 20 cents less per hundredweight than the price prescribed in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, adjusted pursuant to subparagraph (3) of this paragraph, if receipts of milk from producers at producer milk plants under Order No. 61 and fluid milk plants under Order No. 110 during the 12-month period ending with the second preceding month are more than 139 percent of total Class I disposition by such plants in the same period (excluding any duplication because of disposition between plants), and shall be an additional 20 cents less if the percentage of such receipts to such disposition is more than 142: Provided, That the price adjustment pursuant to this subparagraph shall not exceed an amount which will result in a Class I price equal to the Class I price for the same quarter of the preceding year less 80 cents.

Order[1] Amending the Order Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Wilmington, Delaware, Marketing Area

§ 1010.0 Findings and determinations.

The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth in supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and of the previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.) and the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order regulating the handling of milk in the Wilmington, Delaware, marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order as hereby amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act;

(2) The parity prices of milk, as determined pursuant to section 2 of the Act, are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the order as hereby amended are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest;

(3) The said order as hereby amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manners as, and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial or commercial activity specified in, a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered, that on and after the effective date hereof, the handling of milk in the Wilmington marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as hereby amended, and the aforesaid order is hereby amended as follows:

§ 1010.22 [Amendment]

1A. In § 1010.22(j) delete subparagraph (2) and substitute the following:

(2) The 15th day of the month preceding the start of each calendar quarter, the Class I price for such calendar quarter: Provided, That the Class I price for the calendar quarter of January, February, and March 1961 shall be announced on or before January 5, 1961;

1B. In § 1010.22(j) add a new subparagraph as follows:

(4) The 15th day of each month, the indexes computed pursuant to § 1010.50 (a)(1) for the preceding month, the 12-month average of condensery prices for the period ending with the preceding month calculated in the manner described in § 1010.50(a)(3), and the 12-month percentage utilization factor for the period ending with the preceding month calculated in the manner described in § 1010.50(a) (4) and (5).

§ 1010.50 [Amendment]

2. Delete § 1010.50(a) and substitute therefor the following:

(a) Class I milk. For each month in each calendar quarter the price per hundredweight of Class I milk shall be the price computed for such quarter pursuant to subparagraphs (1) through (5) of this paragraph.

(1) Compute the indexes set forth in subdivisions (i) through (v) of this subparagraph for the 2d, 3d and 4th months preceding the first month of the pricing quarter and divide the sum of these indexes by 15. The result shall be the formula index.

(i) Compute an index of wholesale commodity prices, using a 1957–1958 base period, by dividing by 1.183, the average of the four latest weekly index figures (those available on the 15th day of the following month) of wholesale commodity prices as reported on a 1947–1949 base by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, United States Department of Labor.

[1] If the formula index is more than 120.0 or less than 80.0 this table shall be extended at the same rate as the increase or decrease in the preceding bracket.

(3) If the annual level of the price for any calendar quarter (the price indicated for the first and third quarters for the bracket in which the formula index computed pursuant to subparagraph (1) falls) adjusted to a price for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content (using the Class I butterfat differential computed for the second month preceding the quarter, pursuant to § 1010.51) is greater than $2.45 over the simple average of prices of selected Midwestern condenseries (identified in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph) as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture for the 12-month period ending with the second month preceding the quarter for milk of 3.5 percent, the Class I price for such quarter shall be adjusted downward (in multiples of 20 cents) to a price so adjusted which will be within such $2.45 variance.

(4) For each month of any calendar quarter the Class I price shall be 20 cents more per hundredweight than the price prescribed in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, adjusted pursuant to subparagraph (3) of this paragraph, if receipts of milk from producers at producer milk plants under Order No. 61 and fluid milk plants under Order No. 110 during the 12-month period ending with the second preceding month are less than 129 percent of total Class I disposition by such plants in the same period (excluding any duplication because of disposition between plants), and shall be an additional 20 cents more if the percentage of such receipts to such disposition is less than 126: Provided, That the price adjustment pursuant to this subparagraph shall not exceed an amount which will result in a Class I price equal to the Class I price for the same quarter of the preceding year plus 80 cents.

(5) For each month of any calendar quarter the Class I price shall be 20 cents less per hundredweight than the price prescribed in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, adjusted pursuant to subparagraph (3) of this paragraph, if receipts of milk from producers at producer milk plants under Order No. 61 and fluid milk plants under Order No. 110 during the 12-month period ending with the second preceding month are more than 139 percent of total Class I disposition by such plants in the same period (excluding any duplication because of disposition between plants), and shall be an additional 20 cents less if the percentage of such receipts to such disposition is more than 142: Provided, That the price adjustment pursuant to this subparagraph shall not exceed an amount which will result in a Class I price equal to the Class I price for the same quarter of the preceding year less 80 cents.

§ 1010.50 [Amendment]

3. Delete § 1010.50(b)(1) and substitute therefor the following:

(b) (1) Butterfat. Add all market quotations (using the midpoint of any weekly range as one quotation) of prices per 40-quart can of fresh sweet cream of bottling quality of 40 percent butterfat content, not including prices for cream carrying special municipal approvals, reported at Philadelphia for each week ending within the month by the United States Department of Agriculture, divide by the number of quotations, subtract $2.00 and divide by 9.19: Provided, That such butterfat value shall not be less than 3.7 times 120 percent of the average of the daily wholesale selling price for Grade A (92-score) butter at New York as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture for the month for which payment is to be made, less 18.0 cents.

§ 1010.51 [Deletion]

4. Delete § 1010.51 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 1010.51 Butterfat differential to handlers.

For milk containing more or less than 3.7 percent butterfat, the class prices for the month, calculated pursuant to § 1010.50, shall be increased or decreased, respectively, for each one-tenth of 1.0 percent variation in butterfat content by the amount calculated pursuant to § 1010.50(b)(1) divided by 37 and rounded to the nearest one-tenth cent.

5. Delete "4.0 percent" in §§ 1010.50 and 1010.71 (b) and (d), and substitute therefor "3.7 percent".

§ 1010.81 [Deletion]

6. Delete § 1010.81 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 1010.81 Butterfat differential to producers.

The applicable uniform prices to be paid each producer pursuant to § 1010.80 shall be increased or decreased, for each one-tenth of 1.0 percent which the average butterfat content of his milk is above or below 3.7 percent, respectively, at a rate determined by dividing by 37 the butterfat value computed pursuant to § 1010.50(b)(1) and rounded to the nearest full cent.

"MOSKVITCH" AUTOMOBILES FROM THE U.S.S.R.

Determination of No Sales at Less Than Fair Value

DECEMBER 9, 1960.

A complaint was received that "Moskvitch" automobiles from the U.S.S.R. were being sold in the United States at less than fair value within the meaning of the Antidumping Act of 1921.

I hereby determine that "Moskvitch" automobiles from the U.S.S.R. are not being, nor likely to be, sold at less than fair value within the meaning of section 201(a) of the Antidumping Act, 1921, as amended (19 U.S.C. 160(c)).

Statement of reasons. Importations have been limited to a few models used for display purposes. The importer has stated that he does not plan future importations.

This determination and the statement of reasons therefor are published pursuant to section 201(c) of the Antidumping Act, 1921, as amended (19 U.S.C. 160(c)).

[AA 643.3-A]

SHOEBOARD FROM THE UNITED KINGDOM

Determination of No Sales at Less Than Fair Value

DECEMBER 9, 1960.

A complaint was received that shoeboard from the United Kingdom was being sold in the United States at less than fair value within the meaning of the Antidumping Act of 1921.

I hereby determine that shoeboard from the United Kingdom is not being, nor likely to be, sold at less than fair value within the meaning of section 201(a) of the Antidumping Act, 1921, as amended (19 U.S.C. 160(a)).

Statement of reasons. Certain types of the shoeboard exported to the United States are identical to shoeboard sold for home consumption. As to these types, a comparison was made between purchase price and home market price. Other types were sold only for export to the United States and were not sold for home consumption or for export to countries other than the United States. As to the latter types, comparison was made between purchase price and constructed value. The comparison disclosed no sales for export to the United States at less than home market price or constructed value.

In calculating purchase price, deductions were made for shipping charges, ocean freight, United States duty, and, where involved, inland freight in the United States, agent's commission, and cash discount.

In calculating home market price, an addition was made for the difference in the cost of export packing.

This determination and the statement of reasons therefor are published pursuant to section 201(c) of the Antidumping Act, 1921, as amended (19 U.S.C. 160(c)).

[SEAL] A. GILMORE FLUES,
Acting Secretary of the Treasury.

SURVEYS IN MANUFACTURING AREA

Notice of Determination To Continue Surveys

In conformity with the Act of Congress approved August 31, 1954, 13 U.S.C. 181, and due notice having been published November 11, 1960 (25 F.R. 10781), pursuant to said Act, I have determined that the usual annual data to be derived from the surveys listed below are needed, as in former years, to aid the efficient performance of essential governmental functions and have significant application to the needs of the public and industry and are not publicly available from nongovernmental or other governmental sources.

Report forms in most instances furnishing data on shipments and/or production and in some instances on stocks, unfilled orders, orders booked, consumption, etc., will be required of all establishments engaged in the production of the items covered by the following list of surveys with the exception of the lumber production and stocks survey which will be conducted on a sample basis. The surveys have been arranged under major group headings shown in the revised Standard Industrial Classification Manual (1957 edition) promulgated by the Bureau of the Budget for the use of Federal statistical agencies.

Major Group 20—Food and Kindred Products

Salad dressings.

Major Group 22—Textile Mill Products

Stocks of wool (as of Jan. 1, 1961).
Cotton and synthetic woven goods finished.
Broad woven fabrics, blends and mixtures.
Knit cloth.
Woolen and worsted machinery activity.
Yarn production.

Major Group 23—Apparel and Other Finished Products Made From Fabrics and Similar Materials

Gloves and mittens.
Apparel.
Brassieres, corsets and allied garments.
Sheets, pillowcases and towels.

Major Group 24—Lumber and Wood Products, Except Furniture

Softwood plywood.
Softwood veneer.
Red Cedar shingles.
Lumber.

Major Group 26—Paper and Allied Products

Paper and board-detailed grade.

Major Group 28—Chemicals and Allied Products

Sulfuric acid.
Compressed and liquefied gases.
Inorganic chemicals.

Major Group 32—Stone, Clay and Glass

Pressed and blown glassware.

Major Group 33—Primary Metal Industries

Steel mill products.

Major Group 34—Fabricated Metal Products, Except Ordnance, Machinery and Transportation Equipment

Aluminum foil, converted.
Steel power boilers.
Heating and cooking equipment.
Mechanical stokers.

Major Group 35—Machinery, Except Electrical

Internal combustion engines.
Tractors.
Farm machines and equipment.
Vending machines.
Refrigeration equipment.
Office, computing and accounting machines.

Major Group 36—Electrical Machinery Equipment, and Supplies

Radios, television, and phonographs.

The following list of surveys represents annual counterparts of monthly, quarterly, and semi-annual surveys and will cover only those establishments which are not canvassed or do not report in the more frequent survey. Accordingly, there will be no duplication in reporting. The content of these annual reports will be identical with that of the monthly, quarterly, and semi-annual reports except for Construction Machinery which will additionally call for data on shipments of power cranes and shovels, concrete mixers, and attachments for contractors' off-highway type tractors.

Major Group 20—Food and Kindred Products

Flour milling products.
Confectionery products.

Major Group 22—Textile Mill Products

Man-made fiber, silk, woolen and worsted fabrics.
Finishing plant report—broad woven fabrics.
Piece goods inventories and orders.
Broad woven goods (cotton, wool, silk and synthetic).
Consumption of wool and other fibers, and production of tops and noils.

Major Group 24—Lumber and Wood Products, Except Furniture

Hardwood plywood (for sale).

Major Group 25—Furniture and Fixtures

Mattresses and bedsprings.

Major Group 26—Paper and Allied Products

Pulp, paper, and board.
Consumers of wood pulp.
Converted flexible packaging products.

Major Group 28—Chemicals and Allied Products

Superphosphates.
Paint, varnish, and lacquer.

Major Group 29—Petroleum Refining and Related Industries

Asphalt and tar roofing and siding products.

Major Group 31—Leather and Leather Products

Shoes and slippers.

Major Group 32—Stone, Clay and Glass

Glass containers.
Refractories.
Clay construction products.

Major Group 33—Primary Metal Industries

Nonferrous castings.

Major Group 34—Fabricated Metal Products, Except Ordnance, Machinery and Transportation Equipment

Plumbing fixtures.
Steel shipping barrels, drums and pails.
Commercial and home canning closures.
Metal cans.

Major Group 35—Machinery, Except Electrical Machinery

Farm pumps.
Fans, blowers, and unit heaters.

Major Group 36—Electrical Machinery, Equipment, and Supplies

Electric lamps.
Fluorescent lamp ballasts.

Major Group 37—Transportation Equipment

Complete aircraft and aircraft engines.
Backlog of orders for aircraft companies.
Aircraft propellers.

Also, the Annual Survey of Manufactures will be conducted similarly as in the past and will call for general statistical data such as employment, payroll, man-hours, capital expenditures, cost of materials consumed, etc., in addition to information on value of products shipped and quantity data for selected classes of products. This survey, while conducted on a sample basis, will cover all manufacturing industries.

A survey of Research and Development Costs will also be conducted again as an annual counterpart to the more detailed survey collected and compiled by the Bureau of the Census for the National Science Foundation. The data to be obtained by the Census under its mandatory authority will be limited to total research and development costs of work performed by the company, total cost of research and development work performed for the Federal Government, and, for comparative purposes, total net sales and receipts, and total employment of the company. As for all counterpart type surveys there will be no duplication since firms that furnish the equivalent data as part of the more detailed voluntary survey conducted for the National Science Foundation will not be asked to file the separate Census questionnaire.

The report forms will be furnished to firms included in these surveys and additional copies are available on request to the Director, Bureau of the Census, Washington 25, D.C.

I have, therefore, directed that annual surveys be conducted for the purpose of collecting the data hereinabove described.

ROBERT W. BURGESS,
Director, Bureau of the Census.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

[Docket Nos. 13338, 13870; FCC 60-1478]

DIXIE RADIO, INC., AND BOWYER, HARRY LLEWELLYN, JR.

Order Designating Applications for Consolidated Hearing on Stated Issues

In re applications of Dixie Radio, Inc., Brunswick, Georgia, requests: 790 kc, 500 w, DA, Day, Docket No. 13338, File No. BP-13854; Harry Llewellyn Bowyer, Jr., Brunswick, Georgia, requests: 790 kc, 500 w, Day, Docket No. 13870, File No. BP-12507; for construction permits.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D.C., on the 7th day of December 1960;

The Commission having under consideration the above-captioned and described applications;

It appearing that, except as indicated by the issues specified below, the above named applicants are legally, technically, financially, and otherwise qualified to construct and operate its instant proposal but that Harry Llewellyn Bowyer, Jr., may not be financially qualified; and

It further appearing that, pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the Commission, in a letter dated June 16, 1960, and incorporated herein by reference, notified the instant applicants, and any other known parties in interest, of the grounds and reasons for the Commission's inability to make a finding that a grant of any one of the applications would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity; and that a copy of the aforementioned letter is available for public inspection at the Commission's offices, and

It further appearing that the instant applicants filed timely replies to the aforementioned letter, which replies have not, however, entirely eliminated the grounds and reasons precluding a grant of the said applications and requiring an evidentiary hearing on the particular issues hereinafter specified; and

It further appearing that, Harry Llewellyn Bowyer, Jr., the applicant in BP-12507, plans to secure the cash needed to finance the proposed station through a bank loan and has submitted a loan commitment for $30,000, but that the terms of repayment and security have not been shown as required by Section III, paragraph 4(h) of the application form, and;

It further appearing that after consideration of the foregoing and the applicants' replies, the Commission is still unable to make the statutory finding that a grant of the applications would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity; and is of the opinion that the applications must be designated for hearing in a consolidated proceeding on the issues specified below;

It is ordered, That, pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the instant applications are designated for hearing in a consolidated proceeding, at a time and place to be specified in a subsequent Order, upon the following issues:

1. To determine the areas and populations which would receive primary service from the instant applicants and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

2. To determine the nature and extent of the interference, if any, that each of the instant proposals would cause to and receive from each other and all other existing standard broadcast stations, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to the areas and populations affected by interference from any of the instant proposals.

3. To determine whether the instant proposals would interfere with the existing stations below, or any other existing broadcast stations, and if so, the nature and extent of such interference, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

Proposal and existing station

BP-12507 WWBD, Bamberg, S.C.
790 kc, 1 kw, Day.
WLBE, Leesburg, Fla.
790 kc, 1 kw, 5 kw-LS, DA-N, U.

BP-13854 WLBE, Leesburg, Fla.
790 kc, 1 kw, 5 kw-LS, DA-N, U.

4. To determine whether the interference received by each instant proposal from any existing stations would affect more than ten percent of the population within its normally protected primary service area in contravention of § 3.28(c)(3) of the Commission rules and, if so, whether circumstances exist which would warrant a waiver of said section.

5. To determine, in order to establish the financial qualifications of Harry Llewellyn Bowyer, Jr., the terms of repayment and security to be given by him on the bank loan with which he proposes to finance his proposal herein.

6. To determine, on a comparative basis, which of the instant proposals would better serve the public interest, convenience and necessity in light of the evidence adduced pursuant to the foregoing issues and the record made with respect to the significant differences between the applicants as to:

(a) The background and experience of each having a bearing on the applicant's ability to own and operate its proposed station.

(b) The proposals of each of the applicants with respect to the management and operation of the proposed station.

(c) The programming service proposed in each of the said applications.

7. To determine, in the light of the evidence adduced pursuant to the foregoing issues which if either of the instant applications should be granted

It is further ordered, That Bamberg County Broadcasting Corporation and WLBE, Inc., licensee of Stations WWBD and WLBE, respectively, are made parties to the proceeding.

It is further ordered, That, to avail themselves of the opportunity to be heard, the applicants and parties respondent herein, pursuant to § 1.140 of the Commission rules, in person or by attorney, shall, within 20 days of the mailing of this order, file with the Commission in triplicate, a written appearance stating an intention to appear on the date fixed for the hearing and present evidence on the issues specified in this order.

It is further ordered, That, the issues in the above-captioned proceeding may be enlarged by the Examiner, on his own motion or on petition properly filed by a party to the proceeding, and upon sufficient allegations of fact in support thereof, by the addition of the following issue: To determine whether the funds available to the applicant will give reasonable assurance that the proposals set forth in the application will be effectuated.

cant's ability to own and operate its proposed station.

(b) The proposals of each of the applicants with respect to the management and operation of the proposed station.

(c) The programming service proposed in each of the said applications.

2. To determine, in the light of the evidence adduced pursuant to the foregoing issues which of the instant applications should be granted.

It is further ordered, That, in the event of a grant of the application of Eugene Broadcasters (File No. BP-12954), the construction permit shall contain a condition that the permittee shall be responsible for the installation and adjustment of suitable filter circuits, or any other equipment that may be necessary to prevent deleterious re-radiation or cross-modulation effects that may result between the proposed operation and Station KERG (1280 kc, 1 kw, 5 kw-LS, DA-N, U) Eugene, Oregon. In addition, the construction permit shall contain another condition that the permittee shall submit sufficient field intensity measurement data made on Station KERG before and after construction of the authorized antenna tower, to establish clearly that the construction has not seriously affected the radiation patterns of KERG.

It is further ordered, That, to avail themselves of the opportunity to be heard, the applicants herein, pursuant to § 1.140 of the Commission rules, in person or by attorney, shall, within 20 days of the mailing of this order, file with the Commission in triplicate, a written appearance stating an intention to appear on the date fixed for the hearing and present evidence on the issues specified in this order.

(WASK), Lafayette, Indiana, has: 1450 kc, 250 w, U, requests: 1450 kc, 250 w, 1 kw-LS, U, Docket No. 13880, File No. BP-13252; Indiana Broadcasting Corporation (WANE), Fort Wayne, Indiana, has: 1450 kc, 250 w, U, requests: 1450 kc, 250 w, 500 w-LS, U, Docket No. 13881, File No. BP-13768; for construction permits.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D.C., on the 7th day of December 1960;

The Commission having under consideration the above-captioned and described applications;

It appearing that, except as indicated by the issues specified below, each of the instant applicants is legally, technically, financially, and otherwise qualified to construct and operate its instant proposal; and

It further appearing that, pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the Commission, in a letter dated September 12, 1960, and incorporated herein by reference, notified the instant applicants, and any other known parties in interest, of the grounds and reasons for the Commission's inability to make a finding that a grant of any one of the applications would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity; and that a copy of the aforementioned letter is available for public inspection at the Commission's offices; and

It further appearing that the instant applicants filed timely replies to the aforementioned letter, which replies have not, however, entirely eliminated the grounds and reasons precluding a grant of the said applications and requiring an evidentiary hearing on the particular issues hereinafter specified; and

It further appearing that after consideration of the foregoing and the applicants' replies, the Commission is still unable to make the statutory finding that a grant of the applications would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity; and is of the opinion that the applications must be designated for hearing in a consolidated proceeding on the issues specified below;

It is ordered, That, pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the instant applications are designated for hearing in a consolidated proceeding, at a time and place to be specified in a subsequent Order, upon the following issues:

1. To determine the areas and populations which may be expected to gain or lose primary service from the proposed operation of Stations WMOH, WASK and WANE and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

2. To determine the nature and extent of the interference, if any, that each of the instant proposals would cause to and receive from each other and all other existing standard broadcast stations, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to the areas and populations affected by interference from any of the instant proposals.

3. To determine whether the instant proposals, as listed below, would involve objectionable interference with the following existing stations and proposals with which the given applicant was not timely filed, or any other existing standard broadcast stations, and if so, the nature and extent thereof, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations:

Proposal and existing station or proposal

BP-12869 (WMOH): WANE, Fort Wayne, Ind. 1450 kc, 250 w, U, Class IV. WASK, Lafayette, Ind. 1450 kc, 250 w, U, Class IV. BP-10824, Jeffersonville, Ind. 1450 kc, 250 w, U, Class IV.

BP-13252 (WASK): WANE. WAOV, Vincennes, Ind. 1450 kc, 250 w, U, Class IV. WMOH, Hamilton, Ohio. 1450 kc, 250 w, U. WCVS, Springfield, Ill. 1450 kc, 250 w, U, Class IV. WHFC, Cicero, Ill. 1450 kc, 250 w, U, Class IV. BP-12655 (WHFC). 1450 kc, 250 w, 1 kw-LS, U. BP-13161 (WCVS). 1450 kc, 250 w, 1 kw-LS, U.

BP-13768 (WANE): WASK. WIBM, Jackson, Mich. 1450 kc, 250 w, U, Class IV. WMOH. WPGW, Portland, Ind. 1440 kc, 500 w, DA-D, Class III. BP-12349 (WIBM). 1450 kc, 250 w, 1 kw-LS, U, Class IV.

4. To determine, in the light of Section 307(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, which of the instant proposals would best provide a fair, efficient and equitable distribution of radio service.

5. To determine, in the light of the evidence adduced pursuant to the foregoing issues which, if any, of the instant applications should be granted.

It is further ordered, That, the following named licensees of the stations indicated are made parties to the proceeding with respect to their existing operations:

Licensee and Station

Vincennes Sun Co., WAOV, Vincennes, Ind.
WPFA, Radio, Inc., WCVS, Springfield, Ill.
WHFC, Inc., WHFC, Cicero, Ill.
Booth Broadcasting Co., WIBM, Jackson, Mich.
Glenn West, WPGW, Portland, Ind.
Indiana Broadcasting Corp., WANE, Fort Wayne, Ind.
Lafayette Broadcasting, Inc., WASK, Lafayette, Ind.
The Fort Hamilton Broadcasting Co., WMOH, Hamilton, Ohio.

and that the following are made parties to the proceeding with respect to their proposed operations:

Applicants and Proposal

Thomas E. Jones and Keith L. Reising d/b as Northside Broadcasting Co., BP-10824, Jeffersonville, Ind.
WHFC, Incorporated, BP-12655 (WHFC), Cicero, Ill.
WPFA Radio, Inc., BP-13161 (WCVS), Springfield, Ill.
Booth Broadcasting Co., BP-12349 (WIBM), Jackson, Mich.

It is further ordered, That, in the event of a grant of any of the instant proposals, such grants shall contain the condition that permittee shall accept such interference as may be imposed by other existing Class IV stations in the event they are subsequently authorized to increase power to 1000 watts.

It is further ordered, That, to avail themselves of the opportunity to be heard, the applicants and parties respondent herein, pursuant to § 1.140 of the Commission rules, in person or by attorney, shall, within 20 days of the mailing of this order, file with the Commission in triplicate, a written appearance stating an intention to appear on the date fixed for the hearing and present evidence on the issues specified in this order.

It is further ordered, That, the issues in the above-captioned proceeding may be enlarged by the Examiner, on his own motion or on petition properly filed by a party to the proceeding, and upon sufficient allegations of fact in support thereof, by the addition of the following issue: To determine whether the funds available to the applicant will give reasonable assurance that the proposals set forth in the application will be effectuated.

FRANKLIN BROADCASTING CO., INC. (KMAR) ET AL.

Order Designating Applications for Consolidated Hearing on Stated Issues

In re application of Franklin Broadcasting Co., Inc. (KMAR), Winnsboro, Louisiana, has: 1570 kc, 500 w, Day, requests: 1570 kc, 1 kw, Day, Docket No. 13874, File No. BP-12937; John Anthony Lazarone and Irving Ward-Steinman d/b as Leesville Broadcasting Company (KLLA), Leesville, Louisiana, has: 1570 kc, 250 w, Day, requests: 1570 kc, 1 kw, Day, Docket No. 13875, File No. BP-13165; Yam Broadcasting Company, Incorporated, Opelousas, Louisiana, requests: 1570 kc, 250 w, Day, Docket No. 13876, File No. BP-13864.

As a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D.C., on the 7th day of December 1960;

The Commission having under consideration the above-captioned and described applications;

It appearing that, except as indicated by the issues specified below, each of the instant applicants is legally, technically, financially, and otherwise qualified to construct and operate its instant proposal; and

It further appearing that, pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the Commission, in a letter dated August 30, 1960, and incorporated herein by reference, notified the instant applicants, and any other known parties in interest, of the grounds and reasons for the Commission's inability to make a finding that a grant of any one of the applications would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity; and that a copy of the aforementioned letter is available for public inspection at the Commission's offices; and

It further appearing that the instant applicants filed timely replies to the aforementioned letter, which replies have not, however, entirely eliminated the grounds and reasons precluding a grant of the said applications and requiring an evidentiary hearing on the particular issues hereinafter specified; and

It further appearing that, by letters dated June 8, 1960, the applicants in BP-12937 (KMAR) and BP-13165 (KLLA) agree to accept any interference that may result between their respective proposals, and jointly petition for a waiver of § 3.28(c) of the Commission's rules, such agreement being contingent upon both applications receiving favorable consideration; but that said agreement cannot be considered valid until matters relating to § 3.28(c)(3) are adjudicated; and,

It further appearing that, by letter dated December 7, 1959, the licensee of Station KLLA, Leesville, Louisiana, protests the interference that may result to both its existing operation and its proposal (BP-13165) by the proposal of Yam Broadcasting Company, Incorporated (BP-13864); and

It further appearing that, by letter dated July 12, 1960, the Air Coordinating Committee, Regional Airspace Subcommittee disapproved the tower site proposal of the applicant in BP-13864 because of failure to respond to earlier correspondence advising of objections to said site; and

It further appearing that after consideration of the foregoing and the applicant's replies, the Commission is still unable to make the statutory finding that a grant of the applications would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity; and is of the opinion that the applications must be designated for hearing in a consolidated proceeding on the issues specified below:

It is ordered, That, pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the instant applications are designated for hearing in a consolidated proceeding, at a time and place to be specified in a subsequent Order, upon the following issues:

1. To determine the areas and populations which would receive primary service from the applicant in BP-13864 and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

2. To determine the areas and populations which may be expected to gain or lose primary service from the proposed operation of Stations KMAR and KLLA and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

3. To determine the nature and extent of the interference, if any, that each of the instant proposals would cause to and receive from each other and all other existing standard broadcast stations, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to the areas and populations affected by interference from any of the instant proposals.

4. To determine whether the instant proposals, as listed below, would involve objectionable interference with the stations similarly listed, or any other existing standard broadcast stations, and if so, the nature and extent thereof, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

Proposal and existing station

BP-12397 (KMAR): KLLA, Leesville, La. 1570 kc, 250 w., Day, II.
BP-13165 (KLLA): KMAR, Winnsboro, La. 1570 kc, 500 w, Day, II.
BP-13864: KLLA, Leesville, La.

5. To determine whether the interference received by each instant proposal from any of the other proposals herein and any existing stations would affect more than ten percent of the population within its normally protected primary service area in contravention of §3.28(c)(3) of the Commission rules and, if so, whether circumstances exist which would warrant a waiver of said section.

6. To determine whether the antenna system proposed by the applicant in BP-13864 would constitute a hazard to air navigation.

7. To determine, in the light of section 307(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, which of the instant proposals would best provide a fair, efficient and equitable distribution of radio service.

8. To determine, in the light of the evidence adduced pursuant to the foregoing issues, whether a grant of the instant application would serve the public interest, convenience and necessity.

It is further ordered, That, Franklin Broadcasting Co., Inc., and Leesville Broadcasting Company, licensees of Station KMAR and KLLA, are made parties to the proceeding with respect to their existing operations.

It is further ordered, That, to avail themselves of the opportunity to be heard, the applicants herein, pursuant to § 1.140 of the Commission rules, in person or by attorney, shall, within 20 days of the mailing of this order, file with the Commission in triplicate, a written appearance stating an intention to appear on the date fixed for the hearing and present evidence on the issues specified in this order.

It is further ordered, That, the issues in the above-captioned proceeding may be enlarged by the Examiner, on his own motion or on petition properly filed by a party to the proceeding, and upon sufficient allegations of fact in support thereof, by the addition of the following issue: To determine whether the funds available to the applicant will give reasonable assurance that the proposals set forth in the application will be effectuated.

HENNEPIN BROADCASTING ASSOCIATES AND ROBERT E. SMITH

Order Scheduling Hearing

In re applications of Albert S. Tedesco and Patricia W. Tedesco, d/b as Hennepin Broadcasting Associates, Minneapolis, Minnesota, Docket No. 13673, File No. BP-12416; Robert E. Smith, River Falls, Wisconsin, Docket No. 13674, File No. BP-13339; for construction permits.

The Hearing Examiner having under consideration (1) his order released November 21, 1960 (FCC 60M-1981) rescheduling the commencement of hearing in the above-entitled proceeding to December 12, 1960; (2) a public notice of the Commission released December 7, 1960 (Mimeo. 97638) indicating that by Memorandum Opinion and Order it had granted a petition by applicant Hennepin Broadcasting Associates to enlarge the issues herein to include determination of the financial and other qualifications of applicant Smith (the said Memorandum Opinion not having become presently available for public distribution); (3) the fact that applicant Hennepin's petition for enlargement has been on file since August 8, 1960; (4) the fact that on December 12, 1960, there was a heavy snowstorm in Washington, D.C. necessitating the closing of Federal Office buildings except for essential personnel; and (5) discussions held off the record at a conference of counsel for applicants Smith and Hennepin and the Commission's Broadcast Bureau at the Hearing Examiner's office December 13, 1960, relative to postponement of the hearing in view of the circumstances outlined in items (1) through (4) above;[1]

It appearing that at the conference held at the Examiner's office December 13 counsel for Smith stated that he proposed to take depositions as part of his direct case under the new issues added by the Commission and that this would require realistically that the hearing be postponed until early in February since the depositions would have to be taken during the early part of January and allowance would have to be made for transcribing and transmitting them to Washington, D.C.;

It appearing further that all counsel agreed to the reasonableness of the dates to be prescribed hereinafter and that the Examiner made it clear, and repeats once again herein, (1) that it is expected there will be no further delays in the commencement and progress of the hearing; (2) that if depositions are not received at the Commission's offices by the date herein prescribed applicant Smith will run a definite risk of being defaulted in the event their late receipt would operate to impede the progress of the hearing; and (3) that it is expected that every effort will be made during the time limits herein afforded to forestall further delays for the purpose of getting possible rebuttal evidence into the record;[2]

It is ordered, This 13th day of December 1960, that the hearing, cancelled by virtue of the snowstorm mentioned above, is hereby rescheduled to commence Monday, February 13, 1961, at the Commission's offices, Washington, D.C.; and

It is ordered further, That all exhibit material to be offered as part of either applicant's direct case (including rebuttal engineering not already exchanged, if any) is to be exchanged among the parties, with copies to the examiner, not later than February 3, 1961, and that the deadline date for receipt of depositions at the Commission's offices is also established as February 3.

Released: December 14, 1960.

[1] It is also noted that by order released December 9, 1960 (FCC 60M-2005) the Chief Hearing Examiner dismissed with prejudice a third application consolidated in this proceeding, that of Crystal Broadcasting Company, and that this action likewise alters the complexion of this proceeding from that contemplated originally at the time pre-hearing conferences were held.

[2] While counsel agreed that as of the moment no further prehearing conference need be held in this case, it is expected that if it subsequently appears a useful purpose may be served thereby, e.g., in order to place on the record stipulations which would have the effect of shortening the hearing, any of the parties may request the scheduling of such conference informally.

L. M. HUGHEY (WTWB) AND SUGARLAND BROADCASTING CO.

Order Designating Applications for Consolidated Hearing on Stated Issues

In re applications of: L. M. Hughey (WTWB), Auburndale, Florida, has: 1570 kc, 1 kw, Day, requests: 1570 kc, 5 kw, Day, Docket No. 13872, File No. BP-11777; Sugarland Broadcasting Company, Okeechobee, Florida, requests: 1570 kc, 1 kw, Day, Docket No. 13873, File No. BP-12513; for construction permits.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D.C., on the 7th day of December 1960;

The Commission having under consideration the above-captioned and described applications;

It appearing that, except as indicated by the issues specified below, each of the applicants herein is legally, technically, financially, and otherwise qualified to construct and operate its instant proposal; and

It further appearing that, pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the Commission, in a letter dated September 14, 1960, and incorporated herein by reference, notified the instant applicants, and any other known parties in interest, of the grounds and reasons for the Commission's inability to make a finding that a grant of any one of the applications would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity; and that a copy of the aforementioned letter is available for public inspection at the Commission's offices; and

It further appearing that, the instant applicants filed timely replies to the aforementioned letter, which replies have not, however, entirely eliminated the grounds and reasons precluding a grant of the said applications and requiring an evidentiary hearing on the particular issues hereinafter specified; and

It further appearing that, pursuant to the aforementioned section 309(b) letter, L. M. Hughey was notified by reference to Commission's Public Notice dated June 18, 1957, that his application requesting an increase in daytime power from 1000 watts to 5000 watts on a Mexican Class I-A clear channel, although accepted, would be held in a pending status until ratification of the United States/Mexican Agreement which would permit such operation by American stations; that as of the date of this Order, however, the Mexican Government has not ratified such Agreement; and

It further appearing that, after consideration of the foregoing and the applicants' replies, the Commission is still unable to make the statutory finding that a grant of the applications would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity; and is of the opinion that the applications must be designated for hearing in a consolidated proceeding on the issues specified below;

It is ordered, That, pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the instant applications are designated for hearing in a consolidated proceeding, at a time and place to be specified in a subsequent Order, upon the following issues:

1. To determine the areas and populations which would receive primary service from the proposal of Sugarland Broadcasting Company and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

2. To determine the areas and populations which may be expected to gain or lose primary service from the proposed operation of Station WTWB and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

3. To determine the nature and extent of the interference, if any, that each of the instant proposals would cause to and receive from each other and all other existing standard broadcast stations, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to the areas and populations affected by interference from any of the instant proposals.

4. To determine whether interference received from the proposal of L. M. Hughey would affect more than ten percent of the population within the normally protected primary service area of the instant proposal of Sugarland Broadcasting Company, in contravention of § 3.28(c)(3) of the Commission rules, and, if so, whether circumstances exist which would warrant a waiver of said section.

5. To determine, in the light of section 307(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, which of the instant proposals would better provide a fair, efficient and equitable distribution of radio service.

6. To determine, in the light of the evidence adduced pursuant to the foregoing issues which of the instant applications should be granted.

It is further ordered, That, if the proposal of L. M. Hughey is favored, it will be held in hearing status without final action until ratification and entry into force of the U.S./Mexican Agreement, 1957 (Public Notice 46545, June 18, 1957) and, in the event that the reasons for designating said application for hearing are removed before the hearing proceeding is concluded, the application will be removed from hearing status and held without further action pending ratification and entry into force of the U.S. Mexican Agreement, 1957.

It is further ordered, That, to avail themselves of the opportunity to be heard, the applicants, pursuant to § 1.140 of the Commission rules, in person or by attorney, shall, within 20 days of the mailing of this order, file with the Commission, in triplicate, a written appearance stating an intention to appear on the date fixed for the hearing and present evidence on the issues specified in this order.

It is further ordered, That, the issues in the above-captioned proceeding may be enlarged by the Examiner, on his own motion or on petition properly filed by a party to the proceeding, and upon sufficient allegations of fact in support thereof, by the addition of the following issue: To determine whether the funds available to the applicant will give reasonable assurance that the proposals set forth in the application will be effectuated.

"JET" BROADCASTING CO., INC. (WJET) ET AL.

Order Designating Applications for Consolidated Hearing on Stated Issues

In re applications of The "JET" Broadcasting Co., Inc. (WJET), Erie, Pennsylvania, has: 1400 kc, 250 w, U, requests: 1400 kc, 250 w, 1 kw-LS, U, Docket No. 13884, File No. BP-12188; WBNY, Incorporated (WBNY), Buffalo, New York, has: 1400 kc, 250 w, U, requests: 1400 kc, 250 w, 1 kw-LS, U, Docket No. 13885, File No. BP-13285; Lake Shore Broadcasting Company, Inc. (WDOE), Dunkirk, New York, has: 1410 kc, 500 w, DA-N, U, requests: 1410 kc, 500 w, 1 kw-LS, DA-N, U, Docket No. 13886, File No. BP-13300; for construction permits.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D.C., on the 7th day of December 1960;

The Commission having under consideration the above-captioned and described applications;

It appearing that, except as indicated by the issues specified below, each of the instant applicants is legally, technically, financially, and otherwise qualified to construct and operate its instant proposal; and

It further appearing that, pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the Commission, in a letter dated August 12, 1960, and incorporated herein by reference, notified the instant applicants, and any other known parties in interest, of the grounds and reasons for the Commission's inability to make a finding that a grant of any one of the applications would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity; and that a copy of the aforementioned letter is available for public inspection at the Commission's offices; and

It further appearing that the instant applicants filed timely replies to the aforementioned letter, which replies have not, however, entirely eliminated the grounds and reasons precluding a grant of the said applications and requiring an evidentiary hearing on the particular issues hereinafter specified; and

It further appearing, that, Lake Shore Broadcasting Co., Inc., licensee of Station WDOE, requests a waiver of § 3.28(c) of the Commission's rules; and

It further appearing that in a letter and supplemental engineering affidavit received August 29, 1960, in support of a request for waiver of § 3.188(d) of the Commission's rules, WBNY, Incorporated, licensee of Station WBNY, contends that to provide satisfactory nighttime service to the City of Buffalo, an antenna site would have to be in the central business area, which would require a rooftop site, or be located in a residential area close to the center of the city. The applicant further states that the present centralized location allows much better nighttime interference-free coverage of the city, and that the use of separate sites for day and night operation would place an unnecessary burden on the station. However, it has not been determined whether circumstances warrant such a waiver; and

It further appearing that by amendment received September 8, 1960, which amendment contained engineering data of WJET indicating that the total maximum interference which the instant proposal would receive, even though the proposals of WDOE and WBNY were both granted, would involve 11,070 persons or 5.11 percent of the population within the proposed 0.5 mv/m service area, thereby complying with § 3.28(c)(3) of the Commission's rules; and

It further appearing that after consideration of the foregoing and the applicants' replies, the Commission is still unable to make the statutory finding that a grant of the applications would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity; and is of the opinion that the applications must be designated for hearing in a consolidated proceeding on the issues specified below;

It is ordered, That, pursuant to § 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the instant applications are designated for hearing in a consolidated proceeding, at a time and place to be specified in a subsequent order, upon the following issues:

1. To determine the areas and populations which may be expected to gain or lose primary service from the proposed operation of Stations WDOE, WBNY, and WJET, and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

2. To determine the nature and extent of the interference, if any that each of the instant proposals would cause to and receive from each other and all other existing standard broadcast stations, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to the areas and populations affected by interference from any of the instant proposals.

3. To determine whether the instant proposal of WJET would cause objectionable interference to Stations WBNY, Buffalo, New York and WDOE, Dunkirk, New York, or any other existing standard broadcast stations, and if so, the nature and extent thereof, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

4. To determine whether the instant proposal of WDOE would cause objectionable interference to Stations WBNY, Buffalo, New York and WJET, Erie, Pennsylvania, or any other existing standard broadcast stations, and, if so, the nature and extent thereof, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

5. To determine whether the instant proposal of WBNY would cause objectionable interference to Stations WDOE, Dunkirk, New York and WJET, Erie, Pennsylvania, or any other existing standard broadcast stations, and, if so, the nature and extent thereof, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

6. To determine whether the interference received by the proposal of Station WDOE from any of the other proposals herein and any existing stations would affect more than ten percent of the population within its normally protected primary service area in contravention of § 3.28(c)(3) of the Commission rules and, if so, whether circumstances exist which would warrant a waiver of said section.

7. To determine whether the proposed operations of WJET and WBNY would be in contravention of § 3.188(d) of the Commission rules with particular regard to their proposals to operate with rooftop antennas and, if so, whether circumstances exist which would warrant a waiver of said section.

8. To determine, in the light of the evidence adduced pursuant to the foregoing issues, which, if any, of the instant applications should be granted.

It is further ordered, That The Jet Broadcasting Co., Inc., WBNY, Incorporated, and Lake Shore Broadcasting Company, Inc., licensees of Stations WJET, WBNY, and WDOE, respectively, are made parties to the proceeding as to their existing operations.

It is further ordered, That, in the event of a grant of either the WBNY or the WJET proposals, such grant(s) shall contain the condition that permittee shall accept such interference as may be imposed by other existing Class IV stations in the event they are subsequently authorized to increase power to 1000 watts.

It is further ordered, That, to avail themselves of the opportunity to be heard, the applicants, pursuant to § 1.140 of the Commission rules, in person or by attorney, shall within 20 days of the mailing of this order, file with the Commission in triplicate, a written appearance stating an intention to appear on the date fixed for the hearing and present evidence on the issues specified in this order.

It is further ordered, That, the issues in the above-captioned proceeding may be enlarged by the Examiner, on his own motion or on petition properly filed by a party to the proceeding, and upon sufficient allegations of fact in support thereof, by the addition of the following issue: To determine whether the funds available to the applicant will give reasonable assurance that the proposals set forth in the application will be effectuated.

In re applications of: John Laurino, Waynesboro, Virginia, requests 970 kc, 500 w, Day, Docket No. 13891, File No. BP-13428; Radio Danville, Incorporated (WDTI), Danville, Virginia, has 970 kc, 500 w, Day, requests 970 kc, 1 kw, Day, Docket No. 13892, File No. BP-13618; Music Productions, Incorporated, Waynesboro, Virginia, requests 970 kc, 500 w, Day, Docket No. 13893, File No. BP-13714; James J. Williams, Waynesboro, Virginia, requests 970 kc, 500 w, Day, Docket No. 13894, File No. BP-13746; Samuel J. Cole and J. R. Mims, Sr., d/b as Blue Ridge Broadcasters, Luray, Virginia, requests 970 kc, 500 w, Day, Docket No. 13895, File No. BP-13753; for construction permits.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D.C., on the 7th day of December 1960;

The Commission having under consideration the above-captioned and described applications;

It appearing, that, except as indicated by the issues specified below, the instant applicants are legally, technically, and otherwise qualified; that Radio Danville, Incorporated is financially qualified; but that, John Laurino, Music Productions, Incorporated, James J. Williams and Samuel J. Cole and J. R. Mims, Sr., d/b as, Blue Ridge Broadcasters may not be financially qualified to construct and operate their instant proposals; and

It further appearing, that, pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the Commission, in a letter dated April 7, 1960, and incorporated herein by reference, notified the instant applicants and any other known parties in interest, of the grounds and reasons for the Commission's inability to make a finding that a grant of any of the applications would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity; and that a copy of the aforementioned letter is available for public inspection at the Commission's offices; and

It further appearing, that the instant applicants filed timely replies to the aforementioned letter, which replies have not, however, entirely eliminated the grounds and reasons precluding a grant of the said applications and requiring an evidentiary hearing on the particular issues as hereinafter specified; and in which the applicants stated that they would appear at a hearing on the instant applications; and

It further appearing, that, by the above-mentioned letter of April 7, 1960, John Laurino was notified that it did not appear that he had the necessary financial ability to construct and operate his instant proposal and in addition, to supply the funds necessary to meet his partnership commitment in the application for Chester, Virginia, (BP-13752); that the said letter further requested information regarding a purported bank loan of $10,000 for use in the Chester application and whether or not this amount was included in his showing of cash and liquid assets available; that in his reply to this letter, Mr. Laurino filed an amendment to his proposal which showed only cash or identifiable liquid assets available in the amount of $16,800; listed $25,000 as the market value of bonds and securities, but failed to show that they were readily convertible to cash and failed to give any further information in regard to the $10,000 loan for the Chester proposal; and therefore, in light of the fact that Mr. Laurino failed to show that his $25,000 in bonds and securities were readily marketable, that a valid $10,000 loan commitment was outstanding with respect to the Chester proposal, and that the loan, if outstanding was not included in the $16,800 cash and liquid assets shown in the aforementioned amendment, it cannot be determined at this time that Mr. Laurino is financially qualified; and

It further appearing, that, Music Productions, Incorporated was notified by letter of April 7, 1960, that its deferred credit agreement was unacceptable as submitted and that its principal stockholder, Robert Rogers, failed to show current and liquid assets sufficient to meet his $30,000 loan commitment to the applicant; by amendment dated May 17, 1960, the instant applicant submitted a new deferred credit agreement showing a net credit of $12,450 and a purported balance sheet of Mr. Rogers which did not clearly set forth sufficient cash or liquid assets to meet his loan commitment to the applicant; that even if Mr. Rogers had demonstrated his ability to meet the loan commitment it could not presently be determined that the applicant is financially qualified, inasmuch as, the total cash which would then have been available to the applicant amounts to only $42,954 whereas Music Production's capital requirements to construct and operate its proposal for a reasonable period of time is approximately $44,500; and

It further appearing, that by the above-mentioned letter of April 7, 1960, James J. Williams was notified that his balance sheet failed to reveal sufficient cash or liquid assets to construct and operate, for a reasonable period of time, the instant proposal and his other proposal (BP-11148), which is presently in hearing; and that the said Mr. Williams has failed to file any additional information in response to the said Commission letter; and

It further appearing, that, the partnership of Samuel J. Cole and J. R. Mims, Sr., d/b as Blue Ridge Broadcasters was notified by the said letter of April 7, 1960, that they had not shown sufficient cash or liquid assets to construct and operate their proposal; that in reply to the said letter additional data was submitted which shows that Mr. Cole has sufficient cash or liquid assets to meet his 75 percent partnership commitment; but that the said reply failed to show that Mr. Mims had sufficient cash or liquid assets to meet his 25 percent partnership commitment; and

It further appearing, that, by the said letter of April 7, 1960, Music Productions, Incorporated was apprised that section 2, Article V of its bylaws provides that the President must be selected from among the directors, and since section II, Table I of the application form indicated that the President was not a director, an explanation was requested; that the applicant responded by amending its application thus making the President the fourth director; however, section 1, Article iii provides for a total of only three directors; and

It further appearing that by letter received April 29, 1960, Radio Danville, Incorporated (WDTI) informed the Commission that it would accept a grant conditioned upon acceptance of interference from whichever of the three Waynesboro applications that were granted; and that WDTI would not cause interference to the WPET proposal (BP-11742), however, no interference study was submitted; and therefore WPET, Inc. will be made a party to the instant proceeding with respect to its proposed operation; and

It further appearing that the Times-World Corporation (WDBJ), by letter received April 25, 1960, requested a hearing with regard to the WDTI application (BP-13618) on the ground that objectionable interference would be caused to its existing operation; and

It further appearing that the Commission is of the opinion that a hearing is necessary with regard to the WDTI application because of interference to Station WDBJ; and

It further appearing that after consideration of the foregoing and the applicants' replies, the Commission is still unable to make the statutory finding that a grant of the applications would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity; and is of the opinion that the applications must be designated for hearing in a consolidated proceeding on the issues specified below;

It is ordered, That, pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the instant applications are designated for hearing in a consolidated proceeding, at a time and place to be specified in a subsequent Order, upon the following issues:

1. To determine the areas and populations which would receive primary service from each of the above-captioned new proposals and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

2. To determine the areas and populations which may be expected to gain or lose primary service from the proposed operation of Station WDTI and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

3. To determine the nature and extent of the interference, if any, that each of the instant proposals would cause to and receive from each other and all other existing standard broadcast stations, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to the areas and populations affected by interference from any of the instant proposals.

4. To determine whether the instant proposal of Station WDTI would cause objectionable interference to Station WDBJ, Roanoke, Virginia and BP-11742 (WPET), Greensboro, North Carolina, or any other existing standard broadcast stations, and, if so, the nature and extent thereof, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

5. To determine whether the interference received by each instant proposal from any of the other proposals herein and any existing stations would affect more than ten percent of the population within its normally protected primary service area in contravention of § 3.28(c)(3) of the Commission rules and, if so, whether circumstances exist which would warrant a waiver of said section.

6. To determine, in order to establish the financial qualifications of the applicant John Laurino, whether he has a bank loan of $10,000 for use in his Chester, Virginia proposal. In the event it is determined that such a loan is available to Mr. Laurino, whether it was excluded as part of his cash and liquid asset showing of $16,800 with respect to the instant proposal; and whether the bonds and other securities listed by Mr. Laurino with a market value of $25,000 are readily marketable.

7. To determine whether Music Productions, Incorporated, and James J. Williams are financially qualified to construct and operate their proposed stations.

8. To determine, in order to establish the financial qualifications of the partnership of Samuel J. Cole and J. R. Mims, Sr., d/b as Blue Ridge Broadcasters, whether J. R. Mims, Sr., d/b has sufficient cash or liquid assets to meet his 25 percent partnership commitment.

9. To determine whether the number of directors composing the Board of Directors of Music Productions, Inc., is in accordance with its bylaws.

10. To determine in the light of section 307(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, whether the proposal for Danville, Virginia or Luray, Virginia, or one of the proposals for Waynesboro, Virginia would best provide a fair, efficient and equitable distribution of radio service.

11. To determine, in the event it is concluded pursuant to the foregoing issue that one of the proposals for Waynesboro, Virginia, should be favored, which of the proposals of John Laurino, Music Productions, Inc., or James J. Williams would best serve the public interest, convenience and necessity in the light of the evidence adduced under the issues herein and the record made with respect to the significant differences between the said applicants as to:

(a) The background and experience of each having a bearing on the applicant's ability to own and operate the proposed standard broadcast station.

(b) The proposal of each with respect to the management and operation of the proposed station.

(c) The programming services proposed in each of the said applications.

12. To determine, in the light of the evidence adduced pusuant to the foregoing issues which, if any, of the instant applications should be granted.

It is further ordered, That the Times-World Corp., Licensee of Station WDBJ, Roanoke, Virginia, is made a party to the proceeding with respect to its existing operation and that WPET, Inc. licensee of station WPET, Greensboro, North Carolina, is made a party with respect to its proposed operation (File No. BP-11742).

It is further ordered, That, to avail themselves of the opportunity to be heard, each of the instant applicants and parties respondent herein, pursuant to § 1.140 of the Commission rules, in person or by attorney, shall, within 20 days of the mailing of this Order, file with the Commission in triplicate, a written appearance stating an intention to appear on the date fixed for the hearing and present evidence on the issues specified in this Order.

It is further ordered, That, the issues in the above-captioned proceeding may be enlarged by the Examiner, on his own motion or on petition properly filed by a party to the proceeding, and upon sufficient allegations of fact in support thereof, by the addition of the following issue: To determine whether the funds available to the applicant will give reasonable assurance that the proposals set forth in the application will be effectuated.

MARTIN THEATRES OF GEORGIA, INC. (W T V M) AND COLUMBUS BROADCASTING CO., INC. (WRBL-TV)

Order Scheduling Prehearing Conference

In re applications of Martin Theatres of Georgia, Inc. (WTVM), Columbus, Georgia, Docket No. 13848, File No. BMPCT-5490; Columbus Broadcasting Company, Inc. (WRBL-TV), Columbus, Georgia, Docket No. 13849, File No. BMPCT-5491, for modification of construction permits.

The Hearing Examiner having under consideration a joint motion for continuance filed November 23, 1960, on behalf of the above applicants requesting that the date of the evidentiary hearing be continued from December 20, 1960, to January 26, 1961, and that a prehearing conference be fixed for a date in the new year not later than January 9, 1961; and

It appearing that the reason for the requested continuance is the fact that both applicants are presently devoting their energies and attention to the problems being encountered in a change-over from prior facilities to operation on new authorized frequencies and the joint use of a single antenna supporting structure and that additional time will be needed to prepare for the hearing; and

It further appearing that all counsel involved, including counsel for the Broadcast Bureau, have consented to a grant of this motion and to a waiver of the provisions of § 1.43 of the Commission's rules in order to permit its immediate consideration and good cause for the requested extension having been shown;

It is ordered, This the 29th day of November 1960, that the joint motion for continuance is granted and the date of the evidentiary hearing is countinued from December 20, 1960, to January 26, 1961; and

It is further ordered, That a prehearing conference, pursuant to § 1.111 of the Commission's rules, will be held on Monday, January 9, 1961, beginning at 10:00 a.m. in the offices of the Commission, Washington, D.C.

Released: December 1, 1960.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D.C., on the 7th day of December 1960;

The Commission having under consideration the above-captioned and described application;

It appearing, that, except as indicated by the issues specified below, the instant applicant is legally, technically, financially, and otherwise qualified to construct and operate the instant proposal; and

It further appearing, that, pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the Commission, in a letter dated October 25, 1960, and incorporated herein by reference, notified the applicant, and any other known parties in interest, of the grounds and reasons for the Commission's inability to make a finding that a grant of the application would serve the public interest, convenience and necessity; and that a copy of the aforementioned letter is available for public inspection at the Commission's offices; and

It further appearing, that the applicant filed a timely reply to the aforementioned letter, which reply has not, however, entirely eliminated the grounds and reasons precluding a grant of the application and requiring an evidentiary hearing on the particular issues hereinafter specified; and

It further appearing, that, after consideration of the foregoing and the applicant's reply, the Commission is still unable to make the statutory finding that a grant of the application would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity; and is of the opinion that the application must be designated for hearing on the issues specified below;

It is ordered, That, pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the instant application is designated for hearing, at a time and place to be specified in a subsequent Order, upon the following issues:

1. To determine the areas and populations which would receive primary service from the subject proposal and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

2. To determine whether interference received from Station WLAQ, Rome, Georgia, would affect more than ten percent of the population within the normally protected primary service area of the instant proposal in contravention of § 3.28(c)(3) of the Commission rules, and, if so, whether circumstances exist which would warrant a waiver of said Section.

3. To determine, in the light of the evidence adduced pursuant to the foregoing issues, whether a grant of the instant application would serve the public interest, convenience and necessity.

It is further ordered, That, to avail himself of the opportunity to be heard, the applicant herein, pursuant to § 1.140 of the Commission rules, in person or by attorney, shall, within 20 days of the mailing of this order, file with the Commission in triplicate, a written appearance stating an intention to appear on the date fixed for the hearing and present evidence on the issues specified in this Order.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D.C., on the 7th day of December 1960;

The Commission having under consideration the above-captioned and described applications;

It appearing, that, except as indicated by the issues specified below, each applicant herein is legally, technically, financially, and otherwise qualified to construct and operate its instant proposal; and

It further appearing, that, pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the Commission, in a letter dated August 29, 1960, and incorporated herein by reference, notified the instant applicants, and any other known parties in interest, of the grounds and reasons for the Commission's inability to make a finding that a grant of any one of the applications would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity; and that a copy of the aforementioned letter is available for public inspection at the Commission's offices; and

It further appearing, that the instant applicants filed timely replies to the aforementioned letter, which replies have not, however, entirely eliminated the grounds and reasons precluding a grant of the said applications and requiring an evidentiary hearing on the particular issues hereinafter specified; and

It further appearing, that Spencer Broadcasting Company is financially qualified except for the fact that it has failed to furnish verified copies of its stock subscription agreements as required by section III, paragraph 4(c), of the application Form 301 and as requested by Commission letter of August 29, 1960; and

It further appearing, that after consideration of the foregoing and the applicants' replies, the Commission is still unable to make the statutory finding that a grant of the applications would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity; and is of the opinion that the applications must be designated for hearing in a consolidated proceeding on the issues specified below;

It is ordered, That, pursuant to Section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the instant applications are designated for hearing in a consolidated proceeding, at a time and place to be specified in a subsequent order, upon the following issues:

(1) To determine the areas and populations which would receive primary service from BP-12886 and BP-14102 and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

(2) To determine the areas and populations which may be expected to gain or lose primary service from the proposed operation of Station WBOY and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

(3) To determine the nature and extent of the interference, if any, that each of the instant proposals would cause to and receive from each other and all other existing standard broadcast stations, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to the areas and populations affected by interference from any of the instant proposals.

(4) To determine whether the instant proposals of Community Radio, Inc., and of Spencer Broadcasting Company would involve objectionable interference with Station WBOY, or any other existing standard broadcast stations, and, if so, the nature and extent thereof, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

(5) To determine whether the instant proposal of WSTV, Inc. (Station WBOY) would involve objectionable interference with Stations WKWK and WJAC, or any other existing standard broadcast stations, and, if so, the nature and extent thereof, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

(6) To determine whether the interference received by each instant proposal from any of the other proposals herein and any existing stations would affect more than ten percent of the population within its normally protected primary service area in contravention of § 3.28(c)(3) of the Commission rules and, if so, whether circumstances exist which would warrant a waiver of said section.

(7) To determine whether Spencer Broadcasting Company is financially qualified to construct and operate its proposed station by reason of the fact that it has failed to submit verified copies of its stock subscription agreements as required by section III of FCC Form 301.

(8) To determine, in the light of section 307(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, whether the proposal for Clarksburg, West Virginia or one of the proposals for Spencer, West Virginia would better provide a fair, efficient and equitable distribution of radio service.

(9) To determine, in the event it is concluded pursuant to the foregoing issue that one of the proposals for Spencer, West Virginia should be favored, which of the proposals of Spencer Broadcasting Company or Community Radio, Inc. would better serve the public interest, convenience and necessity in the light of the evidence adduced under the issues herein and the record made with respect to the significant differences between the said applicants as to:

(a) The background and experience of each having a bearing on the applicant's ability to own and operate the proposed standard broadcast station.

(b) The proposal of each with respect to the management and operation of the proposed station.

(c) The programming services proposed in each of the said applications.

(10) To determine, in the light of the evidence adduced pursuant to the foregoing issues which, if any, of the instant applications should be granted.

It is further ordered, That WSTV, Inc., licensee of Station WBOY, Clarksburg, West Virginia, is made a party to the proceeding with respect to its existing operation.

It is further ordered, That Community Broadcasting, Inc., and WJAC, Incorporated, licensees of Stations WKWK, Wheeling, West Virginia and WJAC, Johnstown, Pennsylvania, respectively, are made parties to the proceeding.

It is further ordered, That, in the event of a grant of either the Clarksburg proposal or the proposal of Community Radio, Inc., or both, permittee(s) shall accept such interference as may be imposed by other existing Class IV stations in the event they are subsequently authorized to increase power to 1000 watts.

It is further ordered, That, the issues in the above-captioned proceeding may be enlarged by the Examiner, on his own motion or on petition properly filed by a party to the proceeding, and upon sufficient allegations of fact in support thereof, by the addition of the following issue: To determine whether the funds available to the applicant will give reasonable assurance that the proposals set forth in the application will be effectuated.

In re application of Auburn Broadcasting Company, Incorporated (WAUD), Auburn, Alabama, Docket No. 13877, File No. BP-13077; Has: 1230 kc, 250 w, U, Requests: 1230 kc, 250 w, 1 kw-LS, U, for construction permit.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D.C., on the 7th day of December 1960;

The Commission having under consideration the above-captioned and described application;

It appearing, that, except as indicated by the issues specified below, the instant applicant is legally, technically, financially, and otherwise qualified to construct and operate the instant proposal; and

It further appearing that, pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the Commission, in a letter dated September 1, 1960, and incorporated herein by reference, notified the applicant, and any other known parties in interest, of the grounds and reasons for the Commission's inability to make a finding that a grant of the application would serve the public interest, convenience and necessity; and that a copy of the aforementioned letter is available for public inspection at the Commission's offices; and

It further appearing that the applicant filed a timely reply to the aforementioned letter, which reply has not, however, entirely eliminated the grounds and reasons precluding a grant of the application and requiring an evidentiary hearing on the particular issues hereinafter specified; and

It further appearing, that, in data filed May 13, 1959, applicant in the instant proposal indicates that a mutual agreement exists to accept interference that may result from a grant of the instant proposal and the proposal of WLAG, Lagrange, Georgia (File No. BP-12244), both requesting power increases for Class IV stations; and that, in view thereof, the WLAG proposal is not further considered herein; and

It further appearing, that, the instant applicant has not indicated the extent of interference that would be caused to the existing operation of WNUZ, Talladega, Alabama by the instant proposal; that a study indicates that substantial interference may be caused to WNUZ; and that WNUZ is a Class IV station, but has no application on file for an increase in power; and that by letter dated September 13, 1960, WNUZ stated that they would appear in hearing with regard to the instant proposal; and

It further appearing, that, after consideration of the foregoing and the applicant's reply, the Commission is still unable to make the statutory finding that a grant of the application would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity; and is of the opinion that the application must be designated for hearing on the issues specified below;

It is ordered, That, pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the instant application is designated for hearing, at a time and place to be specified in a subsequent Order, upon the following issues:

1. To determine the areas and populations which may be expected to gain or lose primary service from the proposed operation of Station WAUD and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

2. To determine whether the instant proposal of Station WAUD would involve objectionable interference with Station WNUZ, Talladega, Alabama, or any other existing standard broadcast stations, and, if so, the nature and extent thereof, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

3. To determine, in the light of the evidence adduced pursuant to the foregoing issues, whether a grant of the instant application would serve the public interest, convenience and necessity.

It is further ordered, That Radio Alabama, Incorporated, licensee of Station WNUZ, is made a party to the proceeding.

It is further ordered, That, in the event of a grant of the instant proposal, such grant shall contain a condition that the permittee shall accept such interference that may be imposed upon it by other existing Class IV stations in the event that they are subsequently authorized to increase power to 1000 watts; and

It is further ordered, That, to avail themselves of the opportunity to be heard, the applicant and party respondent herein, pursuant to § 1.140 of the Commission rules, in person or by attorney, shall, within 20 days of the mailing of this order, file with the Commission in triplicate, a written appearance stating an intention to appear on the date fixed for the hearing and present evidence on the issues specified in this order.

Released: December 15, 1960.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D.C., on the 7th day of December 1960;

The Commission having under consideration the above-captioned and described applications;

It appearing, that, except as indicated by the issues specified below, the instant applicants are legally, technically, financially, and otherwise qualified to construct and operate their instant proposals; and

It further appearing, that, pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the Commission, in a letter dated May 24, 1960, and incorporated herein by reference, notified the instant applicants, and any other known parties in interest, of the grounds and reasons for the Commission's inability to make a finding that a grant of any one of the applications would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity; and that a copy of the aforementioned letter is available for public inspection at the Commission's offices; and

It further appearing, that the instant applicants filed timely replies to the aforementioned letter, which replies have not, however, entirely eliminated the grounds and reasons precluding a grant of the said applications and requiring an evidentiary hearing on the particular issues hereinafter specified; and

It further appearing, that, by the above-mentioned letter of the Commission, applicants in BP-13237 (WKAL), Rome, New York, and BP-13274, (WWSC), Glens Falls, New York, were notified that mutual interference would be involved between their proposed operations; that applicant in BP-13237 requested dismissal of its application by letter dated June 13, 1960, and indicated that interference would be caused to the existing operation of WKAL by BP-13274 and therefore requested to be made a party respondent with respect to the WWSC proposal; that the WKAL proposal was dismissed June 15, 1960; that staff study indicates that no interference should be caused to WKAL by the WWSC proposal; therefore WKAL is not to be a party respondent herein; and

It further appearing, that, by the above-mentioned letter of the Commission, applicants in BP-12512, WWRI, West Warwick, Rhode Island, and BP-13264, WMAS, Springfield, Massachusetts, were notified that mutual interference would result from their proposed operations; that by letter dated September 12, 1960, WMAS and WWRI have agreed to accept any mutual interference which may result in the event of favorable action by the Commission upon their respective applications, and that the WWRI proposal was granted September 5, 1960 subject to the condition, inter alia, that it accept interference from WMAS, and that, therefore, the WWRI proposal was not consolidated herein; and

It further appearing, that, after consideration of the foregoing and the applicants' replies, the Commission is still unable to make the statutory finding that a grant of the applications would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity; and is of the opinion that the applications must be designated for hearing in a consolidated proceeding on the issues specified below;

It is ordered, That, pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the instant applications are designated for hearing in a consolidated proceeding, at a time and place to be specified in a subsequent Order, upon the following issues:

1. To determine the areas and populations which may be expected to gain or lose primary service from the proposed operations of the instant applicants and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

2. To determine the nature and extent of the interference, if any, that each of the instant proposals would cause to and receive from each other and all other existing standard broadcast stations, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to the areas and populations affected by interference from any of the instant proposals.

3. To determine whether the following proposals would involve objectionable interference with the existing stations indicated below, or any other existing standard broadcast stations, and if so, the nature and extent thereof, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations:

Proposal and Existing Stations

BP-12712	WTSA, Brattleboro, Vt. 1450 kc, 250 w, U, Class IV.
BP-13126	WMAS, Springfield, Mass. 1450 kc, 250 w, U, Class I. WWSC, Glens Falls, N.Y. 1450 kc, 250 w, U, Class IV. WKXL, Concord, N.H. 1450 kc, 250 w, U, Class IV.
BP-13264	WNAB, Bridgeport, Conn. 1450 kc, 250 w, U, Class IV. WKIP, Poughkeepsie, N.Y. 1450 kc, 250 w, U, Class IV. WTSA, Brattleboro, Vt. 1450 kc, 250 w, U, Class IV.
BP-13274	WTSA, Brattleboro, Vt. 1450 kc, 250 w, U, Class IV.

4. To determine whether the interference received by each instant proposal from any of the other proposals herein and any existing stations would affect more than ten percent of the population within its normally protected primary service area in contravention of § 3.28(c) (3) of the Commission rules and, if so, whether circumstances exist which would warrant a waiver of said Section.

5. To determine, in the light of section 307(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, which of the proposals would best provide a fair, efficient and equitable distribution of radio service.

6. To determine, in the light of the evidence adduced pursuant to the foregoing issues, which, if any, of the instant applications should be granted.

It is further ordered, That, Capitol Broadcasting Corporation, Inc., Tri-State Area Broadcasting Corporation, WMAS, Inc., Normandy Broadcasting Corporation, Dutchess County Broadcasting Corporation, and WNAB, Inc., licensees of Stations WKXL, WTSA, WMAS, WWSC, WKIP, and WNAB, respectively, are made parties to the proceeding with respect to their existing operations.

It is further ordered, That, to avail themselves of the opportunity to be heard, the applicants and parties respondent herein, pursuant to § 1.140 of the Commission rules, in person or by attorney, shall, within 20 days of the mailing of this order, file with the Commission in triplicate, a written appearance stating an intention to appear on the date fixed for the hearing and present evidence on the issues specified in this order.

It is further ordered, That, the issues in the above-captioned proceeding may be enlarged by the Examiner, on his own motion or on petition properly filed by a party to the proceeding, and upon sufficient allegations of fact in support thereof, by the addition of the following issue: To determine whether the funds available to the applicant will give reasonable assurance that the proposals set forth in the application will be effectuated.

CHEROKEE COUNTY RADIO STATION

Order Designating Application for Hearing on Stated Issues

In re application of Mac M. Thomas and Ruby Jo Clotfelter d/b as Cherokee County Radio Station, Centre, Alabama, docket No. 13878, file No. BP-13084; requests: 980 kc, 250 w, Day, for construction permit.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D.C., on the 7th day of December 1960;

The Commission having under consideration the above-captioned and described application;

It appearing, that, except as indicated by the issues specified below, the instant applicant is legally, technically, financially, and otherwise qualified to construct and operate the instant proposal; and

It further appearing, that, pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the Commission, in a letter dated August 12, 1960, and incorporated herein by reference, notified the applicant, and any other known parties in interest, of the grounds and reasons for the Commission's inability to make a finding that a grant of the application would serve the public interest, convenience and necessity; and that a copy of the aforementioned letter is available for public inspection at the Commission's offices; and

It further appearing, that the applicant filed a timely reply to the aforementioned letter, which reply has not, however, entirely eliminated the grounds and reasons precluding a grant of the application and requiring an evidentiary hearing on the particular issues hereinafter specified; and

It further appearing, that, by amendment filed October 10, 1960, the instant applicant has indicated that the interference to its proposal would be excessive with respect to the provisions of § 3.28 (c) of the Commission's rules and has requested waiver of this section of the rules in support of which it was stated that the city of Centre, Alabama, would thus have its first radio station, however, no data has been submitted to show the extent of such interference; and

It further appearing, that, after consideration of the foregoing and the applicant's reply, the Commission is still unable to make the statutory finding that a grant of the application would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity; and is of the opinion that the application must be designated for hearing on the issues specified below.

It is ordered, That, pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the instant application is designated for hearing, at a time and place to be specified in a subsequent Order, upon the following issues:

(1) To determine the areas and populations which would receive primary service from the instant proposal and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

(2) To determine whether interference received from WNOX, Knoxville, Tennessee, would affect more than ten percent of the population within the normally protected primary service area of the instant proposal of the applicant herein, in contravention of § 3.28(c) (3) of the Commission rules, and, if so, whether circumstances exist which would warrant a waiver of said section.

(3) To determine, in the light of the evidence adduced pursuant to the foregoing issues, whether a grant of the instant application would serve the public interest, convenience and necessity.

It is further ordered, That, to avail itself of the opportunity to be heard, the instant applicant, pursuant to § 1.140 of the Commission rules, in person or by attorney, shall, within 20 days of the mailing of this order, file with the Commission in triplicate, a written appearance stating an intention to appear on the date fixed for the hearing and present evidence on the issues specified in this order.

ARTHUR A. DETERS AND COLLEGE RADIO

Order Designating Applications for Consolidated Hearing on Stated Issues

In re applications of Arthur A. Deters, Greenfield, Massachusetts, Docket No. 13865, File No. BP-13046, requests 1430 kc, 500 w, Day; Augustine L. Cavallaro, Jr., tr/as College Radio, Amherst, Massachusetts, Docket No. 13866, File No. BP-14179, requests 1430 kc, 5 kw, DA, Day; for construction permits.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D.C., on the 7th day of December 1960;

The Commission having under consideration the above-captioned and described applications;

It appearing, that, except as indicated by the issues specified below, each of the instant applicants is legally, technically, and otherwise qualified to construct and operate its instant proposal; that Augustine L. Cavallaro, Jr., is financially qualified; and that Arthur A. Deters, the applicant in BP-13046 may not be financially qualified; and

It further appearing, that the application of Augustine L. Cavallaro, Jr. (BP-14179) was not timely filed with respect to the proposal of WMAS, Incorporated (BP-13264); that interference would result to the Cavallaro proposal from the simultaneous operation of the proposals but that, for the foregoing reasons, WMAS, Incorporated, is not made a party respondent herein;

It further appearing, that, Arthur A. Deters has not indicated that securities to be employed in financing the proposed station are listed on major exchanges, and that the terms of payment for mortgages and collateral loans have not been shown; and

It further appearing, that Augustine L. Cavallaro, Jr., has submitted measurement data purporting to show that no interference should exist between the Amherst proposal and station WHIL, Medford, Massachusetts, but that a question still obtains as to whether interference will be involved with WHIL; that WHIL has requested to be made a party to any hearing on the Amherst proposal, and that in view thereof WHIL is made a party respondent herein; and

It further appearing, that, pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the Commission, in a letter dated September 1, 1960, and incorporated herein by reference, notified the instant applicant, and any other known parties in interest, to the grounds and reasons for the Commission's inability to make a finding that a grant of any one of the applications would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity; and that a copy of the aforementioned letter is available for public inspection at the Commission's offices; and

It further appearing, that the instant applicants filed timely replies to the aforementioned letter, which replies have not, however, entirely eliminated the grounds and reasons precluding a grant of the said applications and requiring an evidentiary hearing on the particular issues hereinafter specified; and

It further appearing, that after consideration to the foregoing and the applicants' replies, the Commission is still unable to make the statutory finding that a grant of the applications would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity; and is of the opinion that the applications must be designated for hearing in a consolidated proceeding on the issues specified below;

It is ordered, That, pursuant to section 309(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the instant applications are designated for hearing in a consolidated proceeding, at a time and place to be specified in a subsequent Order, upon the following issues:

1. To determine the areas and population which would receive primary service from the proposals of Arthur A. Deters and Augustine L. Cavallaro, Jr., and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

2. To determine the nature and extent of the interference, if any, that each of the instant proposals would cause to and receive from each other and all other existing standard broadcast stations, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to the areas and populations affected by interference from any of the instant proposals.

3. To determine whether the instant proposal of Augustine L. Cavallaro, Jr., would involve objectionable interference with Station WHIL, Medford, Massachusetts, or any other existing standard broadcast stations, and, if so, the nature and extent thereof, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

4. To determine whether the interference received by each instant proposal from any of the other proposals herein and any existing stations would affect more than ten percent of the population within its normally protected primary service area in contravention of § 3.28 (c) (3) of the Commission rules and, if so, whether circumstances exist which would warrant a waiver of said Section.

5. To determine whether Arthur A. Deters, the applicant in BP-13046 is financially qualified to construct and operate his proposed stations.

6. To determine, in the light of section 307(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, which of the instant proposals would better provide a fair, efficient, and equitable distribution of radio service.

7. To determine, in the light of the evidence adduced pursuant to the foregoing issues which if either of the instant applications should be granted.

It is further ordered, That Conant Broadcasting Company, Inc., licensee of Station WHIL, Medford, Massachusetts, is made a party to the proceeding;

It is further ordered, That, in the event of a grant of the application of Arthur A. Deters, BP-13046, the permittee shall be responsible for the installation and adjustment of suitable filter circuits or other equipment which may be necessary to prevent objectionable re-radiation or cross-modulation with Station WHAI, Greenfield, Massachusetts.

It is further ordered, That, to avail themselves of the opportunity to be heard, each of the instant applicants and Conant Broadcasting Company, Inc., pursuant to § 1.140 of the Commission rules, in person or by attorney, shall, within 20 days of the mailing of this order, file with the Commission in triplicate, a written appearance stating an intention to appear on the date fixed for the hearing and present evidence on the issues specified in this order.

It is further ordered, That, the issues in the above-captioned proceeding may be enlarged by the Examiner, on his own motion or on petition properly filed by a party to the proceeding, and upon sufficient allegations of fact in support thereof, by the addition of the following issue: To determine whether the funds available to the applicant will give reasonable assurance that the proposals set forth in the application will be effectuated.

MISSISSIPPI POWER & LIGHT CO.

Notice of Filing of Application-Declaration Regarding Exchange of Utility Assets With Nonaffiliate

DECEMBER 13, 1960.

Notice is hereby given that Mississippi Power & Light Company ("Mississippi"), a public-utility subsidiary of Middle South Utilities, Inc., a registered holding company, has filed with this Commission an application-declaration, pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("Act"), regarding a proposal to exchange certain utility assets with North Central Mississippi Electric Power Association ("North Central"), a nonaffiliated Rural Electrification Administration financed cooperative; and has designated sections 9 and 12(d) of the Act and Rule 44 promulgated thereunder as applicable to the proposed transactions.

All interested persons are referred to the declaration on file at the office of the Commission for a statement of the proposed transactions, which are summarized as follows:

Mississippi proposes to transfer to North Central all of Mississippi's electric distribution facilities and two office buildings located in Marshall County and in approximately 105 sq. miles of an adjacent area in the eastern part of De Soto County, Mississippi. The property consists of (a) approximately 323 miles of distribution system having an estimated original cost of $992,000, serving 2,599 customers, and with annual revenue of about $300,000, (b) one 44 Kv substation having an original cost of $43,000, and (c) two office buildings located in the towns of Byhalia and Olive Branch, Mississippi, having an original cost of $83,000. In exchange and as consideration for such property, North Central will transfer to Mississippi (1) 289 miles of distribution system, having an estimated original cost of $550,000, serving approximately 950 customers, and with annual revenue of approximately $66,000 (computed at Mississippi's rates), located in the western part of De Soto County and in Tate County, Mississippi, and (2) an office building located in Coldwater, Mississippi, having an estimated original cost of $16,000; and in addition North Central will pay Mississippi approximately $820,000 in cash.

It is stated that both Mississippi and North Central now serve parts of the areas, that their facilities in part parallel or duplicate each other in said areas, and that the proposed exchange of utility assets is for the purpose of delineating the respective service areas to permit one or the other party to serve the entire area, as reallocated, and to avoid the duplication of the service facilities therein.

The application-declaration further states that the Mississippi Public Service Commission has jurisdiction with respect to the proposed transactions in connection with the petition for a certificate of public convenience and necessity, that appropriate applications have been made to that Commission, and that no other State or Federal commission, except this Commission, has jurisdiction over such transactions.

It is represented that the accounting entries by Mississippi with respect to the proposed acquisition and disposition will be made in accordance with and subject to the requirements of the Uniform System of Accounts of the Federal Power Commission, which system of accounts requires that within six months from the date of acquisition or disposition of properties the proposed journal entries giving effect to the transactions and reflecting the original cost of the properties must be submitted to that Commission for approval.

The fees and expenses to be incurred by Mississippi in connection with the proposed transactions are estimated at $5,500, consisting of Mississippi counsel fees of $2,500, New York counsel fees of $2,000, and miscellaneous expenses of $1,000.

Notice is further given that any interested person may not later than December 28, 1960, request in writing that a hearing be held in respect of such matters, stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request, and the issues of fact or law which he seeks to controvert; or he may request that he be notified should the Commission order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D.C. At any time after said date the Commission may grant the application and permit the declaration to become effective, as filed or as it may be amended, pursuant to the provisions of Rule 23 promulgated under the Act; or the Commission may grant exemption from its rules and regulations, as provided by Rules 20(a) and 100 thereof, or take such other action as it deems appropriate.

By the Commission.

NATIONAL INVESTORS CORP.

Notice of Filing of Application Under Section 6(c) for Order Exempting From Section 22(d) Sale by Open-End Company of Its Shares at Other Than the Public Offering Price in Exchange for Assets of Private Investment Company

DECEMBER 13, 1960.

Notice is hereby given that National Investors Corporation ("National"), a registered open-end investment company, has filed an application pursuant to section 6(c) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("Act") for an order of the Commission exempting from the provisions of section 22(d) of the Act the proposed issuance of its shares at net asset value for substantially all of the cash and securities of The Andrew-Lawrence Corporation ("Andrew").

Shares of National, a Maryland corporation, are offered to the public on a continuous basis at net asset value plus varying sales charges dependent on the amount purchased. As of September 27, 1960, the net assets of National amounted to $156,591,122.

Andrew, a New Jersey corporation, is a personal holding company with two stockholders which engages in the business of investing and reinvesting its funds since 1956 and prior to that date engaged in the manufacture and sale of painters' cutlery. Andrew is exempt from registration under the Act by reason of the provisions of section 3(c)(1) thereof. Pursuant to an agreement between National and Andrew, substantially all of the cash and securities of Andrew, with a total value of $520,266 as of September 27, 1960, will be transfered to National in exchange for shares of stock of National. The shares acquired by Andrew are to be distributed immediately to its shareholders, who intend to take such shares for investment with no present intention of distribution or redemption. The number of shares of National to be delivered to Andrew will be determined by dividing the net asset value per share of National in effect at the closing time into the value of the Andrew assets to be exchanged (with certain adjustments as set forth below).

Since the exchange will be tax free for Andrew and its shareholders, National's cost basis for tax purposes on the assets acquired from Andrew will be the same as for Andrew, rather than the price actually paid by National for the assets. Of the assets to be acquired from Andrew, National intends to retain in its portfolio, subject to changes in investment conditions and considerations, securities having a value as of September 27, 1960, of $224,750, including unrealized appreciation of $203,767. National also will acquire from Andrew cash or cash items in the amount of $123,732 as of September 27, 1960. Other securities to be acquired from Andrew will be sold by National after acquisition. As of September 27, 1960, the market value of these securities was $171,784 and the unrealized capital gain thereon was $32,378. As of September 27, 1960, National had unrealized appreciation of $55,713,102 and undistributed realized gains of $4,415,152, of which approximately $185,079 and $14,667, respectively, would have become applicable to the shares of National issued to Andrew if the proposed acquisition of Andrew's assets had occurred on this date.

Because National will acquire securities from Andrew at a tax-cost basis less than the price actually paid therefor, their sale after acquisition will result in artificial capital gains and consequent tax liability thereon to the present shareholders of National and with respect to the assets of Andrew that National will retain there will result a potential tax liability to the present shareholders of National by reason of an increase in the net unrealized appreciation applicable to their shares. An adjustment, which takes into account the tax consequences of the exchange, is to be made in the value of the Andrew assets in accordance with the following formula:

(1) In respect of the securities of Andrew that National presently intends to sell and the resulting artificial capital gain thereon, there shall be determined the difference between net unrealized taxable capital gain on said securities and the portion of the realized but undistributed taxable long-term capital gain of National allocable to the aggregate shares of National to be issued to Andrew.

(2) In respect of the securities of Andrew that National presently intends to hold following acquisition, there shall be determined the difference between net unrealized taxable capital gain on said securities and the portion of National's unrealized appreciation applicable to the aggregate shares of National to be issued to Andrew determined on a pro forma basis giving effect to the acquisition of the assets of Andrew.

(3) The amount computed under (1) shall be increased by the amount, if positive, or decreased by 50 percent of the amount, if negative, computed under (2), and 12½ percent of the resulting amount ($37,048 as of September 27, 1960), which is the adjustment for excess unrealized appreciation of Andrew shall be applied to reduce the value of the assets of Andrew to be acquired. If the valuation under the agreement had taken place on September 27, 1960, the adjustment to the market value of the assets of Andrew to be acquired would have amounted to $4,631.

The rate of 12½ percent applied to the excess unrealized appreciation of Andrew is used as an estimated measure of the average tax rate payable on capital gains by National shareholders.

Applicant points out that the proposed acquisition is in the best interests of its shareholders because the resulting increase in its assets will tend to reduce per share expenses, since it is furnished investment research and administrative facilities and services at cost.

The application recites that the terms of the entire transaction were arrived at through arm's length bargaining between National and Andrew. The application further states that there is no affiliation or relationship of any kind between the officers and directors of National and the officers, directors, and stockholders of Andrew.

Section 22(d) of the Act provides, in pertinent part, that no registered investment company shall sell any redeemable security issued by it to any person except at a current offering price described in the prospectus, with certain exceptions not applicable here. Under the terms of the Agreement, however, the shares of National are to be issued to Andrew at a price other than the public offering price stated in the prospectus, which lists a sales charge of 1.8 percent for sales of $500,000 or over.

Section 6(c) of the Act authorizes the Commission by order upon application to exempt, conditionally or unconditionally, any transaction from any provision of the Act or of any rule or regulation thereunder, if and to the extent that the Commission finds that such exemption is necessary or appropriate in the public interest and consistent with the protection of investors and the purposes fairly intended by the policy and provisions of the Act.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than December 27, 1960 at 5:30 p.m., submit to the Commission in writing a request for a hearing on the matter accompanied by a statement as to the nature of his interest, the reason for such request and the issues of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such communication should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D.C. At any time after said date, as provided by Rule O-5 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the Act, an order disposing of the application herein may be issued by the Commission upon the basis of the showing contained in said application, unless an order for hearing upon said application shall be issued upon request or upon the Commission's own motion.

By the Commission.

PENNSYLVANIA POWER CO.

Notice of Proposed Issuance of $878,000 Principal Amount of First Mortgage Bond for Sinking Fund Purpose

DECEMBER 13, 1960.

Notice is hereby given that Pennsylvania Power Company ("Pennsylvania"), a public-utility subsidiary of Ohio Edison Company, a registered holding company, has filed with this Commission a declaration pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("Act"), designating section 6(b) of the Act as applicable to the proposed transactions.

All interested persons are referred to the declaration on file at the office of the Commission for a statement of the transactions therein proposed which are summarized as follows:

In connection with satisfying the sinking fund requirements of its indenture, Pennsylvania will issue $878,000 principal amount of its First Mortgage Bonds, 3¼ percent Series due 1982, under its Mortgage Indenture dated November 1, 1945, as amended and supplemented, to The First National City Bank of New York, as trustee ("Trustee"). The bonds will be authenticated by the Trustee and delivered to Pennsylvania on the basis of unfunded net property additions and will be surrendered to the Trustee for cancellation in consideration of the return by the Trustee to Pennsylvania, from the mortgage sinking fund, of a like amount of cash under the sinking fund provisions of the mortgage, in 1960, 1961, and 1962.

Pennsylvania proposes to include the released cash in its general funds in partial reimbursement for moneys expended for new construction.

The fees, commissions and expenses incident to the proposed issuance of bonds are estimated at $2,050 of which $1,500 is to be paid to the Trustee.

It is stated that the proposed issue and use of the bonds is subject to the jurisdiction of the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission and that such Commission's order is to be supplied by amendment; and that no other State commission and no Federal commission, other than this Commission, has jurisdiction over the proposed transactions.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than December 28, 1960, request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request, and the issues of fact or law raised by said declaration which he desires to controvert; or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D.C. At any time after said date the declaration; as filed or as it may be hereafter amended, may be permitted to become effective as provided in Rule 23 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the Act; or the Commission may exempt such transactions as provided in Rules 20(a) and 100 thereof, or take such other action as it may deem appropriate under the circumstances.

By the Commission.

VIRGINIA CAPITAL CORP.

Notice of Filing of Application Regarding Investment Arrangement by Registered Company and Affiliates

DECEMBER 13, 1960.

Notice is hereby given that Virginia Capital Corporation ("Virginia Capital"), a Virginia corporation, and a closed-end, non-diversified investment company registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("Act") which company is also a small business investment company licensed as such under the Small Business Investment Act of 1958 ("SBIA") has filed an application pursuant to section 17(d) of the Act and Rule 17d-1 of the general rules and regulations thereunder ("Rules") for an order granting said application in respect of a proposed arrangement for the purchase of securities by Virginia Capital on a basis which will not be different from or less advantageous than that of certain affiliated persons of Virginia Capital who will also purchase some of such securities.

The application states that Virginia Capital plans to purchase from E. G. G. Co. Inc. (whose name is to be changed to include the word "Newcomb" and which is hereinafter referred to as Newcomb), approximately $200,000 principal amount, out of a total issue of $300,000, of Newcomb 8 percent Subordinate Notes with attached warrants for the purchase of Newcomb stock ("Notes") at the price of 100 percent of principal amount. Certain persons affiliated with Virginia Capital, including Robert H. Pratt, its president, Arthur S. Brinkley, Jr., its vice-president and treasurer, W. Gibson Harris, its Secretary and General Counsel (all of whom are members of Virginia Capital's executive committee), Robert Haskins, a director, and Dover Corporation ("Dover"), which owns about 19 percent of the outstanding common stock of Virginia Capital, may purchase up to 100 percent of the approximately $100,000 balance of said $300,000 issue of Notes at 100 percent of principal amount. The application also states that all purchases of Notes by affiliates of Virginia Capital will be on a basis which shall not be different from or more advantageous to the purchaser than that on which Virginia Capital will purchase the Notes.

Newcomb, which has not commenced doing business, was organized by Lawrence L. Roberts, Jr. and Edward G. Green, for the purpose of acquiring all of the outstanding capital stock of James F. Newcomb Company, Inc. ("Old Newcomb"), a commercial printing company whose plant is located in New York City. Messrs. Roberts and Green will each acquire 50 percent of the common stock of Newcomb to be outstanding initially. The application states that Mr. Green is a brother-in-law of Robert H. Pratt, president of Virginia Capital; that Pratt has no financial interest, direct or indirect, in Newcomb; and that neither Green nor Roberts has any financial interest, direct or indirect, in Virginia Capital. On the basis of the foregoing representations, neither Green nor Roberts is an affiliate of Virginia Capital.

The application states that the plan for financing the acquisition by Newcomb of the stock of Old Newcomb was formulated by Eastman-Dillon, Union Securities & Co. ("Eastman-Dillon"), and that Eastman-Dillon brought the proposal for the sale of Notes to the attention of J. C. Wheat & Co. before Mr. Pratt was connected with Virginia Capital. The partners of J. C. Wheat own a large proportion of the stock of Dover, and Mr. James C. Wheat, Jr., the senior partner of J. C. Wheat & Co., is chairman of the board of directors of Virginia Capital and a member of its executive committee and is also president and a director of Dover Corporation and the owner of 20.3 percent of its common stock.

The application states that J. C. Wheat & Co. brought the proposal regarding the Notes to the attention of Virginia Capital entirely independent of Mr. Pratt's connection with the latter company.

J. C. Wheat & Co. will receive from Eastman-Dillon a 3 percent commission for its services in placing that part of the $300,000 principal amount of Notes which will not be purchased by Virginia Capital. The application states that J. C. Wheat will not receive any commission with respect to the Notes purchased by Virginia Capital.

The application states that pursuant to the provisions of the SBIA, Virginia Capital, as a small business investment company, is prohibited from investing in any one small business concern an amount which is more than 20 percent of Virginia Capital's combined capital and surplus unless prior approval is obtained from the Small Business Administration; that a $200,000 investment will be about 21.7 percent of its combined capital and surplus, and that the necessary approval to the purchase of $200,000 principal amount of Notes has been obtained from the Small Business Administration.

The application does not indicate that any affiliate of Virginia Capital will participate in the business of Newcomb, or in financing of Newcomb except as stated above.

Section 17(d) of the Act and Rule 17d-1 taken together provide, among other things, that it shall be unlawful, with certain exceptions not applicable here, for an affiliated person of a registered investment company or any affiliated person of such a person, acting as principal, to participate in, or effect any transaction in connection with any joint arrangement in which any such registered company is a participant unless an application regarding such arrangement has been granted by the Commission, and that, in passing upon such an application, the Commission will consider whether the participation of such registered company in such arrangement is consistent with the provisions, policies and purposes of the Act and the extent to which such participation is on a basis different from or less advantageous than that of other participants.

Since affiliated persons of Virginia Capital will participate in the financing of Newcomb in the manner noted above, the arrangement is subject to the provisions of section 17(d) and Rule 17d-1.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than December 22, 1960, at 5:30 p.m., e.s.t., submit to the Commission in writing a request for a hearing on the matter accompanied by a statement as to the nature of his interest, the reason for such request and the issues, if any, of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such communication should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D.C. At any time after said date, as provided by Rule O-5 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the Act, an order disposing of the application herein may be issued by the Commission upon the basis of the showing contained in said application, unless an order for hearing upon said application shall be issued upon request or upon the Commission's own motion.

By the Commission.

[1] The proposed effective dates are the first day after the required thirty days' notice or, if later, the date requested by respondent.
[2] The pressure base is 14.65 psia.
[3] Rate decrease due to transfer of Windham "C" No. 1 well from high to low pressure system.

The increased rates and charges so proposed may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds: It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon hearings concerning the lawfulness of the several proposed changes and that the above-designated supplements be suspended and the use thereof deferred as hereinafter ordered.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority of the Natural Gas Act, particularly sections 4 and 15 thereof, the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, and the regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR, Ch. I), public hearings shall be held upon the dates to be fixed by notices from the Secretary concerning the lawfulness of the several proposed increased rates and charges contained in the above-designated supplements.

(B) Pending hearings and decisions thereon, the above-designated supplements are hereby suspended and the use thereof deferred until the date indicated in the above "Rate Suspended Until" column, and thereafter until such further time as they are made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(C) Neither the supplements hereby suspended, nor the rate schedules sought to be altered thereby, shall be changed until these proceedings have been disposed of or until the periods of suspension have expired, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission.

(D) Supplement No. 8 to Socony Mobil Oil Co., Inc.'s FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 54 (proposing a redetermined rate increase based on a contract interpretation which is questionable and should be determined after hearing) shall be effective (with only the Louisiana severance tax reimbursement portion of Socony's increased rates effective subject to refund) as of December 12, 1960 and Supplement No. 12 to Mendota Oil Company's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 8 (proposing a rate decrease due to transfer of a well from high to low pressure system) shall be effective as of December 11, 1960: Provided, however, That within 20 days from the date of the issuance of this order, Socony and Mendota shall file under Docket Nos. RI61-274 and RI61-273 respectively, with the Secretary of the Commission their agreements and undertakings to comply with the refunding and reporting procedure required by the Natural Gas Act and § 154.102 of the regulations thereunder. The agreements and undertakings shall be signed by a responsible officer of the corporation accompanied by proper authorization from the Board of Directors and by a certificate showing service of copies upon all purchasers under the rate schedule involved. Unless Socony or Mendota is advised to the contrary within 15 days after the filing of such agreement and undertaking, their agreement and undertaking shall be deemed to have been accepted.

(E) Notice of intervention or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D.C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37(f)) on or before January 23, 1961.

By the Commission.

TEXAS GAS TRANSMISSION CORP.

Order Reconvening Hearing

DECEMBER 13, 1960.

On July 20, 1959, a hearing was opened in the above-entitled matter pursuant to notice of application and order fixing date of hearing at that time. The Presiding Examiner after opening the said hearing granted a motion of Staff Counsel to postpone the said hearing subject to the order of the Commission.

At the time of the said postponement of this hearing the Public Service Commission of Indiana had on file a notice of intervention. On November 21, 1960, the said intervener filed notice of withdrawal of its intervention.

The Commission finds:

(1) No protests or petitions to intervene in this matter are on file with the Commission.

(2) The matter is ready for further proceeding upon the application.

The Commission orders: The hearing in the above-entitled matter which was opened on July 20, 1959, and on that day recessed until ordered by the Commission is hereby ordered to resume on December 22, 1960, in a hearing room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D.C., at 9:30 a.m. e.s.t.

Each learner certificate has been issued upon the representations of the employer which, among other things, were that employment of learners at subminimum rates is necessary in order to prevent curtailment of opportunities for employment, and that experienced workers for the learner occupations are not available. The certificates may be annulled or withdrawn, as indicated therein, in the manner provided in Part 528 of Title 29 of the Code of Federal Regulations. Any person aggrieved by the issuance of any of these certificates may seek a review or reconsideration thereof within fifteen days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER pursuant to the provisions of 29 CFR 522.9.

Signed at Washington, D.C., this 8th day of December 1960.

ROBERT G. GRONEWALD,
Authorized Representative of the Administrator.

Subpart A—Introduction

§ 31.0-1 Introduction.

(a) In general. The regulations in this part relate to the employment taxes imposed by subtitle C (chapters 21 to 25, inclusive) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, as amended. References in the regulations to the "Internal Revenue Code" or the "Code" are references to the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, as amended, unless otherwise indicated. References to the Federal Insurance Contributions Act, the Railroad Retirement Tax Act, and the Federal Unemployment Tax Act are references to chapters 21, 22, and 23, respectively, of the Code. References to sections of law are references to sections of the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise indicated.

(b) Division of regulations. The regulations in this part are divided into 7 subparts. Subpart A contains provisions relating to general definitions and use of terms, the division and scope of the regulations in this part, and the extent to which the regulations in this part supersede prior regulations relating to employment taxes. Subpart B relates to the taxes under the Federal Insurance Contributions Act. Subpart C relates to the taxes under the Railroad Retirement Tax Act. Subpart D relates to the tax under the Federal Unemployment Tax Act. Subpart E relates to the collection of income tax at source on wages under chapter 24 of the Code. Subpart F relates to the provisions of chapter 25 of the Code which are applicable in respect of the taxes imposed by chapters 21 to 24, inclusive, of the Code. Subpart G relates to selected provisions of subtitle F of the Code, relating to procedure and administration, which have special application in respect of the taxes imposed by subtitle C of the Code. Inasmuch as these regulations constitute Part 31 of Title 26 of the Code of Federal Regulations, each section of the regulations is preceded by a section symbol and 31 followed by a decimal point (§ 31.). Sections of law or references thereto are preceded by "Sec." or the word "section".

§ 31.0-2 General definitions and use of terms.

(a) In general. As used in the regulations in this part, unless otherwise expressly indicated—

(1) The terms defined in the provisions of law contained in the regulations in this part shall have the meanings so assigned to them.

(2) The Internal Revenue Code of 1954 means the act approved August 16, 1954 (26 U.S.C.), entitled "An act to revise the internal revenue laws of the United States", as amended.

(3) The Internal Revenue Code of 1939 means the act approved February 10, 1939 (53 Stat., Part 1), as amended.

(4) The Social Security Act means the act approved August 14, 1935 (42 U.S.C. c. 7), as amended.

(5) (i) The Social Security Amendments of 1954 means the act approved September 1, 1954 (68 Stat. 1052), as amended.

(ii) The Social Security Amendments of 1956 means the act approved August 1, 1956 (70 Stat. 807, as amended).

(6) The Social Security Administration means the Social Security Administration of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. (See the Statement of Organization and Delegations of Authority of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare (20 F. R. 1996).)

(7) District director means district director of internal revenue. The term also includes the Director of International Operations in all cases where the authority to perform the functions which may be performed by a district director has been delegated to the Director of International Operations.

(8) Person includes an individual, a corporation, a partnership, a trust or estate, a joint-stock company, an association, or a syndicate, group, pool, joint venture or other unincorporated organization or group, through or by means of which any business, financial operation, or venture is carried on. It includes a guardian, committee, trustee, executor, administrator, trustee in bankruptcy, receiver, assignee for the benefit of creditors, conservator, or any person acting in a fiduciary capacity.

(9) Calendar quarter means a period of 3 calendar months ending on March 31, June 30, September 30, or December 31.

(10) Account number means the identifying number of an employee assigned, as the case may be, under the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, under subchapter A of chapter 9 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939, or under title VIII of the Social Security Act.

(11) Identification number means the identifying number of an employer assigned, as the case may be, under the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, under subchapter A or D of chapter 9 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939, or under title VIII of the Social Security Act.

(12) Regulations 90 means the regulations approved February 17, 1936 (26 CFR (1939) Part 400), as amended, relating to the excise tax on employers under title IX of the Social Security Act, and such regulations as made applicable to subchapter C of chapter 9 and other provisions of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939 by Treasury Decision 4885, approved February 11, 1939 (26 CFR (1939) 1943 Cum. Supp., p. 5876), together with any amendments to such regulations as so made applicable to the Internal Revenue Code of 1939.

(13) Regulations 91 means the regulations approved November 9, 1936 (26 CFR (1939) Part 401), as amended, relating to the employees' tax and the employers' tax under title VIII of the Social Security Act, and such regulations as made applicable to subchapter A of chapter 9 and other provisions of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939 by Treasury Decision 4885, approved February 11, 1939 (26 CFR (1939) 1943 Cum. Supp., p. 5876), together with any amendments to such regulations as so made applicable to the Internal Revenue Code of 1939.

(14) Regulations 106 means the regulations approved February 24, 1940 (26 CFR (1939) Part 402), as amended, relating to the employees' tax and the employers' tax under the Federal Insurance Contributions Act (subchapter A of chapter 9 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939) with respect to the period after 1939 and before 1951.

(15) Regulations 107 means the regulations approved September 12, 1940 (26 CFR (1939) Part 403), as amended, relating to the excise tax on employers under the Federal Unemployment Tax Act (subchapter C of chapter 9 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939) with respect to the period after 1939 and before 1955.

(16) Regulations 114 means the regulations approved December 30, 1948 (26 CFR (1939) Part 411), as amended, relating to the employers' tax, employees' tax, and employee representatives' tax under the Railroad Retirement Tax Act (subchapter B of chapter 9 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939) with respect to compensation paid after 1948 for services rendered after 1946 and before 1955.

(17) Regulations 120 means the regulations approved December 22, 1953 (26 CFR (1939) Part 406), as amended, relating to collection of income tax at source on wages under subchapter D of chapter 9 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939 with respect to the period after 1953 and before 1955.

(18) Regulations 128 means the regulations approved December 6, 1951 (26 CFR (1939) Part 408), as amended, relating to the employee tax and the employer tax under the Federal Insurance Contributions Act (subchapter A of chapter 9 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939) with respect to the period after 1950 and before 1955.

(19) The cross references in the regulations in this part to other portions of the regulations, when the word "see" is used, are made only for convenience and shall be given no legal effect.

(b) Subpart B. As used in Subpart B of this part, unless otherwise expressly indicated—

(1) Act means the Federal Insurance Contributions Act.

(2) Taxes means the employee tax and the employer tax, as respectively defined in this paragraph.

(3) Employee tax means the tax imposed by section 3101 of the Code.

(4) Employer tax means the tax imposed by section 3111 of the Code.

(c) Subpart C. As used in Subpart C of this part, unless otherwise expressly indicated—

(1) Act means the Railroad Retirement Tax Act.

(2) Railway Labor Act means the act approved May 20, 1926 (45 U.S.C. c. 8), as amended.

(3) Railroad Retirement Act of 1937 means the act approved June 24, 1937 (45 U.S.C. 228a and following), as amended.

(4) Railroad Retirement Board means the board established pursuant to section 10 of the Railroad Retirement Act of 1937 (45 U.S.C. 228j).

(5) Tax means the employee tax, the employee representative tax, or the employer tax, as respectively defined in this paragraph.

(6) Employee tax means the tax imposed by section 3201 of the Code.

(7) Employee representative tax means the tax imposed by section 3211 of the Code.

(8) Employer tax means the tax imposed by section 3221 of the Code.

(d) Subpart D. As used in Subpart D of this part, unless otherwise expressly indicated:

(1) Act means the Federal Unemployment Tax Act.

(2) Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act means the act approved June 25, 1938 (45 U.S.C. c. 11), as amended.

(3) Tax means the tax imposed by section 3301 of the Code.

(e) Subpart E. As used in Subpart E of this part, unless otherwise expressly indicated, tax means the tax required to be deducted and withheld from wages under section 3402 of the Code.

§ 31.0–3 Scope of regulations.

(a) Subpart B. The regulations in Subpart B of this part relate to the imposition of the employee tax and the employer tax under the Federal Insurance Contributions Act with respect to wages paid and received after 1954 for employment performed after 1936. In addition to employment in the case of remuneration therefor paid and received after 1954, the regulations in Subpart B of this part relate also to employment performed after 1954 in the case of remuneration therefor paid and received before 1955. The regulations in Subpart B of this part include provisions relating to the definition of terms applicable in the determination of the taxes under the Federal Insurance Contributions Act, such as "employee", "wages", and "employment". The provisions of Subpart B of this part relating to the definition of "employment" are applicable also, to the extent provided in § 31.3121 (b)–2, to services performed before 1955 the remuneration for which is paid after 1954. (For prior regulations on similar subject matter, see 26 CFR (1939) Part 408 (Regulations 128).)

(b) Subpart C. The regulations in Subpart C of this part relate to the imposition of the employee tax, the employee representative tax, and the employer tax under the Railroad Retirement Tax Act with respect to compensation paid after 1954, for services rendered after such date. The regulations in Subpart C of this part include provisions relating to the definition of terms applicable in the determination of the taxes under the Railroad Retirement Tax Act, such as "employee", "employee representative", "employer", and "compensation". (For prior regulations on similar subject matter, see 26 CFR (1939) Part 411 (Regulations 114).)

(c) Subpart D. The regulations in Subpart D of this part relate to the imposition on employers of the excise tax under the Federal Unemployment Tax Act for the calendar year 1955 and subsequent calendar years with respect to wages paid after 1954 for employment performed after 1938. In addition to employment in the case of remuneration therefor paid after 1954, the regulations in Subpart D of this part relate also to employment performed after 1954 in the case of remuneration therefor paid before 1955. The regulations in Subpart D of this part include provisions relating to the definition of terms applicable in the determination of the tax under the Federal Unemployment Tax Act, such as "employee", "wages", "employment", and "wages". The regulations in Subpart D of this part also include provisions relating to the credits against the Federal tax for State contributions. (For prior regulations on similar subject matter, see 26 CFR (1939) Part 403 (Regulations 107).)

(d) Subpart E. The regulations in Subpart E of this part relate to the withholding under chapter 24 of the Code of income tax at source on wages paid after 1954, regardless of when such wages were earned. The regulations in Subpart E of this part include provisions relating to the definition of terms applicable in the determination of the tax under chapter 24 of the Code, such as "employee", "employer", and "wages". (For prior regulations on similar subject matter, see 26 CFR (1939) Part 406 (Regulations 120).)

(e) Subpart F. The regulations in Subpart F of this part deal with the general provisions contained in chapter 25 of the Code, which relate to the employment taxes imposed by chapters 21 to 24, inclusive, of the Code. (For prior regulations on the subject matter of section 3503, see 26 CFR (1939) 411.802 and 408.803 (Regulations 114 and 128, respectively). For prior regulations on the subject matter of section 3504, see 26 CFR (1939) 406.807 and 408.906 (Regulations 120 and 128, respectively).)

(f) Subpart G. The regulations in Subpart G of this part, which are prescribed under selected provisions of subtitle F of the Code, relate to the procedural and administrative requirements in respect of records, returns, deposits, payments, and related matters applicable to the employment taxes imposed by subtitle C (chapters 21 to 25, inclusive) of the Code. In addition, the provisions of Subpart G of this part relate to adjustments and to claims for refund, credit, or abatement, made after 1954, in connection with the employment taxes imposed by subtitle C of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, by chapter 9 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939, or by the corresponding provisions of prior law, but not to any adjustment reported, or credit taken, in whole or in part on any return or supplemental return filed on or before July 31, 1960. The provisions of Subpart G of this part also relate to deposits of taxes imposed by subchapter B of chapter 9 of the 1939 Code or by corresponding provisions of prior law with respect to compensation paid after 1954 for services rendered before 1955. For other administrative provisions which have application to the employment taxes imposed by subtitle C of the Code, see Part 301 of this chapter (Regulations on Procedure and Administration). (The administrative and procedural regulations applicable with respect to a particular employment tax for a prior period were combined with the substantive regulations relating to such tax for such period. For the regulations applicable to the respective taxes for prior periods, see paragraphs (a), (b), (c), and (d) of this section.)

§ 31.0–4 Extent to which the regulations in this part supersede prior regulations.

The regulations in this part, with respect to the subject matter within the scope thereof, supersede 26 CFR (1939) Parts 403, 406, 408, and 411 (Regulations 107, 120, 128, and 114, respectively). The Regulations on Monthly Returns and Payment of Employment Taxes (23 F.R. 5006) are also superseded.

Subpart B—Federal Insurance Contributions Act (Chapter 21, Internal Revenue Code of 1954)

TAX ON EMPLOYEES

§ 31.3101 Statutory provisions; rate of tax.

SEC. 3101. Rate of tax. In addition to other taxes, there is hereby imposed on the income of every individual a tax equal to the following percentages of the wages (as defined in section 3121 (a)) received by him with respect to employment (as defined in section 3121 (b))—

(1) With respect to wages received during the calendar years 1955 to 1959, both inclusive, the rate shall be 2 percent;

(2) With respect to wages received during the calendar years 1960 to 1964, both inclusive, the rate shall be 2½ percent;

(3) With respect to wages received during the calendar years 1965 to 1969, both inclusive, the rate shall be 3 percent;

(4) With respect to wages received during the calendar years 1970 to 1974, both inclusive, the rate shall be 3½ percent;

(5) With respect to wages received after December 31, 1974, the rate shall be 4 percent.

[Sec. 3101 as amended by sec. 208 (b), Social Security Amendments 1954]

§ 31.3101–1 Measure of employee tax.

The employee tax is measured by the amount of wages received after 1954 with respect to employment after 1936. See §§ 31.3121 (a)–1 to 31.3121 (a) (10)–1, inclusive, relating to wages; and §§ 31.3121 (b)–1 to 31.3121 (b) (15)–1, inclusive, relating to employment. For provisions relating to the time of receipt of wages, see § 31.3121 (a)–2.

§ 31.3101–2 Rates and computation of employee tax.

(a) The rates of employee tax applicable for the respective calendar years are as follows:

	Percent
For the calendar years 1955 to 1959, both inclusive	2
For the calendar years 1960 to 1964, both inclusive	2½
For the calendar years 1965 to 1969, both inclusive	3
For the calendar years 1970 to 1974, both inclusive	3½
For the calendar year 1975 and subsequent calendar years	4

(b) The employee tax is computed by applying to the wages received by the employee the rate in effect at the time such wages are received.

Example. In 1953 employee A performed for employer X services which constituted employment (see § 31.3121 (b)–2). In 1955, A receives from X $1,000 as remuneration for such services. The tax is payable at the 2 percent rate in effect for the calendar year 1955 (the year in which the wages are received) and not at the 1½ percent rate which was in effect for the calendar year 1953 (the year in which the services were performed).

§ 31.3101–3 When employee tax attaches.

The employee tax attaches at the time that the wages are received by the employee. For provisions relating to the time of such receipt, see § 31.3121(a)–2.

§ 31.3102 Statutory provisions; deduction of tax from wages.

SEC. 3102. Deduction of tax from wages—(a) Requirement. The tax imposed by section 3101 shall be collected by the employer of the taxpayer, by deducting the amount of the tax from the wages as and when paid. An employer who in any calendar quarter pays to an employee cash remuneration to which paragraph (7) (B) or (C) or (10) of section 3121 (a) is applicable may deduct an amount equivalent to such tax from any such payment of remuneration, even though at the time of payment the total amount of such remuneration paid to the employee by the employer in the calendar quarter is less than $50; and an employer who in any calendar year pays to an employee cash remuneration to which paragraph (8) (B) of section 3121 (a) is applicable may deduct an amount equivalent to such tax from any such payment of remuneration, even though at the time of payment the total amount of such remuneration paid to the employee by the employer in the calendar year is less than $100.

(b) Indemnification of employer. Every employer required so to deduct the tax shall be liable for the payment of such tax, and shall be indemnified against the claims and demands of any person for the amount of any such payment made by such employer.

[Sec. 3102 as amended by sec. 205 A, Social Security Amendments 1954]

§ 31.3102–1 Collection of, and liability for, employee tax.

(a) The employer shall collect from each of his employees the employee tax with respect to wages for employment performed for the employer by the employee. The employer shall make the collection by deducting or causing to be deducted the amount of the employee tax from such wages as and when paid. (For provisions relating to the time of such payment, see § 31.3121(a)–2.) The employer is required to collect the tax, notwithstanding the wages are paid in something other than money, and to pay over the tax in money. (As to the exclusion from wages of remuneration paid in any medium other than cash for certain types of services, see § 31.3121(a) (7)–1, relating to such remuneration paid for service not in the course of the employer's trade or business or for domestic service in a private home of the employer; and § 31.3121 (a) (8)–1, relating to such remuneration paid for agricultural labor.)

(b) The employer may deduct amounts equivalent to employee tax from payments to an employee of cash remuneration to which the sections referred to in this paragraph are applicable prior to the time that the sum of such payments equals:

(1) $50 in the calendar quarter, for service not in the course of the employer's trade or business, to which § 31.3121 (a) (7)–1 is applicable; or

(2) $50 in the calendar quarter, for domestic service in a private home of the employer, to which § 31.3121 (a) (7)–1 is applicable; or

(3) $100 in the calendar year, for agricultural labor, to which § 31.3121 (a) (8)–1 is applicable; or

(4) $50 in the calendar quarter, for service performed as a home worker, to which § 31.3121 (a) (10)–1 is applicable. At such time as the sum of the cash payments in the calendar quarter or the calendar year, as the case may be, for a type of service referred to in this paragraph equals or exceeds the amount specified, the employer is required to collect from the employee any amount of employee tax not previously deducted. If an employer pays cash remuneration to an employee for two or more of the types of service referred to in this paragraph, the provisions of this paragraph are to be applied separately to the amount of remuneration attributable to each type of service. For provisions relating to the repayment to an employee, or other disposition, of amounts deducted from an employee's remuneration in excess of the correct amount of employee tax, see § 31.6413(a)–1. The application of this paragraph may be illustrated by the following examples:

Example (1). In the calendar year 1955 employer X makes several payments of cash remuneration to employee A for agricultural labor which constitutes employment. In January employer X makes his first payment of such cash remuneration to employee A in the amount of $10. X deducts 20 cents (2 percent of $10) as an amount equivalent to employee tax. In June X makes his second payment of cash remuneration to A in the amount of $50. X does not deduct from this payment an amount equivalent to employee tax. In October X makes his third payment of cash remuneration to A in the amount of $40. This amount brings the sum of such payments in 1955 to $100, and X is now required to collect employee tax from A. The amount of employee tax applicable to the $100 so paid is $2 (2 percent of $100). Inasmuch as X previously deducted 20 cents in January 1955, X is required to deduct $1.80 ($2 minus 20 cents) from the $40 paid in October 1955.

Example (2). Assume the same facts as in example (1), and assume further that employer X deducted $1.80 from the October payment to employee A. In November 1955, X makes his next payment of cash remuneration to A in the amount of $10. X is required to deduct 20 cents (2 percent of $10) from such payment.

(c) In collecting employee tax, the employer shall disregard any fractional part of a cent of such tax unless it amounts to one-half cent or more, in which case it shall be increased to 1 cent. The employer is liable for the employee tax with respect to all wages paid by him to each of his employees whether or not it is collected from the employee. If, for example, the employer deducts less than the correct amount of tax, or if he fails to deduct any part of the tax, he is nevertheless liable for the correct amount of the tax. Until collected from him the employee also is liable for the employee tax with respect to all the wages received by him. Any employee tax collected by or on behalf of an employer is a special fund in trust for the United States. See section 7501. The employer is indemnified against the claims and demands of any person for the amount of any payment of such tax made by the employer to the district director.

§ 31.3102–2 Manner and time of payment of employee tax.

The employee tax is payable to the district director in the manner and at the time prescribed in Subpart G of the regulations in this part.

Tax on Employers

§ 31.3111 Statutory provisions; rate of tax.

Sec. 3111. Rate of tax. In addition to other taxes, there is hereby imposed on every employer an excise tax, with respect to having individuals in his employ, equal to the following percentages of the wages (as defined in section 3121 (a)) paid by him with respect to employment (as defined in section 3121 (b))—

(1) With respect to wages paid during the calendar years 1955 to 1959, both inclusive, the rate shall be 2 percent;

(2) With respect to wages paid during the calendar years 1960 to 1964, both inclusive, the rate shall be 2½ percent;

(3) With respect to wages paid during the calendar years 1965 to 1969, both inclusive, the rate shall be 3 percent;

(4) With respect to wages paid during the calendar years 1970 to 1974, both inclusive, the rate shall be 3½ percent;

(5) With respect to wages paid after December 31, 1974, the rate shall be 4 percent. [Sec. 3111 as amended by sec. 208 (c), Social Security Amendments 1954]

§ 31.3111–1 Measure of employer tax.

The employer tax is measured by the amount of wages paid after 1954 with respect to employment after 1936. See §§ 31.3121 (a)–1 to 31.3121 (a) (10)–1, inclusive, relating to wages, and §§ 31.3121 (b)–1 to 31.3121 (b) (15)–1, inclusive, relating to employment. For provisions relating to time of payment of wages, see § 31.3121 (a)–2.

§ 31.3111–2 Rates and computation of employer tax.

(a) The rates of employer tax applicable for the respective calendar years are as follows:

	Percent
For the calendar years 1956 to 1959, both inclusive	2
For the calendar years 1960 to 1964, both inclusive	2½
For the calendar years 1965 to 1969, both inclusive	3
For the calendar years 1970 to 1974, both inclusive	3½
For the calendar year 1975 and subsequent calendar years	4

(b) The employer tax is computed by applying to the wages paid by the employer the rate in effect at the time such wages are paid.

§ 31.3111–3 When employer tax attaches.

The employer tax attaches at the time that the wages are paid by the employer. For provisions relating to the time of such payment, see § 31.3121(a)–2.

§ 31.3111–4 Liability for employer tax.

The employer is liable for the employer tax with respect to the wages paid to his employees for employment performed for him.

§ 31.3111–5 Manner and time of payment of employer tax.

The employer tax is payable to the district director in the manner and at the time prescribed in Subpart G of the regulations in this part.

§ 31.3112 Statutory provisions; instrumentalities of the United States.

Sec. 3112. Instrumentalities of the United States. Notwithstanding any other provision of law (whether enacted before or after the enactment of this section) which grants to any instrumentality of the United States an exemption from taxation, such instrumentality shall not be exempt from the tax imposed by section 3111 unless such other provision of law grants a specific exemption, by reference to section 3111 (or the corresponding section of prior law), from the tax imposed by such section.

§ 31.3112–1 Instrumentalities of the United States specifically exempted from the employer tax.

Section 3112 makes ineffectual as to the employer tax imposed by section 3111 those provisions of law which grant to an instrumentality of the United States an exemption from taxation, unless such provisions grant a specific exemption from the tax imposed by section 3111 by an express reference to such section or the corresponding section of prior law (section 1410 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939). Thus, the general exemptions from Federal taxation granted by various statutes to certain instrumentalities of the United States without specific reference to the tax imposed by section 3111 or by section 1410 of the 1939 Code are rendered inoperative insofar as such exemptions relate to the tax imposed by section 3111. For provisions relating to the exception from employment of services performed in the employ of an instrumentality of the United States specifically exempted from the employer tax, see § 31.3121 (b) (5)–1. For provisions relating to services performed for an instrumentality exempt on December 31, 1950, from the employer tax, see paragraph (c) of § 31.3121 (b) (6)–1.

General Provisions

§ 31.3121(a) Statutory provisions; definitions; wages.

Sec. 3121. Definitions—(a) Wages. For purposes of this chapter, the term "wages" means all remuneration for employment, including the cash value of all remuneration paid in any medium other than cash; except that such term shall not include—

• • • • •

§ 31.3121(a)–1 Wages.

(a) Whether remuneration paid after 1954 for employment performed after 1936 constitutes wages is determined under section 3121(a). This section and §§ 31.3121(a)(1)–1 to 31.3121(a)(10)–1, inclusive (relating to the statutory exclusions from wages), apply with respect only to remuneration paid after 1954 for employment performed after 1936. Whether remuneration paid after 1936 and before 1940 for employment performed after 1936 constitutes wages shall be determined in accordance with the applicable provisions of law and of 26 CFR (1939) Part 401 (Regulations 91). Whether remuneration paid after 1939 and before 1951 for employment performed after 1936 constitutes wages shall be determined in accordance with the applicable provisions of law and of 26 CFR (1939) Part 402 (Regulations 106).

Whether remuneration paid after 1950 and before 1955 for employment performed after 1936 constitutes wages shall be determined in accordance with the applicable provisions of law and of 26 CFR (1939) Part 408 (Regulations 128).

(b) The term "wages" means all remuneration for employment unless specifically excepted under section 3121 (a) (see §§ 31.3121 (a) (1)–1 to 31.3121 (a) (10)–1, inclusive) or paragraph (j) of this section.

(c) The name by which the remuneration for employment is designated is immaterial. Thus, salaries, fees, bonuses, and commissions on sales or on insurance premiums, are wages if paid as compensation for employment.

(d) The basis upon which the remuneration is paid is immaterial in determining whether the remuneration constitutes wages. Thus, it may be paid on the basis of piecework, or a percentage of profits; and it may be paid hourly, daily, weekly, monthly, or annually.

(e) Generally the medium in which the remuneration is paid is also immaterial. It may be paid in cash or in something other than cash, as for example, goods, lodging, food, or clothing. Remuneration paid in items other than cash shall be computed on the basis of the fair value of such items at the time of payment. See, however, §§ 31.3121 (a) (7)–1, 31.3121 (a) (8)–1, and 31.3121 (a) (10)–1, relating to the treatment of remuneration paid in any medium other than cash for services not in the course of the employer's trade or business and for domestic service in a private home of the employer, for agricultural labor, and for services performed by certain home workers, respectively.

(f) Ordinarily, facilities or privileges (such as entertainment, medical services, or so-called "courtesy" discounts on purchases), furnished or offered by an employer to his employees generally, are not considered as remuneration for employment if such facilities or privileges are of relatively small value and are offered or furnished by the employer merely as a means of promoting the health, good will, contentment, or efficiency of his employees. The term "facilities or privileges", however, does not ordinarily include the value of meals or lodging furnished, for example, to restaurant or hotel employees, or to seamen or other employees aboard vessels, since generally these items constitute an appreciable part of the total remuneration of such employees.

(g) Amounts of so-called "vacation allowances" paid to an employee constitute wages. Thus, the salary of an employee on vacation, paid notwithstanding his absence from work, constitutes wages.

(h) Amounts paid specifically—either as advances or reimbursements—for traveling or other bona fide ordinary and necessary expenses incurred or reasonably expected to be incurred in the business of the employer are not wages. Traveling and other reimbursed expenses must be identified either by making a separate payment or by specifically indicating the separate amounts where both wages and expense allowances are combined in a single payment.

(i) Remuneration for employment, unless such remuneration is specifically excepted under section 3121 (a) or paragraph (j) of this section, constitutes wages even though at the time paid the relationship of employer and employee no longer exists between the person in whose employ the services were performed and the individual who performed them.

Example. A is employed by B during the month of January 1955 in employment and is entitled to receive remuneration of $100 for the services performed for B, the employer, during the month. A leaves the employ of B at the close of business on January 31, 1955. On February 15, 1955 (when A is no longer an employee of B), B pays A the remuneration of $100 which was earned for the services performed in January. The $100 is wages and the taxes are payable with respect thereto.

(j) In addition to the exclusions specified in §§ 31.3121 (a) (1)–1 to 31.3121 (a) (10)–1, inclusive, the following types of payments are excluded from wages:

(1) Remuneration for services which do not constitute employment under section 3121 (b) (see §§ 31.3121 (b)–1 to 31.3121 (b) (15)–1, inclusive) and which are not deemed to be employment under section 3121 (c) (see § 31.3121 (c)–1).

(2) Remuneration for services which are deemed not to be employment under section 3121 (c) (see § 31.3121 (c)–1).

(3) Tips or gratuities paid directly to an employee by a customer of an employer, and not accounted for by the employee to the employer.

§ 31.3121 (a)–2 Wages; when paid and received.

(a) In general, wages are received by an employee at the time that they are paid by the employer to the employee. Wages are paid by an employer at the time that they are actually or constructively paid unless under paragraph (c) of this section they are deemed to be subsequently paid.

(b) Wages are constructively paid when they are credited to the account of or set apart for an employee so that they may be drawn upon by him at any time although not then actually reduced to possession. To constitute payment in such a case the wages must be credited to or set apart for the employee without any substantial limitation or restriction as to the time or manner of payment or condition upon which payment is to be made, and must be made available to him so that they may be drawn upon at any time, and their payment brought within his own control and disposition. For provisions relating to the treatment of deductions from remuneration as payments of remuneration, see § 31.3123–1.

(c) (1) The first $50 of cash remuneration paid, either actually or constructively, by an employer to an employee in a calendar quarter for—

(i) Service to which § 31.3121 (a) (7)–1 is applicable (service not in the course of the employer's trade or business and domestic service in a private home of the employer); or

(ii) Service to which § 31.3121 (a) (10)–1 is applicable (service performed by certain home workers), shall be deemed to be paid by the employer to the employee at the first moment of time in such calendar quarter that the sum of such cash payments made within such quarter is at least $50.

(2) The first $100 of cash remuneration paid, either actually or constructively, by an employer to an employee in a calendar year for agricultural labor to which § 31.3121 (a) (8)–1 is applicable shall be deemed to be paid by the employer to the employee at the first moment of time in such calendar year that the sum of such cash payments made within such year is at least $100.

(3) If an employer pays cash remuneration to an employee for two or more of the types of service referred to in this paragraph, the provisions of this paragraph are to be applied separately to the amount of remuneration attributable to each type of service.

§ 31.3121(a)(1) Statutory provisions; definitions; wages; $4,200 limitation.

Sec. 3121. Definitions—(a) Wages. For purposes of this chapter, the term "wages" means all remuneration for employment, including the cash value of all remuneration paid in any medium other than cash; except that such term shall not include—

(1) That part of the remuneration which, after remuneration (other than remuneration referred to in the succeeding paragraphs of this subsection) equal to $4,200 with respect to employment has been paid to an individual by an employer during any calendar year, is paid to such individual by such employer during such calendar year. If an employer (hereinafter referred to as successor employer) during any calendar year acquires substantially all the property used in a trade or business of another employer (hereinafter referred to as a predecessor), or used in a separate unit of a trade or business of a predecessor, and immediately after the acquisition employs in his trade or business an individual who immediately prior to the acquisition was employed in the trade or business of such predecessor, then, for the purpose of determining whether the successor employer has paid remuneration (other than remuneration referred to in the succeeding paragraphs of this subsection) with respect to employment equal to $4,200 to such individual during such calendar year, any remuneration (other than remuneration referred to in the succeeding paragraphs of this subsection) with respect to employment paid (or considered under this paragraph as having been paid) to such individual by such predecessor during such calendar year and prior to such acquisition shall be considered as having been paid by such successor employer;

[Sec. 3121 (a) (1) as amended by sec. 204 (a) Social Security Amendments 1954]

§ 31.3121(a)(1)–1 $4,200 limitation.

(a) In general. (1) The term "wages" does not include that part of the remuneration paid within any calendar year after 1954 by an employer to an employee which exceeds the first $4,200 of remuneration (exclusive of remuneration excepted from wages in accordance with paragraph (j) of § 31.3121 (a)–1 or §§ 31.3121 (a) (2)–1 to 31.3121 (a) (10)–1, inclusive) paid within such calendar year by such employer to such employee for employment performed for him at any time after 1936.

(2) The $4,200 limitation applies only if the remuneration received during any one calendar year by an employee from the same employer for employment performed after 1936 exceeds $4,200. The limitation in such case relates to the amount of remuneration received during any one calendar year for employment after 1936 and not to the amount of remuneration for employment performed in any one calendar year.

Example. Employee A, in 1955, receives $3,500 from employer B on account of $4,000 due him for employment performed in 1955. In 1956 A receives from employer B the balance of $500 due him for employment performed in the prior year (1955), and thereafter in 1956 also receives $4,000 for employment performed in 1956 for employer B. The $3,500 received in 1955 is subject to the taxes in 1955. The balance of $500 received in 1956 for employment during 1955 is subject to the taxes in 1956, as is also the first $3,700 paid of the $4,000 for employment during 1956 (this $500 for 1955 employment added to the first $3,700 paid for 1956 employment constitutes the maximum wages which could be received by A in 1956 from any one employer). The final $300 received by A from B in 1956 is not included as wages and is not subject to the taxes.

(3) If during a calendar year the employee receives remuneration from more than one employer, the limitation of wages to the first $4,200 of remuneration received applies, not to the aggregate remuneration received from all employers with respect to employment performed after 1936, but instead to the remuneration received during such calendar year from each employer with respect to employment performed after 1936. In such case the first $4,200 received during the calendar year from each employer constitutes wages and is subject to the taxes, even though, under section 6413 (c), the employee may be entitled to a special credit or refund of any amount of employee tax deducted from his wages which exceeds the employee tax with respect to the first $4,200 of wages received during the calendar year from all employers. In this connection and in connection with the two examples immediately following, see § 31.6413 (c)–1, relating to special credits or refunds of employee tax on wages over $4,200. In connection with the application of the $4,200 limitation on wages in the case of remuneration paid for services performed in the employ of the United States or a wholly owned instrumentality thereof, see § 31.3122. In connection with the application of the $4,200 limitation, see also paragraph (b) of this section, relating to the circumstances under which wages paid by a predecessor employer are deemed to be paid by his successor.

Example (1). During 1955 employee C receives from employer D a salary of $700 a month for employment performed for D during the first 7 months of 1955, or total remuneration of $4,900. At the end of the sixth month C has received $4,200 from employer D, and only that part of his total remuneration from D constitutes wages subject to the taxes. The $700 received by employee C from employer D in the seventh month is not included as wages and is not subject to the taxes. At the end of the seventh month C leaves the employ of D and enters the employ of E. C receives remuneration of $840 a month from employer E in each of the remaining 5 months of 1955, or total remuneration of $4,200 from employer E. The entire $4,200 received by C from employer E constitutes wages and is subject to the taxes. Thus, the first $4,200 received from employer D and the entire $4,200 received from employer E constitute wages.

Example (2). During the calendar year 1955 F is simultaneously an officer (an employee) of the X Corporation, the Y Corporation, and the Z Corporation and during such year receives a salary of $4,200 from each corporation. Each $4,200 received by F from each of the Corporations X, Y, and Z (whether or not such corporations are related) constitutes wages and is subject to the taxes.

(b) Wages paid by predecessor attributed to successor. (1) If an employer (hereinafter referred to as a successor) during any calendar year acquires substantially all the property used in a trade or business of another employer (hereinafter referred to as a predecessor), or used in a separate unit of a trade or business of a predecessor, and if immediately after the acquisition the successor employs in his trade or business an individual who immediately prior to the acquisition was employed in the trade or business of such predecessor, then, for purposes of the application of the $4,200 limitation set forth in paragraph (a) of this section, any remuneration (exclusive of remuneration excepted from wages in accordance with paragraph (j) of § 31.3121 (a)–1 or §§ 31.3121 (a) (2)–1 to 31.3121 (a) (10)–1, inclusive) with respect to employment paid (or considered under this paragraph as having been paid) to such individual by such predecessor during such calendar year and prior to such acquisition shall be considered as having been paid by such successor.

(2) The wages paid, or considered as having been paid, by a predecessor to an employee shall, for purposes of the $4,200 limitation, be treated as having been paid to such employee by a successor, if:

(i) The successor during a calendar year acquired substantially all the property used in a trade or business, or used in a separate unit of a trade or business, of the predecessor;

(ii) Such employee was employed in the trade or business of the predecessor immediately prior to the acquisition and is employed by the successor in his trade or business immediately after the acquisition; and

(iii) Such wages were paid during the calendar year in which the acquisition occurred and prior to such acquisition.

(3) The method of acquisition of the property is immaterial. The acquisition may occur as a consequence of a corporate merger or consolidation, the incorporation of a business by a sole proprietor or a partnership, the continuance without interruption of the business of a previously existing partnership by a new partnership or by a sole proprietor, or a purchase or any other transaction whereby substantially all the property used in a trade or business, or used in a separate unit of a trade or business, of one employer is acquired by another employer.

(4) Substantially all the property used in a separate unit of a trade or business may consist of substantially all the property used in the performance of an essential operation of the trade or business, or it may consist of substantially all the property used in a relatively self-sustaining entity which forms a part of the trade or business.

Example (1). The M Corporation which is engaged in the manufacture of automobiles, including the manufacture of automobile engines, discontinues the manufacture of the engines and transfers all the property used in such manufacturing operation to the N Company. The N Company is considered to have acquired a separate unit of the trade or business of the M Corporation, namely, its engine manufacturing unit.

Example (2). The R Corporation which is engaged in the operation of a chain of grocery stores transfers one of such stores to the S Company. The S Company is considered to have acquired a separate unit of the trade or business of the R Corporation.

(5) A successor may receive credit for wages paid to an employee by a predecessor only if immediately prior to the acquisition the employee was employed by the predecessor in his trade or business which was acquired by the successor and if immediately after the acquisition such employee is employed by the successor in his trade or business (whether or not in the same trade or business in which the acquired property is used). If the acquisition involves only a separate unit of a trade or business of the predecessor, the employee need not have been employed by the predecessor in that unit provided he was employed in the trade or business of which the acquired unit was a part.

Example. The Y Corporation in 1955 acquires all the property of the X Manufacturing Company and immediately after the acquisition employs in its trade or business employee A, who, immediately prior to the acquisition, was employed by the X Company. The X Company has in 1955 (the calendar year in which the acquisition occurs) and prior to the acquisition paid $2,500 of wages to A. The Y Corporation in 1955 pays to A remuneration with respect to employment of $2,500. Only $1,700 of the remuneration paid by the Y Corporation is considered to be wages. For purposes of the $4,200 limitation, the Y Corporation is credited with the $2,500 paid to A by the X Company. If, in the same calendar year, the property is acquired by the Z Company from the Y Corporation and A immediately after the acquisition is employed by the Z Company in its trade or business, no part of the remuneration paid to A by the Z Company in the year of the acquisition will be considered to be wages. The Z Company will be credited with the remuneration paid to A by the Y Corporation and also with the wages paid to A by the X Company (considered for purposes of the application of the $4,200 limitation as having also been paid by the Y Corporation).

(6) Where a corporation described in section 501 (c) (3) which is exempt from income tax under section 501 (a) has in effect a certificate filed pursuant to section 3121 (k), or pursuant to section 1426 (l) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939, waiving its exemption from the taxes imposed by the Act, the activity in which such corporation is engaged is considered to be its trade or business for the purpose of determining whether the transferred property was used in the trade or business of the predecessor and for the purpose of determining whether the employment by the predecessor and the successor of an individual whose services were retained by the successor constitute employment in a trade or business. Thus, if a charitable or religious organization, subject to the taxes by virtue of its certificate, acquires all the property of another such organization likewise subject to the taxes and retains the services of employees of the predecessor, wages paid to such employees by the predecessor in the year of the acquisition (and prior to such acquisition) will be attributed to the successor for purposes of the $4,200 limitation.

§ 31.3121(a)(2) Statutory provisions; definitions; wages; payments under employers' plans on account of retirement, sickness or accident disability, medical or hospitalization expenses, or death.

SEC. 3121. Definitions—(a) Wages. For purposes of this chapter, the term "wages" means all remuneration for employment, including the cash value of all remuneration paid in any medium other than cash; except that such term shall not include—

• • • • •

(2) The amount of any payment (including any amount paid by an employer for insurance or annuities, or into a fund, to provide for any such payment) made to, or on behalf of, an employee or any of his dependents under a plan or system established by an employer which makes provision for his employees generally (or for his employees generally and their dependents) or for a class or classes of his employees (or for a class or classes of his employees and their dependents), on account of—

(A) Retirement, or

(B) Sickness or accident disability, or

(C) Medical or hospitalization expenses in connection with sickness or accident disability, or

(D) Death.

§ 31.3121(a)(2)–1 Payments under employers' plans on account of retirement, sickness or accident disability, medical or hospitalization expenses, or death.

(a) The term "wages" does not include the amount of any payment (including any amount paid by an employer for insurance or annuities, or into a fund, to provide for any such payment) made to, or on behalf of, an employee or any of his dependents under a plan or system established by an employer which makes provision for his employees generally (or for his employees generally and their dependents) or for a class or classes of his employees (or for a class or classes of his employees and their dependents), on account of—

(1) An employee's retirement,

(2) Sickness or accident disability of an employee or any of his dependents,

(3) Medical or hospitalization expenses in connection with sickness or accident disability of an employee or any of his dependents, or

(4) Death of an employee or any of his dependents.

(b) The plan or system established by an employer need not provide for payments on account of all of the specified items, but such plan or system may provide for any one or more of such items. Payments for any one or more of such items under a plan or system established by an employer solely for the dependents of his employees are not within this exclusion from wages.

(c) Dependents of an employee include the employee's husband or wife, children, and any other members of the employee's immediate family.

(d) It is immaterial for purposes of this exclusion whether the amount or possibility of such benefit payments is taken into consideration in fixing the amount of an employee's remuneration or whether such payments are required, expressly or impliedly, by the contract of service.

§ 31.3121(a)(3) Statutory provisions; definitions; wages; retirement payments.

SEC. 3121. Definitions—(a) Wages. For purposes of this chapter, the term "wages" means all remuneration for employment, including the cash value of all remuneration paid in any medium other than cash; except that such term shall not include—

• • • • •

(3) Any payment made to an employee (including any amount paid by an employer for insurance or annuities, or into a fund, to provide for any such payment) on account of retirement;

§ 31.3121(a)(3)–1 Retirement payments.

The term "wages" does not include any payment made by an employer to an employee (including any amount paid by an employer for insurance or annuities, or into a fund, to provide for any such payment) on account of the employee's retirement. Thus, payments made to an employee on account of his retirement are excluded from wages under this exception even though not made under a plan or system.

§ 31.3121(a)(4) Statutory provisions; definitions; wages; payments on account of sickness or accident disability, or medical or hospitalization expenses.

SEC. 3121. Definitions—(a) Wages. For purposes of this chapter, the term "wages" means all remuneration for employment, including the cash value of all remuneration paid in any medium other than cash; except that such term shall not include—

• • • • •

(4) Any payment on account of sickness or accident disability, or medical or hospitalization expenses in connection with sickness or accident disability, made by an employer to, or on behalf of, an employee after the expiration of 6 calendar months following the last calendar month in which the employee worked for such employer;

§ 31.3121(a)(4)–1 Payments on account of sickness or accident disability, or medical or hospitalization expenses.

The term "wages" does not include any payment made by an employer to, or on behalf of, an employee on account of the employee's sickness or accident disability or the medical or hospitalization expenses in connection with the employee's sickness or accident disability, if such payment is made after the expiration of 6 calendar months following the last calendar month in which such employee worked for such employer. Such payments are excluded from wages under this exception even though not made under a plan or system. If the employee does not actually perform services for the employer during the requisite period, the existence of the employer-employee relationship during that period is immaterial.

§ 31.3121(a)(5) Statutory provisions; definitions; wages; payments from or to certain tax-exempt trusts or under or to certain annuity plans.

SEC. 3121. Definitions—(a) Wages. For purposes of this chapter, the term "wages" means all remuneration for employment, including the cash value of all remuneration paid in any medium other than cash; except that such term shall not include—

• • • • •

(5) Any payment made to, or on behalf of, an employee or his beneficiary—

(A) From or to a trust described in section 401 (a) which is exempt from tax under section 501 (a) at the time of such payment unless such payment is made to an employee of the trust as remuneration for services rendered as such employee and not as a beneficiary of the trust, or

(B) Under or to an annuity plan which, at the time of such payment, meets the requirements of section 401 (a) (3), (4), (5), and (6);

§ 31.3121(a)(5)–1 Payments from or to certain tax-exempt trusts or under or to certain annuity plans.

The term "wages" does not include—

(a) Any payment made by an employer, on behalf of an employee or his beneficiary, into a trust or annuity plan, if at the time of such payment the trust is exempt from tax under section 501 (a) as an organization described in section 401 (a) or the annuity plan meets the requirements of section 401 (a) (3), (4), (5), and (6); or

(b) Any payment made to, or on behalf of, an employee or his beneficiary from a trust or under an annuity plan, if at the time of such payment the trust is exempt from tax under section 501 (a) as an organization described in section 401 (a) or the annuity plan meets the requirements of section 401 (a) (3), (4), (5), and (6).

A payment made to an employee of a trust described in section 401 (a) which is exempt from tax under section 501 (a) for services rendered as an employee of such trust and not as a beneficiary of the trust is not within this exclusion from wages.

§ 31.3121(a)(6) Statutory provisions; definitions; wages; payment by employer of employee tax under section 3101 or employee contributions under a State law.

SEC. 3121. Definitions—(a) Wages. For purposes of this chapter, the term "wages" means all remuneration for employment, including the cash value of all remuneration paid in any medium other than cash; except that such term shall not include—

• • • • •

(6) The payment by an employer (without deduction from the remuneration of the employee)—

(A) Of the tax imposed upon an employee under section 3101 (or the corresponding section of prior law), or

(B) Of any payment required from an employee under a State unemployment compensation law;

§ 31.3121(a)(6)–1 Payment by an employer of employee tax under section 3101 or employee contributions under a State law.

The term "wages" does not include any payment by an employer (without deduction from the remuneration of, or other reimbursement from, the employee) of either (a) the employee tax imposed by section 3101 or the corresponding section of prior law, or (b) any payment required from an employee under a State unemployment compensation law.

§ 31.3121(a)(7) Statutory provisions; definitions; wages; payments for service not in the course of the employer's trade or business or for domestic service.

SEC. 3121. Definitions—(a) Wages. For purposes of this chapter, the term "wages" means all remuneration for employment, including the cash value of all remuneration paid in any medium other than cash; except that such term shall not include—

• • • • •

(7) (A) Remuneration paid in any medium other than cash to an employee for service not in the course of the employer's trade or business or for domestic service in a private home of the employer;

(B) Cash remuneration paid by an employer in any calendar quarter to an employee for domestic service in a private home of the employer, if the cash remuneration paid in such quarter by the employer to the employee for such service is less than $50. As used in this subparagraph, the term "domestic service in a private home of the employer" does not include service described in subsection (g) (5);

(C) Cash remuneration paid by an employer in any calendar quarter to an employee for service not in the course of the employer's trade or business, if the cash remuneration paid in such quarter by the employer to the employee for such service is less than $50. As used in this subparagraph, the term "service not in the course of the employer's trade or business" does not include domestic service in a private home of the employer and does not include service described in subsection (g) (5);

[Sec. 3121 (a) (7) as amended by sec. 204 (b) (1), (2), Social Security Amendments 1954]

§ 31.3121(a)(7)–1 Payments for services not in the course of employer's trade or business or for domestic service.

(a) Meaning of terms—(1) Services not in the course of employer's trade or business. The term "services not in the course of the employer's trade or business" includes services that do not promote or advance the trade or business of the employer. Such term does not include services performed for a corporation. As used in this section, the term does not include service not in the course of the employer's trade or business performed on a farm operated for profit or domestic service in a private home of the employer. See paragraph (f) of § 31.3121 (g)–1 for provisions relating to services not in the course of the employer's trade or business performed on a farm operated for profit.

(2) Domestic service in a private home of the employer. Services of a household nature performed by an employee in or about a private home of the person by whom he is employed constitute domestic service in a private home of the employer. A private home is a fixed place of abode of an individual or family. A separate and distinct dwelling unit maintained by an individual in an apartment house, hotel, or other similar establishment may constitute a private home. If a dwelling house is used primarily as a boarding or lodging house for the purpose of supplying board or lodging to the public as a business enterprise, it is not a private home. In general, services of a household nature in or about a private home include services performed by cooks, waiters, butlers, housekeepers, governesses, maids, valets, baby sitters, janitors, laundresses, furnacemen, caretakers, handymen, gardeners, footmen, grooms, and chauffeurs of automobiles for family use. The term "domestic service in a private home of the employer" does not include the services enumerated above unless such services are performed in or about a private home of the employer. Services not of a household nature, such as services performed as a private secretary, tutor, or librarian, even though performed in the employer's home, are not included within the term "domestic service in a private home of the employer". As used in this section, the term does not include domestic service in a private home of the employer performed on a farm operated for profit or service not in the course of the employer's trade or business. See paragraph (f) § 31.3121 (g)–1 for provisions relating to domestic service in a private home of the employer performed on a farm operated for profit.

(b) Payments other than in cash. The term "wages" does not include remuneration paid in any medium other than cash (1) for service not in the course of the employer's trade or business, or (2) for domestic service in a private home of the employer. Cash remuneration includes checks and other monetary media of exchange. Remuneration paid in any medium other than cash, such as lodging, food, clothing, car tokens, transportation passes or tickets, or other goods or commodities, for service not in the course of the employer's trade or business or for domestic service in a private home of the employer does not constitute wages.

(c) Cash payments. (1) The term "wages" does not include cash remuneration paid by an employer in any calendar quarter after 1954 to an employee for—

(i) Domestic service in a private home of the employer, or

(ii) Service not in the course of the employer's trade or business, unless the cash remuneration paid in such quarter by the employer to the employee for such service is $50 or more.

(2) The test relating to cash remuneration of $50 or more is based on the remuneration paid in a calendar quarter rather than on the remuneration earned during a calendar quarter. It is immaterial whether the remuneration was earned before 1955 or after 1954.

Example. In the calendar quarter ending March 31, 1955, employer X pays employee A cash remuneration of $50 for service not in the course of X's trade or business. Such remuneration constitutes wages subject to the taxes even though $10 thereof represents payment for such service performed by A for X in December 1954.

In determining whether $50 or more has been paid either for domestic service in a private home of the employer or for service not in the course of the employer's trade or business, only cash remuneration for such service shall be taken into account. Cash remuneration includes checks and other monetary media of exchange. Remuneration paid in any other medium, such as lodging, food, clothing, car tokens, transportation passes or tickets, or other goods or commodities, is disregarded in determining whether the cash-remuneration test is met. If an employee receives cash remuneration from an employer in a calendar quarter for both types of services the $50 cash-remuneration test is to be applied separately to each type of service. If an employee receives cash remuneration from more than one employer in a calendar quarter for domestic service in a private home of the employer or for service not in the course of the employer's trade or business, the $50 cash-remuneration test is to be applied separately to the remuneration received from each employer. See § 31.3102–1, relating to deduction of employee tax or amounts equivalent to the tax from cash payments for the services described in this section; § 31.3121 (a)–2, relating to time of payment of wages for such services; and § 31.3121 (l)–1, relating to computation to the nearest dollar of any payment of cash remuneration for domestic service in a private home of the employer.

§ 31.3121(a)(8) Statutory provisions; definitions; wages; payments for agricultural labor.

SEC. 3121. Definitions—(a) Wages. For purposes of this chapter, the term "wages" means all remuneration for employment, including the cash value of all remuneration paid in any medium other than cash; except that such term shall not include—

• • • • •

(8) (A) Remuneration paid in any medium other than cash for agricultural labor;

(B) Cash remuneration paid by an employer in any calendar year to an employee for agricultural labor, if the cash remuneration paid in such year by the employer to the employee for such labor is less than $100;

[Sec. 3121 (a) (8) as amended by sec. 204 (b) (3), Social Security Amendments 1954]

§ 31.3121(a)(8)–1 Payments for agricultural labor.

(a) Scope of this section. For purposes of the regulations in this section, the term "agricultural labor" means, except as otherwise expressly indicated, only such agricultural labor (see § 31.3121(g)–1) as constitutes employment or is deemed to constitute employment by reason of the rules relating to included and excluded services contained in section 3121(c) (see § 31.3121(c)–1) or the corresponding section of prior law.

(b) Payments other than in cash. The term "wages" does not include remuneration paid in any medium other than cash for agricultural labor. Cash remuneration includes checks and other monetary media of exchange. Remuneration paid in any medium other than cash, such as lodging, food, clothing, car tokens, transportation passes or tickets, farm products, or other goods or commodities, for agricultural labor does not constitute wages.

(c) Cash payments. (1) The term "wages" does not include cash remuneration paid by an employer in any calendar year after 1954 to an employee for agricultural labor unless the cash remuneration paid in such year by the employer to the employee for such labor is $100 or more. If an employee receives cash remuneration from an employer both for services which constitute agricultural labor and for services which do not constitute agricultural labor, only the amount of such remuneration which is attributable to agricultural labor shall be included in determining whether the cash-remuneration test is met.

Example. Employer X operates a store and also is engaged in farming operations. Employee A, who regularly performs services for X in connection with the operation of the store, works on X's farm when additional help is required for the farm activities. In the calendar year 1955, X pays A $90 in cash for agricultural labor performed on X's farm and $1,500 for services performed in connection with the operation of the store. Since only $90 in cash remuneration is paid by X to A in the calendar year 1955 for agricultural labor, the cash-remuneration test is not met and the $90 so paid to A does not constitute wages subject to the taxes.

(2) The test relating to cash remuneration of $100 or more is based on the remuneration paid in a calendar year rather than on the remuneration earned during a calendar year. It is immaterial whether the remuneration was earned before 1955 or after 1954.

Example. Employer X pays cash remuneration of $100 in the calendar year 1955 to employee A for agricultural labor. Such remuneration constitutes wages even though $10 of such amount represents payment for agricultural labor performed by A for X in December 1954.

(3) If the services performed by an employee for his employer in any pay period include both agricultural labor and other services and either the agricultural labor or the other services are excepted from employment under any of the numbered paragraphs of section 3121 (b), the rules in § 31.3121 (c)–1, relating to included and excluded services, must be applied to the services performed in such pay period. Thus, any cash remuneration paid for agricultural labor which is performed in the pay period and which is deemed to be employment under the included-excluded rules must be taken into account in determining whether the cash remuneration paid to the employee for agricultural labor meets the $100 cash-remuneration test.

Example. Employer X, who is engaged in farm operations and also in the harvesting of crude gum (oleoresin) from living trees, employs A to perform services in connection with both types of operations. X pays A cash remuneration of $135 in the calendar year 1955 in 3 equal monthly payments of $45 each for such services. A spends more than one-half of his time in the first monthly pay period in harvesting crude gum and more than one-half of his time in the second and third pay periods in cultivating the soil. While both types of services performed by A for X constitute agricultural labor as defined in section 3121 (g), A's services in connection with the cultivation of the soil constitute employment and his services in connection with the harvesting of crude gum are excepted from employment under section 3121 (b) (1) (see paragraph (a) of § 31.3121 (b) (1)–1. By application of the rules relating to included and excluded services, none of A's services in the first pay period are deemed to constitute employment and the $45 paid for his services in such pay period is disregarded for purposes of the $100 cash-remuneration test. Although all of A's services in the second and third pay periods are deemed to constitute employment by application of the included-excluded rules, the $90 paid by X to A for his services in such periods does not constitute wages subject to the taxes since the total cash remuneration paid to A by X in the calendar year for agricultural labor which constitutes or is deemed to constitute employment is less than $100.

(4) In determining whether $100 or more has been paid to an employee for agricultural labor, only cash remuneration for such labor shall be taken into account. Cash remuneration includes checks and other monetary media of exchange. Remuneration paid in any other medium, such as lodging, food, clothing, car tokens, transportation passes or tickets, farm products, or other goods or commodities, is disregarded in determining whether the cash-remuneration test is met. If an employee receives cash remuneration in any one calendar year from more than one employer for agricultural labor, the $100 cash-remuneration test is to be applied with respect to the remuneration received by the employee from each employer in such calendar year for such labor. See § 31.3102–1, relating to deduction of employee tax or amounts equivalent to the tax from cash payments for agricultural labor, and § 31.3121 (a)–2, relating to the time of payment of wages for agricultural labor.

§ 31.3121(a)(9) Statutory provisions; definitions; wages; payments to stand-by employees.

SEC. 3121. Definitions—(a) Wages. For purposes of this chapter, the term "wages" means all remuneration for employment, including the cash value of all remuneration paid in any medium other than cash; except that such term shall not include—

• • • • •

(9) Any payment (other than vacation or sick pay) made to an employee after the month in which he attains the age of 65, if he did not work for the employer in the period for which such payment is made; or § 31.3121(a)(9)–1 Payments to stand-by employees.

The term "wages" does not include any payment (other than vacation or sick pay) made by an employer to an employee after the calendar month in which the employee attains age 65, if—

(a) Such employee does no work (other than being subject to call for the performance of work) for such employer in the period for which such payment is made; and

(b) The employer-employee relationship exists between the employer and employee throughout the period for which such payment is made.

Vacation or sick pay is not within this exclusion from wages. If the employee does any work for the employer in the period for which the payment is made, no remuneration paid by such employer to such employee with respect to such period is within this exclusion from wages. For example, if employee A, who attained the age of 65 in January 1955, is employed by the X Company on a stand-by basis and is paid $200 by the X Company for being subject to call during the month of February 1955 and an additional $25 for work performed for the X Company on one day in February 1955, then none of the $225 is excluded from wages under this exception.

§ 31.3121(a)(10) Statutory provisions; definitions; wages; payments to certain home workers.

SEC. 3121. Definitions—(a) Wages. For purposes of this chapter, the term "wages" means all remuneration for employment, including the cash value of all remuneration paid in any medium other than cash; except that such term shall not include—

• • • • •

(10) Remuneration paid by an employer in any calendar quarter to an employee for service described in subsection (d) (3) (C) (relating to home workers), if the cash remuneration paid in such quarter by the employer to the employee for such service is less than $50.

§ 31.3121(a)(10)–1 Payments to certain home workers.

(a) The term "wages" does not include remuneration paid by an employer in any calendar quarter to an employee—

(1) For services performed after 1954 as a home worker who is an employee by reason of the provisions of section 3121 (d) (3) (C) (see paragraph (d) of § 31.3121(d)–1), or

(2) For services performed after 1950 and before 1955 as a home worker who is an employee by reason of the provisions of section 1426 (d) (3) (C) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939, unless the cash remuneration paid in such quarter by the employer to the employee for such services is $50 or more. The test relating to cash remuneration of $50 or more is based on remuneration paid in a calendar quarter rather than on remuneration earned during a calendar quarter. If $50 or more of cash remuneration is paid in a particular calendar quarter, it is immaterial whether the $50 is in payment for services performed during the quarter of payment or during any other quarter.

(b) The application of paragraph (a) of this section may be illustrated by the following examples:

Example (1). A, a home worker, performs services for X, a manufacturer, in 1954 and 1955. In the performance of the home work A is an employee both in 1954 (by reason of section 1426 (d) (3) (C) of the 1939 Code) and in 1955 (by reason of section 3121 (d) (3) (C)). In March 1955, A returns to X articles made by A at home from materials received by A from X in 1954. X pays A cash remuneration of $50 for such work when the finished articles are delivered. The $50 includes $10 which represents remuneration for home work performed by A in 1954. The entire $50 is subject to the taxes.

Example (2). Assume that the same transactions occur, but that A is not subject in 1954 to licensing requirements under the laws of the State in which the home work is performed. A, therefore, does not perform home work in 1954 as an employee of X by reason of section 1426 (d) (3) (C) of the 1939 Code, and the $10 paid in 1955 for such work is not remuneration for employment. The remaining $40 for the home work performed in 1955 is remuneration for employment, but is excluded from wages by application of the $50 cash-remuneration test.

(c) In the event an employee receives remuneration in any one calendar quarter from more than one employer for services performed as a home worker of the character described in paragraph (a) of this section, the regulations in this section are to be applied with respect to the remuneration received by the employee from each employer in such calendar quarter for such services. This exclusion from wages has no application to remuneration paid for services performed as a home worker who is an employee under either section 3121 (d) (2) (see paragraph (c) of § 31.3121(d)–1) or section 1426 (d) (2) of the 1939 Code, relating to common law employees.

(d) Cash remuneration includes checks and other monetary media of exchange. Remuneration paid in any other medium, such as clothing, car tokens, transportation passes or tickets, or other goods or commodities, is disregarded in determining whether the $50 cash-remuneration test is met. If the cash remuneration paid in any calendar quarter by an employer to an employee for services performed as a home worker of the character described in paragraph (a) of this section is $50 or more, then no remuneration, whether in cash or in any medium other than cash, paid by the employer to the employee in such calendar quarter for such services is excluded from wages under this exception.

(e) For provisions relating to whether a home worker is an employee under section 1426 (d) (3) (C) of the 1939 Code, see § 408.204 of Regulations 128; 26 CFR (1939) Part 408. See also § 31.3102–1, relating to deduction of employee tax or amounts equivalent to the tax from cash payments for services performed as a home worker of the character described in paragraph (a) of this section, and § 31.3121(a)–2, relating to the time of payment of wages for such services.

§ 31.3121(b) Statutory provisions; definitions; employment.

SEC. 3121. Definitions. • • •

(b) Employment. For purposes of this chapter, the term "employment" means any service performed after 1936 and prior to 1955 which was employment for purposes of subchapter A of chapter 9 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939 under the law applicable to the period in which such service was performed, and any service, of whatever nature, performed after 1954 either (A) by an employee for the person employing him, irrespective of the citizenship or residence of either, (i) within the United States, or (ii) on or in connection with an American vessel or American aircraft under a contract of service which is entered into within the United States or during the performance of which and while the employee is employed on the vessel or aircraft it touches at a port in the United States, if the employee is employed on and in connection with such vessel or aircraft when outside the United States, or (B) outside the United States by a citizen of the United States as an employee for an American employer (as defined in subsection (h)); except that, in the case of service performed after 1954, such term shall not include—

[SEC. 205. Amendments to definition of employment [Social Security Amendments of 1954]. (a) Section 3121 (b) (1) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 is amended to read as follows:

(1) (A) Service performed in connection with the production or harvesting of any commodity defined as an agricultural commodity in section 15 (g) of the Agricultural Marketing Act, as amended (46 Stat. 1550 § 3; 12 U. S. C. 1141j));

(B) Service performed by foreign agricultural workers (i) under contracts entered into in accordance with title V of the Agricultural Act of 1949, as amended (65 Stat. 119; 7 U. S. C. 1461–1468), or (ii) lawfully admitted to the United States from the Bahamas, Jamaica, and the other British West Indies on a temporary basis to perform agricultural labor;

(b) Section 3121 (b) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 is amended by striking out paragraph (3) and redesignating paragraphs (4), (5), (6), (7), (8), (9), (10), (11), (12), (13), and (14), and any references thereto contained in such code, as paragraphs (3), (4), (5), (6), (7), (8), (9), (10), (11), (12), and (13), respectively.

(f) • • • The amendments made by subsections (a) and (b) shall be applicable only with respect to services (whether performed after 1954 or prior to 1955) for which the remuneration is paid after 1954.]

§ 31.3121(b)–1 Employment; services to which the regulations in this subpart apply.

(a) The provisions of the regulations in this subpart relating to the term "employment" apply with respect to services performed after 1954. Certain provisions also apply with respect to services performed before 1955 for which the remuneration is paid after 1954 (see paragraph (b) of § 31.3121(b)–2). For provisions relating generally to services performed before 1955, see paragraph (a) of § 31.3121 (b)–2. For provisions relating to the circumstances under which services which do not constitute employment are nevertheless deemed to be employment, and relating to the circumstances under which services which constitute employment are nevertheless deemed not to be employment, see § 31.3121 (c)–1. For provisions relating to who are employees and who are employers, see §§ 31.3121 (d)–1 and 31.3121 (d)–2, respectively.

(b) The taxes apply with respect to remuneration paid after 1954 for services performed before 1955, as well as for services performed after 1954, to the extent that the remuneration and services constitute wages and employment. See §§ 31.3121 (a)–1 to 31.3121 (a) (10)–1, relating to wages.

§ 31.3121(b)–2 Employment; services performed before 1955.

(a) General rule. (1) Subject to the provisions of paragraph (b) of this section:

(i) Services performed after 1936 and before 1955 which were employment under the applicable law in effect before 1955 constitute employment under section 3121 (b).

(ii) Services performed after 1936 and before 1955 which were not employment under the applicable law in effect before 1955 do not constitute employment under section 3121 (b).

(2) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section, determination of whether services performed before 1955 constitute employment shall be made in accordance with the applicable provisions of law in effect before 1955 and of the regulations thereunder. The regulations applicable in determining whether services performed after 1936 and before 1955 constitute employment are as follows:

(i) Services performed after 1936 and before 1940—26 CFR (1939) Part 401 (Regulations 91).

(ii) Services performed after 1939 and before 1951—26 CFR (1939) Part 402 (Regulations 106).

(iii) Services performed after 1950 and before 1955—26 CFR (1939) Part 408 (Regulations 128).

(b) Certain services performed before 1955 the remuneration for which is paid after 1954. (1) Services of the following character performed before 1955, for which remuneration is paid after 1954, constitute employment under section 3121 (b):

(i) Agricultural labor, as defined in section 3121 (g) (see § 31.3121 (g)–1), other than services of the character described in section 3121 (b) (1) (relating to services performed in connection with the production or harvesting of certain oleoresinous products and services performed by certain foreign agricultural workers), which, at the time performed, constituted employment under section 1426 (b) of the 1939 Code, or would have constituted employment except for the provisions of section 1426 (b) (1) of such Code, as in effect at the time the services were performed.

(ii) Services not in the course of the employers' trade or business (see paragraph (a) (1) of § 31.3121 (a) (7)–1) which, at the time performed, constituted employment under section 1426 (b) of the 1939 Code, or would have constituted employment except for the provisions of section 1426 (b) (3) of such Code, as in effect at the time the services were performed.

(2) Services of the character described in section 3121 (b) (1) (B) (see paragraphs (b) and (c) of § 31.3121(b) (1)–1, relating to services performed by certain foreign agricultural workers), which were performed before 1955 and the remuneration for which is paid after 1954, do not constitute employment under section 3121 (b), irrespective of whether they constituted employment under section 1426 (b) of the 1939 Code, as in effect at the time the services were performed.

(3) This paragraph has no application to services performed before 1955 and the remuneration for which was paid before 1955.

§ 31.3121(b)–3 Employment; services performed after 1954.

(a) In general. Whether services performed after 1954 constitute employment is determined in accordance with the provisions of section 3121(b).

(b) Services performed within the United States. Services performed after 1954 within the United States, that is, within any of the several States, the District of Columbia, the Territory of Alaska or Hawaii, the Virgin Islands, or Puerto Rico, by an employee for his employer, unless specifically excepted by section 3121 (b), constitute employment. The place where the contract of service is entered into and the residence of the employee or of the employer are immaterial. The citizenship of the employee or of the employer also is immaterial except to the extent provided in any specific exception from employment. Thus, the employee and the employer may be citizens and residents of a foreign country and the contract of service may be entered into in a foreign country, and yet, if the employee under such contract performs services within the United States, there may be to that extent employment.

(c) Services performed outside the United States—(1) In general. Except as provided in subparagraphs (2) and (3) of this paragraph, services performed outside the United States, that is, outside the several States, the District of Columbia, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii, the Virgin Islands, and Puerto Rico, do not constitute employment.

(2) On or in connection with an American vessel or American aircraft. (i) Services performed after 1954 by an employee for an employer "on or in connection with" an American vessel or American aircraft outside the United States (that is, the several States, the District of Columbia, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii, the Virgin Islands, and Puerto Rico) constitute employment if:

(a) The employee is also employed "on and in connection with" such vessel or aircraft when outside the United States; and

(b) The services are performed under a contract of service, between the employee and the employer, which is entered into within the United States; or during the performance of the contract under which the services are performed and while the employee is employed on the vessel or aircraft it touches at a port within the United States; and

(c) The services are not excepted under section 3121 (b).

(ii) An employee performs services on and in connection with the vessel or aircraft if he performs services on such vessel or aircraft which are also in connection with the vessel or aircraft. Services performed on the vessel by employees as officers or members of the crew, or as employees of concessionaires, of the vessel, for example, are performed under such circumstances, since such services are also connected with the vessel. Similarly, services performed on the aircraft by employees as officers or members of the crew of the aircraft are performed on and in connection with such aircraft. Services may be performed on the vessel or aircraft, however, which have no connection with it, as in the case of services performed by an employee while on the vessel or aircraft merely as a passenger in the general sense. For example, the services of a buyer in the employ of a department store while he is a passenger on a vessel are not in connection with the vessel.

(iii) If services are performed by an employee "on and in connection with" an American vessel or American aircraft when outside the United States and the conditions listed in subdivision (i) (b) and (c) of this subparagraph are met, then the services of that employee performed on or in connection with the vessel or aircraft constitute employment. The expression "on or in connection with" refers not only to services performed on the vessel or aircraft but also to services connected with the vessel or aircraft which are not actually performed on it (for example, shore services performed as officers or members of the crew, or as employees of concessionaires, of the vessel).

(iv) Services performed by a member of the crew or other employee whose contract of service is not entered into within the United States, and during the performance of which and while the employee is employed on the vessel or aircraft it does not touch at a port within the United States, do not constitute employment under this subparagraph, notwithstanding services performed by other members of the crew or other employees on or in connection with the vessel or aircraft may constitute employment.

(v) A vessel includes every description of watercraft, or other contrivance, used as a means of transportation on water. An aircraft includes every description of craft, or other contrivance, used as a means of transportation through the air. In the case of an aircraft, the term "port" means an airport. An airport means an area on land or water used regularly by aircraft for receiving or discharging passengers or cargo. For definitions of "American vessel" and "American aircraft", see § 31.3121 (f)–1.

(vi) With respect to services performed outside the United States on or in connection with an American vessel or American aircraft, the citizenship or residence of the employee is immaterial, and the citizenship or residence of the employer is material only in case it has a bearing in determining whether a vessel is an American vessel.

(3) By a citizen of the United States as an employee for an American employer. Services performed after 1954 outside the United States by a citizen of the United States as an employee for an American employer constitute employment provided the services are not specifically excepted under section 3121 (b). For definitions of "citizen of the United States" and "American employer", see §§ 31.3121 (e)–1 and 31.3121 (h)–1, respectively.

(4) By a citizen of the United States as an employee for a foreign subsidiary corporation. For provisions relating to the extension of the Federal old-age, survivors, and disability insurance system established by title II of the Social Security Act to certain services not constituting employment which are performed outside the United States by citizens of the United States in the employ of a foreign subsidiary of a domestic corporation, see section 3121(1) and Part 36 of this chapter (Regulations Relating to Contract Coverage of Employees of Foreign Subsidiaries).

§ 31.3121(b)–4 Employment; excepted services in general.

(a) Services performed after 1954 by an employee for an employer do not constitute employment for purposes of the taxes if they are specifically excepted from employment under any of the numbered paragraphs of section 3121(b). Services so excepted do not constitute employment for purposes of the taxes even though they are performed within the United States, or are performed outside the United States on or in connection with an American vessel or American aircraft, or are performed outside the United States by a citizen of the United States for an American employer.

(b) The exception attaches to the services performed by the employee and not to the employee as an individual; that is, the exception applies only to the services in an excepted class rendered by the employee.

Example. A is an individual who is employed part time by B to perform services which are specifically excepted from employment under one of the numbered paragraphs of section 3121 (b). A is also employed by C part time to perform services which constitute employment. While no tax liability is incurred with respect to A's remuneration for services performed in the employ of B (the services being excepted from employment), the exception does not embrace the services performed by A in the employ of C (which constitute employment) and the taxes attach with respect to the wages (see § 31.3121 (a)–1) for such services.

(c) For provisions relating to the circumstances under which services which are excepted are nevertheless deemed to be employment, and relating to the circumstances under which services which are not excepted are nevertheless deemed not to be employment, see § 31.3121 (c)–1.

§ 31.3121(b)(1)–1 Services performed in connection with the production or harvesting of certain oleoresinous products and services performed by certain foreign agricultural workers.

(a) Services performed in connection with the production or harvesting of crude gum (oleoresin) from a living tree or the processing of such crude gum into gum spirits of turpentine and gum rosin, provided such processing is carried on by the original producer of such crude gum, are excepted from employment. However, the services to which this paragraph relates constitute agricultural labor as defined in section 3121(g) (see paragraph (d) of § 31.3121 (g)–1). Thus, any cash remuneration paid for such services, to the extent that the services are deemed to constitute employment by reason of the rules relating to included and excluded services contained in section 3121(c) (see § 31.-3121(c)–1), is taken into account in applying the test prescribed in section 3121(a)(8)(B) for determining whether cash remuneration paid for agricultural labor constitutes wages (see paragraph (c) of § 31.3121(a)(8)–1).

(b) Services performed by foreign agricultural workers from the Republic of Mexico under contracts entered into in accordance with title V of the Agricultural Act of 1949, as amended, are excepted from employment. Contracts entered into pursuant to the provisions of such title V may provide for the performance only of services which constitute "agricultural employment". The term "agricultural employment" includes certain services which do not constitute "agricultural labor" as that term is defined in section 3121 (g) (see § 31.3121 (g)–1). For purposes of title V of the Agricultural Act of 1949, as amended, the term "agricultural employment" includes services or activities included within the provisions of section 3 (f) of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, as amended, or section 3121 (g) of the Internal Revenue Code, horticultural employment, cotton ginning, compressing and storing, crushing of oil seeds, and the packing, canning, freezing, drying, or other processing of perishable or seasonable agricultural products.

(c) Services performed by a foreign agricultural worker lawfully admitted to the United States from the Bahamas, Jamaica, or the other British West Indies, on a temporary basis to perform agricultural labor are excepted from employment.

(d) See paragraph (b) of § 31.3121 (b)–2 for provisions relating to the status of services of the character to which this section applies which were performed before 1955 and the remuneration for which is paid after 1954.

(2) Domestic service performed in a local college club, or local chapter of a college fraternity or sorority, by a student who is enrolled and is regularly attending classes at a school, college, or university;

§ 31.3121(b)(2)–1 Domestic service performed by students for certain college organizations.

(a) Services of a household nature performed in or about the club rooms or house of a local college club, or in or about the club rooms or house of a local chapter of a college fraternity or sorority, by a student who is enrolled and regularly attending classes at a school, college, or university are excepted from employment. For purposes of this exception, the statutory tests are the type of services performed by the employee, the character of the place where the services are performed, and the status of the employee as a student enrolled and regularly attending classes at a school, college, or university.

(b) In general, services of a household nature in or about the club rooms or house of a local college club or local chapter of a college fraternity or sorority include services rendered by cooks, waiters, butlers, maids, janitors, laundresses, furnacemen, handymen, gardeners, housekeepers, and housemothers.

(c) A local college club or local chapter of a college fraternity or sorority does not include an alumni club or chapter. If the club rooms or house of a local college club or local chapter of a college fraternity or sorority is used primarily for the purpose of supplying board or lodging to students or the public as a business enterprise, the services performed therein are not within the exception.

(d) The term "school, college, or university" within the meaning of this exception is to be taken in its commonly or generally accepted sense.

(e) Services of a household nature are not within the exception if performed in or about rooming or lodging houses, boarding houses, clubs (except local college clubs), hotels, hospitals, eleemosynary institutions, or commercial offices or establishments.

(f) For provisions relating to domestic service in a private home of the employer, see § 31.3121 (a) (7)–1.

§ 31.3121(b)(3)–1 Family employment.

(a) Certain services are excepted from employment because of the existence of a family relationship between the employee and the individual employing him. The exceptions are as follows:

(1) Services performed by an individual in the employ of his or her spouse;

(2) Services performed by a father or mother in the employ of his or her son or daughter; and

(3) Services performed by a son or daughter under the age of 21 in the employ of his or her father or mother.

(b) Under paragraph (a) (1) and (2) of this section, the exception is conditioned solely upon the family relationship between the employee and the individual employing him. Under paragraph (a) (3) of this section, in addition to the family relationship, there is a further requirement that the son or daughter shall be under the age of 21, and the exception continues only during the time that such son or daughter is under the age of 21.

(c) Services performed in the employ of a corporation are not within the exception. Services performed in the employ of a partnership are not within the exception unless the requisite family relationship exists between the employee and each of the partners comprising the partnership.

(4) Service performed by an individual on or in connection with a vessel not an American vessel, or on or in connection with an aircraft not an American aircraft, if (A) the individual is employed on and in connection with such vessel or aircraft, when outside the United States and (B) (i) such individual is not a citizen of the United States or (ii) the employer is not an American employer.

[Sec. 3121 (b) (5), Internal Revenue Code 1954, as amended and redesignated paragraph (4) by section 205 (b), (c), Social Security Amendments 1954]

§ 31.3121(b)(4)–1 Services performed on or in connection with a non-American vessel or aircraft.

(a) Services performed within the United States by an employee for an employer "on or in connection with" a vessel not an American vessel, or "on or in connection with" an aircraft not an American aircraft, are excepted from employment if—

(1) The employee is employed by such employer "on and in connection with" such vessel or aircraft when outside the United States, and

(2) (i) The employee is not a citizen of the United States, or (ii) the employer is not an American employer.

(b) An employee performs services on and in connection with the vessel or aircraft if he performs services on the vessel or aircraft when outside the United States which are also in connection with the vessel or aircraft. Services performed on the vessel outside the United States by employees as officers or members of the crew, or by employees of concessionaires, of the vessel, for example, are performed under such circumstances, since such services are also connected with the vessel. Similarly, services performed on the aircraft outside the United States by employees as officers or members of the crew of the aircraft are performed on and in connection with such aircraft. Services may be performed on the vessel or aircraft, however, which have no connection with it, as in the case of services performed by an employee while on the vessel or aircraft merely as a passenger in the general sense. For example, the services of a buyer in the employ of a department store while he is a passenger on a vessel are not in connection with the vessel.

(c) The expression "on or in connection with" refers not only to services performed on the vessel or aircraft but also to services connected with the vessel or aircraft which are not actually performed on it (for example, shore services performed as officers or members of the crew, or as employees of concessionaires, of the vessel).

(d) Services performed within the United States on or in connection with a non-American vessel or aircraft for an employer by an employee who is not a citizen of the United States are excepted from employment, irrespective of whether the employer is or is not an American employer, provided the employee also is employed by such employer on and in connection with the vessel or aircraft when outside the United States. Services performed within the United States on or in connection with a non-American vessel or aircraft by an employee for an employer who is not an American employer also are excepted from employment, irrespective of whether the employee is or is not a citizen of the United States, provided the employee also is employed by such employer on and in connection with the vessel or aircraft when outside the United States. Services performed within the United States on or in connection with a non-American vessel or aircraft for an American employer by an employee who is a citizen of the United States are not excepted from employment under section 3121 (b) (4), irrespective of whether the employee is employed by such employer on and in connection with the vessel or aircraft when outside the United States. Further, section 3121 (b) (4) does not except from employment services performed within the United States for an employer, whether or not an American employer, on or in connection with a non-American vessel or aircraft by an employee, whether or not a citizen of the United States, who is not also employed by such employer on and in connection with the vessel or aircraft when outside the United States.

(e) Services performed outside the United States on or in connection with a vessel not an American vessel, or on or in connection with an aircraft not an American aircraft, by a citizen of the United States as an employee for an American employer are not excepted from employment under section 3121 (b) (4), irrespective of whether the employee is employed on and in connection with such vessel or aircraft when outside the United States. Services performed outside the United States on or in connection with a vessel not an American vessel or on or in connection with an aircraft not an American aircraft, either by an employee who is not a citizen of the United States or for an employer who is not an American employer, do not, in any event, constitute employment. See paragraph (c) of § 31.3121 (b)–3, relating to services performed outside the United States which constitute employment.

(f) See paragraph (c) (2) (v) of § 31.3121 (b)–3 for definitions of "vessel" and "aircraft", § 31.3121 (f)–1, for definitions of "American vessel" and "American aircraft", § 31.3121 (e)–1, for definition of "citizen of the United States", and § 31.3121 (h)–1, for definition of "American employer".

(5) Service performed in the employ of any instrumentality of the United States, if such instrumentality is exempt from the tax imposed by section 3111 by virtue of any provision of law which specifically refers to such section (or the corresponding section of prior law) in granting such exemption;

[Sec. 3121 (b) (6), Internal Revenue Code 1954, redesignated paragraph (5) by sec. 205 (b), Social Security Amendments 1954]

§ 31.3121(b)(5)–1 Services in employ of an instrumentality of the United States specifically exempted from the employer tax.

Services performed in the employ of an instrumentality of the United States are excepted from employment if such instrumentality is exempt from the employer tax imposed by section 3111 by virtue of any other provision of law which specifically refers to such section 3111 or the corresponding section of prior law (section 1410 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939) in granting exemption from the employer tax. This exception does not operate to exclude from employment services performed in the employ of an instrumentality of the United States unless the Congress has granted to such instrumentality a specific exemption from the tax imposed by section 3111 or the corresponding section of prior law. For provisions which make general exemptions from Federal taxation ineffectual as to the employer tax imposed by section 3111, see § 31.3112–1. For other exceptions from employment applicable with respect to services performed in the employ of an instrumentality of the United States, see § 31.3121 (b) (6)–1.

§ 31.3121(b)(6) Statutory provisions; definitions; employment; services in employ of United States or instrumentality thereof.

SEC. 3121. Definitions. • • •

(b) Employment. For purposes of this chapter, the term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after 1954 • • •; except that • • • such term shall not include—

(6) (A) Service performed in the employ of the United States or in the employ of any instrumentality of the United States, if such service is covered by a retirement system established by a law of the United States;

(B) Service performed by an individual in the employ of an instrumentality of the United States if such an instrumentality was exempt from the tax imposed by section 1410 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939 on December 31, 1950, and if such service is covered by a retirement system established by such instrumentality; except that the provisions of this subparagraph shall not be applicable to—

(i) Service performed in the employ of a corporation which is wholly owned by the United States;

(ii) Service performed in the employ of a national farm loan association, a production credit association, a Federal Reserve Bank, or a Federal Credit Union;

(iii) Service performed in the employ of a State, county, or community committee under the Commodity Stabilization Service;

(iv) Service performed by a civilian employee, not compensated from funds appropriated by the Congress, in the Army and Air Force Exchange Service, Army and Air Force Motion Picture Service, Navy Exchanges, Marine Corps Exchanges, or other activities, conducted by an instrumentality of the United States subject to the jurisdiction of the Secretary of Defense, at installations of the Department of Defense for the comfort, pleasure, contentment, and mental and physical improvement of personnel of such Department; or

(v) Service performed by a civilian employee, not compensated from funds appropriated by the Congress, in the Coast Guard Exchanges or other activities, conducted by an instrumentality of the United States subject to the jurisdiction of the Secretary of the Treasury, at installations of the Coast Guard for the comfort, pleasure, contentment, and mental and physical improvement of personnel of the Coast Guard;

(C) Service performed in the employ of the United States or in the employ of any instrumentality of the United States, if such service is performed—

(i) As the President or Vice President of the United States or as a Member, Delegate, or Resident Commissioner of or to the Congress;

(ii) In the legislative branch;

(iii) In a penal institution of the United States by an inmate thereof;

(iv) By any individual as an employee included under section 2 of the Act of August 4, 1947 (relating to certain interns, student nurses, and other student employees of hospitals of the Federal Government; 5 U. S. C., sec. 1052);

(v) By any individual as an employee serving on a temporary basis in case of fire, storm, earthquake, flood, or other similar emergency; or

(vi) By any individual to whom the Civil Service Retirement Act of 1930 does not apply because such individual is subject to another retirement system;

[Sec. 3121 (b) (7), Internal Revenue Code 1954, as amended and redesignated paragraph (6) by sec. 205 (b), (d), Social Security Amendments 1954]

§ 31.3121(b)(6)–1 Services in employ of United States or instrumentality thereof.

(a) In general. This section relates to services performed in the employ of the United States Government or in the employ of an instrumentality of the United States. Particular services which are not excepted from employment under one rule set forth in this section may nevertheless be excepted under another rule set forth in this section or under § 31.3121 (b) (5)–1, relating to services in the employ of an instrumentality of the United States specifically exempted from the employer tax. Moreover, services performed in the employ of the United States or of any instrumentality thereof which are not excepted from employment under paragraph (5) or (6) of section 3121 (b) may nevertheless be excepted under some other paragraph of such section. For provisions relating generally to the application of the taxes in the case of services performed in the employ of the United States or a wholly owned instrumentality thereof, see § 31.3122.

(b) Services covered under a retirement system established by a law of the United States. Services performed in the employ of the United States or in the employ of any instrumentality thereof are excepted from employment under section 3121 (b) (6) (A) if such services are covered under a law enacted by the Congress of the United States which specifically provides for the establishment of a retirement system for employees of the United States or of such instrumentality. Determinations as to whether services are covered by a retirement system of the requisite character are to be made as of the time such services are performed. Services of an employee who has an option to have his services covered under a retirement system are not covered under such retirement system unless and until he exercises such option. The test is whether particular services performed by an employee are covered by a retirement system of the requisite character rather than whether the position in which such services are performed is covered by such retirement system.

(c) Services performed for an instrumentality not subject to employer tax on December 31, 1950, and covered under a retirement system established by such instrumentality. (1) Subject to the provisions of subparagraph (4) of this paragraph, services performed in the employ of an instrumentality of the United States are excepted from employment under section 3121 (b) (6) (B) if—

(i) The particular instrumentality was not subject on December 31, 1950, to the employer tax imposed by section 1410 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939, and

(ii) The services are covered by a retirement system established by such instrumentality.

(2) If the particular instrumentality was not in existence on December 31, 1950, but is created thereafter under a law which was in effect on December 31, 1950, services performed in the employ of such instrumentality are excepted from employment (unless otherwise provided in subparagraph (4) of this paragraph) if—

(i) The instrumentality had it been in existence on December 31, 1950, would not have been subject on that date to the employer tax imposed by section 1410 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939, and

(ii) The services are covered by a retirement system established by such instrumentality.

It is immaterial, for purposes of this exception, whether the exemption from the employer tax on December 31, 1950, resulted, or would have resulted, from a tax exemption as such in effect on December 31, 1950, or from the provisions of section 1426 (b) (6) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939 in effect on that date, relating to the exception from employment of services performed in the employ of certain instrumentalities of the United States.

(3) Determinations as to whether services performed in the employ of an instrumentality referred to in subparagraph (1) or (2) of this paragraph are covered by a retirement system established by such instrumentality are to be made as of the time such services are performed. Services of an employee who has an option to have his services covered under a retirement system established by the instrumentality are not covered under such retirement system unless and until he exercises such option. The test is whether particular services performed by an employee are covered by a retirement system established by the instrumentality rather than whether the position in which such services are performed is covered by such retirement system.

(4) The exception from employment provided in section 3121 (b) (6) (B) has no application with respect to any of the following classes of services:

(i) Services performed in the employ of a corporation which is wholly owned by the United States;

(ii) Services performed in the employ of a national farm loan association, a production credit association, a Federal Reserve Bank, or a Federal Credit Union;

(iii) Services performed in the employ of a State, county, or community committee under the Commodity Stabilization Service;

(iv) Services performed by a civilian employee, not compensated from funds appropriated by the Congress, in the Army and Air Force Exchange Service, Army and Air Force Motion Picture Service, Navy Exchanges, Marine Corps Exchanges, or other activities, conducted by an instrumentality of the United States subject to the jurisdiction of the Secretary of Defense, at installations of the Department of Defense for the comfort, pleasure, contentment, and mental and physical improvement of personnel of such Department, or

(v) Services performed by a civilian employee, not compensated from funds appropriated by the Congress, in the Coast Guard Exchanges or other activities, conducted by an instrumentality of the United States subject to the jurisdiction of the Secretary of the Treasury, at installations of the Coast Guard for the comfort, pleasure, contentment, and mental and physical improvement of personnel of the Coast Guard.

(d) Special classes of services. The following classes of services performed either in the employ of the United States or in the employ of any instrumentality thereof are excepted from employment under section 3121 (b) (6) (C):

(1) Services performed as the President or Vice President of the United States or as a Member, Delegate, or Resident Commissioner, of or to the Congress of the United States;

(2) Services performed in the legislative branch of the United States Government;

(3) Services performed in a penal institution of the United States by an inmate thereof;

(4) Services performed by student nurses, medical or dental interns, residents-in-training, student dietitians, student physical therapists, or student occupational therapists, assigned or attached to a hospital, clinic, or medical or dental laboratory operated by any department, agency, or instrumentality of the United States Government, or by certain other student employees described in section 2 of the act of August 4, 1947 (5 U. S. C. 1052);

(5) Services performed by an individual as an employee serving on a temporary basis in case of fire, storm, earthquake, flood, or other similar emergency; and

(6) Services performed by an individual to whom the Civil Service Retirement Act does not apply because he is, with respect to such services, subject to another retirement system, established either by a law of the United States or by the agency or instrumentality of the United States for which such services are performed.

§ 31.3121(b)(7)–1 Services in employ of States or their political subdivisions or instrumentalities.

Services, other than covered transportation service as defined in section 3121(j), performed in the employ of any State, or of any political subdivision thereof, are excepted from employment. Services, other than covered transportation service, performed in the employ of an instrumentality of one or more States or political subdivisions thereof are excepted from employment if the instrumentality is wholly owned by one or more of the foregoing. The term "State" includes the District of Columbia, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii, the Virgin Islands, and Puerto Rico (see § 31.3121 (e)–1). (B) Service performed in the employ of a religious, charitable, educational, or other organization described in section 501 (c) (3) which is exempt from income tax under section 501 (a), but this subparagraph shall not apply to service performed during the period for which a certificate, filed pursuant to subsection (k) (or the corresponding subsection of prior law), is in effect if such service is performed by an employee—

(i) Whose signature appears on the list filed by such organization under subsection (k) (or the corresponding subsection of prior law), or

(ii) Who became an employee of such organization after the calendar quarter in which the certificate was filed;

[Sec. 3121 (b) (9), Internal Revenue Code 1954, redesignated paragraph (8) by sec. 205 (b), Social Security Amendments 1954]

§ 31.3121(b)(8)–1 Services performed by a minister of a church or a member of a religious order.

(a) In general. Services performed by a duly ordained, commissioned, or licensed minister of a church in the exercise of his ministry, or by a member of a religious order in the exercise of duties required by such order, are excepted from employment. For provisions relating to the election available to certain ministers and members of religious orders to have the Federal old-age, survivors, and disability insurance system established by title II of the Social Security Act extended to certain services performed by them, see Part 1 of this chapter (Income Tax Regulations).

(b) Service by a minister in the exercise of his ministry. Except as provided in paragraph (c) (3) of this section, service performed by a minister in the exercise of his ministry includes the ministration of sacerdotal functions and the conduct of religious worship, and the control, conduct, and maintenance of religious organizations (including the religious boards, societies, and other integral agencies of such organizations), under the authority of a religious body constituting a church or church denomination. The following rules are applicable in determining whether services performed by a minister are performed in the exercise of his ministry:

(1) Whether service performed by a minister constitutes the conduct of religious worship or the ministration of sacerdotal functions depends on the tenets and practices of the particular religious body constituting his church or church denomination.

(2) Service performed by a minister in the control, conduct, and maintenance of a religious organization relates to directing, managing, or promoting the activities of such organization. Any religious organization is deemed to be under the authority of a religious body constituting a church or church denomination if it is organized and dedicated to carrying out the tenets and principles of a faith in accordance with either the requirements or sanctions governing the creation of institutions of the faith. The term "religious organization" has the same meaning and application as is given to the term for income tax purposes.

(3) (i) If a minister is performing service in the conduct of religious worship or the ministration of sacerdotal functions, such service is in the exercise of his ministry whether or not it is performed for a religious organization.

(ii) The rule in subdivision (i) of this subparagraph may be illustrated by the following example:

Example. M, a duly ordained minister, is engaged to perform service as chaplain at N University. M devotes his entire time to performing his duties as chaplain which include the conduct of religious worship, offering spiritual counsel to the university students, and teaching a class in religion. M is performing service in the exercise of his ministry.

(4) (i) If a minister is performing service for an organization which is operated as an integral agency, of a religous organization under the authority of a religious body constituting a church or church denomination, all service performed by the minister in the conduct of religious worship, in the ministration of sacerdotal functions, or in the control, conduct, and maintenance of such organization (see subparagraph (2) of this paragraph) is in the exercise of his ministry.

(ii) The rule in subdivision (i) of this subparagraph may be illustrated by the following example:

Example. M, a duly ordained minister, is engaged by the N Religious Board to serve as director of one of its departments. He performs no other service. The N Religious Board is an integral agency of O, a religious organization operating under the authority of a religious body constituting a church denomination. M is performing service in the exercise of his ministry.

(5) (i) If a minister, pursuant to an assignment or designation by a religious body constituting his church, performs service for an organization which is neither a religious organization nor operated as an integral agency of a religious organization, all service performed by him, even though such service may not involve the conduct of religious worship or the ministration of sacerdotal functions, is in the exercise of his ministry.

(ii) The rule in subdivision (i) of this subparagraph may be illustrated by the following example:

Example. M, a duly ordained minister, is assigned by X, the religious body constituting his church, to perform advisory service to Y Company in connection with the publication of a book dealing with the history of M's church denomination. Y is neither a religious organization nor operated as an integral agency of a religious organization. M performs no other service for X or Y. M is performing service in the exercise of his ministry.

(c) Service by a minister not in the exercise of his ministry. (1) Section 3121 (b) (8) (A) does not except from employment service performed by a duly ordained, commissioned, or licensed minister of a church which is not in the exercise of his ministry.

(2) (i) If a minister is performing service for an organization which is neither a religious organization nor operated as an integral agency of a religious organization and the service is not performed pursuant to an assignment or designation by his ecclesiastical superiors, then only the service performed by him in the conduct of religious worship or the ministration of sacerdotal functions is in the exercise of his ministry. See, however, subparagraph (3) of this paragraph.

(ii) The rule in subdivision (i) of this subparagraph may be illustrated by the following example:

Example. M, a duly ordained minister, is engaged by N University to teach history and mathematics. He performs no other service for N although from time to time he performs marriages and conducts funerals for relatives and friends. N University is neither a religious organization nor operated as an integral agency of a religious organization. M is not performing the service for N pursuant to an assignment or designation by his ecclesiastical superiors. The service performed by M for N University is not in the exercise of his ministry. However, service performed by M in performing marriages and conducting funerals is in the exercise of his ministry.

(3) Service performed by a duly ordained, commissioned, or licensed minister of a church as an employee of the United States, or a State, Territory, or possession of the United States, or the District of Columbia, or a foreign government, or a political subdivision of any of the foregoing, is not considered to be in the exercise of his ministry for purposes of the taxes, even though such service may involve the ministration of sacerdotal function or the conduct of religious worship. Thus, for example, service performed by an individual as a chaplain in the Armed Forces of the United States is considered to be performed by a commissioned officer in his capacity as such, and not by a minister in the exercise of his ministry. Similarly, service performed by an employee of a State as a chaplain in a State prison is considered to be performed by a civil servant of the State and not by a minister in the exercise of his ministry.

(d) Service in the exercise of duties required by a religious order. Service performed by a member of a religious order in the exercise of duties required by such order includes all duties required of the member by the order. The nature or extent of such service is immaterial so long as it is a service which he is directed or required to perform by his ecclesiastical superiors.

§ 31.3121(b)(8)–2 Services in employ of religious, charitable, educational, or certain other organizations exempt from income tax.

(a) Services performed by an employee in the employ of a religious, charitable, educational, or other organization described in section 501(c)(3) which is exempt from income tax under section 501(a) are excepted from employment. However, this exception does not apply to services with respect to which a certificate, filed pursuant to section 3121 (k), or section 1426(l) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939, is in effect. For provisions relating to the services with respect to which such a certificate is in effect, see § 31.3121(k)–1.

(b) For provisions relating to exemption from income tax of an organization described in section 501(c)(3), see Part 1 of this chapter (Income Tax Regulations). For provisions relating to waiver by an organization of its exemption from the taxes imposed by sections 3101 and 3111, see § 31.3121 (k)–1. See also § 31.3121 (b) (8)–1, relating to services performed by a minister of a church in the exercise of his ministry or by a member of a religious order in the exercise of duties required by such order; § 31.3121 (b) (10)–2, relating to services performed in the employ of a school, college, or university by certain students; and § 31.3121 (b) (13)–1, relating to services performed by certain student nurses and hospital interns.

§ 31.3121(b)(9) Statutory provisions; definitions; employment; services performed by an employee or an employee representative as defined in section 3231.

SEC. 3121. Definitions. • • •

(b) Employment. For purposes of this chapter, the term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after 1954 • • •; except that • • • such term shall not include—

• • • • •

(9) Service performed by an individual as an employee or employee representative as defined in section 3231;

[Sec. 3121 (b) (10), Internal Revenue Code 1954, redesignated paragraph (9) by sec. 205 (b), Social Security Amendments 1954]

§ 31.3121(b)(9)–1 Railroad industry; services performed by an employee or an employee representative as defined in section 3231.

Services performed by an individual as an "employee" or as an "employee representative", as those terms are defined in section 3231, are excepted from employment. For definitions of employee and employee representatives, see §§ 31.3231(b)–1 and 31.3231(c)–1.

§ 31.3121(b)(10) Statutory provisions; definitions; employment; services for remuneration of less than $50 for calendar quarter in the employ of certain organizations exempt from income tax; services performed in the employ of a school, college, or university by certain students.

SEC. 3121. Definitions. • • •

(b) Employment. For purposes of this chapter, the term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after 1954 • • •; except that • • • such term shall not include—

• • • • •

(10) (A) Service performed in any calendar quarter in the employ of any organization exempt from income tax under section 501 (a) (other than an organization described in section 401 (a)) or under section 521, if the remuneration for such service is less than $50;

(B) Service performed in the employ of a school, college, or university if such service is performed by a student who is enrolled and is regularly attending classes at such school, college, or university;

[Sec. 3121 (b) (11), Internal Revenue Code 1954, redesignated paragraph (10) by sec. 205 (b), Social Security Amendments 1954]

§ 31.3121(b)(10)–1 Services for remuneration of less than $50 for calendar quarter in the employ of certain organizations exempt from income tax.

(a) Services performed by an employee in a calendar quarter in the employ of an organization exempt from income tax under section 501 (a) (other than an organization described in section 401 (a)) or under section 521 are excepted from employment, if the remuneration for the services is less than $50. The test relating to remuneration of $50 is based on the remuneration earned during a calendar quarter rather than on the remuneration paid in a calendar quarter. The exception applies separately with respect to each organization for which the employee renders services in a calendar quarter. The type of services performed by the employee and the place where the services are performed are immaterial; the statutory tests are the character of the organization in the employ of which the services are performed and the amount of the remuneration for services performed by the employee in the calendar quarter. For provisions relating to exemption from income tax under section 501(a) or 521, see Part 1 of this chapter (Income Tax Regulations).

Example (1). X is a local lodge of a fraternal organization and is exempt from income tax under section 501 (a) as an organization of the character described in section 501 (c) (8). X has two paid employees, A, who serves exclusively as recording secretary for the lodge, and B, who performs services for the lodge as janitor of its clubhouse. For services performed during the first calendar quarter of 1955 (that is, January 1, 1955, through March 31, 1955, both dates inclusive) A earns a total of $30. For services performed during the same calendar quarter B earns $180. Since the remuneration for the services performed by A during such quarter is less than $50, all of such services are excepted, and the taxes do not attach with respect to any of the remuneration for such services. Since the remuneration for the services performed by B during such quarter, however, is not less than $50, none of such services are excepted, and the taxes attach with respect to all of the remuneration for such services (that is, $180) as and when paid.

Example (2). The facts are the same as in example (1), above, except that on April 1, 1955, A's salary is increased and, for services performed during the calendar quarter beginning on that date (that is, April 1, 1955, through June 30, 1955, both dates inclusive), A earns a total of $60. Although all of the services performed by A during the first quarter were excepted, none of A's services performed during the second quarter are excepted since the remuneration for such services is not less than $50. The taxes attach with respect to all of the remuneration for services performed during the second quarter (that is, $60) as and when paid.

Example (3). The facts are the same as in example (1), above, except that A earns $120 for services performed during the year 1955, and such amount is paid to him in a lump sum at the end of the year. The services performed by A in any calendar quarter during the year are excepted if the portion of the $120 attributable to services performed in that quarter is less than $50. If, however, the portion of the $120 attributable to services performed in any calendar quarter during the year is not less than $50, the services during that quarter are not excepted, and the taxes attach with respect to that portion of the remuneration attributable to his services in that quarter.

§ 31.3121(b)(10)–2 Services performed in the employ of a school, college, or university by certain students.

(a) Services performed in the employ of a school, college, or university (whether or not such organization is exempt from income tax) are excepted from employment, if the services are performed by a student who is enrolled and is regularly attending classes at such school, college, or university.

(b) For purposes of this exception, the amount of remuneration for services performed by the employee in the calendar quarter, the type of services performed by the employee, and the place where the services are performed are immaterial; the statutory tests are the character of the organization in the employ of which the services are performed, and the status of the employee as a student enrolled and regularly attending classes at the school, college, or university in the employ of which he performs the services.

(c) The status of the employee as a student performing the services shall be determined on the basis of the relationship of such employee with the organization for which the services are performed. An employee who performs services in the employ of a school, college, or university as an incident to and for the purpose of pursuing a course of study at such school, college, or university has the status of a student in the performance of such services.

(d) The term "school, college, or university" within the meaning of this exception is to be taken in its commonly or generally accepted sense.

(e) For provisions relating to domestic service performed by a student in a local college club, or local chapter of a college fraternity or sorority, see § 31.3121 (b) (2)–1.

(11) Service performed in the employ of a foreign government (including service as a consular or other officer or employee or a nondiplomatic representative);

[Sec. 3121 (b) (12), Internal Revenue Code 1954, redesignated paragraph (11) by sec. 205 (b), Social Security Amendments 1954]

§ 31.3121(b)(11)–1 Services in the employ of a foreign government.

(a) Services performed by an employee in the employ of a foreign government are excepted from employment. The exception includes not only services performed by ambassadors, ministers, and other diplomatic officers and employees but also services performed as a consular or other officer or employee of a foreign government, or as a nondiplomatic representative thereof.

(b) For purposes of this exception, the citizenship or residence of the employee is immaterial. It is also immaterial whether the foreign government grants an equivalent exemption with respect to similar services performed in the foreign country by citizens of the United States.

(12) Service performed in the employ of an instrumentality wholly owned by a foreign government—

(A) If the service is of a character similar to that performed in foreign countries by employees of the United States Government or of an instrumentality thereof; and

(B) If the Secretary of State shall certify to the Secretary that the foreign government, with respect to whose instrumentality and employees thereof exemption is claimed, grants an equivalent exemption with respect to similar service performed in the foreign country by employees of the United States Government and of instrumentalities thereof;

[Sec. 3121 (b) (13), Internal Revenue Code 1954, redesignated paragraph (12) by sec. 205 (b), Social Security Amendments 1954]

§ 31.3121(b)(12)–1 Services in employ of wholly owned instrumentality of foreign government.

(a) Services performed by an employee in the employ of certain instrumentalities of a foreign government are excepted from employment. The exception includes all services performed in the employ of an instrumentality of the government of a foreign country, if—

(1) The instrumentality is wholly owned by the foreign government;

(2) The services are of a character similar to those performed in foreign countries by employees of the United States Government or of an instrumentality thereof; and

(3) The Secretary of State certifies to the Secretary of the Treasury that the foreign government, with respect to whose instrumentality and employees thereof exemption is claimed, grants an equivalent exemption with respect to services performed in the foreign country by employees of the United States Government and of instrumentalities thereof.

(b) For purposes of this exception, the citizenship or residence of the employee is immaterial.

(13) Service performed as a student nurse in the employ of a hospital or a nurses' training school by an individual who is enrolled and is regularly attending classes in a nurses' training school chartered or approved pursuant to State law; and service performed as an intern in the employ of a hospital by an individual who has completed a 4 years' course in a medical school chartered or approved pursuant to State law;

[Sec. 3121 (b) (14), Internal Revenue Code 1954, redesignated paragraph (13) by sec. 205 (b), Social Security Amendments 1954]

§ 31.3121(b)(13)–1 Services of student nurse or hospital intern.

(a) Services performed as a student nurse in the employ of a hospital or a nurses' training school are excepted from employment, if the student nurse is enrolled and regularly attending classes in a nurses' training school and such nurses' training school is chartered or approved pursuant to State law.

(b) Services performed as an intern (as distinguished from a resident doctor), in the employ of a hospital are excepted from employment, if the intern has completed a 4 years' course in a medical school chartered or approved pursuant to State law.

§ 31.3121(b)(14) Statutory provisions; definitions; employment; services in delivery or distribution of newspapers, shopping news, or magazines.

SEC. 3121. Definitions. • • •

(b) Employment. For purposes of this chapter, the term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after 1954 • • •; except that • • • such term shall not include—

• • • • • •

(14) (A) Service performed by an individual under the age of 18 in the delivery or distribution of newspapers or shopping news, not including delivery or distribution to any point for subsequent delivery or distribution;

(B) Service performed by an individual in, and at the time of, the sale of newspapers or magazines to ultimate consumers, under an arrangement under which the newspapers or magazines are to be sold by him at a fixed price, his compensation being based on the retention of the excess of such price over the amount at which the newspapers or magazines are charged to him, whether or not he is guaranteed a minimum amount of compensation for such service, or is entitled to be credited with the unsold newspapers or magazines turned back; or

[Sec. 3121 (b) (16), Internal Revenue Code 1954, redesignated paragraph (14) by sec. 205 (e), Social Security Amendments 1954]

§ 31.3121(b)(14)–1 Services in delivery or distribution of newspapers, shopping news, or magazines.

(a) Services of individuals under age 18. Services performed by an employee under the age of 18 in the delivery or distribution of newspapers or shopping news, not including delivery or distribution (as, for example, by a regional distributor) to any point for subsequent delivery or distribution, are excepted from employment. Thus, the services performed by an employee under the age of 18 in making house-to-house delivery or sale of newspapers or shopping news, including handbills and other similar types of advertising material, are excepted from employment. The services are excepted irrespective of the form or method of compensation. Incidental services by the employee who makes the house-to-house delivery, such as services in assembling newspapers, are considered to be within the exception. The exception continues only during the time that the employee is under the age of 18.

(b) Services of individuals of any age. Services performed by an employee in, and at the time of, the sale of newspapers or magazines to ultimate consumers under an arrangement under which the newspapers or magazines are to be sold by him at a fixed price, his compensation being based on the retention of the excess of such price over the amount at which the newspapers or magazines are charged to him, are excepted from employment. The services are excepted whether or not the employee is guaranteed a minimum amount of compensation for such services, or is entitled to be credited with the unsold newspapers or magazines turned back. Moreover, the services are excepted without regard to the age of the employee. Services performed other than at the time of sale to the ultimate consumer are not within the exception. Thus, the services of a regional distributor which are antecedent to but not immediately part of the sale to the ultimate consumer are not within the exception. However, incidental services by the employee who makes the sale to the ultimate consumer, such as services in assembling newspapers or in taking newspapers or magazines to the place of sale, are considered to be within the exception.

§ 31.3121(b)(15) Statutory provisions; definitions; employment; services in employ of international organization.

SEC. 3121. Definitions. • • •

(b) Employment. For purposes of this chapter, the term "employment" means • • • any service, of whatever nature, performed after 1954 • • •; except that • • • such term shall not include—

(15) Service performed in the employ of an international organization.

[Sec. 3121 (b) (17), Internal Revenue Code 1954, redesignated paragraph (15) by sec. 205 (e), Social Security Amendments 1954]

§ 31.3121(b)(15)–1 Services in employ of international organization.

(a) Subject to the provisions of section 1 of the International Organizations Immunities Act (22 U.S.C. 288), services performed in the employ of an international organization as defined in section 7701(a)(18) are excepted from employment.

(b) (1) Section 7701 (a) (18) provides as follows:

SEC. 7701. Definitions. (a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof—

• • • • • •

(18) International organization. The term "international organization" means a public international organization entitled to enjoy privileges, exemptions, and immunities as an international organization under the International Organizations Immunities Act (22 U. S. C. 288–288f).

(2) Section 1 of the International Organizations Immunities Act provides as follows:

SEC. 1. [International Organizations Immunities Act.] For the purposes of this title [International Organizations Immunities Act], the term "international organization" means a public international organization in which the United States participates pursuant to any treaty or under the authority of any Act of Congress authorizing such participation or making an appropriation for such participation, and which shall have been designated by the President through appropriate Executive order as being entitled to enjoy the privileges, exemptions, and immunities herein provided. The President shall be authorized, in the light of the functions performed by any such international organization, by appropriate Executive order to withhold or withdraw from any such organization or its officers or employees any of the privileges, exemptions, and immunities provided for in this title (including the amendments made by this title) or to condition or limit the enjoyment by any such organization or its officers or employees of any such privilege, exemption, or immunity. The President shall be authorized, if in his judgment such action should be justified by reason of the abuse by an international organization or its officers and employees of the privileges, exemptions, and immunities herein provided or for any other reason, at any time to revoke the designation of any international organization under this section, whereupon the international organization in question shall cease to be classed as an international organization for the purposes of this title.

§ 31.3121(c) Statutory provisions; definitions; included and excluded services.

SEC. 3121. Definitions. • • •

(c) Included and excluded service. For purposes of this chapter, if the services performed during one-half or more of any pay period by an employee for the person employing him constitute employment, all the services of such employee for such period shall be deemed to be employment; but if the services performed during more than one-half of any such pay period by an employee for the person employing him do not constitute employment, then none of the services of such employee for such period shall be deemed to be employment. As used in this subsection, the term "pay period" means a period (of not more than 31 consecutive days) for which a payment of remuneration is ordinarily made to the employee by the person employing him. This subsection shall not be applicable with respect to services performed in a pay period by an employee for the person employing him, where any of such service is excepted by subsection (b) (9).

[Sec. 3121 (c) as amended by sec. 205 (b), Social Security Amendments 1954]

§ 31.3121(c)–1 Included and excluded services.

(a) If a portion of the services performed by an employee for an employer during a pay period constitutes employment, and the remainder does not constitute employment, all the services performed by the employee for the employer during the period shall for purposes of the taxes be treated alike, that is, either all as included or all as excluded. The time during which the employee performs services which under section 3121 (b) constitute employment, and the time during which he performs services which under such section do not constitute employment, within the pay period, determine whether all the services during the pay period shall be deemed to be included or excluded.

(b) If one-half or more of the employee's time in the employ of a particular person in a pay period is spent in performing services which constitute employment, then all the services of that employee for that person in that pay period shall be deemed to be employment.

(c) If less than one-half of the employee's time in the employ of a particular person in a pay period is spent in performing services which constitute employment, then none of the services of that employee for that person in that pay period shall be deemed to be employment.

(d) The application of the provisions of paragraphs (a), (b), and (c) of this section may be illustrated by the following example:

Example. Employer B, who is engaged in the operation of a store and also in the harvesting of crude gum (oleoresin) from living trees, employs A to perform services in connection with both operations. A's services in connection with the harvesting of crude gum do not constitute employment, and his services in the store constitute employment. He is paid at the end of each month. During a particular month A works 120 hours in harvesting the crude gum and 80 hours in the store. None of A's services during the month are deemed to be employment, since less than one-half of his services during the month constitutes employment. During another month A works 75 hours in harvesting crude gum and 120 hours in the store. All of A's services during the month are deemed to be employment, since one-half or more of his services during the month constitutes employment.

(e) For purposes of this section, a "pay period" is the period (of not more than 31 consecutive calendar days) for which a payment of remuneration is ordinarily made to the employee by the employer. Thus, if the periods for which payments of remuneration are made to the employee by the employer are of uniform duration, each such period constitutes a "pay period". If, however, the periods occasionally vary in duration, the "pay period" is the period for which a payment of remuneration is ordinarily made to the employee by the employer, even though that period does not coincide with the actual period for which a particular payment of remuneration is made. For example, if an employer ordinarily pays a particular employee for each calendar week at the end of the week, but the employee receives a payment in the middle of the week for the portion of the week already elapsed and receives the remainder at the end of the week, the "pay period" is still the calendar week; or if, instead, that employee is sent on a trip by such employer and receives at the end of the third week a single remuneration payment for three weeks' services, the "pay period" is still the calendar week.

(f) If there is only one period (and such period does not exceed 31 consecutive calendar days) for which a payment of remuneration is made to the employee by the employer, such period is deemed to be a "pay period" for purposes of this section.

(g) The rules set forth in this section do not apply (1) with respect to any services performed by the employee for the employer if the periods for which such employer makes payments of remuneration to the employee vary to the extent that there is no period "for which a payment of remuneration is ordinarily made to the employee", or (2) with respect to any services performed by the employee for the employer if the period for which a payment of remuneration is ordinarily made to the employee by such employer exceeds 31 consecutive calendar days, or (3) with respect to any service performed by the employee for the employer during a pay period if any of such service is excepted by section 3121 (b) (9) (see § 31.3121 (b) (9)–1).

(h) If during any period for which a person makes a payment of remuneration to an employee only a portion of the employee's services constitutes employment, but the rules prescribed in this section are not applicable, the taxes attach with respect to such services as constitute employment as defined in section 3121 (b).

§ 31.3121(d) Statutory provisions; definitions; employee.

SEC. 3121. Definitions. • • •

(d) Employee. For purposes of this chapter, the term "employee" means—

(1) Any officer of a corporation; or

(2) Any individual who, under the usual common law rules applicable in determining the employer-employee relationship, has the status of an employee; or

(3) Any individual (other than an individual who is an employee under paragraph (1) or (2)) who performs services for remuneration for any person—

(A) As an agent-driver or commission-driver engaged in distributing meat products, vegetable products, fruit products, bakery products, beverages (other than milk), or laundry or dry-cleaning services, for his principal;

(B) As a full-time life insurance salesman;

(C) As a home worker performing work, according to specifications furnished by the person for whom the services are performed, on materials or goods furnished by such person which are required to be returned to such person or a person designated by him; or

(D) As a traveling or city salesman, other than as an agent-driver or commission-driver, engaged upon a full-time basis in the solicitation on behalf of, and the transmission to, his principal (except for sideline sales activities on behalf of some other person) of orders from wholesalers, retailers, contractors, or operators of hotels, restaurants, or other similar establishments for merchandise for resale or supplies for use in their business operations;

if the contract of service contemplates that substantially all of such services are to be performed personally by such individual; except that an individual shall not be included in the term "employee" under the provisions of this paragraph if such individual has a substantial investment in facilities used in connection with the performance of such services (other than in facilities for transportation), or if the services are in the nature of a single transaction not part of a continuing relationship with the person for whom the services are performed.

[Sec. 3121 (d) as amended by sec. 206, Social Security Amendments 1954]

§ 31.3121(d)–1 Who are employees.

(a) In general. (1) Whether an individual is an employee with respect to services performed after 1954 is determined in accordance with section 3121 (d). This section of the regulations applies with respect only to services performed after 1954. Whether an individual is an employee with respect to services performed after 1936 and before 1940 shall be determined in accordance with the applicable provisions of law and of 26 CFR (1939) Part 401 (Regulations 91). Whether an individual is an employee with respect to services performed after 1939 and before 1951 shall be determined in accordance with the applicable provisions of law and of 26 CFR (1939) Part 402 (Regulations 106). Whether an individual is an employee with respect to services performed after 1950 and before 1955 shall be determined in accordance with the applicable provisions of law and of 26 CFR (1939) Part 408 (Regulations 128).

(2) Section 3121 (d) contains three separate and independent tests for determining who are employees. Paragraphs (b), (c), and (d) of this section relate to the respective tests. Paragraph (b) relates to the test for determining whether an officer of a corporation is an employee of the corporation. Paragraph (c) relates to the test for determining whether an individual is an employee under the usual common law rules. Paragraph (d) relates to the test for determining which individuals in certain occupational groups who are not employees under the usual common law rules are included as employees. If an individual is an employee under any one of the tests, he is to be considered an employee for purposes of the regulations in this subpart whether or not he is an employee under any of the other tests.

(3) If the relationship of employer and employee exists, the designation or description of the relationship by the parties as anything other than that of employer and employee is immaterial. Thus, if such relationship exists, it is of no consequence that the employee is designated as a partner, coadventurer, agent, independent contractor, or the like.

(4) All classes or grades of employees are included within the relationship of employer and employee. Thus, superintendents, managers, and other supervisory personnel are employees.

(5) Although an individual may be an employee under this section, his services may be of such a nature, or performed under such circumstances, as not to constitute employment (see § 31.3121 (b)–3).

(b) Corporate officers. Generally, an officer of a corporation is an employee of the corporation. However, an officer of a corporation who as such does not perform any services or performs only minor services and who neither receives nor is entitled to receive, directly or indirectly, any remuneration is considered not to be an employee of the corporation. A director of a corporation in his capacity as such is not an employee of the corporation.

(c) Common law employees. (1) Every individual is an employee if under the usual common law rules the relationship between him and the person for whom he performs services is the legal relationship of employer and employee.

(2) Generally such relationship exists when the person for whom services are performed has the right to control and direct the individual who performs the services, not only as to the result to be accomplished by the work but also as to the details and means by which that result is accomplished. That is, an employee is subject to the will and control of the employer not only as to what shall be done but how it shall be done. In this connection, it is not necessary that the employer actually direct or control the manner in which the services are performed; it is sufficient if he has the right to do so. The right to discharge is also an important factor indicating that the person possessing that right is an employer. Other factors characteristic of an employer, but not necessarily present in every case, are the furnishing of tools and the furnishing of a place to work, to the individual who performs the services. In general, if an individual is subject to the control or direction of another merely as to the result to be accomplished by the work and not as to the means and methods for accomplishing the result, he is an independent contractor. An individual performing services as an independent contractor is not as to such services an employee under the usual common law rules. Individuals such as physicians, lawyers, dentists, veterinarians, construction contractors, public stenographers, and auctioneers, engaged in the pursuit of an independent trade, business, or profession, in which they offer their services to the public, are independent contractors and not employees. If an individual enters into an agreement with another person pursuant to which such individual undertakes to produce a crop or livestock on land owned or leased by such other person and pursuant to which (i) the crop or livestock produced by such individual or the proceeds thereof are to be divided between such individual and such other person, and (ii) the amount of such individual's share depends on the amount of the crop or livestock produced, such individual is, with respect to such undertaking, an independent contractor and not an employee.

(3) Whether the relationship of employer and employee exists under the usual common law rules will in doubtful cases be determined upon an examination of the particular facts of each case.

(d) Special classes of employees. (1) In addition to individuals who are employees under paragraph (b) or (c) of this section, other individuals are employees if they perform services for remuneration under certain prescribed circumstances in the following occupational groups:

(i) As an agent-driver or commission-driver engaged in distributing meat products, vegetable products, fruit products, bakery products, beverages (other than milk), or laundry or dry-cleaning services for his principal;

(ii) As a full-time life insurance salesman;

(iii) As a home worker performing work, according to specifications furnished by the person for whom the services are performed, on materials or goods furnished by such person which are required to be returned to such person or a person designated by him; or

(iv) As a traveling or city salesman, other than as an agent-driver or commission-driver, engaged upon a full-time basis in the solicitation on behalf of, and the transmission to, his principal (except for side-line sales activities on behalf of some other person) of orders from wholesalers, retailers, contractors, or operators of hotels, restaurants, or other similar establishments for merchandise for resale or supplies for use in their business operations.

(2) In order for an individual to be an employee under this paragraph, the individual must perform services in an occupation falling within one of the enumerated groups. If the individual does not perform services in one of the designated occupational groups, he is not an employee under this paragraph. An individual who is not an employee under this paragraph may nevertheless be an employee under paragraph (b) or (c) of this section. The language used to designate the respective occupational groups relates to fields of endeavor in which particular designations are not necessarily in universal use with respect to the same service. The designations are addressed to the actual services without regard to any technical or colloquial labels which may be attached to such services. Thus, a determination whether services fall within one of the designated occupational groups depends upon the facts of the particular situation.

(3) The factual situations set forth below are illustrative of some of the individuals falling within each of the above enumerated occupational groups. The illustrative factual situations are as follows:

(i) Agent-driver or commission-driver. This occupational group includes agent-drivers or commission-drivers who are engaged in distributing meat or meat products, vegetables or vegetable products, fruit or fruit products, bakery products, beverages (other than milk), or laundry or dry-cleaning services for their principals. An agent-driver or commission-driver includes an individual who operates his own truck or the truck of the person for whom he performs services, serves customers designated by such person as well as those solicited on his own, and whose compensation is a commission on his sales or the difference between the price he charges his customers and the price he pays to such person for the product or service.

(ii) Full-time life insurance salesman. An individual whose entire or principal business activity is devoted to the solicitation of life insurance or annuity contracts, or both, primarily for one life insurance company is a full-time life insurance salesman. Such a salesman ordinarily uses the office space provided by the company or its general agent, and stenographic assistance, telephone facilities, forms, rate books, and advertising materials are usually made available to him without cost. An individual who is engaged in the general insurance business under a contract or contracts of service which do not contemplate that the individual's principal business activity will be the solicitation of life insurance or annuity contracts, or both, for one company, or any individual who devotes only part time to the solicitation of life insurance contracts, including annuity contracts, and is principally engaged in other endeavors, is not a full-time life insurance salesman.

(iii) Home workers. This occupational group includes a worker who performs services off the premises of the person for whom the services are performed, according to specifications furnished by such person, on materials or goods furnished by such person which are required to be returned to such person or a person designated by him. For provisions relating to the determination of wages in the case of a home worker to whom this subdivision is applicable, see § 31.3121 (a) (10)–1.

(iv) Traveling or city salesman. (a) This occupational group includes a city or traveling salesman who is engaged upon a full-time basis in the solicitation on behalf of, and the transmission to, his principal (except for side-line sales activities on behalf of some other person or persons) of orders from wholesalers, retailers, contractors, or operators of hotels, restaurants, or other similar establishments for merchandise for resale or supplies for use in their business operations. An agent-driver or commission-driver is not within this occupational group. City or traveling salesmen who sell to retailers or to the others specified, operate off the premises of their principals, and are generally compensated on a commission basis, are within this occupational group. Such salesmen are generally not controlled as to the details of their services or the means by which they cover their territories, but in the ordinary case they are expected to call on regular customers with a fair degree of regularity.

(b) In order for a city or traveling salesman to be included within this occupational group, his entire or principal business activity must be devoted to the solicitation of orders for one principal. Thus, the multiple-line salesman generally is not within this occupational group. However, if the salesman solicits orders primarily for one principal, he is not excluded from this occupational group solely because of side-line sales activities on behalf of one or more other persons. In such a case, the salesman is within this occupational group only with respect to the services performed for the person for whom he primarily solicits orders and not with respect to the services performed for such other persons. The following examples illustrate the application of the foregoing provisions:

Example (1). Salesman A's principal business activity is the solicitation of orders from retail pharmacies on behalf of the X Wholesale Drug Company. A also occasionally solicits orders for drugs on behalf of the Y and Z Companies. A is within this occupational group with respect to his services for the X Company but not with respect to his services for either the Y Company or the Z Company.

Example (2). Salesman B's principal business activity is the solicitation of orders from retail hardware stores on behalf of the R Tool Company and the S Cooking Utensil Company. B regularly solicits orders on behalf of both companies. B is not within this occupational group with respect to the services performed for either the R Company or the S Company.

Example (3). Salesman C's principal business activity is the house-to-house solicitation of orders on behalf of the T Brush Company. C occasionally solicits such orders from retail stores and restaurants. C is not within this occupational group.

(4) (i) The fact that an individual falls within one of the enumerated occupational groups, however, does not make such individual an employee under this paragraph unless (a) the contract of service contemplates that substantially all the services to which the contract relates in the particular designated occupation are to be performed personally by such individual, (b) such individual has no substantial investment in the facilities used in connection with the performance of such services (other than in facilities for transportation) and (c) such services are part of a continuing relationship with the person for whom the services are performed and are not in the nature of a single transaction.

(ii) The term "contract of service", as used in this paragraph, means an arrangement, formal or informal, under which the particular services are performed. The requirement that the contract of service shall contemplate that substantially all the services to which the contract relates in the particular designated occupation are to be performed personally by the individual means that it is not contemplated that any material part of the services to which the contract relates in such occupation will be delegated to any other person by the individual who undertakes under the contract to perform such services.

(iii) The facilities to which reference is made in this paragraph include equipment and premises available for the work or enterprise as distinguished from education, training, and experience, but do not include such tools, instruments, equipment, or clothing, as are commonly or frequently provided by employees. An investment in an automobile by an individual which is used primarily for his own transportation in connection with the performance of services for another person has no significance under this paragraph, since such investment is comparable to outlays for transportation by an individual performing similar services who does not own an automobile. Moreover, the investment in facilities for the transportation of the goods or commodities to which the services relate is to be excluded in determining the investment in a particular case. If an individual has a substantial investment in facilities of the requisite character, he is not an employee within the meaning of this paragraph, since a substantial investment of the requisite character standing alone is sufficient to exclude the individual from the employee concept under this paragraph.

(iv) If the services are not performed as part of a continuing relationship with the person for whom the services are performed, but are in the nature of a single transaction, the individual performing such services is not an employee of such person within the meaning of this paragraph. The fact that the services are not performed on consecutive workdays does not indicate that the services are not performed as part of a continuing relationship.

§ 31.3121(d)–2 Who are employers.

(a) Every person is an employer if he employs one or more employees. Neither the number of employees employed nor the period during which any such employee is employed is material for the purpose of determining whether the person for whom the services are performed is an employer.

(b) An employer may be an individual, a corporation, a partnership, a trust, an estate, a joint-stock company, an association, or a syndicate, group, pool, joint venture, or other unincorporated organization, group, or entity. A trust or estate, rather than the fiduciary acting for or on behalf of the trust or estate, is generally the employer.

(c) Although a person may be an employer under this section, services performed in his employ may be of such a nature, or performed under such circumstances, as not to constitute employment (see § 31.3121 (b)–3).

§ 31.3121(e) Statutory provisions; definitions; State, United States, and citizen.

SEC. 3121. Definitions. • • •

(e) State, United States, and citizen. For purposes of this chapter—

(1) State. The term "State" includes Alaska, Hawaii, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands.

(2) United States. The term "United States" when used in a geographical sense includes Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

An individual who is a citizen of Puerto Rico (but not otherwise a citizen of the United States) shall be considered, for purposes of this section, as a citizen of the United States.

§ 31.3121(e)–1 State, United States, and citizen.

For purposes of the regulations in this subpart, the terms defined in section 3121(e) have the meanings so assigned to them. When used in the regulations in this subpart, the term "United States", when used in a geographical sense, means the several States, the District of Columbia, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii, the Virgin Islands, and Puerto Rico. The term "citizen of the United States" includes a citizen of the Virgin Islands or of Puerto Rico.

§ 31.3121(f) Statutory provisions; definitions; American vessel and aircraft.

SEC. 3121. Definitions. • • •

(f) American vessel and aircraft. For purposes of this chapter, the term "American vessel" means any vessel documented or numbered under the laws of the United States; and includes any vessel which is neither documented or numbered under the laws of the United States nor documented under the laws of any foreign country, if its crew is employed solely by one or more citizens or residents of the United States or corporations organized under the laws of the United States or of any State; and the term "American aircraft" means an aircraft registered under the laws of the United States.

§ 31.3121(f)–1 American vessel and aircraft.

(a) The term "American vessel" means any vessel which is documented (that is, registered, enrolled, or licensed) or numbered in conformity with the laws of the United States. It also includes any vessel which is neither documented nor numbered under the laws of the United States, nor documented under the laws of any foreign country, if the crew of such vessel is employed solely by one or more citizens or residents of the United States or corporations organized under the laws of the United States or of any State (including the District of Columbia, the Territory of Alaska or Hawaii, the Virgin Islands, or Puerto Rico). As used herein, a citizen of the United States includes a citizen of the Virgin Islands or of Puerto Rico.

(b) The term "American aircraft" means any aircraft registered under the laws of the United States.

(c) For provisions relating to services performed outside the United States on or in connection with an American vessel or American aircraft, see paragraph (c) (2) of § 31.3121 (b)–3.

§ 31.3121(g) Statutory provisions; definitions; agricultural labor.

SEC. 3121. Definitions. • • •

(g) Agricultural labor. For purposes of this chapter, the term "agricultural labor" includes all service performed—

(1) On a farm, in the employ of any person, in connection with cultivating the soil, or in connection with raising or harvesting any agricultural or horticultural commodity, including the raising, shearing, feeding, caring for, training, and management of livestock, bees, poultry, and fur-bearing animals and wildlife;

(2) In the employ of the owner or tenant or other operator of a farm, in connection with the operation, management, conservation, improvement, or maintenance of such farm and its tools and equipment, or in salvaging timber or clearing land of brush and other debris left by a hurricane, if the major part of such service is performed on a farm;

(3) In connection with the production or harvesting of any commodity defined as an agricultural commodity in section 15 (g) of the Agricultural Marketing Act, as amended (46 Stat. 1550, sec. 3; 12 U. S. C. 1141j), or in connection with the ginning of cotton, or in connection with the operation or maintenance of ditches, canals, reservoirs, or waterways, not owned or operated for profit, used exclusively for supplying and storing water for farming purposes;

(4) (A) In the employ of the operator of a farm in handling, planting, drying, packing, packaging, processing, freezing, grading, storing, or delivering to storage or to market or to a carrier for transportation to market, in its unmanufactured state, any agricultural or horticultural commodity; but only if such operator produced more than one-half of the commodity with respect to which such service is performed;

(B) In the employ of a group of operators of farms (other than a cooperative organization) in the performance of service described in subparagraph (A), but only if such operators produced all of the commodity with respect to which such service is performed. For purposes of this subparagraph, any unincorporated group of operators shall be deemed a cooperative organization if the number of operators comprising such group is more than 20 at any time during the calendar quarter in which such service is performed;

(C) The provisions of subparagraphs (A) and (B) shall not be deemed to be applicable with respect to service performed in connection with commercial canning or commercial freezing or in connection with any agricultural or horticultural commodity after its delivery to a terminal market for distribution for consumption; or

(5) On a farm operated for profit if such service is not in the course of the employer's trade or business or is domestic service in a private home of the employer.

As used in this subsection, the term "farm" includes stock, dairy, poultry, fruit, fur-bearing animal, and truck farms, plantations, ranches, nurseries, ranges, greenhouses or other similar structures used primarily for the raising of agricultural or horticultural commodities, and orchards.

SEC. 15. Miscellaneous provisions [Agricultural Marketing Act]. • • •

(g) As used in this Act, the term "agricultural commodity" includes • • • crude gum (oleoresin) from a living tree, and the following products as processed by the original producer of the crude gum (oleoresin) from which derived: Gum spirits of turpentine and gum rosin, as defined in the Naval Stores Act, approved March 3, 1923 [42 Stat. 1435; 7 U. S. C. 92 (c), (h)].

* * * * *

(c) "Gum spirits of turpentine" means spirits of turpentine made from gum (oleoresin) from a living tree.

* * * * *

(h) "Gum rosin" means rosin remaining after the distillation of gum spirits of turpentine.

§ 31.3121(g)–1 Agricultural labor.

(a) In general. (1) The term "agricultural labor" as defined in section 3121(g) includes services of the character described in paragraphs (b), (c), (d), (e), and (f) of this section. In general, however, the term does not include services performed in connection with forestry, lumbering, or landscaping.

(2) The term "farm" as used in the regulations in this subpart includes stock, dairy, poultry, fruit, fur-bearing animal, and truck farms, plantations, ranches, nurseries, ranges, orchards, and such greenhouses and other similar structures as are used primarily for the raising of agricultural or horticultural commodities. Greenhouses and other similar structures used primarily for other purposes (for example, display, storage, and fabrication of wreaths, corsages, and bouquets) do not constitute "farms".

(3) For provisions relating to the exceptions from employment provided with respect to services performed in connection with the production or harvesting of certain oleoresinous products and to services performed by certain foreign agricultural workers, see § 31.3121 (b)(1)–1. For provisions relating to the exclusion from wages of remuneration paid in any medium other than cash for agricultural labor and to the test for determining whether cash remuneration paid for agricultural labor constitutes wages, see § 31.3121 (a) (8)–1.

(b) Services described in section 3121 (g) (1). (1) Services performed on a farm by an employee of any person in connection with any of the following activities constitute agricultural labor:

(i) The cultivation of the soil;

(ii) The raising, shearing, feeding caring for, training, or management of livestock, bees, poultry, fur-bearing animals, or wildlife; or

(iii) The raising or harvesting of any other agricultural or horticultural commodity.

(2) Services performed in connection with the production or harvesting of maple sap, or in connection with the raising or harvesting of mushrooms, or in connection with the hatching of poultry constitute agricultural labor only if such services are performed on a farm. Thus, services performed in connection with the operation of a hatchery, if not operated as part of a poultry or other farm, do not constitute agricultural labor.

(c) Services described in section 3121 (g) (2). (1) The following services performed by an employee in the employ of the owner or tenant or other operator of one or more farms constitute agricultural labor, provided the major part of such services is performed on a farm:

(i) Services performed in connection with the operation, management, conservation, improvement, or maintenance of any of such farms or its tools or equipment; or

(ii) Services performed in salvaging timber, or clearing land of brush and other debris, left by a hurricane.

(2) The services described in subparagraph (1) (i) of this paragraph may include, for example, services performed by carpenters, painters, mechanics, farm supervisors, irrigation engineers, bookkeepers, and other skilled or semiskilled workers, which contribute in any way to the conduct of the farm or farms, as such, operated by the person employing them, as distinguished from any other enterprise in which such person may be engaged.

(3) Since the services described in this paragraph must be performed in the employ of the owner or tenant or other operator of the farm, the term "agricultural labor" does not include services performed by employees of a commercial painting concern, for example, which contracts with a farmer to renovate his farm properties.

(d) Services described in section 3121 (g) (3). Services performed by an employee in the employ of any person in connection with any of the following operations constitute agricultural labor without regard to the place where such services are performed:

(1) The ginning of cotton;

(2) The operation or maintenance of ditches, canals, reservoirs, or waterways, not owned or operated for profit, used exclusively for supplying or storing water for farming purposes; or

(3) The production or harvesting of crude gum (oleoresin) from a living tree or the processing of such crude gum into gum spirits of turpentine and gum rosin, provided such processing is carried on by the original producer of such crude gum.

(e) Services described in section 3121 (g) (4). (1) Services performed by an employee in the handling, planting, drying, packing, packaging, processing, freezing, grading, storing, or delivering to storage or to market or to a carrier for transportation to market, of any agricultural or horticultural commodity constitute agricultural labor if:

(i) Such services are performed by the employee in the employ of an operator of a farm or in the employ of a group of operators of farms (other than a cooperative organization);

(ii) Such services are performed with respect to the commodity in its unmanufactured state; and

(iii) Such operator produced more than one-half of the commodity with respect to which such services are performed during the pay period, or such group of operators produced all of the commodity with respect to which such services are performed during the pay period.

(2) The term "operator of a farm" as used in this paragraph means an owner, tenant, or other person, in possession of a farm and engaged in the operation of such farm.

(3) The services described in this paragraph do not constitute agricultural labor if performed in the employ of a cooperative organization. The term "organization" includes corporations, joint-stock companies, and associations which are treated as corporations pursuant to section 7701 (a) (3) of the Internal Revenue Code. For purposes of this paragraph, any unincorporated group of operators shall be deemed a cooperative organization if the number of operators comprising such group is more than 20 at any time during the calendar quarter in which the services involved are performed.

(4) Processing services which change the commodity from its raw or natural state do not constitute agricultural labor. For example, the extraction of juices from fruits or vegetables is a processing operation which changes the character of the fruits or vegetables from their raw or natural state and, therefore, does not constitute agricultural labor. Likewise, services performed in the processing of maple sap into maple sirup or maple sugar do not constitute agricultural labor. On the other hand, services rendered in the cutting and drying of fruits or vegetables are processing operations which do not change the character of the fruits or vegetables and, therefore, constitute agricultural labor, if the other requisite conditions are met. Services performed with respect to a commodity after its character has been changed from its raw or natural state by a processing operation do not constitute agricultural labor.

(5) The term "commodity" refers to a single agricultural or horticultural product, for example, all apples are to be treated as a single commodity, while apples and peaches are to be treated as two separate commodities. The services with respect to each such commodity are to be considered separately in determining whether the condition set forth in subparagraph (1) (iii) of this paragraph has been satisfied. The portion of the commodity produced by an operator or group of operators with respect to which the services described in this paragraph are performed by a particular employee shall be determined on the basis of the pay period in which such services were performed by such employee.

(6) The services described in this paragraph do not include services performed in connection with commercial canning or commercial freezing or in connection with any commodity after its delivery to a terminal market for distribution for consumption. Moreover, since the services described in this paragraph must be rendered in the actual handling, planting, drying, packing, packaging, processing, freezing, grading, storing, or delivering to storage or to market or to a carrier for transportation to market, of the commodity, such services do not, for example, include services performed as stenographers, bookkeepers, clerks, and other office employees, even though such services may be in connection with such activities. However, to the extent that the services of such individuals are performed in the employ of the owner or tenant or other operator of a farm and are rendered in major part on a farm, they may be within the provisions of paragraph (c) of this section.

(f) Services described in section 3121 (g) (5). (1) Services not in the course of the employers' trade or business (see paragraph (a) (1) of § 31.3121 (a) (7)–1) or domestic service in a private home of the employer (see paragraph (a) (2) of § 31.3121(a)(7)–1) constitutes agricultural labor if such services are performed on a farm operated for profit. The determination whether remuneration for such services performed on a farm operated for profit constitutes wages is to be made under § 31.3121 (a) (8)–1 rather than under § 31.3121 (a) (7)–1.

(2) Generally, a farm is not operated for profit if it is occupied by the employer primarily for residential purposes, or is used primarily for the pleasure of the employer or his family such as for the entertainment of guests or as a hobby of the employer or his family.

§ 31.3121(h) Statutory provisions; definitions; American employer.

SEC. 3121. Definitions. * * *

(h) American employer. For purposes of this chapter, the term "American employer" means an employer which is—

(1) The United States or any instrumentality thereof,

(2) An individual who is a resident of the United States,

(3) A partnership, if two-thirds or more of the partners are residents of the United States,

(4) A trust, if all of the trustees are residents of the United States, or

(5) A corporation organized under the laws of the United States or of any State.

§ 31.3121(h)–1 American employer.

(a) The term "American employer" means an employer which is (1) the United States or any instrumentality thereof, (2) an individual who is a resident of the United States (that is, the several States, the District of Columbia, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii, the Virgin Islands, and Puerto Rico), (3) a partnership, if two-thirds or more of the partners are residents of the United States, (4) a trust, if all of the trustees are residents of the United States, or (5) a corporation organized under the laws of the United States or of any State (including the District of Columbia, the Territory of Alaska or Hawaii, the Virgin Islands, or Puerto Rico).

(b) For provisions relating to services performed outside the United States by a citizen of the United States as an employee for an American employer, see paragraph (c) (3) of § 31.3121 (b)–3 and paragraph (e) of § 31.3121 (b) (4)–1.

§ 31.3121(i) Statutory provisions; definitions; computation of wages in certain cases.

SEC. 3121. Definitions. * * *

(i) Computation of wages in certain cases. For purposes of this chapter, in the case of domestic service described in subsection (a) (7) (B), any payment of cash remuneration for such service which is more or less than a whole-dollar amount shall, under such conditions and to such extent as may be prescribed by regulations made under this chapter, be computed to the nearest dollar. For the purpose of the computation to the nearest dollar, the payment of a fractional part of a dollar shall be disregarded unless it amounts to one-half dollar or more, in which case it shall be increased to $1. The amount of any payment of cash remuneration so computed to the nearest dollar shall, in lieu of the amount actually paid, be deemed to constitute the amount of cash remuneration for purposes of subsection (a) (7) (B).

§ 31.3121(i)–1 Computation to nearest dollar of cash remuneration for domestic service.

An employer may, for purposes of the act, elect to compute to the nearest dollar any payment of cash remuneration for domestic service described in section 3121(a)(7)(B) (see § 31.3121(a)(7)–1) which is more or less than a whole-dollar amount. For the purpose of the computation to the nearest dollar, the payment of a fractional part of a dollar shall be disregarded unless it amounts to one-half dollar or more, in which case it shall be increased to one dollar. For example, any amount actually paid between $4.50 and $5.49, inclusive, may be treated as $5 for purposes of the taxes imposed by the act. If an employer elects this method of computation with respect to any payment of cash remuneration made in a calendar quarter for domestic service in his private home, he must use the same method in computing each payment of cash remuneration of more or less than a whole-dollar amount made to each of his employees in such calendar quarter for domestic service in his private home. Moreover, if an employer elects this method of computation with respect to payments of the prescribed character made in any calendar quarter, the amount of each payment of cash remuneration so computed to the nearest dollar shall, in lieu of the amount actually paid, be deemed to constitute the amount of cash remuneration for purposes of the act. Thus, the amount of cash payments so computed to the nearest dollar shall be used for purposes of determining whether such payments constitute wages; for purposes of applying the employee and employer tax rates to the wage payments; for purposes of any required record keeping; and for purposes of reporting and paying the employee tax and employer tax with respect to such wage payments.

§ 31.3121(j) Statutory provisions; definitions; covered transportation service.

SEC. 3121. Definitions. * * *

(j) Covered transportation service. For purposes of this chapter—

(1) Existing transportation systems—General rule. Except as provided in paragraph (2), all service performed in the employ of a State or political subdivision in connection with its operation of a public transportation system shall constitute covered transportation service if any part of the transportation system was acquired from private ownership after 1936 and prior to 1951.

(2) Existing transportation systems—Cases in which no transportation employees, or only certain employees, are covered. Service performed in the employ of a State or political subdivision in connection with the operation of its public transportation system shall not constitute covered transportation service if—

(A) Any part of the transportation system was acquired from private ownership after 1936 and prior to 1951, and substantially all service in connection with the operation of the transportation system was, on December 31, 1950, covered under a general retirement system providing benefits which, by reason of a provision of the State constitution dealing specifically with retirement systems of the State or political subdivisions thereof, cannot be diminished or impaired; or

(B) No part of the transportation system operated by the State or political subdivision on December 31, 1950, was acquired from private ownership after 1936 and prior to 1951; except that if such State or political subdivision makes an acquisition after 1950 from private ownership of any part of its transportation system, then, in the case of any employee who—

(C) Became an employee of such State or political subdivision in connection with and at the time of its acquisition after 1950 of such part, and

(D) Prior to such acquisition rendered service in employment (including as employment service covered by an agreement under section 218 of the Social Security Act) in connection with the operation of such part of the transportation system acquired by the State or political subdivision, the service of such employee in connection with the operation of the transportation system shall constitute covered transportation service, commencing with the first day of the third calendar quarter following the calendar quarter in which the acquisition of such part took place, unless on such first day such service of such employee is covered by a general retirement system which does not, with respect to such employee, contain special provisions applicable only to employees described in subparagraph (C).

(3) Transportation systems acquired after 1950. All service performed in the employ of a State or political subdivision thereof in connection with its operation of a public transportation system shall constitute covered transportation service if the transportation system was not operated by the State or political subdivision prior to 1951 and, at the time of its first acquisition (after 1950) from private ownership of any part of its transportation system, the State or political subdivision did not have a general retirement system covering substantially all service performed in connection with the operation of the transportation system.

(4) Definitions. For purposes of this subsection—

(A) The term "general retirement system" means any pension, annuity, retirement, or similar fund or system established by a State or by a political subdivision thereof for employees of the State, political subdivision, or both; but such term shall not include such a fund or system which covers only service performed in positions connected with the operation of its public transportation system.

(B) A transportation system or a part thereof shall be considered to have been acquired by a State or political subdivision from private ownership if prior to the acquisition service performed by employees in connection with the operation of the system or part thereof acquired constituted employment under this chapter or subchapter A of chapter 9 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939 or was covered by an agreement made pursuant to section 218 of the Social Security Act and some of such employees became employees of the State or political subdivision in connection with and at the time of such acquisition.

(C) The term "political subdivision" includes an instrumentality of—

(i) A State,

(ii) One or more political subdivisions of a State, or

(iii) A State and one or more of its political subdivisions.

§ 31.3121(j)–1 Covered transportation service.

(a) Transportation systems acquired in whole or in part after 1936 and before 1951—(1) In general. Except as provided in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, all service performed in the employ of a State or political subdivision thereof in connection with its operation of a public transportation system constitutes covered transportation service if any part of the transportation system was acquired from private ownership after 1936 and before 1951. For purposes of this subparagraph, it is immaterial whether any part of the transportation system was acquired before 1937 or after 1950, whether the employee was hired before, during, or after 1950, or whether the employee had been employed by the employer from whom the State or political subdivision acquired its transportation system or any part thereof.

(2) General retirement system protected by State constitution. Except as provided in subparagraph (3) of this paragraph, service performed in the employ of a State or political subdivision in connection with its operation of a public transportation system acquired in whole or in part from private ownership after 1936 and before 1951 does not constitute covered transportation service, if substantially all service in connection with the operation of the transportation system was, on December 31, 1950, covered under a general retirement system providing benefits which are protected from diminution or impairment under the State constitution by reason of an express provision, dealing specifically with retirement systems established by the State or political subdivisions of the State, which forbids such diminution or impairment.

(3) Additions to certain transportation systems by acquisition after 1950. This subparagraph is applicable only in case of an acquisition after 1950 from private ownership of an addition to an existing public transportation system which was acquired in whole or in part by a State or political subdivision thereof from private ownership after 1936 and before 1951 and then only in case service for such existing transportation system did not constitute covered transportation service by reason of the provisions of subparagraph (2) of this paragraph. Service in connection with the operation of such transportation system (including any additions acquired after 1950) constitutes covered transportation service commencing with the first day of the third calendar quarter following the calendar quarter in which the addition to the existing transportation system was acquired, if such service is performed by an employee who became an employee of the State or political subdivision in connection with and at the time of its acquisition from private ownership of such addition and who before the acquisition of such addition rendered service in employment in connection with the operation of the addition so acquired by such State or political subdivision. However, service performed by such employee in connection with the operation of the transportation system does not constitute covered transportation service if, on the first day of the third calendar quarter following the calendar quarter in which the addition was acquired, such service is covered by a general retirement system which does not, with respect to such employee, contain special provisions applicable only to employees who became employees of the State or political subdivision in connection with and at the time of its acquisition of such addition.

(b) Transportation systems in operation on December 31, 1950, no part of which was acquired after 1936 and before 1951—(1) In general. Except as provided in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, no service performed in the employ of a State or a political subdivision thereof in connection with its operation of a public transportation system constitutes covered transportation service if no part of such transportation system operated by the State or political subdivision on December 31, 1950, was acquired from private ownership after 1936 and before 1951.

(2) Additions acquired after 1950. This subparagraph is applicable only in case of an acquisition after 1950 from private ownership of an addition to an existing public transportation system which was operated by a State or political subdivision on December 31, 1950, but no part of which was acquired from private ownership after 1936 and before 1951. Service in connection with the operation of such transportation system (including any additions acquired after 1950) constitutes covered transportation service commencing with the first day of the third calendar quarter following the calendar quarter in which the addition to the existing transportation system was acquired, if such service is performed by an employee who became an employee of the State or political subdivision in connection with and at the time of its acquisition from private ownership of such addition and who before the acquisition of such addition rendered service in employment in connection with the operation of the addition so acquired by such State or political subdivision. However, service performed by such employee in connection with the operation of the transportation system does not constitute covered transportation service if, on the first day of the third calendar quarter following the calendar quarter in which the addition was acquired, such service is covered by a general retirement system which does not, with respect to such employee, contain special provisions applicable only to employees who became employees of the State or political subdivision in connection with and at the time of its acquisition of such addition.

(c) Transportation systems acquired after 1950. All service performed in the employ of a State or political subdivision thereof in connection with its operation of a public transportation system constitutes covered transportation service if the transportation system was not operated by the State or political subdivision before 1951 and, at the time of its first acquisition after 1950 from private ownership of any part of its transportation system, the State or political subdivision did not have a general retirement system covering substantially all service performed in connection with the operation of the transportation system.

(d) Definitions. For purposes of this section:

(1) The term "general retirement system" means any pension, annuity, retirement, or similar fund or system established by a State or by a political subdivision thereof for employees of the State, political subdivision, or both; but such term does not include such a fund or system which covers only service performed in positions connected with the operation of its public transportation system.

(2) A transportation system or a part thereof is considered to have been acquired by a State or political subdivision from private ownership if prior to the acquisition service performed by employees in connection with the operation of the system or an acquired part thereof constituted employment under the act or under subchapter A of chapter 9 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939 or was covered by an agreement entered into pursuant to section 218 of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 418), and some of such employees became employees of the State or political subdivision in connection with and at the time of such acquisition.

(3) The term "political subdivision" includes an instrumentality of a State, of one or more political subdivisions of a State, or of a State and one or more of its political subdivisions.

(4) The term "employment" includes service covered by an agreement entered into pursuant to section 218 of the Social Security Act.

§ 31.3121(k) Statutory provisions; definitions; waiver of exemption by religious, charitable, and certain other organizations.

SEC. 3121. Definitions. • • •

(k) Exemption of religious, charitable, and certain other organizations—(1) Waiver of exemption by organization. An organization described in section 501 (c) (3) which is exempt from income tax under section 501 (a) may file a certificate (in such form and manner, and with such official, as may be prescribed by regulations made under this chapter) certifying that it desires to have the insurance system established by title II of the Social Security Act extended to service performed by its employees and that at least two-thirds of its employees concur in the filing of the certificate. Such certificate may be filed only if it is accompanied by a list containing the signature, address, and social security account number (if any) of each employee who concurs in the filing of the certificate. Such list may be amended at any time prior to the expiration of the twenty-fourth month following the first calendar quarter for which the certificate is in effect, by filing with the prescribed official a supplemental list or lists containing the signature, address, and social security account number (if any) of each additional employee who concurs in the filing of the certificate. The list and any supplemental list shall be filed in such form and manner as may be prescribed by regulations made under this chapter. The certificate shall be in effect (for purposes of subsection (b) (8) (B) and for purposes of section 210 (a) (8) (B) of the Social Security Act) for the period beginning with the first day following the close of the calendar quarter in which such certificate is filed, except that, in the case of service performed by an individual whose name appears on a supplemental list filed after the first month following the first calendar quarter for which the certificate is in effect, the certificate shall be in effect, for purposes of such subsection (b) (8) and for purposes of section 210 (a) (8) of the Social Security Act, only with respect to service performed by such individual after the calendar quarter in which such supplemental list is filed. The period for which a certificate filed pursuant to this subsection or the corresponding subsection of prior law is effective may be terminated by the organization, effective at the end of a calendar quarter, upon giving 2 years' advance notice in writing, but only if, at the time of the receipt of such notice, the certificate has been in effect for a period of not less than 8 years. The notice of termination may be revoked by the organization by giving, prior to the close of the calendar quarter specified in the notice of termination, a written notice of such revocation. Notice of termination or revocation thereof shall be filed in such form and manner, and with such official, as may be prescribed by regulations made under this chapter.

(2) Termination of waiver period by Secretary or his delegate. If the Secretary or his delegate finds that any organization which filed a certificate pursuant to this subsection or the corresponding subsection of prior law has failed to comply substantially with the requirements applicable with respect to the taxes imposed by this chapter or the corresponding provisions of prior law or is no longer able to comply with the requirements applicable with respect to the taxes imposed by this chapter, the Secretary or his delegate shall give such organization not less than 60 days' advance notice in writing that the period covered by such certificate will terminate at the end of the calendar quarter specified in such notice. Such notice of termination may be revoked by the Secretary or his delegate by giving, prior to the close of the calendar quarter specified in the notice of termination, written notice of such revocation to the organization. No notice of termination or of revocation thereof shall be given under this paragraph to an organization without the prior concurrence of the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare.

(3) No renewal of waiver. In the event the period covered by a certificate filed pursuant to this subsection or the corresponding subsection of prior law is terminated by the organization, no certificate may again be filed by such organization pursuant to this subsection.

[Sec. 3121 (k) as amended by secs. 205 (b), 207, and 402, Social Security Amendments 1954]

§ 31.3121(k)–1 Waiver of exemption from taxes.

(a) Who may waive exemption. Any organization described in section 501 (c) (3) which is exempt from income tax under section 501 (a) may waive its exemption from the taxes imposed by sections 3101 and 3111 by filing a certificate on Form SS–15, provided that at least two-thirds of the employees of the organization concur in the filing of the certificate. The organization must be exempt from income tax under section 501 (a) as an organization of the character described in section 501 (c) (3) for the taxable year in which the certificate is filed; otherwise, the Form SS–15 filed by the organization is void. A certificate in effect under section 1426 (l) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939 on December 31, 1954, continues in effect under, and is subject to the provisions of, section 3121 (k). If the period covered by a certificate filed under section 3121 (k), or under section 1426 (l) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939, is terminated by the organization, a certificate may not thereafter be filed by the organization under section 3121 (k).

(b) Execution and filing of waiver. (1) The certificate on Form SS–15 shall be filed with the district director for the internal revenue district in which is located the principal office or principal place of business in the United States of the organization. The organization shall certify in the certificate that it desires to have the Federal old-age, survivors, and disability insurance system established by title II of the Social Security Act extended to services performed by its employees and that at least two-thirds of its employees, determined on the basis of the facts existing as of the date the certificate is filed, concur in the filing of the certificate. All individuals who are employees of the organization within the meaning of section 3121 (d) (see § 31.3121 (d)–1) shall be included in determining whether two-thirds of the employees of the organization concur in the filing of the certificate; except that there shall not be included (i) those employees who at the time of the filing of the certificate are performing for such organization services only of the character specified in paragraphs (8) (A), (10) (B), and (13) of section 3121 (b) (see §§ 31.3121 (b) (8)–1, 31.3121 (b) (10)–2, and 31.3121 (b) (13)–1, respectively), and (ii) those alien employees who at the time of the filing of the certificate are performing services for such organization under an arrangement which provides for the performance only of services outside the United States not on or in connection with an American vessel or American aircraft. As used in this subparagraph, the term "alien employee" does not include an employee who is a citizen of Puerto Rico or of the Virgin Islands, and the term "United States" includes Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

(2) A certificate may be filed under section 3121 (k) only if it is accompanied by a list on Form SS–15a, containing the signature, address, and social security account number, if any, of each employee who concurs in the filing of the certificate. (For provisions relating to account numbers, see the regulations under section 6011 (b) in Subpart G of the regulations in this part.) The list on Form SS–15a accompanying a certificate filed under section 3121 (k), or under section 1426 (l) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939, may be amended, at any time before the expiration of the twenty-fourth month following the first calendar quarter for which the certificate is in effect, by filing a supplemental list or lists on Form SS–15a Supplement, containing the signature, address, and social security account number (if any) of each additional employee who concurs in the filing of the certificate.

(c) Effect of waiver. (1) A certificate filed by an organization under the provisions of section 3121 (k) shall be in effect, for the period beginning with the first day following the close of the calendar quarter in which the certificate is filed, with respect to services performed in its employ by any employee:

(i) Whose signature appears on the list on Form SS–15a filed with the certificate on Form SS–15, or on a supplemental list on Form SS–15a Supplement filed before the expiration of the fourth calendar month following the calendar quarter in which the certificate is filed.

(ii) Who became an employee of the organization after the calendar quarter in which the certificate is filed.

In no case, however, shall a certificate filed under the provisions of section 3121 (k) be in effect with respect to services performed in the employ of the organization before January 1, 1955. A certificate is not terminated if the organization loses its exemption under section 501 (a) as an organization of the character described in section 501 (c) (3), but continues effective with respect to any subsequent periods during which the organization is so exempt.

(2) If a list accompanying a certificate filed by an organization under the provisions of section 3121 (k), or under the provisions of section 1426 (l) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939, is amended under the provisions of section 3121 (k) by the filing of a supplemental list on Form SS–15a Supplement after the expiration of the fourth calendar month, following the calendar quarter in which the certificate was filed, the certificate shall be in effect with respect to services performed in the employ of the organization by an individual whose signature appears on such supplemental list—

(i) In the period beginning with the first day following the close of the calendar quarter in which such supplemental list is filed, if such supplemental list is filed on or after October 1, 1954, or

(ii) On and after January 1, 1955, if such supplemental list is filed in the month of September 1954.

(3) Services performed in the employ of an organization which has duly filed a certificate under section 3121 (k), or under section 1426 (l) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939, by any employee (i) whose signature appears on the list filed by the organization on Form SS–15a or on Form SS–15a Supplement, or (ii) who becomes an employee of the organization after the calendar quarter in which the certificate is filed, are not excepted from employment under section 3121 (b) (8) (B) during the period for which the certificate is in effect with respect to such services. Thus, the taxes imposed by sections 3101 and 3111 will apply to wages paid by the organization for services performed, on and after the first day following the close of the calendar quarter in which the certificate is filed (but not earlier than January 1, 1955), by each employee whose signature appears on the Form SS–15a accompanying the certificate or on any supplemental list or lists on Form SS–15a Supplement filed before the expiration of the fourth calendar month following the calendar quarter in which the certificate was filed. Such taxes will also apply immediately with respect to wages paid by the organization to any individual who enters the employ of the organization on or after the first day following the close of the calendar quarter in which the certificate is filed. In the case of an employee whose signature appears on a supplemental list filed after the expiration of the fourth calendar month following the calendar quarter in which a certificate was filed either under section 3121 (k), or under section 1426 (l) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939, the taxes imposed by sections 3101 and 3111 apply only with respect to wages paid to such individual for services performed after the calendar quarter in which the supplemental list is filed, but in no case earlier than January 1, 1955. A former employee of the organization who is rehired on or after the first day following the close of the calendar quarter in which the certificate was filed shall be considered to have entered the employ of the organization after such calendar quarter, regardless of whether or not such individual concurred in the filing of the certificate.

(d) Termination of waiver by organization. (1) The period for which a certificate filed pursuant to section 3121 (k), or pursuant to section 1426 (l) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939, is in effect may be terminated by the organization upon giving to the district director with whom the organization is filing returns 2 years' advance notice in writing of its desire to terminate the effect of the certificate at the end of a specified calendar quarter, but only if, at the time of the receipt of such notice by the district director, the certificate has been in effect for a period of not less than 8 years. The notice of termination shall be signed by the president or other principal officer of the organization. Such notice shall be dated and shall show (i) the title of the officer signing the notice, (ii) the name, address, and identification number of the organization, (iii) the district director with whom the certificate was filed, (iv) the date on which the certificate became effective, and (v) the date on which the certificate is to be terminated. No particular form is prescribed for the notice of termination.

(2) In computing the effective period which must precede the date of receipt of the notice of termination, there shall be disregarded any period or periods as to which the organization was not exempt from income tax under section 501 (a) as an organization of the character described in section 501 (c) (3) or under section 101 (6) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939.

(3) The notice of termination may be revoked by the organization by giving, prior to the close of the calendar quarter specified in the notice of termination, a written notice of such revocation. The notice of revocation shall be filed with the district director with whom the notice of termination was filed. The notice of revocation shall be signed by the president or other principal officer of the organization. Such notice shall be dated and shall show (i) the title of the officer signing the notice, (ii) the name, address, and identification number of the organization, and (iii) the date of the notice of termination to be revoked. No particular form is prescribed for the notice of revocation.

(e) Termination of waiver by Commissioner. (1) The period for which a certificate filed pursuant to section 3121 (k), or pursuant to section 1426 (l) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939, is in effect may be terminated by the Commissioner, with the prior concurrence of the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, upon a finding by the Commissioner that the organization has failed to comply substantially with the requirements applicable with respect to the taxes imposed by the act (or the corresponding provisions of prior law) or is no longer able to comply therewith. The Commissioner shall give the organization not less than 60 days' advance notice in writing that the period covered by the certificate will terminate at the end of the calendar quarter specified in the notice of termination.

(2) The notice of termination may be revoked by the Commissioner, with the prior concurrence of the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, by giving written notice of revocation to the organization before the close of the calendar quarter specified in the notice of termination.

§ 31.3121(l) Statutory provisions; definitions; agreements entered into by domestic corporations with respect to foreign subsidiaries.

SEC. 3121. Definitions. * * *

(l) Agreements entered into by domestic corporations with respect to foreign subsidiaries—(1) Agreement with respect to certain employees of foreign subsidiaries. The Secretary or his delegate shall, at the request of any domestic corporation, enter into an agreement (in such form and manner as may be prescribed by the Secretary or his delegate) with any such corporation which desires to have the insurance system established by title II of the Social Security Act extended to service performed outside the United States in the employ of any one or more of its foreign subsidiaries (as defined in paragraph (8)) by all employees who are citizens of the United States, except that the agreement shall not be applicable to any service performed by, or remuneration paid to, an employee if such service or remuneration would be excluded from the term "employment" or "wages", as defined in this section, had the service been performed in the United States. Such agreement may be amended at any time so as to be made applicable, in the same manner and under the same conditions, with respect to any other foreign subsidiary of such domestic corporation. Such agreement shall be applicable with respect to citizens of the United States who, on or after the effective date of the agreement, are employees of and perform services outside the United States for any foreign subsidiary specified in the agreement. Such agreement shall provide—

(A) That the domestic corporation shall pay to the Secretary or his delegate, at such time or times as the Secretary or his delegate may by regulations prescribe, amounts equivalent to the sum of the taxes which would be imposed by sections 3101 and 3111 (including amounts equivalent to the interest, additions to the taxes, additional amounts, and penalties which would be applicable) with respect to the remuneration which would be wages if the services covered by the agreement constituted employment as defined in this section; and

(B) That the domestic corporation will comply with such regulations relating to payments and reports as the Secretary or his delegate may prescribe to carry out the purposes of this subsection.

(2) Effective period of agreement. An agreement entered into pursuant to paragraph (1) shall be in effect for the period beginning with the first day of the calendar quarter in which such agreement is entered into or the first day of the succeeding calendar quarter, as may be specified in the agreement, but in no case prior to January 1, 1955; except that in case such agreement is amended to include the services performed for any other subsidiary and such amendment is executed after the first month following the first calendar quarter for which the agreement is in effect, the agreement shall be in effect with respect to service performed for such other subsidiary only after the calendar quarter in which such amendment is executed.

(3) Termination of period by a domestic corporation. The period for which an agreement entered into pursuant to paragraph (1) of this subsection is effective may be terminated with respect to any one or more of its foreign subsidiaries by the domestic corporation, effective at the end of a calendar quarter, upon giving two years' advance notice in writing, but only if, at the time of the receipt of such notice, the agreement has been in effect for a period of not less than eight years. The notice of termination may be revoked by the domestic corporation by giving, prior to the close of the calendar quarter specified in the notice of termination, a written notice of such revocation. Notice of termination or revocation thereof shall be filed in such form and manner as may be prescribed by regulations. Notwithstanding any other provision of this subsection, the period for which any such agreement is effective with respect to any foreign corporation shall terminate at the end of any calendar quarter in which the foreign corporation, at any time in such quarter, ceases to be a foreign subsidiary as defined in paragraph (8).

(4) Termination of period by Secretary. If the Secretary or his delegate finds that any domestic corporation which entered into an agreement pursuant to this subsection has failed to comply substantially with the terms of such agreement, the Secretary or his delegate shall give such domestic corporation not less than sixty days' advance notice in writing that the period covered by such agreement will terminate at the end of the calendar quarter specified in such notice. Such notice of termination may be revoked by the Secretary or his delegate by giving, prior to the close of the calendar quarter specified in the notice of termination, written notice of such revocation to the domestic corporation. No notice of termination or of revocation thereof shall be given under this paragraph to a domestic corporation without the prior concurrence of the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare.

(5) No renewal of agreement. If any agreement entered into pursuant to paragraph (1) of this subsection is terminated in its entirety (A) by a notice of termination filed by the domestic corporation pursuant to paragraph (3), or (B) by a notice of termination given by the Secretary or his delegate pursuant to paragraph (4), the domestic corporation may not again enter into an agreement pursuant to paragraph (1). If any such agreement is terminated with respect to any foreign subsidiary, such agreement may not thereafter be amended so as again to make it applicable with respect to such subsidiary.

(6) Deposits in trust funds. For purposes of section 201 of the Social Security Act, relating to appropriations to the Federal Old-Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund and the Federal Disability Insurance Trust Fund, such remuneration—

(A) Paid for services covered by an agreement entered into pursuant to paragraph (1) as would be wages if the services constituted employment, and

(B) As is reported to the Secretary or his delegate pursuant to the provisions of such agreement or of the regulations issued under this subsection, shall be considered wages subject to the taxes imposed by this chapter.

(7) Overpayments and underpayments. (A) If more or less than the correct amount due under an agreement entered into pursuant to this subsection is paid with respect to any payment of remuneration, proper adjustments with respect to the amounts due under such agreement shall be made, without interest, in such manner and at such times as may be required by regulations prescribed by the Secretary or his delegate.

(B) If an overpayment cannot be adjusted under subparagraph (A), the amount thereof shall be paid by the Secretary or his delegate, through the Fiscal Service of the Treasury Department, but only if a claim for such overpayment is filed with the Secretary or his delegate within two years from the time such overpayment was made.

(8) Definition of foreign subsidiary. For purposes of this subsection and section 210 (a) of the Social Security Act, a foreign subsidiary of a domestic corporation is—

(A) A foreign corporation not less than 20 percent of the voting stock of which is owned by such domestic corporation; or

(B) A foreign corporation more than 50 percent of the voting stock of which is owned by the foreign corporation described in subparagraph (A).

(9) Domestic corporation as separate entity. Each domestic corporation which enters into an agreement pursuant to paragraph (1) of this subsection shall, for purposes of this subsection and section 6413 (c) (2) (C), relating to special refunds in the case of employees of certain foreign corporations, be considered an employer in its capacity as a party to such agreement separate and distinct from its identity as a person employing individuals on its own account.

(10) Regulations. Regulations of the Secretary or his delegate to carry out the purposes of this subsection shall be designed to make the requirements imposed on domestic corporations with respect to services covered by an agreement entered into pursuant to this subsection the same, so far as practicable, as those imposed upon employers pursuant to this title with respect to the taxes imposed by this chapter.

[Sec. 3121 (l) as added by sec. 209, Social Security Amendments 1954; amended by secs. 103(j) and 201(j), Social Security Amendments 1956; sec. 69 Technical Amendments Act of 1958 (72 Stat. 1659)]

§ 31.3121(l)–1 Agreements entered into by domestic corporations with respect to foreign subsidiaries.

For provisions relating to the extension of the Federal old-age, survivors, and disability insurance system established by title II of the Social Security Act to certain services performed outside the United States by citizens of the United States in the employ of a foreign subsidiary of a domestic corporation, see the Regulations Relating to Contract Coverage of Employees of Foreign Subsidiaries (Part 36 of this chapter).

§ 31.3122 Statutory provisions; Federal service.

SEC. 3122. Federal service. In the case of the taxes imposed by this chapter with respect to service performed in the employ of the United States or in the employ of any instrumentality which is wholly owned by the United States, the determination whether an individual has performed service which constitutes employment as defined in section 3121 (b), the determination of the amount of remuneration for such service which constitutes wages as defined in section 3121 (a), and the return and payment of the taxes imposed by this chapter, shall be made by the head of the Federal agency or instrumentality having the control of such service, or by such agents as such head may designate. The person making such return may, for convenience of administration, make payments of the tax imposed under section 3111 with respect to such service without regard to the $4,200 limitation in section 3121 (a) (1), and he shall not be required to obtain a refund of the tax paid under section 3111 on that part of the remuneration not included in wages by reason of section 3121 (a) (1). The provisions of this section shall be applicable in the case of service performed by a civilian employee, not compensated from funds appropriated by the Congress, in the Army and Air Force Exchange Service, Army and Air Force Motion Picture Service, Navy Exchanges, Marine Corps Exchanges, or other activities, conducted by an instrumentality of the United States subject to the jurisdiction of the Secretary of Defense, at installations of the Department of Defense for the comfort, pleasure, contentment, and mental and physical improvement of personnel of such Department; and for purposes of this section the Secretary of Defense shall be deemed to be the head of such instrumentality. The provisions of this subsection [section] shall be applicable also in the case of service performed by a civilian employee, not compensated from funds appropriated by the Congress, in the Coast Guard Exchanges or other activities, conducted by an instrumentality of the United States subject to the jurisdiction of the Secretary, at installations of the Coast Guard for the comfort, pleasure, contentment, and mental and physical improvement of personnel of the Coast Guard; and for purposes of this subsection [section] the Secretary shall be deemed to be the head of such instrumentality.

[Sec. 3122 as amended by secs. 202 (c) and 203, Social Security Amendments 1954]

§ 31.3123 Statutory provisions; deductions as constructive payments.

SEC. 3123. Deductions as constructive payments. Whenever under this chapter or any act of Congress, or under the law of any State, an employer is required or permitted to deduct any amount from the remuneration of an employee and to pay the amount deducted to the United States, a State, or any political subdivision thereof, then for purposes of this chapter the amount so deducted shall be considered to have been paid to the employee at the time of such deduction.

§ 31.3123–1 Deductions by an employer from remuneration of an employee.

Any amount deducted by an employer from the remuneration of an employee is considered to be part of the employee's remuneration and is considered to be paid to the employee as remuneration at the time that the deduction is made. It is immaterial that any act of Congress or the law of any State requires or permits such deductions and the payment of the amount thereof to the United States, a State, or any political subdivision thereof.

§ 31.3124 Statutory provisions; estimate of revenue reduction.

SEC. 3124. Estimate of revenue reduction. The Secretary or his delegate at intervals of not longer than 3 years shall estimate the reduction in the amount of taxes collected under this chapter by reason of the operation of section 3121 (b) (9) and shall include such estimate in his annual report.

[Sec. 3124 as amended by sec. 205 (b), Social Security Amendments 1954]

§ 31.3125 Statutory provisions; short title.

SEC. 3125. Short title. This chapter may be cited as the "Federal Insurance Contributions Act."

Subpart C—Railroad Retirement Tax Act (Chapter 22, Internal Revenue Code of 1954)

TAX ON EMPLOYEES

§ 31.3201 Statutory provisions; rate of tax.

SEC. 3201. Rate of tax. In addition to other taxes, there is hereby imposed on the income of every employee a tax equal to 6¼ percent of so much of the compensation paid to such employee after December 31, 1954, for services rendered by him after such date as is not in excess of $350 for any calendar month.

[Sec. 3201 as amended by sec. 206 (a), Act of Aug. 31, 1954, 68 Stat. 1040]

§ 31.3201–1 Measure of employee tax.

The employee tax with respect to compensation paid after 1954 for services rendered after 1954 is measured by the amount of such compensation paid to an individual for services rendered as an employee to one or more employers, excluding, however, the amount of compensation in excess of $350 which is paid after 1954 to the employee for services rendered during any one calendar month after 1954. For provisions relating to compensation, see § 31.3231 (e)–1. For provisions relating to the circumstances under which certain compensation is to be disregarded for the purpose of determining the employee tax, see paragraph (a) (4) and (5) of § 31.3231 (e)–1.

§ 31.3201–2 Rate and computation of employee tax.

The rate of the employee tax is 6¼ percent. The employee tax is computed by multiplying the amount of the employee's compensation with respect to which the employee tax is imposed by 6¼ percent.

§ 31.3202 Statutory provisions; deduction of tax from compensation.

SEC. 3202. Deduction of tax from compensation—(a) Requirement. The tax imposed by section 3201 shall be collected by the employer of the taxpayer by deducting the amount of the tax from the compensation of the employee as and when paid. If an employee is paid compensation after December 31, 1954, by more than one employer for services rendered during any calendar month after 1954 and the aggregate of such compensation is in excess of $350, the tax to be deducted by each employer other than a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer from the compensation paid by him to the employee with respect to such month shall be that proportion of the tax with respect to such compensation paid by all such employers which the compensation paid by him after December 31, 1954, to the employee for services rendered during such month bears to the total compensation paid by all such employers after December 31, 1954, to such employee for services rendered during such month; and in the event that the compensation so paid by such employers to the employee for services rendered during such month is less than $350, each subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer shall deduct such proportion of any additional tax as the compensation paid by such employer after December 31, 1954, to such employee for services rendered during such month bears to the total compensation paid by all such employers after December 31, 1954, to such employee for services rendered during such month.

(b) Indemnification of employer. Every employer required under subsection (a) to deduct the tax shall be made liable for the payment of such tax and shall not be liable to any person for the amount of any such payment.

[Sec. 3202 as amended by sec. 206 (a), Act of Aug. 31, 1954, 68 Stat. 1040]

§ 31.3202–1 Collection of, and liability for, employee tax.

(a) Collection; general rule. The employer shall collect from each of his employees the employee tax imposed with respect to the compensation of the employee by deducting or causing to be deducted the amount of such tax from the compensation subject to the tax as and when such compensation is paid. As to the measure of the employee tax, see § 31.3201–1.

(b) Collection; aggregate monthly compensation in excess of $350 paid by two or more employers. (1) If an employee is paid compensation after 1954 by two or more employers for services rendered during any one calendar month after 1954, and if the aggregate compensation paid to such employee after 1954 by all employers for services rendered during such month is in excess of $350, the employee tax to be deducted by each employer from the compensation as and when paid by him to the employee shall be determined as follows:

(i) If such compensation is paid by two or more employers, none of whom is a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer (see paragraph (a) (6) of § 31.3231 (a)–1), each employer shall deduct the employee tax with respect to that proportion of $350 of compensation which the compensation paid after 1954 by such employer to the employee for the month bears to the total compensation paid after 1954 to such employee by all employers for that month. See example (1) in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph.

(ii) If such compensation is paid by two or more employers, each of which is a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer, each subordinate unit shall deduct the employee tax with respect to that proportion of $350 of compensation which the compensation paid after 1954 by such subordinate unit to the employee for the month bears to the total compensation paid after 1954 to such employee by all such subordinate units for that month.

(iii) If such compensation is paid by two or more employers, only one of whom is an employer other than a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and if the compensation paid after 1954 to the employee by the employer other than a subordinate unit equals or exceeds $350 for the month, then no employee tax shall be deducted by any such subordinate unit from the compensation paid by it after 1954 to such employee for that month, and the employer other than a subordinate unit shall deduct the employee tax with respect to $350 of compensation paid by him after 1954 to such employee for that month. See example (2) in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph.

(iv) If such compensation is paid by two or more employers other than a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer and by one or more subordinate units of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and if the total compensation paid after 1954 to the employee by the employers other than a subordinate unit equals or exceeds $350 for the month, then no employee tax shall be deducted by any such subordinate unit from the compensation paid by it after 1954 to such employee for that month, and each employer other than a subordinate unit shall deduct the employee tax with respect to that proportion of $350 of compensation which the compensation paid after 1954 by such employer to the employee for the month bears to the total compensation paid after 1954 to such employee by all such employers other than a subordinate unit for that month. See example (3) in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph.

(v) If such compensation is paid by two or more employers, only one of whom is a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and if the total compensation paid after 1954 to the employee by all employers other than the subordinate unit is less than $350 for the month, then each employer other than the subordinate unit shall deduct the employee tax with respect to the full amount of compensation paid by him after 1954 to such employee for that month, and the subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer shall deduct the employee tax with respect to the remainder of $350 of compensation less the total compensation paid after 1954 to such employee for that month by all other employers. See example (4) in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph.

(vi) If such compensation is paid by one or more employers other than a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer and by two or more subordinate units of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and if the total compensation paid after 1954 to the employee by all employers other than the subordinate units is less than $350 for the month, then each employer other than the subordinate units shall deduct the employee tax with respect to the full amount of compensation paid by him after 1954 to such employee for that month, and each subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer shall deduct the employee tax with respect to that proportion of the remainder of $350 of compensation less the total compensation paid after 1954 to such employee for the month by all employers other than the subordinate units which the compensation paid after 1954 by such subordinate unit to the employee for that month bears to the total compensation paid after 1954 to such employee by all such subordinate units for that month. See example (5) in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph.

See paragraph (a) (4) and (5) of § 31.3231 (e)–1 for provisions relating to the circumstances under which certain compensation is to be disregarded for the purpose of determining the employee tax.

(2) The application of certain of the principles stated in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph may be illustrated by the following examples:

Example (1). A, an employee, renders services during January 1955 for employers X, Y, and Z, none of whom is a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer. For such services A is paid in the month or thereafter compensation of $100 by X, $100 by Y, and $300 by Z, or an aggregate of $500 for the month. In such case X pays one-fifth of A's aggregate compensation for the month, Y pays one-fifth, and Z pays three-fifths. X and Y, therefore, are each required to deduct the employee tax with respect to one-fifth of $350, or $70, and Z is required to deduct the employee tax with respect to three-fifths of $350, or $210.

Example (2). A, an employee, renders services during January 1955 for employer X, an employer other than a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and for employers Y and Z, each of which is a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer. For such services A is paid in the month or thereafter compensation of $350 by X, $50 by Y, and $25 by Z. Since the compensation paid A for the month by X equals $350, neither Y nor Z is required to deduct any employee tax from the compensation paid by him to A for the month; and X is required to deduct the employee tax with respect to the full $350 paid by him to A for the month.

Example (3). A, an employee, renders services during January 1955 for employers W and X, each of whom is an employer other than a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and for employers Y and Z, each of which is a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer. For such services A is paid in the month or thereafter compensation of $200 by W and $300 by X, or an aggregate of $500 for the month, and compensation of $50 by Y and $50 by Z. Since the aggregate compensation paid A for the month by W and X is in excess of $350, neither Y nor Z is required to deduct any employee tax from the compensation paid by him to A for the month. Of the aggregate compensation of $500 paid A for the month by W and X, W pays two-fifths and X pays three-fifths. W, therefore, is required to deduct the employee tax with respect to two-fifths of $350, or $140, and X is required to deduct the employee tax with respect to three-fifths of $350, or $210.

Example (4). A, an employee, renders services during January 1955 for employer X, an employer other than a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and for employer Y, a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer. For such services A is paid in the month or thereafter compensation of $250 by X and $200 by Y. In such case X is required to deduct the employee tax with respect to the full $250 paid by him to A for the month; and Y is required to deduct the employee tax only with respect to $100 ($350 minus $250 paid by X).

Example (5). A, an employee, renders services during January 1955 for employers W and X, each of whom is an employer other than a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and for employers Y and Z, each of which is a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer. For such services A is paid in the month or thereafter compensation of $190 by W, $100 by X, $50 by Y, and $100 by Z. In such case W and X are each required to deduct the employee tax with respect to the full amount paid to A for the month, that is, W with respect to $190 and X with respect to $100; and Y and Z are required to deduct the employee tax with respect to their proportionate share of $60 ($350 minus $290 paid by W and X). Of the aggregate compensation of $150 paid by Y and Z, $50, or one-third, was paid by Y, and $100, or two-thirds, was paid by Z. In such case Y is required to deduct the employee tax with respect to one-third of $60, or $20, and Z is required to deduct the employee tax with respect to two-thirds of $60, or $40.

(c) Undercollections or overcollections. Any undercollection or overcollection of employee tax resulting from the employer's inability to determine, at the time compensation is paid, the correct amount of compensation with respect to which the deduction should be made shall be corrected in accordance with the provisions of Subpart G of the regulations in this part relating to adjustments, credits, refunds, and abatements.

(d) When fractional part of cent may be disregarded. In collecting the employee tax, the employer shall disregard any fractional part of a cent of such tax unless it amounts to one-half cent or more, in which case it shall be increased to one cent.

(e) Employer's liability. The employer is liable for the employee tax with respect to compensation paid by him, whether or not collected from the employee. If the employer deducts less than the correct amount of employee tax or fails to deduct any part of the tax, he is nevertheless liable for the correct amount of the tax. Until collected from him, the employee is also liable for the employee tax. Any employee tax collected by or on behalf of an employer is a special fund in trust for the United States. See section 7501. An employer is not liable to any person for the amount of the employee tax deducted by him and paid to the district director.

Tax on Employee Representatives

§ 31.3211 Statutory provisions; rate of tax.

Sec. 3211. Rate of tax. In addition to other taxes, there is hereby imposed on the income of each employee representative a tax equal to 12½ percent of so much of the compensation, paid to such employee representative after December 31, 1954, for services rendered by him after such date as is not in excess of $350 for any calendar month.

[Sec. 3211 as amended by sec. 206 (a), Act of Aug. 31, 1954 (Pub. Law 746, 83rd Cong., 68 Stat. 1040)]

§ 31.3211–1 Measure of employee representative tax.

(a) General rule. Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section, the employee representative tax with respect to compensation paid after 1954 for services rendered after 1954 is measured by the amount of such compensation paid to an individual for services rendered as an employee representative, excluding, however, the amount of compensation in excess of $350 which is paid after 1954 to the employee representative for services rendered during any one calendar month after 1954. See § 31.3231 (e)–1, relating to compensation.

(b) Aggregate monthly compensation in excess of $350 as employee representative and employee. (1) If during any one calendar month after 1954 an individual renders services as an employee representative and as an employee and the total compensation paid after 1954 to the individual for services rendered during such month as an employee representative and as an employee exceeds $350, the measure of the employee representative tax for such month shall be $350 minus the compensation paid after 1954 to such individual for services rendered by him during the month as an employee.

(2) The application of subparagraph (1) of this paragraph may be illustrated by the following example:

Example. A renders services as an employee representative during January 1955 for which he is paid in the month or thereafter $100. During January 1955 A also renders services as an employee for one or more employers and receives during the month or thereafter compensation of $300. Inasmuch as A's total compensation for services rendered during January 1955 as an employee representative and as an employee exceeds $350 ($300 plus $100), the measure of the employee representative tax is $350 minus $300 (A's compensation for services rendered as an employee), or $50.

§ 31.3211–2 Rate and computation of employee representative tax.

The rate of the employee representative tax is 12½ percent. The employee representative tax is computed by multiplying the amount of the employee representative's compensation with respect to which the employee representative tax is imposed by 12½ percent.

§ 31.3212 Statutory provisions; determination of compensation.

Sec. 3212. Determination of compensation. The compensation of an employee representative for the purpose of ascertaining the tax thereon shall be determined in the same manner and with the same effect as if the employee organization by which such employee representative is employed were an employer as defined in section 3231 (a).

§ 31.3212–1 Determination of compensation.

See § 31.3231(e)–1 for regulations applicable to compensation.

Tax on Employers

§ 31.3221 Statutory provisions; rate of tax.

Sec. 3221. Rate of tax. In addition to other taxes, there is hereby imposed on every employer an excise tax, with respect to having individuals in his employ, equal to 6¼ percent of so much of the compensation paid by such employer after December 31, 1954, for services rendered to him after December 31, 1954, as is, with respect to any employee for any calendar month, not in excess of $350; except that if an employee is paid compensation after December 31, 1954, by more than one employer for services rendered during any calendar month after 1954, the tax imposed by this section shall apply to not more than $350 of the aggregate compensation paid to such employee by all such employers after December 31, 1954, for services rendered during such month, and each employer other than a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer shall be liable for that proportion of the tax with respect to such compensation paid by all such employers which the compensation paid by him after December 31, 1954, to the employee for services rendered during such month bears to the total compensation paid by all such employers after December 31, 1954, to such employee for services rendered during such month; and in the event that the compensation so paid by such employers to the employee for services rendered during such month is less than $350, each subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer shall be liable for such proportion of any additional tax as the compensation paid by such employer after December 31, 1954, to such employee for services rendered during such month bears to the total compensation paid by all such employers after December 31, 1954, to such employee for services rendered during such month.

[Sec. 3221 as amended by sec. 206 (a), Act of Aug. 31, 1954 (Pub. Law 746, 83rd Cong., 68 Stat. 1040)]

§ 31.3221–1 Measure of employer tax.

(a) General rule. Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section, the employer tax with respect to compensation paid after 1954 for services rendered after 1954 is measured by the amount of such compensation paid by an employer to his employees, excluding, however, the amount of compensation in excess of $350 which is paid after 1954 by the employer to any employee for services rendered during any one calendar month after 1954. For provisions relating to compensation, see § 31.3231 (e)–1. For provisions relating to the circumstances under which certain compensation is to be disregarded for the purpose of determining the employer tax, see paragraph (a) (4) and (5) of § 31.3231 (e)–1.

(b) Aggregate monthly compensation in excess of $350 paid by two or more employers. (1) If an employee is paid compensation after 1954 by two or more employers for services rendered during any one calendar month after 1954, and if the aggregate compensation paid to such employee after 1954 by all employers for services rendered during such month is in excess of $350, the measure of the employer tax of each employer with respect to the compensation paid by him after 1954 to the employee for the month shall be determined as follows:

(i) If such compensation is paid by two or more employers, none of whom is a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer (see paragraph (a) (6) of § 31.3231 (a)–1), the measure of the employer tax of each employer shall be that proportion of $350 which the compensation paid after 1954 by such employer to the employee for the month bears to the total compensation paid after 1954 to such employee by all employers for that month.

(ii) If such compensation is paid by two or more employers, each of which is a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer, the measure of the employer tax of each subordinate unit shall be that proportion of $350 which the compensation paid after 1954 by such subordinate unit to the employee for the month bears to the total compensation paid after 1954 to such employee by all such subordinate units for that month.

(iii) If such compensation is paid by two or more employers, only one of whom is an employer other than a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and if the compensation paid after 1954 to the employee by the employer other than a subordinate unit equals or exceeds $350 for the month, then no subordinate unit shall be liable for any employer tax with respect to the compensation paid by it after 1954 to such employee for that month, and the measure of the employer tax of the employer other than a subordinate unit with respect to the compensation paid by him after 1954 to such employee for that month shall be $350.

(iv) If such compensation is paid by two or more employers other than a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer and by one or more subordinate units of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and if the total compensation paid after 1954 to the employee by the employers other than a subordinate unit equals or exceeds $350 for the month, then no subordinate unit shall be liable for any employer tax with respect to the compensation paid by it after 1954 to such employee for that month, and the measure of the employer tax of each employer other than a subordinate unit shall be that proportion of $350 which the compensation paid after 1954 by such employer to the employee for the month bears to the total compensation paid after 1954 to such employee by all such employers other than a subordinate unit for that month.

(v) If such compensation is paid by two or more employers, only one of whom is a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and if the total compensation paid after 1954 to the employee by all employers other than the subordinate unit is less than $350 for the month, then the measure of the employer tax of each employer other than the subordinate unit shall be the full amount of compensation paid by him after 1954 to such employee for that month, and the measure of the employer tax of the subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer shall be the remainder of $350 less the total compensation paid after 1954 to such employee for that month by all other employers.

(vi) If such compensation is paid by one or more employers other than a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and by two or more subordinate units of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and if the total compensation paid after 1954 to the employee by all employers other than the subordinate units is less than $350 for the month, then the measure of the employer tax of each employer other than the subordinate units shall be the full amount of compensation paid by him after 1954 to such employee for that month, and the measure of the employer tax of each subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer shall be that proportion of the remainder of $350 less the total compensation paid after 1954 to such employee for the month by all employers other than the subordinate units which the compensation paid after 1954 by such subordinate unit to the employee for that month bears to the total compensation paid after 1954 to such employee by all such subordinate units for that month.

See paragraph (a) (4) and (5) of § 31.3231 (e)–1 for provisions relating to the circumstances under which certain compensation is to be disregarded for the purpose of determining the employer tax.

(2) For illustrations of the application of certain of the principles in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, see the examples, illustrating the analogous principles with respect to the deduction of employee tax, set forth in paragraph (b) (2) of § 31.3202–1.

(c) Underpayments or overpayments. Any underpayment or overpayment of employer tax resulting from the employer's inability to determine, at the time such tax is paid, the correct amount of compensation with respect to which the tax should be paid shall be corrected in accordance with the provisions of Subpart G of the regulations in this part relating to adjustments, credits, refunds, and abatements.

§ 31.3221–2 Rate and computation of employer tax.

The rate of employer tax is 6¼ percent. The employer tax is computed by multiplying the amount of the compensation with respect to which the employer tax is imposed by 6¼ percent.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

§ 31.3231(a) Statutory provisions; definitions; employer.

SEC. 3231. Definitions—(a) Employer. For purposes of this chapter, the term "employer" means any carrier (as defined in subsection (g)), and any company which is directly or indirectly owned or controlled by one or more such carriers or under common control therewith, and which operates any equipment or facility or performs any service (except trucking service, casual service, and the casual operation of equipment or facilities) in connection with the transportation of passengers or property by railroad, or the receipt, delivery, elevation, transfer in transit, refrigeration or icing, storage, or handling of property transported by railroad, and any receiver, trustee, or other individual or body, judicial or otherwise, when in the possession of the property or operating all or any part of the business of any such employer; except that the term "employer" shall not include any street, interurban, or suburban electric railway, unless such railway is operating as a part of a general steam-railroad system of transportation, but shall not exclude any part of the general steam-railroad system of transportation now or hereafter operated by any other motive power. The Interstate Commerce Commission is hereby authorized and directed upon request of the Secretary or his delegate, or upon complaint of any party interested, to determine after hearing whether any line operated by electric power falls within the terms of this exception. The term "employer" shall also include railroad associations, traffic associations, tariff bureaus, demurrage bureaus, weighing and inspection bureaus, collection agencies and other associations, bureaus, agencies, or organizations controlled and maintained wholly or principally by two or more employers as hereinbefore defined and engaged in the performance of services in connection with or incidental to railroad transportation; and railway labor organizations, national in scope, which have been or may be organized in accordance with the provisions of the Railway Labor Act, as amended (44 Stat. 577; 45 U. S. C., chapter 8), and their State and National legislative committees and their general committees and their insurance departments and their local lodges and divisions, established pursuant to the constitutions and bylaws of such organizations. The term "employer" shall not include any company by reason of its being engaged in the mining of coal, the supplying of coal to an employer where delivery is not beyond the mine tipple, and the operation of equipment or facilities therefor, or in any of such activities.

§ 31.3231(a)–1 Who are employers.

(a) Each of the following persons is an employer within the meaning of the act:

(1) Any carrier, that is, any express company, sleeping-car company, or carrier by railroad, subject to part I of the Interstate Commerce Act;

(2) Any company—

(i) Which is directly or indirectly owned or controlled by one or more employers as defined in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, or under common control therewith, and

(ii) Which operates any equipment or facility or performs any service (except trucking service, casual service, and the casual operation of equipment or facilities) in connection with—

(a) The transportation of passengers or property by railroad, or

(b) The receipt, delivery, elevation, transfer in transit, refrigeration or icing, storage, or handling of property transported by railroad;

(3) Any receiver, trustee, or other individual or body, judicial or otherwise, when in the possession of the property or operating all or any part of the business of any employer as defined in subparagraph (1) or (2) of this paragraph;

(4) Any railroad association, traffic association, tariff bureau, demurrage bureau, weighing and inspection bureau, collection agency, and any other association, bureau, agency, or organization controlled and maintained wholly or principally by two or more employers as defined in subparagraph (1), (2) or (3) of this paragraph and engaged in the performance of services in connection with or incidental to railroad transportation;

(5) Any railway labor organization, national in scope, which has been or may be organized in accordance with the provisions of the Railway Labor Act; and

(6) Any subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer, that is, any State or National legislative committee, general committee, insurance department, or local lodge or division, of an employer as defined in subparagraph (5) of this paragraph, established pursuant to the constitution and bylaws of such employer.

(b) As used in paragraph (a) (2) of this section, the term "controlled" includes direct or indirect control, whether legally enforceable and however exercisable or exercised. The control may be by means of stock ownership, or by agreements, licenses, or any other devices which insure that the operation of the company is in the interest of one or more carriers. It is the reality of the control, however, which is decisive, not its form nor the mode of its exercise.

(c) The term "employer" does not include any street, interurban, or suburban electric railway, unless such railway is operating as a part of a general steam-railroad system of transportation, but shall not exclude any part of the general steam-railroad system of transportation which is operated by any other motive power.

(d) The term "employer" does not include any company by reason of its being engaged in the mining of coal, the supplying of coal to an employer where delivery is not beyond the mine tipple, and the operation of equipment or facilities for such mining or supplying of coal, or in any of such activities.

§ 31.3231(b) Statutory provisions; definitions; employee.

SEC. 3231. Definitions. • • •

(b) Employee. For purposes of this chapter, the term "employee" means any individual in the service of one or more employers for compensation; except that the term "employee" shall include an employee of a local lodge or division defined as an employer in subsection (a) only if he was in the service of or in the employment relation to a carrier on or after August 29, 1935. An individual shall be deemed to have been in the employment relation to a carrier on August 29, 1935, if—

(1) He was on that date on leave of absence from his employment, expressly granted to him by the carrier by whom he was employed, or by a duly authorized representative of such carrier, and the grant of such leave of absence was established to the satisfaction of the Railroad Retirement Board before July 1947; or

(2) He was in the service of a carrier after August 29, 1935, and before January 1946 in each of 6 calendar months, whether or not consecutive; or

(3) Before August 29, 1935, he did not retire and was not retired or discharged from the service of the last carrier by whom he was employed or its corporate or operating successor, but—

(A) Solely by reason of his physical or mental disability he ceased before August 29, 1935, to be in the service of such carrier and thereafter remained continuously disabled until he attained age 65 or until August 1945, or

(B) Solely for such last stated reason a carrier by whom he was employed before August 29, 1935, or a carrier who is its successor did not on or after August 29, 1935, and before August 1945 call him to return to service, or

(C) If he was so called he was solely for such reason unable to render service in 6 calendar months as provided in paragraph (2); or

(4) He was on August 29, 1935, absent from the service of a carrier by reason of a discharge which, within 1 year after the effective date thereof, was protested, to an appropriate labor representative or to the carrier, as wrongful, and which was followed within 10 years of the effective date thereof by his reinstatement in good faith to his former service with all his seniority rights; except that an individual shall not be deemed to have been on August 29, 1935, in the employment relation to a carrier if before that date he was granted a pension or gratuity on the basis of which a pension was awarded to him pursuant to section 6 of the Railroad Retirement Act of 1937 (50 Stat. 312; 45 U. S. C. 228f), or if during the last payroll period before August 29, 1935, in which he rendered service to a carrier he was not in the service of an employer, in accordance with subsection (d), with respect to any service in such payroll period, or if he could have been in the employment relation to an employer only by reason of his having been, either before or after August 29, 1935, in the service of a local lodge or division defined as an employer in subsection (a). The term "employee" includes an officer of an employer. The term "employee" shall not include any individual while such individual is engaged in the physical operations consisting of the mining of coal, the preparation of coal, the handling (other than movement by rail with standard railroad locomotives) of coal not beyond the mine tipple, or the loading of coal at the tipple.

§ 31.3231(b)–1 Who are employees.

(a) In general. (1) An individual who is in the service of one or more employers for compensation is an employee within the meaning of the act. (For definitions of the terms "employer", "service", and "compensation", see subsections (a), (d), and (e), respectively, of section 3231.) An individual is in the service of an employer, with respect to services rendered for compensation, if—

(i) He is subject to the continuing authority of the employer to supervise and direct the manner in which he renders such services; or

(ii) He is rendering professional or technical services and is integrated into the staff of the employer; or

(iii) He is rendering, on the property used in the employer's operations, other personal services the rendition of which is integrated into the employer's operations.

(2) In order that an individual may be in the service of an employer within the meaning of subparagraph (1) (i) of this paragraph, it is not necessary that the employer actually direct or control the manner in which the services are rendered; it is sufficient if the employer has the right to do so. The right of an employer to discharge an individual is also an important factor indicating that the individual is subject to the continuing authority of the employer to supervise and direct the manner of rendition of the services. Other factors indicating that an individual is subject to the continuing authority of the employer to supervise and direct the manner of rendition of the services are the furnishing of tools and the furnishing of a place to work by the employer to the individual who renders the services.

(3) In general, if an individual is subject to the control or direction of an employer merely as to the result to be accomplished by the work and not as to the means and methods for accomplishing the result, he is an independent contractor. An individual performing services as an independent contractor is not, as to such services, in the service of an employer within the meaning of subparagraph (1) (i) of this paragraph. However, an individual performing services as an independent contractor may be, as to such services, in the service of an employer within the meaning of subparagraph (1) (ii) or (iii) of this paragraph.

(4) Whether or not an individual is an employee will be determined upon an examination of the particular facts of the case.

(5) If an individual is an employee, it is of no consequence that he is designated as a partner, coadventurer, agent, independent contractor, or otherwise, or that he performs services on a part-time basis.

(6) No distinction is made between classes or grades of employees. Thus, superintendents, managers, and other supervisory personnel are employees within the meaning of the act. An officer of an employer is an employee, but a director as such is not.

(7) In determining whether an individual is an employee with respect to services rendered within the United States, the citizenship or residence of the individual, or the place where the contract of service was entered into, is immaterial.

(8) If an individual performs services for an employer (other than a local lodge or division or a general committee of a railway-labor-organization employer) which does not conduct the principal part of its business within the United States, such individual shall be deemed to be in the service of such employer only to the extent that he performs services for it in the United States. Thus, with respect to services rendered for such employer outside the United States, such individual is not in the service of an employer.

(9) If an individual performs services for an employer (other than a local lodge or division or a general committee of a railway-labor-organization employer) which conducts the principal part of its business within the United States, he is in the service of such employer whether his services are rendered within or without the United States. In the case of an individual, not a citizen or resident of the United States, rendering services in a place outside the United States to an employer which is required under the laws applicable in such place to employ, in whole or in part, citizens or residents thereof, such individual shall not be deemed to be in the service of an employer with respect to services so rendered.

(10) The term "employee" does not include any individual while he is engaged in the physical operations consisting of the mining of coal, the preparation of coal, the handling (other than movement by rail with standard railroad locomotives) of coal not beyond the mine tipple, or the loading of coal at the tipple.

(b) Employees of local lodges or divisions of railway-labor-organization em- ployers. (1) An individual is in the service of a local lodge or division of a railway-labor-organization employer (see paragraph (a) (6) of § 31.3231 (a)–1) only if—

(i) All, or substantially all, the individuals constituting the membership of such local lodge or division are employees of an employer conducting the principal part of its business in the United States; or

(ii) The headquarters of such local lodge or division is located in the United States.

(2) (i) An individual in the service of a local lodge or division is not an employee within the meaning of the act unless he was, on or after August 29, 1935, in the service of a carrier (see § 31.3231 (g) for definition of carrier) or he was, on August 29, 1935, in the "employment relation" to a carrier.

(ii) An individual shall be deemed to have been in the employment relation to a carrier on August 29, 1935, if (a) he was on that date on leave of absence from his employment, expressly granted to him by the carrier by whom he was employed, or by a duly authorized representative of such carrier, and the grant of such leave of absence was established to the satisfaction of the Railroad Retirement Board before July 1947; or (b) he was in the service of a carrier after August 29, 1935, and before January 1946 in each of six calendar months, whether or not consecutive; or (c) before August 29, 1935, he did not retire and was not retired or discharged from the service of the last carrier by whom he was employed or its corporate or operating successor, but (1) solely by reason of his physical or mental disability he ceased before August 29, 1935, to be in the service of such carrier and thereafter remained continuously disabled until he attained age sixty-five or until August 1945, or (2) solely for such last stated reason a carrier by whom he was employed before August 29, 1935, or a carrier who is its successor did not on or after August 29, 1935, and before August 1945 call him to return to service, or (3) if he was so called he was solely for such reason unable to render service in six calendar months as provided in (b) of this subdivision; or (d) he was on August 29, 1935, absent from the service of a carrier by reason of a discharge which, within one year after the effective date thereof, was protested, to an appropriate labor representative or to the carrier, as wrongful, and which was followed within 10 years of the effective date thereof by his reinstatement in good faith to his former service with all his seniority rights. However, an individual shall not be deemed to have been in the employment relation to a carrier on August 29, 1935, if before that date he was granted a pension or gratuity on the basis of which a pension was awarded to him pursuant to section 6 of the Railroad Retirement Act of 1937 (45 U.S.C. 228f), or if during the last payroll period before August 29, 1935, in which he rendered service to a carrier he was not, with respect to any service in such payroll period, in the service of an employer (see paragraph (a) of this section).

(c) Employees of general committees of railway-labor-organization employers. An individual is in the service of a general committee of a railway-labor-organization employer (see paragraph (a) (6) of § 31.3231 (a)–1) only if—

(1) He is representing a local lodge or division described in paragraph (b) (1) of this section; or

(2) All, or substantially all, the individuals represented by such general committee are employees of an employer conducting the principal part of its business in the United States; or

(3) He acts in the capacity of a general chairman or an assistant general chairman of a general committee which represents individuals rendering service in the United States to an employer. In such case, if his office or headquarters is not located in the United States and the individuals represented by such general committee are employees of an employer not conducting the principal part of its business in the United States, only a part of his remuneration for such service shall be regarded as compensation. The part of his remuneration regarded as compensation shall be in the same proportion to his total remuneration as the mileage in the United States under the jurisdiction of such general committee bears to the total mileage under its jurisdiction, unless such mileage formula is inapplicable, in which case such other formula as the Railroad Retirement Board may have prescribed pursuant to section 1 (c) of the Railroad Retirement Act of 1937 (45 U.S.C. 228a) shall be applicable. However, no part of his remuneration for such service shall be regarded as compensation if the application of such mileage formula, or such other formula as the Railroad Retirement Board may have prescribed, would result in his compensation for the service being less than 10 percent of his remuneration for such service.

§ 31.3231(c) Statutory provisions; definitions; employee representative.

SEC. 3231. Definitions. • • •

(c) Employee representative. For purposes of this chapter, the term "employee representative" means any officer or official representative of a railway labor organization other than a labor organization included in the term "employer" as defined in subsection (a), who before or after June 29, 1937, was in the service of an employer as defined in subsection (a) and who is duly authorized and designated to represent employees in accordance with the Railway Labor Act (44 Stat. 577; 45 U. S. C., chapter 8), as amended, and any individual who is regularly assigned to or regularly employed by such officer or official representative in connection with the duties of his office.

§ 31.3231(c)–1 Who are employee representatives.

(a) An employee representative within the meaning of the act is—

(1) Any officer or official representative of a railway labor organization which is not included as an employer under section 3231 (a) who—

(i) Was in the service of an employer either before or after June 29, 1937, and

(ii) Is duly authorized and designated to represent employees in accordance with the Railway Labor Act.

For railway labor organizations which are employers under section 3231 (a), see paragraph (a) (5) and (6) of § 31.3231 (a)–1.

(2) Any individual who is regularly assigned to or regularly employed by an employee representative, as defined in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, in connection with the duties of such employee representative's office.

(b) In determining whether an individual is an employee representative, his citizenship or residence is material only insofar as those factors may affect the determination of whether he was "in the service of an employer" (see paragraph (a) of § 31.3231 (b)–1).

§ 31.3231(d) Statutory provisions; definitions; service.

SEC. 3231. Definitions. • • •

(d) Service. For purposes of this chapter, an individual is in the service of an employer whether his service is rendered within or without the United States, if—

(1) He is subject to the continuing authority of the employer to supervise and direct the manner of rendition of his service, or he is rendering professional or technical services and is integrated into the staff of the employer, or he is rendering, on the property used in the employer's operations, other personal services the rendition of which is integrated into the employer's operations, and

(2) He renders such service for compensation;

except that an individual shall be deemed to be in the service of an employer, other than a local lodge or division or a general committee of a railway-labor-organization employer, not conducting the principal part of its business in the United States, only when he is rendering service to it in the United States; and an individual shall be deemed to be in the service of such a local lodge or division only if—

(3) All, or substantially all, the individuals constituting its membership are employees of an employer conducting the principal part of its business in the United States; or

(4) The headquarters of such local lodge or division is located in the United States; and an individual shall be deemed to be in the service of such a general committee only if—

(5) He is representing a local lodge or division described in paragraph (3) or (4) immediately above; or

(6) All, or substantially all, the individuals represented by it are employees of an employer conducting the principal part of its business in the United States; or

(7) He acts in the capacity of a general chairman or an assistant general chairman of a general committee which represents individuals rendering service in the United States to an employer, but in such case if his office or headquarters is not located in the United States and the individuals represented by such general committee are employees of an employer not conducting the principal part of its business in the United States, only such proportion of the remuneration for such service shall be regarded as compensation as the proportion which the mileage in the United States under the jurisdiction of such general committee bears to the total mileage under its jurisdiction, unless such mileage formula is inapplicable, in which case such other formula as the Railroad Retirement Board may have prescribed pursuant to section 1 (c) of the Railroad Retirement Act of 1937 (50 Stat. 308; 45 U. S. C. 228a) shall be applicable, and if the application of such mileage formula, or such other formula as the Board may prescribe, would result in the compensation of the individual being less than 10 percent of his remuneration for such service, no part of such remuneration shall be regarded as compensation;

Provided, however, That an individual not a citizen or resident of the United States shall not be deemed to be in the service of an employer when rendering service outside the United States to an employer who is required under the laws applicable in the place where the service is rendered to employ therein, in whole or in part, citizens or residents thereof; and the laws applicable on August 29, 1935, in the place where the service is rendered shall be deemed to have been applicable there at all times prior to that date.

§ 31.3231(d)–1 Service.

See § 31.3231(b)–1 for regulations relating to the term "in the service of an employer."

§ 31.3231(e) Statutory provisions; definitions; compensation.

SEC. 3231. Definitions. • • •

(e) Compensation. For purposes of this chapter—

(1) The term "compensation" means any form of money remuneration earned by an individual for services rendered as an employee to one or more employers, or as an employee representative, including remuneration paid for time lost as an employee, but remuneration paid for time lost shall be deemed earned in the month in which such time is lost. Such term does not include tips, or the voluntary payment by an employer, without deduction from the remuneration of the employee, of the tax imposed on such employee by section 3201. Compensation which is earned during the period for which the Secretary or his delegate shall require a return of taxes under this chapter to be made and which is payable during the calendar month following such period shall be deemed to have been paid during such period only. For the purpose of determining the amount of taxes under sections 3201 and 3221, compensation earned in the service of a local lodge or division of a railway-labor-organization employer shall be disregarded with respect to any calendar month if the amount thereof is less than $3. Compensation for service as a delegate to a national or international convention of a railway labor organization defined as an "employer" in subsection (a) of this section shall be disregarded for purposes of determining the amount of taxes due pursuant to this chapter if the individual rendering such service has not previously rendered service, other than as such a delegate, which may be included in his "years of service" for purposes of the Railroad Retirement Act.

(2) A payment made by an employer to an individual through the employer's payroll shall be presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, to be compensation for service rendered by such individual as an employee of the employer in the period with respect to which the payment is made. An employee shall be deemed to be paid "for time lost" the amount he is paid by an employer with respect to an identifiable period of absence from the active service of the employer, including absence on account of personal injury, and the amount he is paid by the employer for loss of earnings resulting from his displacement to a less remunerative position or occupation. If a payment is made by an employer with respect to a personal injury and includes pay for time lost, the total payment shall be deemed to be paid for time lost unless, at the time of payment, a part of such payment is specifically apportioned to factors other than time lost, in which event only such part of the payment as is not so apportioned shall be deemed to be paid for time lost.

[Sec. 3231(e) as amended by sec. 206(b), Act of Aug. 31, 1954 (Pub. Law 746, 83d Cong., 68 Stat. 1040)]

§ 31.3231(e)–1 Compensation.

(a) Definition. (1) The term "compensation" means all remuneration in money, or in something which may be used in lieu of money (for example, scrip and merchandise orders), which is earned by an individual for services rendered as an employee to one or more employers or as an employee representative. A payment made by an employer to an individual through the employer's payroll shall be presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, to be compensation for services rendered by such individual as an employee of the employer. Likewise, a payment made by an employee organization to an employee representative through the organization's payroll shall be presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, to be compensation for services rendered by the employee representative as such.

(2) The term "compensation" is not confined to amounts earned or paid for active service, but includes amounts earned or paid for an identifiable period during which the employee is absent from the active service of the employer and, in the case of an employee representative, amounts earned or paid for an identifiable period during which the employee representative is absent from the active service of the employee organization.

(3) The term "compensation" does not include tips or the voluntary payment by an employer of the employee tax without the deduction of such tax from the remuneration of the employee.

(4) If the amount of compensation earned in any calendar month by an individual as an employee in the service of a local lodge or division of a railway-labor-organization employer is less than $3, such amount shall be disregarded for purposes of determining the employee tax under section 3201 and the employer tax under section 3221.

(5) Compensation for service as a delegate to a national or international convention of a railway-labor-organization employer shall be disregarded for purposes of determining the employee tax under section 3201 and the employer tax under section 3221 if the individual rendering such service has not previously rendered service, other than as such a delegate, which may be included in his "years of service" for purposes of the Railroad Retirement Act of 1937.

(6) For special provisions relating to the compensation of certain general chairmen or assistant general chairmen of a general committee of a railway-labor-organization employer, see paragraph (c) (3) of § 31.3231 (b)–1.

(b) Items included as compensation. The following items are included in compensation with respect to employees and in analogous situations with respect to employee representatives:

(1) Salaries, wages, commissions, fees, bonuses, and any other remuneration in money or in something which may be used in lieu of money. The name by which remuneration is designated, the amount, and the basis upon which it is paid are immaterial. It may be paid upon the basis of piece-work, a percentage of profits, or on a daily, hourly, weekly, monthly, annual, or other basis.

(2) Sick pay, vacation allowances, or back pay upon reinstatement after wrongful discharge.

(3) Amounts paid to an employee for an identifiable period of absence from the active service of the employer on account of personal injury. If a payment is made to an employee with respect to a personal injury and includes pay for an identifiable period of absence from active service, the total payment shall be deemed to be paid for such period of absence from active service unless, at the time of payment, a part of such payment is specifically apportioned to factors other than absence from active service, in which event only such part of the payment as is not so apportioned shall be deemed to be paid for such period of absence from active service.

(4) Amounts paid to an employee for loss of earnings during an identifiable period as the result of the displacement of the employee to a less remunerative position or occupation.

(5) Amounts paid as allowance or reimbursement for traveling or other expenses incurred in the business of the employer to the extent of the excess of such amounts, if any, over such expenses actually incurred and accounted for by the employee to the employer.

(6) Generally, premiums paid by an employer on a policy of life insurance covering the life of an employee, if the employer is not a beneficiary under the policy. However, premiums paid by an employer on policies of group life insurance covering the lives of his employees are not compensation, if the employee has no option to take the amount of the premiums instead of accepting the insurance and has no equity in the policy (such as the right of assignment or the right to the surrender value on termination of his employment).

(7) Amounts deducted from the compensation of an employee, including the amount of the employee tax deducted pursuant to section 3202, constitute compensation paid to the employee.

(8) Payments made by an employer into a stock bonus, pension, or profit-sharing fund, if such payments inure to the exclusive benefit of the employee and may be withdrawn by the employee at any time, or upon resignation or dismissal, or if the contract for services requires such payment as part of the remuneration. Whether or not under other circumstances such payments constitute compensation depends upon the particular facts of each case.

(c) When compensation is earned. Compensation is earned when an employee, or employee representative, as such, performs services for which he is paid or for which there is a present or future obligation to pay, regardless of the time at which payment is made or is to be made. Remuneration paid for any period of absence from active service shall be deemed to have been earned in the month in which such absence from service occurred. A payment made by an employer or employee organization to an individual through the payroll of the employer or employee organization shall be presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, to be for services rendered by such individual in the period covered by the payroll and, thus, to have been earned in such period.

(d) When compensation is paid. Compensation is deemed to be paid—

(1) When it is actually paid; or

(2) When it is constructively paid, that is, credited to the account of or set apart for an employee without any substantial limitation or restriction as to the time or manner of payment or condition upon which payment is to be made, and made available to him so that it may be drawn upon at any time and its payment brought within his own control and disposition; or

(3) Within the period for which a return of tax is required to be made, if the compensation was earned during such period and is payable during the calendar month following such period. For provisions relating to periods for which a return of tax is required, see § 31.6011(a)–2. See also paragraph (c) of this section, relating to when compensation is earned.

Example (1). During September 1955 (which falls in a period for which a return of tax is required to be made), A is employed by employer X at a monthly salary of $200, one-half of which is payable on the 25th of the month in which the services are performed and the other half on the 10th of the following month. Thus on October 10, A is paid $100 which was earned during September. That $100 is deemed to have been paid to A in September and should be included in X's return filed for the period in which September falls.

Example (2). During September 1955 (which falls in a period for which a return of tax is required to be made), A is employed by employer X on the basis of a 6-day week at a weekly salary of $60 payable on Saturday of each week. Thus on Saturday, October 1, 1955, A is paid $60 for services performed during the week September 26, 1955, to October 1, 1955, inclusive. In such case five-sixths of that amount or $50 is deemed to have been paid in September and should be included in X's return filed for the period in which September falls. The balance of A's salary for that week ($10) should be included in the return filed for the period in which October 1955 falls. But see paragraph (a)(2) of § 31.6011(a)–2 relating to returns of employers required by State law to pay compensation on a weekly basis.

SEC. 3231. Definitions. • • •

(g) Carrier. For purposes of this chapter, the term "carrier" means an express company, sleeping-car company, or carrier by railroad, subject to part I of the Interstate Commerce Act (49 U. S. C., chapter 1).

§ 31.3232 Statutory provisions; court jurisdiction.

SEC. 3232. Court jurisdiction. The several district courts of the United States shall have jurisdiction to entertain an application by the Attorney General on behalf of the Secretary or his delegate to compel an employee or other person residing within the jurisdiction of the court or an employer subject to service of process within its jurisdiction to comply with any obligations imposed on such employee, employer, or other person under the provisions of this chapter. The jurisdiction herein specifically conferred upon such Federal courts shall not be held exclusive of any jurisdiction otherwise possessed by such courts to entertain civil actions, whether legal or equitable in nature, in aid of the enforcement of rights or obligations arising under the provisions of this chapter.

§ 31.3233 Statutory provisions; short title.

SEC. 3233. Short title. This chapter may be cited as the "Railroad Retirement Tax Act."

Subpart D—Federal Unemployment Tax Act (Chapter 23, Internal Revenue Code of 1954)

§ 31.3301 Statutory provisions; rate of tax.

SEC. 3301. Rate of tax. There is hereby imposed on every employer (as defined in section 3306 (a)) for the calendar year 1955 and for each calendar year thereafter an excise tax, with respect to having individuals in his employ, equal to 3 percent of the total wages (as defined in section 3306 (b)) paid by him during the calendar year with respect to employment (as defined in section 3306 (c)) after December 31, 1938.

§ 31.3301–1 Persons liable for tax.

Every person who is an employer as defined in section 3306(a) (see § 31.3306 (a)–1) is liable for the tax. Even if an employer is not subject to any State unemployment compensation law, he is nevertheless liable for the tax. However, if he is subject to such a State law, he may be entitled to certain credits against the tax (see §§ 31.3302 (a)–1 to 31.3302 (c)–1, inclusive). For provisions relating to payment of the tax, see Subpart G of the regulations in this part.

§ 31.3301–2 Measure of tax.

The tax for any calendar year is measured by the amount of wages paid by the employer during such year with respect to employment after December 31, 1938. (See §§ 31.3306(c)–1 to 31.3306(c)(17)–1, inclusive, relating to employment, and §§ 31.3306 (b)–1 to 31.3306 (b) (8)–1, inclusive, relating to wages.)

§ 31.3301–3 Rate and computation of tax.

The rate of tax is 3 percent. The tax is computed by applying the 3 percent rate to the wages paid during the calendar year with respect to employment after December 31, 1938.

§ 31.3301–4 When wages are paid.

Wages are paid when actually or constructively paid. Wages are constructively paid when they are credited to the account of or set apart for an employee so that they may be drawn upon by him at any time although not then actually reduced to possession. To constitute payment in such a case the wages must be credited to or set apart for the employee without any substantial limitation or restriction as to the time or manner of payment or condition upon which payment is to be made, and must be made available to him so that they may be drawn upon at any time, and their payment brought within his own control and disposition. See § 31.6011(a)–3, relating to the return on which wages are to be reported.

§ 31.3302(a) Statutory provisions; credits against tax; contributions to State unemployment funds.

SEC. 3302. Credits against tax—(a) Contributions to State unemployment funds. (1) The taxpayer may, to the extent provided in this subsection and subsection (c), credit against the tax imposed by section 3301 the amount of contributions paid by him into an unemployment fund maintained during the taxable year under the unemployment compensation law of a State which is certified for the taxable year as provided in section 3304.

(2) The credit shall be permitted against the tax for the taxable year only for the amount of contributions paid with respect to such taxable year.

(3) The credit against the tax for any taxable year shall be permitted only for contributions paid on or before the last day upon which the taxpayer is required under section 6071 to file a return for such year; except that credit shall be permitted for contributions paid after such last day, but such credit shall not exceed 90 percent of the amount which would have been allowable as credit on account of such contributions had they been paid on or before such last day.

(4) Upon the payment of contributions into the unemployment fund of a State which are required under the unemployment compensation law of that State with respect to remuneration on the basis of which, prior to such payment into the proper fund, the taxpayer erroneously paid an amount as contributions under another unemployment compensation law, the payment into the proper fund shall, for purposes of credit against the tax, be deemed to have been made at the time of the erroneous payment. If, by reason of such other law, the taxpayer was entitled to cease paying contributions with respect to services subject to such other law, the payment into the proper fund shall, for purposes of credit against the tax, be deemed to have been made on the date the return for the taxable year was filed under section 6071.

§ 31.3302(a)–1 Credit against tax for contributions paid.

(a) In general. Subject to the provisions of paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section and to the provisions of § 31.3302(c)–1, the taxpayer may credit against the tax for any taxable year the total amount of contributions paid by him into an unemployment fund maintained during such year under a State law which has been found by the Secretary of Labor to contain the provisions specified in section 3304 (a); Provided, however, That no credit may be taken for contributions under a State law if such State has not been duly certified for the calendar year to the Secretary of the Treasury by the Secretary of Labor. The contributions may be credited against the tax whether or not they are paid with respect to employment as defined in section 3306 (c). For provisions relating to additional credit against the tax, see § 31.3302 (b)–1.

(b) Limitation on the taxable year with respect to which contributions are allowable. In order to be allowable as credit against the tax for any taxable year, the contributions must have been paid with respect to such year.

Example (1). Under the unemployment compensation law of State X, employer M is required to report in his contribution return for the quarter ending December 31, 1955, all remuneration payable for services rendered in such quarter. A portion of such remuneration is not paid to his employees until February 1, 1956. On January 20, 1956, M pays to the State the total amount of contributions due with respect to all remuneration so required to be reported. Such contributions, including those with respect to the remuneration paid on February 1, 1956, may be included in computing the credit against the tax for the calendar year 1955. This is true even though the remuneration paid on February 1, 1956 (if it constitutes "wages") is required to be reported in the Federal return for 1956 and not in the Federal return for 1955.

Example (2). Under the unemployment compensation law of State Y, employer N is required to include in his contribution return for the quarter ending December 31, 1955, certain remuneration paid on December 30, 1955, to an employee for services to be rendered after December 31. On January 20, 1956, N pays to the State the total amount of contributions due with respect to all remuneration required to be reported on the contribution return. Such contributions, including those with respect to the remuneration paid on December 30, 1955, may be included in computing the credit against the tax for the calendar year 1955.

(c) Limitation on amount of credit allowable based on time when contributions are paid—(1) In general. The amount of credit allowable for contributions paid into a State unemployment fund depends in part on the time of payment of such contributions. Although contributions paid at any time may be credited against the tax (subject to the limitations referred to in subparagraphs (2) and (3) of this paragraph), no refund or credit of the tax based on credit for contributions paid will be allowed unless the contributions are paid prior to the expiration of the period of limitations applicable to refund or credit of the tax. For general provisions relating to the limitation period and to refunds, credits and abatements of the tax, see respectively §§ 301.6511(a)–1, 301.6402–2 and 301.6404–1 of this chapter (Regulations on Procedure and Administration).

(2) Amount of credit allowable when contributions are paid on or before last day for filing return. Contributions paid into a State unemployment fund on or before the last day upon which the Federal return for the taxable year is required to be filed may be credited against the tax in an amount equal to such contributions, but not, however, to exceed the limit on total credits prescribed in section 3302 (c). (See § 31.3302 (c)–1.) For provisions relating to the time for filing the return see § 31.6071(a)–1 in Subpart G of this part.

(3) Amount of credit allowable when contributions are paid after last day for filing return. Contributions paid into a State unemployment fund after the last day upon which the Federal return for the taxable year is required to be filed may be credited against the tax in an amount not to exceed 90 percent of the amount which would have been allowable as credit on account of such contributions had they been paid into a State unemployment fund on or before such last day. However, see subparagraph (4) of this paragraph relating to the payment of contributions to the wrong State. For general provisions relating to refunds, credits, and abatements of the tax, see §§ 301.6402–2 and 301.6404–1 of this chapter (Regulations on Procedure and Administration).

Example (1). The Federal return of the M Company for the calendar year 1955 discloses a total tax of $12,000. The company is liable for total State contributions of $8,000 for such year. The due date of the company's Federal return is January 31, 1956, no extension of time for filing the return having been granted. The contributions are not paid until February 1, 1956. If the contributions had been paid on or before January 31, 1956, the entire amount could have been credited against the tax (such amount not exceeding 90 percent of the Federal tax of $12,000). Since the contributions were paid after January 31, 1956, the M Company is entitled to a credit of 90 percent of the amount of the contributions ($8,000), or $7,200, the net liability for Federal tax being $4,800 ($12,000 minus $7,200).

Example (2). The facts are the same as in example (1), except that the M Company is liable for and pays total State contributions of $12,000, instead of $8,000. If the contributions had been paid on or before January 31, 1956, the amount allowable as credit would have been $10,800 (90 percent of the Federal tax of $12,000). Since the contributions were paid after January 31, 1956, the M Company is entitled to a credit of 90 percent of $10,800, or $9,720, the net liability for Federal tax being $2,280 ($12,000 minus $9,720).

Example (3). The Federal return of the R Company for the calendar year 1955 discloses a total tax of $10,000. The company is liable for total State contributions of $9,000 for such year. The due date of the company's Federal return is January 31, 1956, no extension of time for filing the return having been granted. The R Company pays $8,000 of the total State contributions on or before such date, and the remaining $1,000 on February 1, 1956. If the $1,000 had been paid on or before January 31, 1956, that amount could have been credited against the tax (such amount plus the $8,000 paid on or before January 31, 1956, not exceeding 90 percent of the Federal tax of $10,000). Since the $1,000 was paid after January 31, 1956, the R Company is entitled to a credit of 90 percent of this amount or $900, plus the credit of $8,000 allowable for the contributions paid on or before January 31, 1956. The net liability for Federal tax is thus $1,100 ($10,000 minus $8,900).

(4) Amount of credit allowable when contributions are paid to wrong State. Contributions for the taxable year paid into a State unemployment fund which are required under the unemployment compensation law of that State, but which are paid with respect to remuneration on the basis of which the taxpayer had, prior to such payment, erroneously paid an amount as contributions under another unemployment compensation law, shall be deemed for purposes of the credit to have been paid at the time of the erroneous payment. If, by reason of such other law, the taxpayer was entitled to cease paying contributions for such taxable year with respect to services subject to such other law, the payment into the proper fund shall be deemed for purposes of credit to have been made on the date the Federal return for such year was actually filed by the taxpayer under § 31.6011 (a)–3.

Example. Employer N, whose Federal return for the calendar year 1955 discloses a total tax of $1,000, employs individuals in State X and State Y during the calendar year 1955. N assumes in good faith that the services of his employees are covered by the unemployment compensation law of State Y, and pays as contributions to State Y the amount of $900 based upon the remuneration of the employees. All of the services were in fact covered by the unemployment compensation law of State X, and none by the law of State Y. The payment to State Y was made on January 31, 1956. When the error was discovered thereafter, N paid to State X contributions in the amount of $900 based upon such remuneration. Since the contributions were paid to State Y on January 31, 1956, the contributions to State X are, for purposes of the credit, deemed to have been paid on such date. N is entitled to a credit of $900 against the Federal tax of $1,000, the net liability for Federal tax being $100 ($1,000 minus $900).

§ 31.3302(a)–2 Refund of State contributions.

If, subsequent to the filing of the return, a refund is made by a State to the taxpayer of any part of his contribution credited against the tax, the taxpayer is required to advise the district director of the date and amount of such refund and the reason therefor, and to pay the tax, if any, due as a result of such refund, together with interest from the date when the tax was due.

§31.3302(a)–3 Proof of credit under section 3302(a).

Credit against the tax for any calendar year for contributions paid into State unemployment funds shall not be allowed unless there is submitted to the district director:

(a) A certificate of the proper officer of each State (the laws of which required the contributions to be paid) showing, for the taxpayer:

(1) The total amount of contributions required to be paid under the State law with respect to such calendar year (exclusive of penalties and interest) which was actually paid on or before the date the Federal return is required to be filed; and

(2) The amounts and dates of such required payments (exclusive of penalties and interest) actually paid after the date the Federal return is required to be filed.

(b) A statement by the taxpayer that no part of any payment made by him into a State unemployment fund for such calendar year, which is claimed as a credit against the tax, was deducted or is to be deducted from the remuneration of individuals in his employ. Such statement shall contain or be verified by a written declaration that it is made under the penalties of perjury.

(c) Such other or additional proof as the Commissioner or the district director may deem necessary to establish the right to the credit provided for under section 3302 (a).

§ 31.3302(b) Statutory provisions; credits against tax; additional credit.

SEC. 3302. Credits against tax. • • •

(b) Additional credit. In addition to the credit allowed under subsection (a), a taxpayer may credit against the tax imposed by section 3301 for any taxable year an amount, with respect to the unemployment compensation law of each State certified for the taxable year as provided in section 3303 (or with respect to any provisions thereof so certified), equal to the amount, if any, by which the contributions required to be paid by him with respect to the taxable year were less than the contributions such taxpayer would have been required to pay if throughout the taxable year he had been subject under such State law to the highest rate applied thereunder in the taxable year to any person having individuals in his employ, or to a rate of 2.7 percent, whichever rate is lower.

§ 31.3302(b)–1 Additional credit against tax.
